Town's tax increase could be reduced

By Bill Rea

Nothing has been decided yet, but Town of Caledon staff have found a way for council to reduce the proposed tax increase in the 2014 budget.

Construction equipment stolen from site

A glass door from a Bobcat skid steer was reported stolen Nov. 16 from a construction site on Old Church Road.

Caledon OPP reports the theft occurred sometime between 3:30 and 10:57 a.m. that morning. The value of the door is estimated at $2,000 and the door frame is made of black steel. The victim reported that there is a small mark in the centre of the glass from previous damage.

Police are asking anyone with information about this incident to contact them at 905-584-2241 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

Staff had been proposing a hike of 4.98 per cent to the Town's share of the municipal tax bill. But Town Treasurer Fuwing Wong told councillors Monday an anticipated cut in money from the Ontario Municipal Partnership Fund (OMPF) was not as great as had been anticipated. That means the Town is going to be getting additional funding of between $350,000 and $400,000, which could facilitate reducing the tax increase to 4.19 per cent.

The Town collects all the property taxes, but in 2013, it kept only about 35 per cent for its own use. Peel Region got about 33 per cent and the local school boards got the other 32 per cent.

Wong also said a 4.98 increase to the Town's portion would translate to $88.08 being added to the tax bill for a home assessed at $480,000. A hike of 4.19 per cent would add only $74.49 to the bill.

Chief Financial Officer Ron

Kaufman told councillors Tuesday night that while the tax increase could be reduced, staff wanted them to consider putting that increased money into capital funding. There is currently a gap between the amount needed to maintain that Town's capital infrastructure and the amount being put into the tax-funded capital program. Using that money would reduce the gap, although he also stressed council will have to make that decision.

He also said the Region has set a targeted tax increase of 1.8 per cent. There's no word from the Province yet on what, if any, increase there will be to the education program. It's remained at the same level for the last couple of years, and he said the freeze might remain in place for another year.

Kaufman also told councillors the tax rates in Caledon are still low, compared to other municipalities in the Greater Toronto Area (GTA). He cited a survey of 26 GTA municipalities that indicated Caledon's tax rate in 2013 was the eighth lowest.

Jones charges government is abandoning deficit reduction

Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones has blasted Premier Kathleen Wynne and her Liberal government for abandoning any semblance of responsible deficit reduction and reverting to a tax-and-spend agenda.

“After today’s Economic Statement, it is painfully clear that Kathleen Wynne and her Liberal government aren’t concerned about the mountain of debt they are placing on the backs of future generations,” Jones said in a statement issued recently.

“What we saw today was a Liberal government revert back to its standard operating procedure of tax and spend,” Jones added. “Rather than roll up their sleeves, make the tough choices and get spending under control for the sake of Ontario families, the Liberals have instead chosen to continue increasing the debt at an alarming rate.”

Jones pointed to a Wall Street Journal article released earlier in the week that highlighted the urgency surrounding Ontario’s precarious financial situation. The article explained that Ontario’s fiscal situation is worse than California’s; and outlined how California’s debt burden was sitting at 50 per cent of consolidated revenues at the end of the 2012-13 fiscal year. That’s in comparison to Ontario’s, which was sitting at approximately 226 per cent of consolidated revenues at the end of March 2013.

“The bottom line here is that we have a massive spending crisis in the province of Ontario,” Jones declared. “Dufferin-Caledon residents work hard every day for their pay cheques. They pay a lot of taxes, and this Liberal government has no respect for those precious tax dollars. Premier Wynne ought to recognize that families cannot afford to have their taxes raised repeatedly to fund Liberal excess spending.”

“The Economic Statement confirmed what many of us already knew: the only way to get our province’s finances under control is to elect a PC government that respects taxpayers’ money, and understands that every dollar wasted at Queen’s Park is a dollar that could have been used to protect Ontario’s most vulnerable citizens,” she concluded.

Joy and George Deathe were celebrating their 65th wedding anniversary Sunday.

Joy and George Deathe mark 65th anniversary

By Bill Rea

Some marriages don’t last long, but Bolton area residents Joy and George Deathe have proven some can go for many years; like 65.

The couple welcomed family and friends to the celebration of their 65th anniversary Sunday, although the party was about two months late.

They were actually wed Sept. 18, 1948 at Burnhamthorpe United Church in what is now Mississauga, and it was simple time constraints that delayed the celebration 65 years later.

“There’s never time in September,” Mrs. Deathe observed. “I don’t know how we had time to get married.”

The two actually grew up on neighbouring farms in the Burnhamthorpe area, although they didn’t know each other well as youngsters. Mrs. Deathe said her husband tells her they went to the same school, but since he was older, she didn’t remember him much from those days.

But that eventually changed.

The couple raised three children; Don, who lives in East York, Bruce, who runs the family farm in Albion, and Betty Armitstead, who lives near the farm. They also boast of five grandsons and two granddaughters, and three great-grandsons and four great-granddaughters.

Mr. Deathe said he was a farmer all his life, maintaining a tradition that started with his great-great-grandfather. They bought their current farm in 1953, moving in the following year.

Mrs. Deathe worked in Toronto, but she knew what to expect when she got married.

“I grew up on a dairy farm, so I knew what I was getting into,” she said. “Seven days a week, 365 days a year, you went nowhere. You were there for milking and you were back there again at night.”

“It was all farmers when we came, and for many years,” she added. “Now they’ve scattered.”

“This was a wonderful community in which to raise a family,” Mrs. Deathe reflected. “If you needed anything or needed help, boy, everyone was there to help one another.”

This was also a time when people were usually at home during the day, so neighbours really knew each other.

The Deathes were not able to offer much advice, when it comes to how to stay married for 65 years.

“I married a wonderful girl,” Mr. Deathe said. “We were always busy on the farm.”

“I guess it’s cooperation,” his wife added, pointing out that was a big part in getting along in the community. She recalled their telephone was on a party line at one time, with about 18 other users on it. She said one had to know how to cooperate if someone else needed the line. It had benefits too. She said if there was a fire on one of the farms, the operator would ring the phones seven times, and that would be the signal for the other farmers to get to the scene, often getting there before the firefighters.

“I think we’ve been very blessed in all respects,” Mrs. Deathe said “We’ve had a good life.”

“I’d do it again,” Mr. Deathe added.

Support Wellspring Chinguacousy’s upcoming Holiday Bazaar

The holiday season is a family time, and a traditional time of giving.

For people living with cancer, it can often be a tough time of year.

Wellspring Chinguacousy Cancer Support Centre invites the community to help “brighten” the holidays for hundreds of families touched by cancer by supporting their annual Light-Up and Holiday Bazaar.

They are also looking for people who would consider making a gift to the Light-

Up Campaign. A gift can be dedicated in honour of someone who has offered assistance during a personal battle with cancer, someone who is currently living with cancer or someone who has sadly been lost.

The community is also invited to Wellspring Nov. 28 to participate in the Lighting Ceremony, sponsored by Hydro One Brampton, and to enjoy the Holiday Bazaar, which is unlike any other. Come out for a variety of treats and activities, including the famous Chili Hut, silent auction, bake sale and 50/50 draw.

People can also support the Holiday Bazaar by donating new or gently used items (with the exception of clothing, shoes and books). These donations will be gladly accept at Wellspring until Nov. 26.

Funds raised through this annual campaign help maintain the 35 professionally-led cancer support programs and services offered free of charge to members of Wellspring Chinguacousy.

For more information or to make a holiday gift today, visit www.wellspringchinguacousy.ca or contact Marley Batenchuk at (905) 792-6480.

People living near Canadian Tire site still concerned about traffic

By Bill Rea

Traffic patterns around the site of the new Canadian Tire facility were on the minds last week of people living nearby, but other issues are still on the public radar.

Last Wednesday's meeting in Bolton was mainly for people who own property on the lands surrounding the facility. Canadian Tire is planning a large distribution centre and office facility on about 180 acres at the northwest corner of Coleraine Drive and Healey Road.

About 30 people were on hand for the session.

Councillor Richard Whitehead said there was a meeting for immediate property owners about two months ago, and he said they had been promised at the time there would be a second session to discuss site plan issues.

He also stressed the meeting had nothing to do with the zoning or Official Plan approvals for the development, or the Ministerial Zoning Order (MZO) that Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Linda Jeffrey issued in July to facilitate it.

He also pointed out it was not a formal public information meeting, although he said it would be possible to have a record kept of the issues raised.

Former Town councillor Ian Sinclair asked about the air vents and air conditioning installations on the roof of the facility, commenting that would be a concern. "That would be a concern for me if I lived right next door," he remarked, wondering how such noise could be directed.

Architect Glenn Pitrowski said the rooftop components will be screened, adding the noise "will not be significant."

