Town hears some grumbling about proposed tax hike

By Bill Rea

The Town continues to look at a tax increase of 4.98 per cent in the coming budget, and that's not sitting well with some people.

Members of the public were given the chance to have their input last Wednesday, and a couple of the people in the Caledon Council Chambers openly asked why taxes always have to go up.

One man charged his property taxes have gone up about 108 per cent since 2003, while the Consumer Price Index increased by only 20.1 per cent.

While the Town collects all the property taxes paid in Caledon, it only keeps about 35 per cent for its own uses. Town staff reported that in 2013, about 33 per cent went to Peel Region and the remaining 32 per cent went to the two local school Boards.

But the man in the audience stated the Regional portion of his taxes have only gone up about 41.4 per cent since 2003, and the education portion has only gone up about 10 per cent.

"Where is Rob Ford when we need him?" the man asked. "These increases are becoming normalized."

He also cited places like Burlington and Hamilton. He said there hasn't been a tax increase in Burlington in about 10 years, and Hamilton's taxes are up about 10 per cent.

"When is there going to be some concern?" he demanded. "At some point, when is it going to stop?"

"Somebody actually has to pay for this," he added.

Mayor Marolyn Morrison pointed out the Region came into a lot of money over the last couple of years through Provincial unloading.

She also pointed out Caledon has the eighth lowest tax rate in the Greater Toronto Area (GTA), but there are still many assets belonging to the Town that have to be maintained.

"We're all taxpayers," she said. "We certainly listen to you."

The budget process is continuing, with the individual departments scheduled to make their presentations to Town councillors this coming Monday and Tuesday. Council is expected to approve the budget Dec. 3.

Deputy Treasurer Peggy Tollett gave a brief overview of where taxes go in Caledon at last week's session, commenting the Town is responsible for some 1,500 kilometres of roads, 120 kilometres of sidewalks, 133 major structures, 68 stormwater management ponds, 5,100 streetlights, etc.

She also pointed out Caledon has one of the largest volunteer fire services in Ontario. This year, as of September, the department performed 2,796 emergency responses, with an average response time of 8.17 minutes.

HomeJames in Caledon gets off to enthusiastic start

By Bill Rea

If last Thursday's launch was any indication, there's going to be a lot of enthusiastic support for this year's HomeJames program in Caledon.

A large crowd was out to start the program, which is aimed at delivering drivers and their cars home if they have possibly had too much to drink during holiday festivities.

"It's been a busy year," declared Home-

James Caledon Chairman Tayler Parnaby.

He reflected on a recent story in the news about a small town where officials were becoming alarmed at the number of seniors being brought into the hospital, largely because there was no other place for them to go. Local paramedics addressed the situation by visiting them, checking their blood pressure, etc. The number of hospital visits was cut in half.

"It demonstrates what happens when a community comes together to deal with a specific problem," he observed.

Parnaby also stressed there has not been a fatal on Caledon roads nights the program has been operating, and he called that an "extraordinary accomplishment."

A number of dignitaries were on hand to help launch this year's effort.

Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson was not in that group, being tied up with work in Ottawa. But Parnaby commented that "David is high in his praise of this organization," even making an address in the House of Commons recognizing the effort.

"I very much believe in what you are doing," Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones commented. "I trust that your winning streak will continue."

Jones also pointed out the streak can't continue without a lot of volunteer help. "It really does make a difference," she said.

Mayor Marolyn Morrison was also appreciative of the all the volunteer support.

She said she tells mayors of other municipalities of the uniqueness of Caledon, and the number of volunteers per-capita here. She praised the volunteer efforts for making the program work.

"It's not easy staying up that late when you get older," she observed. "You make such a difference in the community."

"It's not all about arresting bad guys," commented Inspector Dom Beckett, interim commander of Caledon OPP, as he commented on the number of impaired drivers who have been found this year in town.

"This program is fantastic," he said. "It gives people options."

"You have no idea how much work is required," Parnaby told the audience.

Stan Janes, president of the local HomeJames chapter, said he came up with the idea when he realized there was only limited public transit in Caledon, meaning people who might have had too much to drink were rather short on options.

"We needed to create an alternative," he said.

Janes added they have been able to draw support from various groups in town, including the local car dealerships, which help by furnishing shuttle vehicles, as well the local service clubs.

"They all grabbed the same bar," he said. "They all made it happen."

The volunteers on hand for last week's event were also issued new T-shirts with the HomeJames logo on it, and Janes urged everyone to spread the word about the program.

"You have a brand to show off to people," he declared. "You've got a logo to talk about."

Although the name of the program has been changed, this will be the fifth year the effort to get people and their cars home safe has been operating.

Diane Tolstoy, vice-president of operations for the program, observed that since 2009, the program has provided 1,254 rides, getting 2,753 people home safe. It's involved tens of thousands of volunteer hours, and driving some 37,000 kilometres.

"In all of that, we've had zero fatalities," she said. "That is our aim and goal — to keep it at zero."

Christmas Craft Show at CEPS

The 22nd annual Christmas Craft Show at Caledon East Public School is set to take place this coming Saturday (Nov. 16).

It will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the school.

Breakfast and lunch will be available, served by local Pathfinders. There will also be a wide selection of gift ideas, clothing, home decorations and more. As well, it will be the last day of the school's book fair in the library.

Santa Claus will be on hand between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to pose for pictures with his friends. They will be $10 each.

Members of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets (Crescent) Amber Coupland, Karolina Drozd, Carly Turrell, Joseph Whalen and Pete Drozd were at the front of the picture at the official launch last Thursday of the HomeJames program. Also on hand were HomeJames Caledon Chairman Tayler Parnaby; Inspector Dom Beckett, interim commander of Caledon OPP; Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones; Councillor Patti Foley; Mayor Marolyn Morrison; Diane Tolstoy, vice-president of operations for the program; and Stan Janes, president of the local HomeJames chapter.

Man charged with impaired driving

A northbound Ford pick-up on Innis Lake Road caught the attention of a Caledon OPP officer who was behind it Oct. 31.

The result was charges being laid against a 56-year-old man from Caledon.

Police report the incident happened shortly before 9:30 p.m. The officer was travelling behind the white pick-up when he saw the vehicle drift to the right of the lane and hit the gravel. In doing so, the officer observed as the driver over-corrected his action by crossing the entire northbound lane.

The truck was pulled over, and the officer immediately detected that the driver was under the influence of alcohol.

He was charged with impaired driving and driving with more than the legal limit of alcohol in his system. His licence was suspended on the spot and his vehicle was impounded for seven days.

St. Michael meeting tonight

Secondary schools to hold sessions for Grade 8 students and parents

The Dufferin-Peel Catholic District School Board will hold a series of public information sessions for Grade 8 students and their parents/guardians interested in enrolling in one of their secondary schools for the 2014-15 school year.

The meeting at St. Michael Catholic Secondary School in Bolton will be Nov.

14, starting at 6:45 p.m.

Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School in Caledon East will host its meeting Nov. 28, starting at 7 p.m.

"These information sessions are intended to provide parents and guardians with an overview of the programs and services offered at Dufferin-Peel secondary schools," commented the Board's Principal of Secondary Program and Student Success Joanna Boudreau. "These sessions also provide Grade 8 students with an opportunity to tour the school and talk to current students about the transition into high school."

Currently, Dufferin-Peel operates 26

secondary schools, which continue to be recognized among the top performing schools in the province each year.

For more information about the information sessions, parents/guardians should contact their local school directly. A listing of all Dufferin-Peel Catholic schools is available at www.dpcdsb.org

Public assured Town is always looking for better ways to manage money

The budget staff has proposed addresses a number of issues, Tollett said, including infrastructure to support the growth in Mayfield West, as well as other infrastructure shortfalls. She added it advances non-residential development that is not impacted by the work on the GTA West Corridor. Currently, about 82 per cent of the tax base in Caledon is residential, and there are ongoing efforts to increase the share covered by industrial and commercial development.

Tollett explained there are unavoidable pressures that are adding expenditures to the budget, including inflation, cost-of-living increases for staff, etc. These pressures are being offset by revenue increases, but the result is about $800,000 being added to the budget.