Sinclair also raised the issue of lighting on the site, asking if it would be facing away from nearby homes.

Pitrowski said the lighting would be similar to other developments in Bolton. "We cant have light spilling beyond the property line," he said.

Local resident Kim Seipt also had concerns about noise. She commented that nose studies for the development were site-specific, adding there should be more details on the cumulative impact.

Rob Hughes, of the Town's planning department, agreed the studies were site specific, but he added they are an on-going part of the broader South Albion — Bolton Industrial Study.

Seipt wondered how council could have approved something like this without having all the studies done.

Several people at the meeting raised the issue of dealing with storm water on the site.

Whitehead, who also sits on the Toronto and Region Conservation Authority (TRCA), said a storm retention pond is planned for the property, adding that is part of the responsibility of the conservation authority.

A 12-acre pond is planned for the property and that is going to help with drainage and flow deficiencies from other developments. He added this is all being done in cooperation with Canadian Tire.

Whitehead said the result will be higher quality water being discharged across Healey.

He also pointed out one of the functions of the pond will be to prevent high storm water flows downstream. The water will be discharged gradually.

One of the main points raised by people opposed to the development is the amount of trucks entering and leaving the site, and the possible health impacts from the diesel fumes.

One woman charged they are expecting about 800 trucks per day on the site, and she wondered who would be responsible if area soils get contaminated by the diesel.

Kathleen Freeman, real estate manager for Canadian Tire Real Estate Limited, was quick to say the number of trucks would be more like 350 per day, but some people in the audience were holding onto the 800 figure.

Councillor Nick deBoer pointed out Coleraine has been designated to be a truck bypass, so traffic is going to increase there anyway.

The main access for employees working at the facility will be off Healey, and there were several people expressing concern that would create bottlenecks when shifts change.

Whitehead pointed out the municipality does not get involved in restricting the movements of light vehicles. But he added as the traffic numbers increase, that provides the justification to improve the roads to handle the volumes.

He also pointed out shift changes will not be at traditional peak hours. They will be in the middle of the day and late at night. He agreed that doesn't solve all the problems, but it mitigates them.

Pitrowski added the site is being designed to separate the trucks from where the employees will park.

DeBoer commented the Town always keeps track of traffic volumes and patterns. Coleraine, he added, is meant to be a limited access road, with entrances only at specific locations, in order for it to function as part of the Bolton Arterial Road (BAR) network.

One man at the meeting wondered if there could be another east-west road, north of Healey from Humber Station Road heading onto the site.

Whitehead observed the road patterns in the past have been based on the grid system established in the township days. He said as the area develops, there will likely be an alternate road connecting Healey to Mayfield Road to the south. A road north of Healey is less likely, he said, because of the Canadian Pacific Railway line.

He also said there will continue to be improvements to Healey. "It will be progressive as we go along," he remarked.

Police concerned about safety this hunting season

Hunting season is here and there isn't a day that goes by without OPP officers responding to hunting-related calls for service. Caledon OPP reports there were two hunting accidents within the Central Region of the force earlier this month, resulting in three people being shot. Neither of these incidents resulted in death or life-threatening injuries, but when it comes to firearms, the outcome can be fatal. In many cases, hunters are very cautious and responsible individuals, but there are a few people who are giving this sport a bad name and the manner in which they hunt, can only be described as dangerous. Police report they will often receive calls for people hunting on private property. When investigated, some hunters actually have the expressed permission of the landowner, but there are some who will enter upon a property without permission, causing a property owner to call police. The result could be charges being laid under the Trespass to Property Act or removal from the property with a caution issued for the individual or individuals not to return. Anyone who discharges a firearm is responsible for any projectile coming from their weapon and they must be sure of their target. Therefore, hunting near or where any homes or roads are located is strongly discouraged. Police warn this can be very dangerous for anyone who may be outside enjoying their property or travelling down the road. Firearms must be unloaded and safely secured (in a locked cabinet with a lock on the trigger) when not being used and ammunition must also be safely secured and stored. Failing to do is against the law. Police add that during hunting, firearms must always be pointed in a safe direction and hunters should be wearing bright orange clothing that readily identifies themselves to others who might be hunting in the same area. It is also strongly recommended that anyone who may be in an area where hunting is permitted to also wear orange coloured clothing so that they too can be seen. Police stress that hunters need to not only exercise safety when it comes to the handling of their weapons, but if they exercise personal safety and take into account the safety of others, hunting can be an enjoyable past time. When carelessness enters the realm of hunting, people can be needlessly injured and this is something that need not take place.

Don't lock car door and risk losing the contents

Auxiliary members of Caledon OPP teamed up Nov. 9 with members of the Policing Advisory Council of Caledon (PACC) and Crime Prevention sub-committee members to conduct a theft prevention exercise, Lock it or Lose it. The purpose of this initiative was to ensure that owners locked their vehicles to deter the possibility of theft. Lock It or Lose It was developed by OPP and the Insurance Bureau of Canada (IBC) as a proactive crime reduction program designed to encourage drivers to take simple precautions that will protect their valuables from theft. Auxiliary and PACC members were checking vehicles in the retail parking lots of Wal-Mart and the Smart Centre in Bolton. A total of 266 vehicles were inspected and 19 doors were discovered unlocked. Among the valuables in plain view included Global Positioning Systems (GPS), purses, wallet, cellular phones and alcohol. "This program was very successful and serves as a reminder to motorists to take precautionary measures in order to reduce the chance of becoming a victim," observed Caledon OPP Interim Detachment Commander, Inspector Dom Beckett. "Taking the extra couple of seconds to lock your vehicle, roll up your vehicle's windows, and pocket the keys when you park your vehicle will save you time and frustration should you become a victim of this preventable crime. The OPP recognizes that this is a great demonstration of community mobilization by engaging community members to actively participate in crime reduction programs."

Put out kitchen-fire hazards

The following article was submitted by the Canada Safety Council.

The kitchen is a laboratory for delicious and creative culinary experiments, but it can quickly become a danger zone because of cooking fires.

Fires claim eight lives each week in Canada, according to Fire Prevention Canada.

Almost three-quarters of those deaths happen as a result of residential fires, and many of those residential fires start in the kitchen. Cooking fires are also the leading cause of home fire injuries. It is not possible to know the full extent of residential damage or injuries caused by kitchen fires, as many incidents are not reported to local emergency services.

For National Home Fire Safety Week, from Nov. 24 to 30, the Canada Safety Council is working to raise awareness that residential kitchen fires are preventable. With the approaching holiday season, it is timely to remind Canadians that there are many precautions they should take to reduce their risk of kitchen-fire related damage, injuries and death. Being aware of potential hazards and proactively managing those risks are the best defenses.

- Tips to prevent kitchen fires and injuries
- Kitchen fires can start and spread in seconds. Stay in the kitchen when cooking, especially when using grease or when cooking food at high temperatures.
 - When using the stove, wear tight-fitting clothes or rolled up sleeves. Loose or dangling clothing can easily catch fire.

- Keep combustible items such as dishcloths, paper towels and pot holders a safe distance from the stove. As a rule, if it's not a pot or pan, it doesn't belong on the stovetop.
- Don't be a distracted chef. Be conscious of distractions that take you out of the kitchen. If you need to answer the door or have an extended phone conversation, for example, shut the stove off first.
- Turn pot-handles inward toward the back of the stove. If you are impaired — whether by alcohol, medication, a lack of sleep or something else — do not use the stove, oven or other cooking appliances.
- Keep proper-fitting lids close by for each pot or pan you have on the stove. If a pot or pan catches fire, put a lid on it to smother the flames. Do not attempt to move a flaming pot or pan away from the stove, as that may fan the flames and spread the fire.
- Never try to put a grease fire out with water. If possible, cover the pan with a lid to smother the flames; use baking soda on shallow grease fires. If you can't control the fire immediately, get yourself and your family out fast, and call 9-1-1.
- Built-up grease can easily catch fire, so clean the burner pans and stovetop regularly.
- A thermostatically-controlled electric skillet or a deep fryer is the safest way to deep fry foods.
- Have working smoke alarms on every level of the house and near all sleeping areas. Check these alarms often to ensure they are in good working order. If you - have battery-operated smoke alarms, replace the batteries when you spring forward for Daylight Savings Time, and again when you fall back.