Staff has been able to find other deductions through things like service delivery efficiencies, new fees and increases, etc.

As well, she said each department was assigned a target to find savings, and that resulted in about $500,000 being found.

However, roughly $800,000 has been added to the budget to address urgent unmet needs.

Treasurer Fuwing Wong addressed the tax-funded portion of the capital budget, which was at $8.1 million for capital infrastructure investment in 2013. Staff is suggesting it be increased to $10.4 million in 2014.

He pointed out the Town has more than $500 million in assets, and as they age there will be greater pressures on the tax-funded capital funding for them. He added some of this money will be needed to finance growth-related projects, since they can't be paid for with development charges alone.

Wong said some capital projects have had to be moved into this year's budget, such as replacing the roof at Mayfield Recreation Complex, replacement of breathing apparatus used by the fire department, additional vehicles needed by the Town's fleet, and road reconstruction and rehabilitation. These projects have been offset to an extent by others that are being put off until another year.

Wong some of the capital program will be financed through assessment growth. They are also looking at a tax increase to reach the $10.4 million figure.

As well, the Town is planning to debenture some of the road work, with the idea being to spend the money now and going into debt, as opposed to waiting five years and paying a great deal more.

Both Wong and Morrison told the meeting the Town is always looking for ways to save money and do things better. One man suggested some of the services performed in-house could be outsourced. Wong agreed, pointing out that's the case with legal services.

"I think staff is always looking," Morrison added.

She also pointed out the Town used to out-source things like snow plowing and grass cutting. But the bids got to be so high, it was cheaper to do them in-house.

"It seems to go back and forth, depending on what decade you're in," she commented.

One man charged the constant tax increases aren't sustainable, adding if the Town were a private corporation, it would have gone bankrupt years ago.

Another man in the audience countered there were no tax increases in Caledon for a number of years, and a lot of necessary work to things like roads never got addressed.

BARONE RETIRES

Halloween came with a lot of well-wishing at Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School. Staff and students said goodbye to retiring secretary Cathy Barone, who departed after 21 years at Hall. Prior to that, she had spent nine years at Ascension of Our Lord Secondary School in Mississauga. She said she plans to spend her retirement time in travel and being with her two grandchildren.

Beware of Home Inspection Pitfalls Weeks Before You Put Your Home Up For Sale

DUFFERIN-PEEL - According to industry experts, there are over 33 physical problems that will come under scrutiny during a home inspection when your home is for sale. A new report has been prepared which identifies the eleven most common of these problems, and what you should know about them before you list your home for sale.

Whether you own an old home or a brand new one, there are a number of things that can fall short of requirements during a home inspection. If not identified and dealt with, any of these 11 items could cost you dearly in terms of repair. That's why it's critical that you read this report before you list your home. If you wait until the building inspector flags these issues for you, you will almost certainly experience costly delays in the close of your home sale or, worse, turn prospective buyers away altogether. In most cases, you make a reasonable pre-inspection yourself if you know what you're looking for, and knowing what you're looking for can help you prevent little problems from growing into costly and unmanageable ones.

To help homesellers deal with this issue before their homes are listed, a free report entitled "11 Things You Need to Know to Pass Your Home Inspection" has been compiled which explains the issues involved.

To order a FREE Special Report, visit www.HomeInspectionInfoB4USell.com or to hear a brief recorded message about how to order your FREE copy of this report call toll-free 1-866-500-3429 and enter 502. You can call any time, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Osler Foundation looking to fill sponsor roster for Benefit Concert

Award-winning performing artists Jann Arden and Burton Cummings are set to take the stage in Brampton this month at a concert to benefit William Osler Health System's (Osler) three hospitals.

The event is being organized by the Osler Foundation.

The legendary Canadian singers will perform in a double-bill gala event presented by Metrus Development Inc. Nov. 30 at The Rose Theatre in Brampton.