- Have a working fire extinguisher located away from the stove but in the kitchen, or within close reach of the kitchen. Know how to use the extinguisher.
- Use heat-proof oven mitts when moving a hot pan or pot to prevent burns. Keep these oven mitts in a convenient location.
- When using the oven, open the oven door all the way before putting something in or taking something out. This will prevent the door from closing and pinning your arm between the door and the oven.
- If a fire starts in the microwave, keep the door closed and unplug the unit.
- Never use a cooking appliance with a frayed or cracked electrical cord.
- Do not overload electrical outlets or circuits by plugging in and using multiple appliances at the same time.
- Teach children about kitchen fire safety. Children who are learning about cooking should be supervised by a responsible adult at all times.
- After you unplug a cooking appliance, make sure electrical cords are not dan-

- gling from countertops, where they could be pulled on by small children.
- If you sustain a burn, run cool water over the wound for three to five minutes. Seek medical attention if the burn is severe.
- When you finish cooking, promptly turn off the stove burners, oven or cooking appliance. Get into the habit of double-checking that appliances are turned off before you leave the kitchen.

Christmas will be in the Air Dec. 8

The Caledon Concert Band will be presenting its annual Christmas concert Dec. 8. Entitled Christmas in the Air, it will be at Caledon Community Complex, at 6215 Old Church Rd. in Caledon East starting at 2 p.m. Special guest performers will be the primary and junior choirs from Ecole James Bolton Public School. The cost will be $10 for adults, $8 for students and seniors, and children 12 and younger will get in for free. For more information, call 416-276-7852, or go to www.caledonconcertband.ca

PIT RUN DRAWS CROWDS

There was a large crowd out recently to take part in the Second annual Pit Run, hosted by Lafarge Canada Inc. and Aecon Construction Ltd. at their pit near Caledon village. The event offered the participants the chance to get a close look at an active aggregate pit, as well as take in a company open house. Funds raised from registration fees for the run were donated to Bethell Hospice in Inglewood.

KISSES FOR TYPHOON RELIEF

There have been a number of efforts started around the world to assist people in the Philippines impacted by the recent Typhoon Haiyan, and Evelyn Hesjedahl, a Grade 2 student at Caledon East Public School was doing her bit Saturday as part of the annual Christmas Craft Show at the school. She put a collection of candy kisses in this jar, and invited people to guess how many there were. The effort raised $40, which will be sent to the Red Cross so it can be matched by the government. "I wanted to raise money so they can survive," she said. "This is what I came up with. I wanted to do it with candies because I like candies." There were 317 kisses in the jar.

Celebrating the season explored at Lifetree Cafe

There are some surprising and fun ways to celebrate the holiday season, and they will be discussed at the next session of Lifetree Cafe this coming Wednesday (Nov. 27).

The program, entitled A Christmas Surprise: Rekindling the Joy of Christmas, will feature a filmed interview with a man who bakes, decorates and gives away more than 4,000 cookies each Christmas. Alan Kobs is in his home kitchen daily from October through Christmas, but he doesn't consider it a burden.

"It's in the giving," he said. "I think about the people who are going to be the recipients of these cookies and the joy it might bring." Participants will also be offered the opportunity to provide a hands-on surprise for members of the local community who must work on Christmas Day.

The program will run from 7 to 8 p.m. Admission will be free. Snacks and beverages will be available.

Lifetree Cafe is at St. James' Anglican Church, 6025 Old Church Rd. in Caledon East.

Lifetree Cafe is a place where people gather for conversation about life and faith in a casual coffeehouse-type setting. Questions about Lifetree may be directed to Mark Tiller at 905-584-8506 or mark.lifetree@gmail.com

Victorian Christmas Gala celebrates Theatre Orangeville

By Constance Scraftfield

Every year, toward the end of November, a couple of hundred nicely dressed people assemble at the Best Western Hotel and Conference Centre to enjoy one of the happiest parties of the season: The Victorian Christmas Gala.

A great many people spent a lot of time preparing for this evening, for it is the premier fund raising event of the year for Theatre Orangeville.

There is a champagne and oyster bar and several servers with trays of hors d'oeuvres to open the festivities, followed in the ball room by a fine dinner with wine, all included in the price of the ticket. There is great entertainment throughout the evening, including Mark DuBois and his Studio Singers. Most importantly, the mighty silent auction is spread along all the hallways and small dining areas. This is one of the cornerstones to the fundraising aspect of the evening.

The accumulated load of treasures for the silent auction is compiled by many months of approaching businesses all around the area for their contributions, and most are happy to make donations to the theatre in return for the many contributions it makes to the community.

Great efforts are made to present this large collection of beautiful items and the myriad of gift certificates for services, treats and dining in an attractive and clear way.

There are boards on which photocopies of each gift certificate is displayed, which are all decorated with explanations and pictures.

There are baskets with small collections of goods and boxes of wine lined up on the tables.

There are small and large items of every sort and every price.

Additionally, there are the live auction items, for which Artistic Director David Nairn takes on the role of auctioneer during the course of the dinner.

The items on this list are luxurious accommodation in beautiful holiday spots, trips to the theatre in Toronto and Stratford with Nairn, a day at the spa, wooden platters – chargers – made of wood rescued by Jim Lorrimer during the recent renovations to the theatre, a day of riding with a famous author, a dinner at home with a famous playwright, etc.

Complementary to all this is the fabulous aquamarine and diamond ring, crafted and donated by Anne Marie Warburton, who has her Gallery Gemma at the Alton Mill. There are bobbles being sold to win this ring, with volunteers offering them for sale all during the evening. It is on view in a display case to see at the Gala.

So, we wanted to discover exactly why all these people give so much to this event, this annual chance to raise funds to support the work that Theatre Orangeville does.

“The real reason I got involved is because of my kid,” commented Roger Simmons, chair of the Victorian Christmas committee for the last six years, as well as being a member of the theatre’s Board of Directors. “It gave him a new lease on life. Colin found that excitement in theatre arts when it was the most important time of his life. He was in the Young Company and studied singing with Mark (DuBois) until he went to college.”

Colin Simmons is very well known for his participation in many activities with the theatre, especially his work in the Young Company young actors, who are coming along the very path he has travelled.

“I really appreciate the theatre’s commitment to the community, especially of the youth,” Simmons said. “It’s mind-boggling how dedicated those people are.”

“It’s fun – the Victorian Christmas committee and the Board, there are people from all walks of life but they are all interested in the arts,” he added, referring to the work of the committee.

“I asked 10 or 12 people last year if they enjoyed themselves at the Gala and they said it was the best party of the year,” he remarked. “It’s a phenomenal event, very low-cost and you can certainly do some Christmas shopping. Bev (Mrs. Simmons) takes 90 to 110 boards (for the silent auction) that she decorates for the certificates, for three to four weeks, three or four hours a day. It’s a lot of work. Everyone puts in a lot of time and dedication.”

Anne Marie Warburton echoed these sentiments when asked why she was so willing to donate such a valuable piece of jewellery to the event.

“Theatre Orangeville is one of the most important cultural aspects of this area,” she said. “It gave so much pleasure to my children when they were younger. It says so much to the community. It gives so much to us – I want to give back to them.”

There are a few tickets still available to the Gala, which takes place Nov. 23 at the Best Western Hotel on the east side of Orangeville.

For more information or to purchase tickets, contact the theatre at 519-942-3423 or online at theatreorangeville.ca

Messiah performance coming to Orangeville church Nov. 30

The Orangeville-based Headwaters’ Concert Choir will be presenting Handel’s famed oratorio Messiah in St. Mark’s Anglican Church, Orangeville, Nov 30 at 4 p.m.

For the occasion, the 40-voice choir will be accompanied by the Great Lakes’ Symphony, with both being conducted by the choir’s founder and director Rob Hennig.

The choristers have toured Europe three times in recent years, having performed in Vienna and Salzburg in Austria, Prague, Paris and Rome. The Rome tour included musical accompaniment of an afternoon Mass at St. Peter’s Basilica, and in Paris the choir performed in Notre Dame Cathedral.

Next February the choir will sing at Carnegie Hall and present music at St. John the Divine Cathedral in New York City.

The Messiah performance will feature soloists Shelagh Tyreman, Nancy Claridge, Charles DiRaimondo and Jeffrey Carl.

St. Mark’s, which dates from 1868 and was recently made fully wheelchair-accessible, is an architectural jewel of Dufferin County well known for its superb acoustics.

The choir and orchestra last performed Messiah two years ago before a packed church.

Tickets are $23 for adults, $20 for students and seniors and those 16 years and under are free. They are available from the Orangeville Citizen office, 10 First St.; St. Mark’s Church office, 5 First Ave., and BookLore, or from members of the choir. Call or email to reserve tickets at 905-495-6752 or bach4550@rogers.com

Davis family is Peel's Farm Family of the year for 2013

Tav Schembri, representing the Caledon Chamber of Commerce, congratulated John Davis and the Davis family as being Farm Family of the Year.

By Bill Rea

The Davis family, of Davis Feed and Farm Supply near Caledon East, have been named Peel Region's Farm Family of the Year.

The recognition was presented Saturday night at a banquet in Caledon East hosted by the Peel Federation of Agriculture.

John Davis said he found out about the award approximately three weeks ago.

"It was quite a surprise," he said. "We did not expect anything like that."

Long-time customer Doug Apped commented that the Davises have been in the area to see many changes in the area.

He said the family saw a long-term vision in the 1950s, starting with a few cows and some chickens, and eventually forming the business.

Since then, they have been active in their support of local sports, 4-H, the annual plowing matches, etc.

It's a very special night for us tonight," Davis said.

"We do our jobs and we do our jobs as best we can," he observed, adding the family works at it every day.

He had some special words for his wife Joanne, commenting they met in university. "So far, it's going pretty good," he remarked, adding she's active with the Sweet Adelines in Orangeville.

He also commented that his son Sean brought flowers into the business. He said it was something different, but it caught on.

Davis also said they have tried to get local people involved in the business, pointing out the younger people need to know where things like food come from, and in many cases, they don't.

"We're going to be around for a while," he concluded. "We're not going anywhere."

There were other tributes for the Davis Family and for the local agricultural industry.

Tav Schembri of Remax Realty Specialists was representing the Caledon Chamber of Commerce.

"What I see in this room is a very close-knit community," he remarked, adding when he thinks of farmers, he thinks of such things as sincerity, honesty, respect and sacrifice. "I think of someone who is always there to lend a helping hand."

"You provide a very valuable service within our community," Mayor Marolyn Morrison remarked, as she thanked the family for all their hard work and staying in the community.

"Thank you for everything you do," commented Councillor Allan Thompson, who was representing Peel Region.

He too stressed the importance of agriculture, pointing out it's the biggest industry and revenue generator in Peel.

Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones said she mentioned the Davis family in an address in the legislature the day of the government's Economic Statement, when all MPPs would be in their seats. She commented on how happy she was to help recognize them, and their support of programs like 4-H.

"It's about giving back," she said. "It's about understanding the value of community."

Student-produced posters part of board's Bullying Awareness and Prevention Week

Bullying Awareness and Prevention Week in Ontario schools runs from Nov. 17 to 23.

The Dufferin-Peel Catholic School Board and its 149 schools have planned a wide range of events, activities and actions to highlight greater awareness of and promote a culture of care, respect and inclusion for all through efforts to eliminate bullying.

As part of Bullying Awareness and Prevention Week, a wide range of board-level initiatives and school events and activities are taking place. These included a minute of silence Monday in recognition of all victims of bullying, including bystanders; a poster campaign, featuring a series of posters created by Dufferin-Peel students which are being distributed to all schools. Each poster incorporates the header, "Stand Up Against Bullying," as well the scripture verse, "Be kind to one another" (Ephesians 4:32). The posters can be viewed on the board website at www.dpcdsb.org/CEC/News/Events/Bullying+Awareness+Week.htm

And an online reporting pilot project, which the board will continue to expand with select elementary and secondary schools to determine the feasibility of an online reporting format for incidents of bullying. If this proves to be a useful tool, the goal will be to roll it out board-wide in the future.

"We recognize the impact that bullying has on individuals, families and communities," said Director of Education John Kostoff. "Dufferin-Peel schools work hard to nurture and maintain a culture of care, respect and inclusion for all. We do that through practical, creative and thought-provoking means as part of our ongoing efforts to educate and effect change in attitudes and actions. Bullying Awareness and Prevention Week gives us another platform in which to promote positive messages, not only to our students, but beyond the walls of our schools as well."

Barney Beckett
of Barney's Oyster Excellence.

Barney Beckett knows about excellent oysters

By Bill Rea

When it comes to learning about oysters and oyster excellence, Barney Beckett is the man to talk to.

He has been running Barney's Oyster Excellence out of Caledon village, specializing in catering private parties — "any event, any party with just oysters."

Beckett explained that he left the construction trade after about 30 years and took a bartending course. That was followed by a job at a local pub, where he found himself shucking oysters.

"I saw the interest of it," he said. "It's becoming more of an interest. People like it."

It's something different to have at your event."

He added they can be used for just about any occasion. "They go with anything," he said.

Beckett also said there is an entertainment component too, complete with stories and jokes, along with anecdotes he's learned about oysters.

"I enjoy being around people," he said. "I've always got a story."

There's more information about Barney's Oyster Excellence at <http://oysterexcellence.com>

Something they'll always remember

Granted, it wasn't the biggest story of the week, but for those involved, we think it represents one of the best days they'll ever have, and one they'll always remember.

The football team of Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School in Caledon East capped an impressive undefeated season last Wednesday by taking the Tier 2 ROPSSAA championship. It was a thriller too, as they bested the Cardinal Ambrozic Riverhawks by just a single point.

Again we grant that's not a terribly big deal in the great scheme of things, especially to those of us old enough to have other things on our minds. We need to cast our thoughts back a couple of years and recall what it was like to cheer your school's team to victory. Many of us have such terrific memories, and others have been further blessed to have actually played on such teams.

It's easy to say that such memories will lose their meaning as the years go by, but we would argue to the contrary.

Who among us does not like to think back to the good days of our youth? Granted, it was not always a load of laughs, but we all know that living as an adult is not a case of none-stop fun either.

We hope the members of that championship team take time to reflect on what they accomplished over the last several weeks, and savour their success. Happy moments like that are meant to be remembered.

Too many demands on Cheltenham Day organizers

The following open letter to Caledon council was submitted to the Citizen for publication.

Cheltenham Day has been a fantastic event in our community for the past 20 years.

The Cheltenham Area Residents Association (CARA) is proud of the positive benefits it has added to the community and to the Town of Caledon. Through the funds raised by CARA and the Cheltenham Day Committee, a great deal of value has been brought to the community and as a result, the Town.

In the Charles Haines Park alone, CARA and the Cheltenham Day Committee raised more than 50 per cent of the funds to build the pavilion and, with the assistance of a strong volunteer group, built 100 per cent of it. This alone is an astounding achievement. In addition, CARA built and provided 100 per cent of the financing for the information sign, including lighting and a large flower container to surround it. CARA involvement was instrumental in insuring there was a community room included in the design plan for the expanded Cheltenham Fire Hall. In addition, when the expansion of the fire hall meant the playground equipment would be removed, CARA again provided the impetus and 50 per cent of the funds to install new equipment. Cheltenham Day funds financed 50 per cent of the original play equipment and the park benches at Beryl Bland Park and CARA was instrumental in naming and dedicating the park which before then was little more than a vacant lot. Over the years, CARA has used its fundraising efforts to beautify the village with hanging flower baskets in the summer and Christmas wreaths in the winter and for the very popular Light Up The Night wagon rides during the Christmas season.

Countless volunteer hours have been given to achieve this impressive contribution to our community and Caledon. However, in the last few years we have noticed an overwhelming increase in the administrative, insurance and permit process requirements that the Town of Caledon expects.

Our Cheltenham Day Committee has one volunteer to complete all of the administrative paperwork. Over the last few years, ever more detailed information about the events of the day are required in order to qualify for the Town's insurance coverage. It now takes our volunteer more than 40 hours to cover all the administrative work for Cheltenham Day! To date, the list of departments we are required to communicate with at the Town includes Parks and Recreation (seven items), Administration (one item), Public Works (two items), Legal (two items), OPP (one item) and the Fire Department.

Our major concerns are with the Town's Insurance and Special Occasion Permit Holder Agreement requirements, which have become so daunting that CARA is no longer able to attract vendors and in some cases volunteers to participate in the day.

CARA carries its own insurance and the Town has traditionally provided insurance which covers the events of the day. Now, however, the Town is requesting that CARA sign an Indemnification and Hold Harmless Agreement in order to absolve itself from any insurable responsibility for the day. The Town also requires street vendors to provide Proof of Insurance (naming the Town as the Insured) to sell their products. Since these vendors are traditionally hobbyists, this new insurance requirement deters this group from participating as the cost and paperwork outweigh any benefit. Over the last three years, we have seen the participation of our vendors drop from 29 to six. Even the caterer is required to provide an insurance certificate.

The laws and requirements for obtaining a Special Occasion Permit are set out by the Province of Ontario through the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, and these have always been followed to the letter. Our servers are all Smart Serve certified, OPP paid duty officers are hired and the required fencing put in place. However, in the last two years, the Town has required an additional form be completed by the LCBO permit holder called the Special Occasion Permit Holder Agreement. This is very disturbing, as the intent and spirit of this form indicates that the Town is attempting to transfer all responsibility to the person named in the Special Occasion Permit Holder Agreement and this has discouraged volunteers from managing that segment of Cheltenham Day. From road closure, vendors, dinner and bar, it appears that most of our administration work now is focused on mitigating the Town's insurable responsibility for a sanctioned community fundraising event.