"It's an opportunity of a lifetime to be able to say you brought Jann Arden and Burton Cummings to town to sing for your hospital," said Gala Event Chair Francesco Policaro. "The concert will be one of this area's most exciting events of the year, and has the very important purpose of helping patients at Osler's Etobicoke General and Brampton Civic Hospitals, as well as the new Peel Memorial Centre for Integrated Health and Wellness."

The black-tie optional event will feature a gourmet selection of hors d'oeuvres and wine at an elegant reception prior to the show.

Corporate sponsors are already stepping forward to be part of the show, including Orlando Corporation, Maritime-Ontario and Northwest Lexus. Foundation offices at both hospitals are now reserving tickets for the event.

Learn more about sponsorship opportunities and how to book tickets by visiting www.oslerfoundation.org or by calling Osler Foundation at (905) 494-6556.

TAILOR-MADE HEALTH PROGRAMS

Proactive Health & Performance provides the gamut of services. By Mark Pavilons The human body is a complex machine. The staff at Bolton's Proactive Health & Performance Clinic have an arsenal of tools in their modern approach to helping patients. Dr. Sunny Jajwan is marking the clinic's first anniversary in helping to treat customers with everything from chiropractic care and sports injuries to medical acupuncture and nutritional counselling. The multi-disciplinary clinic provides a tailor-made, one-on-one program for every patient. Through various therapeutic options, Proactive Health offers customized rehabilitation plans with a functional approach. Jajwan is quick to point out they spend a lot of time with their patients, ensuring their needs are met, whether they require joint manipulation or muscle release therapy. Joining Dr. Jajwan is Dr. Michelle Verrilli and registered massage therapist James Gomez. You don't need a referral to Proactive Health and they will help in direct billing. To mark their first anniversary, they're offering a free initial consultation for first-time customers, through Dec. 5. Most of their patients are the typical "weekend warriors" – recreational athletes who sustain shoulder, knee or ankle injuries. Most require corrective exercise regimes, since many adults simply don't know how to exercise and move properly to avoid strain. Staff at Proactive Health can also assist with long-term ailments such as chronic pain, acute injuries and postural problems. They are very hands-on and become "health coaches," encouraging their patients to take a more active role in their own therapy and maintenance programs. Jajwan said they track everyone and follow up with their individual regimen. The clinic's long-term goals are to add a physiotherapist and kinesiologist to their roster. Jajwan admits he's picky when it comes to finding the right staff. Drop in for a consultation and see what Proactive Health is all about. Chamber concert series presenting two events this month

The Caledon Chamber Concert Series will be presenting two shows in November.

There will be a fundraising concert this coming Sunday (Nov. 17) that will feature the historic tracker organ at St. James' Anglican Church in Caledon East.

Nov. 23 will see a performance by the award-winning Cecilia String Quartet.

The Nov. 17 offering will see organist Quirino Di Giulio joined by violinist Arkady Yanivker. Giulio is organist at All Saints' Anglican Church, King City and Yanivker is a member of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

Built by the Lye Organ Company of Toronto around 1880, St. James' tracker organ is one of only two still in service in Ontario and remains a valuable possession.

A "tracker" is mechanically operated and pressing a key causes a system of wooden levers, leather straps, and steel rods to activate a device which injects air into one of the 425 pipes. The sound produced is unique to this instrument. Pitch, tone and timbre are determined by the length, shape and material (wood and various metal alloys) of the pipes. Before being installed in St. James' at the end of the Second World War, the organ was in use at St. Cyprian's Church in Toronto.

Although the organ is used every Sunday for church services, this is the first time in many years that it has been used in a concert setting.

Proceeds from the concert will be shared equally by Caledon Chamber Concerts and St. James' Church.

The concert is scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m. Admission is $15 for adults and $10 for students 16 years and under, and will be collected at the door.

The Cecilia String Quartet consists of four talented young women who will perform music by Haydn, Webern, Dvořák and Mendelssohn.

In 2010, the quartet took the First Prize in the Banff International String Quartet Competition. They now perform for leading presenters in Canada, the United States and Europe, and are also Ensemble-in-Residence at the University of Toronto's Faculty of Music. Their concert recordings have been broadcast on more than a dozen international public radio networks, including Australia, Canada (CBC/SRC) and Germany. In addition to performing, they have a four-CD contract with ANALEKTA. The first recording of music by Dvořák was released in March 2012. The second recording of music by Janáček, Berg, and Webern, was released in March 2013.