With so much community effort going into our parks and the community, we find it disheartening that the Town demonstrates such a lack of appreciation for the efforts of our volunteers. Our past achievements and future potential appear to be of little value to the Town. This attitude was driven home when the removal of the playground equipment at Beryl Bland Park will be up-front right from the start.

I am a man who generally has very little use for conspiracy theorists. Yet we seem to be surrounded by them.

I have heard charges of nefarious behaviour being involved in the outcomes of sporting events and elections — So have you! And there are those who maintain there was some kind of high placed conspirators behind such events as the death of Princes Diana and the 9-11 terrorist attacks. I buy none of it.

Yet I am in that group who believes there was something very fishy about the events that took place 50 years ago tomorrow (Friday). I refer, of course, to the assassination of American President John F. Kennedy.

Like most people who were alive, conscious and living in a civilized part of the world at the time, I have very clear memories of where I was and who I was with when the word of the events in Dallas reached my ears.

I was only five years old at the time (55 is the answer to the mental arithmetic some of you are doing right now), and I doubt you're going to find many people younger than I who can remember that day.

I was with my mother, standing outside my aunt's (my mom's sister) apartment. We were picking her and my seven-month-old cousin to go to a bazaar at Royal York United Church in Toronto (when was the last time you spent a Friday afternoon at a church bazaar? — How times have changed). My aunt lived on the fourth floor of the building that still stands on Bloor Street, near the banks of the Humber River, and my mother, who was into physical fitness at the time, relished the thought of walking up four flights of stairs (these were the days before parents were inclined to solicit the opinions of their kids on such matters). And lucky for her, there was a maintenance man working on the elevator which happened to be parked at the fourth floor. He evidently had a transistor radio (remember them?) playing as he worked, and apparently heard a bulletin being broadcast. It was he who broke the news to us, poking his head around the corner of the hallway.

"Did you hear President Kennedy's been shot?" he asked.

And that's how we got the news. Even the five-year-old kid who was myself understood something very bad had happened.

Like everyone else in this hemisphere, I watched lots and lots of the detailed coverage on TV, largely because there was nothing else on that day (I remember the frustration in my brother's voice when he realized the Mickey Mouse Club would be pre-empted) and I had not yet learned how to read. I heard a commentator announce "Oswald has been shot," not yet appreciating who Lee Harvey Oswald was or the significance of his death. I watched the proceedings at Arlington National Cemetery, getting shushed up by my mother when I asked her if they were going to bury the flag draping Kennedy's casket.

As the years went by, I heard a read a lot of stories about possible conspiracies, not believing any of them.

It wasn't until the 25th anniversary of the assassination that I started to doubt what I had believed for almost my entire life.

There was an evening that week that the Rotary Club of Palgrave hosted an expert on the assassination as their guest speaker. The man spoke for almost two hours, with no one in the room making a sound, and as soon as he sat down, there was a mass stampede to the washrooms. No one had wanted to miss a word.

The story I wrote in the aftermath was memorable, both for it's length (I believe it was the longest single story I have ever written), and the fact I started writing as soon as I got home that night, was still firing on all cylinders at 2 a.m. when I finally finished.

Seeds of doubt were planted in my brain, prompting me to question many things I had believed.

The upshot is I do not know what to believe, except that I don't believe what we have been told through official channels, such as the Warren Commission, for some 50 years.

Like so many other factors that combine to make up earthly existence, I believe history is constantly evolving, following trends and fashions, much the way the rest of society operates.

For many years, it seemed society was prepared to accept the version of events that it had been given by the Warren Commission; namely that Lee Harvey Oswald had acted alone. If memory serves, I started hearing thoughts to the contrary during my teens, during a time when people (especially Americans) started wondering how dirty the sitting president's hands were over something known as Watergate.

Yet I have seen many documentaries, including one in the last couple of weeks, that seem determined to restore the Warren Commission's verdict.

Is the pendulum swinging back?

One of those documentaries was shown about 10 years ago, and hosted by the late Peter Jennings, a broadcast journalist I always had time for.

One of the very heavy issues conspiracy theorists latch on to is what's commonly referred to as "the magic bullet." This bullet wounded both Kennedy and Texas Governor John Connally, yet it was recovered in pretty good condition (history has used the word 'pristine'). There was also a lot of speculation that it did some pretty weird maneuvers in mid air as it travelled between the two men.

The documentary Jennings presented did a pretty good job of explaining the problems with the bullet's path. Theories had always been that Kennedy was sitting directly behind Connolly, but in fact he was seated more inboard in the back seat of the car.

But there was no explanation of the state of the bullet. I admit I am no expert in such things, but I would argue that a bullet that traversed the torsos of two grown men, broke the wrist of one of them and then lodged in his thigh would have ended up looking like a hunk of well-chewed bubble gum.

That is why I'm inclined to believe there was a conspiracy. But I'm only one man, and everyone else will have an opinion.

As for the other issues involved in the assassination, although I think there was a conspiracy, I do believe Oswald was involved to some extent. I believe Jack Ruby was exactly what he presented himself to be; a grieving man who was avenging the murder of his president.

I also believe we will never know for sure what really happened that day in Dallas, or who all were involved. There is probably a lot of evidence that's sealed away somewhere, and it might be released at some point down the road. But the last 50 years has offered lots of time and opportunity to doctor this evidence, so what proof will we have that it's legitimate if it ever is released.

I personally believe Kennedy was over-rated as a president. He came around at a time of great ideals and notions, and he certainly had a way of inspiring people, especially the young, I think there was an irresponsible streak in him that could have put his administration at risk.

But no matter what I might think of him, I believe the world has a right to know what happened to him 50 years ago, and we probably never will.

HomeJames will get you home safely after celebrating this holiday season

The holiday season is highlighted by time with family and friends; a season of sharing, enjoying each other's company and festive celebration.

Sometimes these festivities include the consumption of alcohol; often times a part of the traditional holiday celebration.

Most of us decide, in advance, who the designated driver will be. Usually in our household, I take on that responsibility. Sometimes however, a designated driver may not be available and, not so long ago, there were very few alternatives for partygoers to get home safely. Times have changed however and now, in our town, we have the option of calling HomeJames — a community designated driver program.

HomeJames is a program in Caledon

Mayor's Report

By Marolyn Morrison

led by representatives from local service clubs and enthusiastic volunteers from our community. John and I will be volunteering with the program again this year because we believe it is a safer, wiser alternative to drinking and driving. But it's more than just alcohol that impairs your driving skills. Fatigue, medications and sometimes even stress can diminish your ability to drive. If you're unsure, call HomeJames this holiday season.

This is a not-for-profit program that enlists community volunteers to drive you home from the party, in your own car. All the volunteer drivers meet strict screening and driver care criteria by the Home-

James team, thereby ensuring the safety of you and your family members. HomeJames is a free service, but donations are, of course, welcomed from appreciative users of the service. I would personally, heartily encourage any donation to support this terrific service, since funds raised are donated back to the community for youth and special needs programs.

The 2013 HomeJames holiday season program begins tomorrow (Nov. 22) and runs every Friday and Saturday evening from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. It also runs Dec. 31 from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

I hope you have a very joyous and happy holiday season and I encourage you to be responsible. If you're not sure about your ability to drive home safely, call HomeJames at 905-951-9000.

Canada-Europe Trade Agreement will be a big benefit for Canadian economy

Today, with one in five Canadian jobs dependent on exports, our prosperity hinges on opening new markets for Canadian goods, services and investment.

This is why our government launched the most ambitious trade agenda in Canadian history. We are working to open new markets to create jobs and opportunities for all Canadians. Prime Minister Stephen Harper recently announced that Canada has reached an agreement in principle on a trade agreement with the European Union.

This is the biggest deal Canada has ever made. Whether you are a fisherman in Atlantic Canada, a forestry worker in Québec, an auto-worker in Ontario, a Prairie farmer or an engineer from the West — you will benefit from the Canada-Europe Trade Agreement.

Ottawa Journal

David Tilson

MP Dufferin-Caledon

What's more, our government is also keeping the three pillars of Canada's supply management system intact. This will help ensure Canadian industries are protected, while still gaining access to the world's largest market.

This historic win for Canadians highlights Canada's continued leadership on the world's stage. With the international community marred by ongoing political and economic uncertainty, Canada's continued political and economic stability is the envy of the world's largest economies.

The signing of this agreement is an important step for Canada's continued prosperity. Our government will continue to focus on creating jobs and opportunities for all Canadians.

Staying on track for balanced federal budgets

Canadians want their government squarely focused on the economy, and that's exactly what our government has been focused on.

When the worst of the global recession hit, we took action to protect Canadian jobs with our Economic Action Plan. The results speak for themselves — Canada has the best job record in the G-7, the lowest debt levels in the G-7 and among the strongest projected economic growth in the G-7 going forward.