The quartet comprises Sarah Namatallah (violin), Min-Jeong Koh (violin), Caitlin Boyle (viola) and Rachel Desoer (cello). Koh plays on a c. 1767 Joannes Baptista Guadagnini violin and Namatallah plays on an 1851 Jean Baptiste Vuillaume violin, both on loan from an anonymous donor. Desoer performs on the 1929 Carlo Giuseppe Oddone on loan from the Canada Council for the Arts.

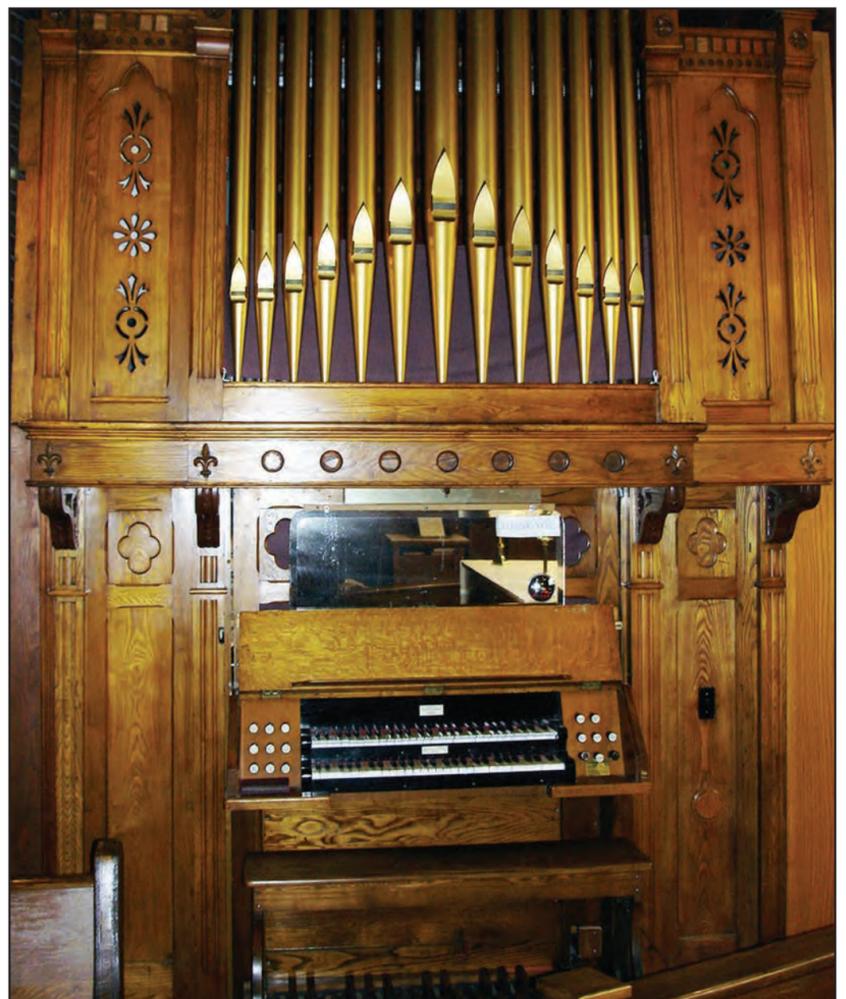

The concert will be at St. James' Anglican Church, starting at 8 p.m. Tickets are $30 for adults and $15 for students 16 years and younger and may be purchased in advance at Forster's Book Garden, Howard the Butcher and BookLore. A limited number of tickets may also be available at the door on the night of the concert.

Forgiveness will be discussed next week at Lifetree Cafe

The story of Louis Barrios, who publicly forgave his mother's murderer, will be explored at the next session of Lifetree Cafe this coming Wednesday (Nov. 20).

The session will run from 7 until 8 p.m. at St. James' Anglican Church in Caledon East.

Entitled Forgiving the Unforgivable, the presentation will include an exclusive filmed interview with Barrios. His mother, Viola Barrios, was killed in her home in San Antonio, Texas. She was a well-known restaurateur, often featured on nationally televised cooking shows. Her violent murder shocked the community. "But her son's response was even more surprising," said Lifetree's Craig Cable.

The Lifetree experience will also offer help for anyone dealing with forgiveness issues.

Admission is free, and snacks and beverages will be available.

The church is at 6025 Old Church Rd.

Lifetree Cafe is a place where people gather for conversation about life and faith in a casual coffeehouse-type setting. Questions about Lifetree may be directed to Mark Tiller at 905-584-8506 or jmark-tiller@gmail.com

Villanova College is bringing science to life

Outdoor Bike Lab integrates STEM into the Grade 8 Science and Math classes

By Wallace Pidgeon

Who knew science and math could be so much fun?

And be brought to life with practical experience outside the classroom? The Grade 8 science and math students at Villanova College's Middle School do.

Seventeen Grade 8 students left the classroom of the King City school recently, shared their bikes and participated in an outdoor bike lab. And this was no ordinary bike ride.

It was an in-the-field research and data collection exercise. This is this kind of practical and real life experience that at Villanova College is part of the learning culture.

Teachers Gianpiero De Rose and Qb Mascaremhas are Villanova's one-two punch, committed to bringing math and science to life by integrating the STEM pathway curriculum into various outside the classroom learning experiences.

STEM represents the disciplines of Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics, combined into one. With real life experience, it creates a "cool" factor that inspires the learning of these budding engineers, mathematicians and scientists.

"Engaging kids in active learning," explained Mascaremhas, Villanova's Upper School math and physics teacher. "The STEM program is based on that idea to try and get students to engage more in math and science using technology and practical applications."

Mascaremhas brings more than a decade's worth of practical engineering experience from industry.

"The basis of STEM is predominantly laying the foundation of how it will benefit the students whether they have aspirations to become engineers, scientists, astro-physicists or whatever it is," he added. "Making sure that they are engaged and that they don't lose out on science and the opportunity to do those sorts of things."

The practical application of math and science is not lost on De Rose, who teaches Grade 7 and 8 science and math.

"Escaping the text book and trying to make this real world," added De Rose, who is also the school's head football coach. "Again, we are starting here at Villanova College. This is a Grade 8 class, in the hopes that we can inspire the kids who are interested in math and science so they don't get lost in the shuffle, because then they have an opportunity for them to enter the STEM stream when we send them to the Upper School."

The outdoor bike lab is one of many practical labs that the students are exposed to. It seemed to be something very practical for 12 and 13 year olds to truly capture.

"We start the year off with our mechanisms unit; sort of the physics unit for our elementary curriculum. And we have just finished studying simple machines; wheels and axels, gears, incline planes," he explained. "So now, again, in trying to escape the text book, most kids have a bike, most kids have ridden a bike, they want to get the one that has 67 speeds on it, but they have no idea what they do or when they use them."

The students are learning about gear ratios (most don't know 21 speeds mean 21 gear ratios) and combining how the combinations with the front and rear sprocket are related.

"This takes our prior knowledge filtered through the text book, and now we will get a real-world application that will hopefully engage the kids and bring science outside the classroom, bring education outside the classroom, because I think the more we do as teachers and the more students do, the better learning experience and not so much opening up their heads and filling it with information," De Rose observed.

With the hope that none of the students think that math or science is "boring," the entire Villanova student experience is engaging and motivates students to learn.

Not surprising, the inspiration for an outdoor bike lab came to De Rose outside the classroom, on the annual field trip to Ottawa and Montreal two years ago. During a bike tour along the Rideau Canal, he realized that his students really didn't capture the whole premise around gear ratios and mechanical advantage.

His takeaway from then was to integrate the lesson of gear ratios into a fun and practical way to apply mechanical advantage for students to grasp in a real way.

The student teams ran six tests over three zones of data gathering across campus that will lead to the results.