As the Canadian economy continues its recovery from the global recession, our government turns its head to the next step in the process; transitioning back to long-term balanced budgets starting in 2015. Reflecting our prudent fiscal management, we will enshrine this approach into law. Our government will introduce legislation requiring balanced budgets and concrete timelines for returning to balance in the event of an economic crisis.

As recently confirmed in the government's annual Financial Report (find out more by visiting www.fin.gc.ca), we are right on track by ensuring we have eliminated wasteful spending and ineffective government programs. In fact, the deficit last year fell to $18.9 billion, down by more than one-quarter ($7.4 billion) from the deficit in 2011–12 and down by nearly two-thirds from 2009–10.

Importantly, we are doing this without raising taxes. In fact, we have cut taxes more than 160 times since forming the government, including cutting the GST from seven to five per cent and lowering personal taxes. This has reduced the tax burden on an average family of four by $3,220. In addition, earlier this fall, we froze EI premiums for the next three years, saving Canadian businesses over $660 million in 2014 alone.

Taken together, the effect of our tax cuts is that government revenue as a percentage of GDP is at its lowest level in more than 50 years. When government is more efficient and effective instead of large and bloated, that means more money in the pockets of Canadian families and business — where it belongs.

Indeed, our government's constant hard work to control spending is making a real difference. We've been examining every government department, identifying wasteful spending and introducing common sense efficiencies to improve the way government does business. The results speak for themselves. Direct government program spending has fallen by more than $5 billion over the past three straight years. This is a first for any government in Canada. Never in our history has direct program spending fallen for three consecutive years.

Rest assured, our government will stay on track for balanced budgets and reducing wasteful spending.

It will open new markets to Canadian exporters throughout Europe and generate significant benefits, jobs and opportunities for all Canadians. The benefits of this agreement are equivalent to creating almost 80,000 new jobs or increasing the average Canadian household's annual income by $1,000.

Canadian families will have greater access to European goods at a lower cost, as 98 per cent of all tariffs, both ways, will be removed. This will significantly boost trade, investment and job opportunities for all Canadians.

Canadian businesses will have access to half a billion affluent customers — the world's single largest market. With this agreement, the number of countries with which Canada has a free trade agreement will triple from 14 to 42. It is expected to inject $12 billion per year in Canada's economy.

He's not ready for prime time

In what seems like another lifetime, a Tory friend of mine, commenting on the short-lived prime ministerial life of Joe Clark, quipped: "If God had meant Joe Clark to be prime minister, He would have given him a chin."

While that is obviously a superficial observation on Clark's suitability, there is something to be said about the importance of a leader looking like a leader, and possessing that certain gravitas to give his (or her) words and actions clout, whether you agree with them or not.

And the whole Clark fiasco also shows that, in politics at least, sometimes what goes around comes around.

Clark, as you likely know, served briefly as Canada's youngest prime minister, after defeating the then-reviled Pierre Trudeau in 1979. He immediately announced he would act as if he had a majority, but, arithmetic being what it is, he subsequently lost a non-confidence motion in the Commons, moved by then-NDP finance critic, Bob Rae, thus allowing Trudeau the Elder to renege on his announced retirement and come storming back to defeat Clark in March, 1980.

Rae, you will recall, went on to a disastrous term as Ontario's only NDP premier before switching to the federal Liberals. He failed at two runs for the Liberal leadership but served well as the Liberal's interim leader until Trudeau's son Justin became Liberal leader.

And just to complete the circle, Rae subsequently retired from elective politics and the by-election to fill his downtown Toronto riding is this week.

Meanwhile, back at the importance of a leader looking like a leader, there is no doubt that Prime Minister Stephen Harper and NDP Leader Thomas Mulcair, whatever you may think of their respective political views, certainly fit the bill.

But Trudeau the Younger, alas, lacks that air of authority.

He's certainly better looking than his two opponents. But that's part of the problem. Someone recently Trudeau looks like a vacuous pretty boy, a description which, unfortunately for him, seems to fit his actions as well as his appearance.

No doubt he's a bright guy. But he reminds me of one of baseball pitchers who seem to have all the ability in the world in warm-ups, but just can't get the ball across the plate, and therefore can't make it in the major leagues.

Asked once about his views on Quebec separation, for example, he actually suggested he'd prefer a separate Quebec to a Canada run by Harper. To be sure, Harper has his critics, but come on, somebody who wants to be prime minister would be that cavalier — and partisan — about the very future of the country. Please.

There are many examples of his vacuous flippancy, but none better than his recent response to a question at a ritzy "ladies only" fundraiser in Toronto, an event which on its own has provoked considerable controversy for implying that women, unlike men, are really only interested in the fluffy side of politics, and which clearly promoted Trudeau as a national sex symbol. (More irony: the last Canadian politician promoted in that fashion was — you guessed it — Justin's father, Pierre. The difference was that Pierre was politically astute as well.

In any event, Trudeau the Younger was asked that, apart from Canada, "which nation's administration" he most admired.

Taking a moment to ponder, Trudeau, incredibly, said this: "You know, there's a level of admiration I actually have for China because their basic dictatorship is allowing them to actually turn their economy around on a dime and say 'we need to go green fastest ...we need to start investing in solar.'"

(Apart from the absurdity of applauding a brutal Communist dictatorship, China isn't going green at all. It's opening two coal-fired electrical plants a week. Combined with the U.S., China produces 40 per cent of global carbon dioxide emissions. Canada produces just 2 per cent. The much-maligned Alberta oil sands account for one one-thousandth of global emissions.)

Trudeau went on to say, "I mean there is a flexibility that I know Stephen Harper must dream about of having a dictatorship that he can do everything he wanted that I find quite interesting."

(He also added he admires the non-partisan governments of Canada's three territories. He got that wrong too. The Yukon, for one, does have political parties. Geez.)

After word got out, Trudeau's apologists tried to say he was just kidding. He wasn't. Watch the tape and see for yourself.

But then, Trudeau the Elder spent much of his final term kowtowing to various Communist dictatorships. He even took Justin and his brothers to China shortly after the 1989 Tiananmen Square massacre, where they were treated as heroes.

So maybe Justin's appetite for Communist dictators is genetic. Whatever, it hardly makes him ready for prime time.

Issues need to be resolved

two years ago was done with no consultation with the community, even though the community playground committee raised 50 per cent of the original funds.

The Town of Caledon promotes itself as a family-friendly, community-oriented place to live and puts great emphasis on the uniqueness of its villages, and yet we, as a fully-volunteer community group, find it increasingly difficult to host an event like Cheltenham Day.

We feel that the administrative procedures and processes; i.e. the detailed event information, the ever-increasing list of contacts, the ever-expanding insurance requirements for vendors, caterer and permit holder and last, but not least, the Special Occasion Permit Holder Agreement have placed an undue burden on our volunteers and significantly altered the spirit of the day.

Cheltenham Day is run by volunteers, who give a great deal of their time to the community, but the requirements set out by the Town to run the day are becoming so onerous that there is a strong possibility that Cheltenham Day will cease to exist. Without some significant compromises and concessions from the Town, we fear this will be the outcome.

It is imperative that we have an open dialogue with the Town to try and resolve the issues put forth in this letter.

Canadian Blood Services and Osler provide hope for stem cell patients

A partnership between Canadian Blood Services and William Osler Health System (Osler) is bringing Canada’s new public cord blood bank closer to realization, and has potential to benefit thousands of patients across the country and around the world.

Osler’s Brampton Civic Hospital has been named as one of only four hospitals in the country — and the only community hospital — to serve as a collection site. Brampton Civic will begin assisting Canadian Blood Services with the recruitment of potential mothers from the area, and the collection of their babies’ donated umbilical cord blood for stem cell treatments that may contribute to safe and effective medical treatments for the future.

“We are honoured to have William Osler Health System as one of our collection hospitals” said Canadian Blood Services Chief Executive Officer Dr. Graham Sher. “This partnership underscores the collaborative effort our organizations have taken to launch a national public cord blood bank — one that offers more opportunities to find a match and save more lives.”

Providing Canadians with a new national public cord blood bank will help close the gap in Canadian Blood Services’ ability to find matches for patients through its stem cell network — One-Match. This is especially important to Canadians as many stem cell patients are from diverse populations, particularly Aboriginal, black and multi-ethnic. These patients often have increased complexities when finding a matching donor.

“We are pleased to be joining forces with Canadian Blood Services on this important initiative and proud to be the only community hospital selected in Canada to serve as a collection site for the National Public Cord Blood Bank,” said Osler President and CEO Matthew Anderson. “By working together, we can provide increased hope for difficult-to-match patients waiting for stem cell transplants, and make a significant difference to the health of people in our community, across the country, and around the world.”