Each student would ride a bike to capture their findings based on the following zones; first zone — Rough Uphill and Rough Downhill, the second zone — Straight Away Smooth and Straight Away Rough and the third zone — Smooth Uphill and Smooth Downhill.

Siena Thalassinos and Antonio Peluso partnered up to test the thinking. But as they both understood it's more than just about riding a bike. It is a math and science experiment.

"A bike lab in science class is to see the differences in gears, the difficulties in riding on different surfaces, seeing if it's easier or harder to do," Siena explained.

"It's basically mechanical advantage," Antonio added. "We are trying to find what gear has more of a mechanical advantage in different terrains."

The exercise is about finding out if there is a gear relationship to the level of difficulty.

"We want to see different ratios of gears and how they work and if it makes it easier or harder on a lower gear," continued Siena.

It may seem straight forward that it is harder to go up a hill and easier to go down a hill, but it has to be tested and verified.

"That's what we are thinking right now," said Antonio.

"That's what our hypothesis is, but the hypothesis is not always correct," added Siena.

And as they explained, that's why there is the bike lab to collect and test the data.

In class, De Rose has taught the students that mechanical advantage is designed most of the time to make things easier. If you lift something heavy, you employ a pulley or a lever and that machine is supposed to magnify your input force.

And outside the classroom, he hopes the bike lab will give them a greater understanding of mechanical advantage.

"The students will really notice this on the uphill and downhill test," he explained. "So what's the machine or gear doing for you when you go up the hill or down the hill?"

"If it's easier you would employ that going up the hill, if it's difficult you wouldn't use the gears," he added. "So you want to manipulate the machine to make it work for you. When you are riding your bike, those gears aren't there for show."

Once they were done the circuit, Siena and Antonio had collected enough data to begin assessing the hypothesis.

"We learned going uphill is harder than going downhill and rough is harder than smooth," explained Antonio.

This supports their initial hypothesis, however there was one interesting finding.

"We were surprised when I realized that rough is more difficult than it seems, especially when you are going far and uphill," explained Siena.

Antonio agreed. They both believed that the outdoor bike lab was going well and that they were on track to proving their hypothesis.

Next May, when the science and math class travels to Ottawa, they will truly see how the science and math are put into practice on their bike tour around the Rideau Canal.

Villanova College students Antonio Peluso and Siena Thalassinos have been participating in the outdoor bike lab.

Opposition remains, but Canadian Tire is coming

We can all admire tenacity, and people who are firm in their beliefs.

But there comes a point at which clutching to an idea becomes counter-productive.

We continue to get that feeling as we hear of the continuing opposition to the Canadian Tire facility being planned for the Bolton industrial area.

True, it's a very big facility, and as we observed when we last addressed this issue in this space in June, we suspect the sheer size of it has spooked a lot of people. It is, after all, slated to take up about 180 acres at the northwest corner of Coleraine Drive and Healey Road. And it is going to generate a lot of truck traffic. There have been various figures cited in terms of the number of trucks that will be entering and leaving the site every day. Suffice to say it will be a lot.

The main point is there was an extensive public process that led up to Town council approving the development. And that process dated back years before anyone heard that Canadian Tire was even interested in the site. It goes back to the time before the current Town council took office; to a time when a previous council decided these lands should be set aside for industrial and employment uses.

That has been in the works for years, and that is what Canadian Tire is proposing.

There are those who have problems with the process, or with the way things worked out. But there are also many people in the community who support the idea. They might not be making as much noise as the opposition, but we believe there is much to support here.

One of the big advantages involves the fact that Canadian Tire is a very large and prestigious Canadian company which seeks to make a massive investment in this community, putting a large development on lands that have been set aside for this use. Such a substantial investment, to our mind, means there is going to be considerable pride in ownership. That would indicate a promise of a well-run, attractive facility that would be a long-term asset to the community.

If not for this one large development, the lands would likely attract smaller operations. Many of them would be reputable, but would all of them? Would their trucks be as well maintained as Canadian Tire boasts of keeping its fleet? Would the truck traffic be reduced? Would there be any type of coordination with several companies operating from this site, as opposed to just one?

And let us not forget the financial benefits.