Working with Canadian Blood Services, Brampton Civic will begin recruiting for expectant mothers to volunteer to be part of this program, and then collecting their babies’ donated cord blood units to be publicly banked, starting in mid-2014. Healthy, pregnant women 18 years of age or older will be able to donate their babies’ cord blood with signed consent to any patient in need.

Canadian Blood Services will be asking healthy moms who are delivering at Brampton Civic to donate their babies’ cord blood during a validation phase from December 2013 to mid-2014. This testing phase is to ensure that the National Public Cord Blood Bank runs at the highest quality when it launches in mid-2014.

LET YOUR VEHICLE SHINE AT BOLTON CANADIAN TIRE

There’s nothing more annoying than paying to take your vehicle through the carwash or putting the effort into washing it yourself, just to be left with water spots. To add insult to injury, the next time it rains, it looks dirty again.

Wax can help, but it can take hours of application, polishing and buffing. Now, with a little help from Bolton Canadian Tire, your vehicle can keep it’s shine all year long!

Bolton Canadian Tire is excited to announce that they are now offering their clients Permanon Innovative Surface Protection. After it’s applied to your vehicle’s exterior, plus all of the glass, mirrors, and rims, your vehicle will maintain a brilliant shine without waxing or polishing. It resists most acids, solvents and alkalis; repels airborne dust, bird droppings, pine tar and other contaminants. Every time you wash your vehicle, the shine will return, with no water spots! In addition to keeping the shine, Permanon Innovative Surface Protection also offers UV protection — that even protects the clear coat. This will help prevent the paint colour from fading.

The best part is, you don’t have to do any of the work. Simply make an appointment with the auto service department at Bolton Canadian Tire, bring it in and let them take care of the rest. It takes less than an hour to do, which means you can take care of your shopping while you wait.

Permanon Innovative Surface Protection works great on any vehicle, including cars, vans, trucks, motorcycles, travel trailers and recreational vehicles of all types.

The regular price for having Permanon Innovative Surface Protection applied is $90.00 for small cars and $110.00 for large vehicles. For a limited time, buy 1 and get the 2nd application for ½ price.

“I’ve had it applied to my own vehicle and am very impressed with how well it works,” says Scott Deciccio, service manager. “I really love how after I wash it, there’s no water spots on the glass.”

To learn more about how you can keep your vehicle shining all summer long (and well into the spring!) without putting in any elbow grease, visit the service department for more details.

Wolfpack undefeated season ends with a 7-6 championship win

By Brian Lockhart

After a stellar season that saw the Robert F. Hall Wolfpack football team go undefeated, the squad capped the year by winning the Tier 2 ROPSSAA championship title with a 7-6 win over the Cardinal Ambrosic Riverhawks at Centennial Stadium in Etobicoke.

The entire championship game came down to a single point.

The Riverhawks scored first after a turnover on a Wolfpack fumble that dropped the 'Hawks on the 11 yard line.

The decisive moment came on the convert attempt when the kick was blocked by Tevin Bowen.

That single point made all the difference in the final score.

The Wolfpack ran into a tough Riverhawks defence early in the game, but still made good gains with quarterback Jake Smith able to hook up with his favourite target, Connor Reiners, on several occasions.

Running backs Michael McPherson and Andre Gordon had some good runs with yards gained to bring the Wolfpack down field.

The RFH squad got on the scoreboard after a series of plays, starting with a huge run from Phil Hasfal on the punt return.

Ball carrier Curtis Fillier drove in to bring the Wolfpack to within scoring distance. Smith finished it off with a four yard run for the touchdown to tie the game at six.

Kicker Gabriel Siemieniec, who had an almost perfect season, placed the ball between the uprights for the extra point and the Wolfpack were in the lead by one.

The RFH defensive squad turned out a solid performance and stepped up to the task in shutting down the Ambrosic offence.

Defenders Dalton Lisso, Bowen and Cameron Gardilic, were stand-outs, along with the defensive back tandem work of Philip Hasfal and Nick Ristucci.

Ristucci intercepted a pass at the 10 yard line to stop the Riverhawks advance late in the game.

With the three minute flag up, the Ambrosic squad made a final drive to take over the game and with just over a minute remaining, the Riverhawks attempted a 35 yard field goal, but the kick went short and wide of the post.

With the CFL rules in effect, the kick placed the Wolfpack in danger of giving up a one-point rouge, but Hasfal ran the ball out of the end zone to protect RFH's lead and win the game 7-6.

It was the Wolfpack's second football championship in the school program's 20-year history.

The Wolfpack had the best season of any Robert F. Hall football team in the school's history, going undefeated over eight regular season games, then finishing off with a big win in the semi-final to earn the right to advance to the championship game.

The Robert F. Hall Wolfpack football team claimed the Tier 2 ROPSSAA championship with a 7-6 win over the Cardinal Ambrosic Riverhawks at Centennial Stadium in Etobicoke last Wednesday. Team captains, Jake Smith, Tevin Bowen, Jake Monk, Jake Sutherland and Nick Ristucci, raise the cup during post game celebrations.

Golden Hawks have four-point week after 5-2 victory over Erin Sunday

By Brian Lockhart

The Caledon Golden Hawks are edging closer to moving up a notch in the Georgian Mid Ontario League standings after posting two wins over the weekend.

The Hawks travelled to Huntsville Friday to take on the Otters and left with a 3-2 win after breaking a tie with a third-period goal and hanging on for the rest of the game.

Daniel Cafagna opened the scoring in the first period.

That goal was answered by a single from Huntsville.

The only goal in the second frame came from Christian Bonaldi to give the Haws a one-goal advantage going into the final 20 minutes.

The Otters tied the game at two early in the third period, but the Hawks battled back and took the win with a late goal from Jacob Arsenault.

The return to Caledon Sunday night had the Erin Sharmocks visiting the arena in Caledon East.

The Hawks were leading 2-1 at the end of the second period after Brett Bloor opening the scoring with a single in the first and another Caledon goal in the second period from Cafagna.

Peter Holland comes home

Maple Leafs have big hopes for the 22 year-old centre

By Brian Lockhart

In what could be the career move of a lifetime, and the dream of many hockey players in Canada, Caledon native Peter Holland has been traded to the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Holland played his first game with Toronto Saturday night against the Buffalo Sabres, stepping into the top line between Phil Kessel and James Van Riemsdyk.

He was acquired from the Anaheim Ducks and wasted no time getting on an airplane after the deal was signed.

Holland played four seasons with the Guelph Storm of the OHL, ending the 2010-11 campaign with 88 points (37 goals and 51 assists) after 67 games.

Holland made his name known as the first-round draft pick (15th overall) for the Ducks in 2009 while still with the Storm. He made his pro debut with the Syracuse Crunch of the American Hockey League, playing three games at the tail end of the season in 2011 and was called up for the Ducks' NHL playoff run, though he did not appear in any games.

In 2011, he made his National Hockey

League debut, playing in four games with Anaheim before moving back to Syracuse for a productive season, in which he scored 23 goals with 37 assists in 71 games.

Back to the Ducks for 2012-13, Holland appeared in 21 games and also played 45 games with the Anaheim affiliate Norfolk Admirals of the AHL.

The trade comes at a time when the Leafs are hurting when it comes to players in the centre position. Holland has been slotted in to replace the injured Dave Bolland in the line-up.

At six feet two inches, Holland is known as a big guy, but with his current weight listed as 194 pounds, he's not a bulked up player for his height.

The plan, for now, is to keep Holland on the ice in the top line-up, Leafs coach Randy Carlyle said in an interview with the Globe and Mail.

"He's going to get a chance (to play in the top six)," Carlyle said. "That's why he's here. Obviously, the centre ice position for us has been decimated with injuries, and he's a big, young, skilled centre ice man."

This Grade 10 student was a setter on the junior boys' volleyball team. He said they just missed the play-offs in the first year of a three-year building program. He's also planning to contribute as a shooting guard on the basketball team, which has just started practising. In the community, he's a rep centre back in the Caledon Soccer Club. The 15-year-old lives in Orangeville with his parents Tony and Shelley Ferreira.

This 16-year-old is playing goal for the school's senior boys' hockey team, which played to a 1-1 tie in its first outing. Away from school, he plays minor midget AAA hockey in the Don Mills Flyers organization. The Grade 11 student is from Kingston and is currently staying with the Fusco family in Palgrave.

This Grade 10 student played power on the junior boys' volleyball team, which made it to ROPSSAA. He's also played striker on the junior boys' soccer team. Outside of school, he plays in the ACTS Elites Volleyball Club in Orangeville and the Bolton Wanderers' Soccer Club. The 15-year-old lives in Bolton with his parents Ylenia and Gino Turchiaro.

Hawks will ride their winning streak into Midland tomorrow

The Shamrocks lit up the board on their side with a powerplay effort in the second frame.

It was the third period that saw the Hawks buckle down when Bonaldi scored a short-handed goal early in the frame. The Shamrocks challenged with a single, but two more Hawks goals from Steve Zeppieri and Cafagna sealed the deal for the Caledon squad.

"I think we played really, really well in the first period, and then I think we dropped off in the second then picked it up in the third," said Golden Hawk forward Nicholas McNutt.

While the Hawks were heavy on the offence in the first period, they spent a lot of time in their own end during the second frame.

"We let off the gas in the second," McNutt said. "In the first, we were full throttle and playing the systems and doing really well. In second, we kind of tried to do our own thing a little bit. We got back to our systems in the third. We had a bit of a let down when we took a couple of penalties, but other than that we picked it up and scored a couple of goals and put the nail in the coffin, so to speak."

After the weekend, the Hawks are still in fourth place, but challenging for third with 29 points — two behind the third-place Alliston Hornets.

"We have three wins in a row now," McNutt observed. "I think we're just building every game now and building confidence. In the next couple of games we have games we can win. I don't see why we can't push for even second place."

Currently the Penetang Kings are holding onto first place with 35 points and a 16-3 record. They lost to the Schomberg Cougars last Thursday (Nov. 14) and that win moved the Cougars into second spot in the league.

The Golden Haws will make the trip to Midland tomorrow (Friday) to take on the Flyers.

They return to home ice Sunday (Nov. 24) to host the Kings.

The puck drop is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Woman arrested for impaired driving

A 46-year-old woman from Mississauga is facing charges after Caledon OPP responded to a complaint about a possible impaired driver late in the evening of Nov. 3.

Police report they were told of this shortly before midnight, and the complaint involved a vehicle on Highway 410 that was approaching Mayfield Road.

Officers found the suspect vehicle, a silver Toyota Rav 4 on Highway 10 and pulled it over. They determined the driver had consumed alcohol and arrested her for testing.

She was charged with driving with more than the legal limit of alcohol in her system.

Erin Shamrock goalie Tom Denstedt snags a shot from Caledon forward Jacob Arsenault during the second period of Sunday's GMOHL game at Caledon East arena. The Hawks won the game 5-2 after scoring three in the third period.

Headwaters Food Summit will be this coming Monday at Royal Ambassador

The second annual Headwaters Food Summit and Local Trade Fair will be held Nov. 25 at the Royal Ambassador Event Centre in Caledon.

Presented by the Headwaters Food and Farming Alliance (HFFA), the day-long event will feature keynote speaker Loblaw Research Chair of Sustainable Agriculture at the University of Guelph Dr. Ralph Martin. His address will be on the topic of Does it Make Sense to Build a Local Food System in a Globalizing World? and it will cover a breadth of information on how local food systems can increase resilience of a community in light of the challenges associated with a global food system.

The event will offer four breakout sessions that will bring together experts to address topics such as:

- Building the Business Case for Local Food Systems with Janet Horner, executive director of the Golden Horseshoe Food and Farming Alliance;
- Engaging Community: Food Education, Access and Literacy, featuring a panel discussion with local experts;
- Policy Challenges for a Local Food System with Jamie Reaume, chair of the Ontario Food Terminal;
- Local Food Promotion and Culinary

Tourism with Ontario Culinary Tourism Alliance Executive Director Rebecca LeHeup.

The event will be followed by a Local Food Trade Fair, featuring food and spirits purveyors from Headwaters, including the 100 Acre Bakery and Woolwich Dairy from Dufferin County and Albion Orchards and Spirit Tree Cidery from Caledon. This will be an excellent networking opportunity bringing together producers and purchasers to build new business relationships.

The day will be sponsored in part by Dufferin.biz, Foodland Ontario, Ontario

Trillium Foundation, Wellington Dufferin Guelph Public Health Unit and The Hills of Headwaters Tourism Association, as well as other local sponsors.

Local food is an important component of the local economy. It brings together food production, distribution and consumption with benefits generated to all parties along the supply chain. Headwaters has strong agricultural roots and farming is still a major economic driver in the region and a valued cultural component of the community. In fact, Headwaters includes some of the best agricultural land in the country. Its close proximity to markets in nearby cities and the second largest North American food processing economy in the Greater Toronto Area makes the land a valued resource both for food and economic development.

The Headwaters Food and Farming Alliance is a collaborative initiative which oversees and supports activities across multiple Working Groups with a vision to support a food system in the Headwaters that is productive, sustainable, transparent and fair; supports the health and well-being of residents and food providers; and contributes to the prosperous and equitable economy. The primary objectives of HFFA are to grow a stronger local economy through the development of a local food system that includes residents who have access to healthy food and have the skills needed to support healthy eating, a diverse and sustainable farming system and local leaders who embrace the devel-

Town wins Distinguished Budget Presentation Award

For the second consecutive year, the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada (GFOA) has announced that the Town of Caledon has received its Distinguished Budget Presentation Award for its 2013 budget.

The announcement was made to Town council last week by Chief Financial Officer Ron Kaufman, who is also president of the Municipal Finance Officers Association.

The award represents a significant achievement by the Town. It reflects the commitment of council and staff to meeting the highest principles of governmental budgeting. In order to receive the award, the Town had to satisfy nationally recognized guidelines for effective budget presentation, which are designed to assess how well the budget does as a policy document, financial plan, operations guide and communications device. It must be rated “proficient” in all four categories and the 14 mandatory criteria within those categories to receive the award.

Kaufman told council the budget document had to go through an independent review. He also stressed the award was the result of a team effort of the Corporate Services Department.

“Without the team, we don’t win the award,” he commented.

“I am proud of all of our Town’s accomplishments,” Mayor Marolyn Morrison commented, “and I am pleased to see our Corporate Services Department being acknowledged once again for its commitment to meeting the highest principles of governmental budgeting.”

Stunt driving charge laid

Caledon OPP have charged an 18-year-old Brampton resident after a Nov. 8 incident on Highway 10 near the Grange Sideroad.

Police report an officer noticed a Ford Mustang heading south that was clocked at 195 km-h in an 80 zone. Further investigation revealed the tires on the car had been worn past the conditions required under the Highway Traffic Act.

The driver was charged with racing and having improper tires.

The car was impounded for seven days as a result of the stunt driving charge.

Caledon’s Chief Financial Officer Ron Kaufman credited the work of the team in the Corporate Services Department for winning the Distinguished Budget Presentation Award for the second year in a row. The team members recently received congratulations from Mayor Marolyn Morrison and Town councillors. Seen here are Phillip Li; Barb Johnson; Lori Eagleson; Councillor Gord McClure; Elizabeth Lane; Fuwing Wong; Peggy Tollett; Councillor Rob Mezzapelli; Morrison; Councillor Richard Paterak; Kaufman; Hillary Bryers; Councillors Richard Whitehead, Patti Foley and Nick deBoer; Kevin Jackson; and Councillors Doug Beffort and Allan Thompson

FORD, Frederick Lionel

He loved to garden, tinker, build and fix things. He was always busy; there were never enough hours in the day. He could tell a great story and was the subject of a few as well. He was patient, strong and would do anything for his family. He will be forever missed.

At Southlake Hospital, Newmarket, on Wednesday, October 30th, 2013, from complications due to pneumonia, Fred Ford of Caledon, in his 80th year, passed away peacefully. He was the beloved husband of Dollie Ford for 57 years, loving father of Fred Jr. of Cheltenham, Jeff Ford of Oakville, and Lindsay Ford-Zanth of Georgetown and the late twins Deirdre and Desiree. Wonderful father-in-law to Guy Zanth, Kelly Jennings, and Sue Buckley. Cherished and deeply loved Buppa of Hailey and Jake Zanth, Kate and Erin Ford, and Sophie, Fred, and Madelyn Ford. Dear son of the late Lionel Ford and Irene Ford. Dear brother of Audrey Morris, and the late Mary Yearly, William Ford, Lorne Ford and Cecil Ford. Dear brother-in-law of Ann Ford, Joan Ford, Gwen Kidd and the late Janet LaPier, George Morris and Kent Yearly. Fondly remembered by his nephews and nieces. The family would like to thank the nurses and doctors of Southlake Hospital in Newmarket as well as Dr. Ponke, Diane and Amy in Caledon for all the loving care given to Fred. Cremation has taken place under the care and direction of Dods & McNair Funeral Home & Chapel in Orangeville. If desired, memorial donations may be made to the Heart & Stroke Foundation of Canada. A tree will be planted in memory of Fred in the Dods & McNair Memorial Forest at the Island Lake Conservation Area, Orangeville. A dedication service will be held on Sunday, September 14th, 2014 at 2:30 p.m. (Condolences may be offered to the family at www.dodsandmcnair.com).