Last Wednesday (Nov. 6) saw the opportunity for members of the public to comment directly on the Town's proposed 2014 budget. The Town is currently looking at a tax increase of 4.98 per cent, and there are some in the community who don't like that. It's to sign with them. Who among us likes the thought of paying higher taxes?

One of the problems is the residential taxpayer has to pick up the bulk of the municipal tax bill in Caledon; on the order of 82 per cent. It would be nice to have more come from the industrial and commercial sectors, but that's not going to happen until there's more industrial and commercial assessment, and that means developing the lands that have been set aside for such development.

That's what the lands in question have been set aside for. There's a company willing to do the development. We would submit the problems people fear are going to exist no matter what kind of industrial or employment development goes in.

When you consider the alternatives, this proposal looks too good to pass up, doesn't it?

Cadets did themselves proud

Nov. 10 saw the Bolton Remembrance ceremonies. RCSCC 253 Crescent (Bolton Sea Cadet Corp) took part in both the march and the Honour Guard.

The weather was cold, windy, wet, uncomfortable. Caledon witnessed that day, in the Bolton Sea Cadet Corp, a true group of dedicated young women and men at their best.

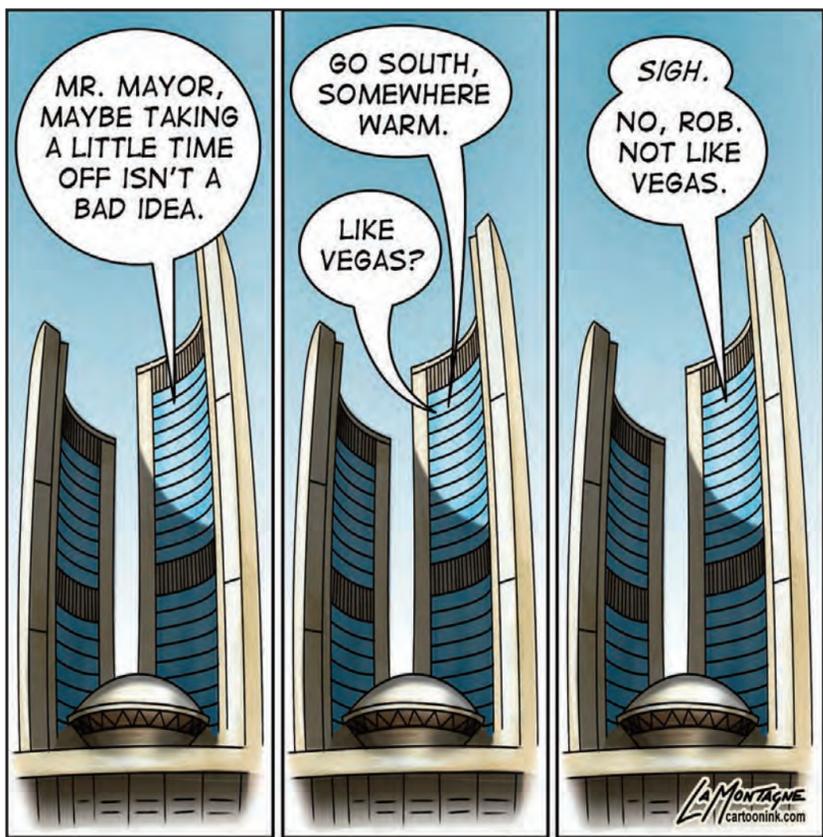

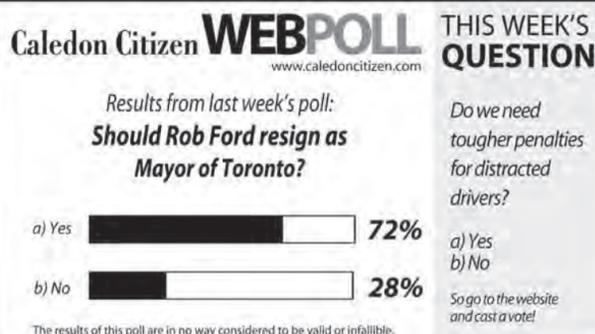

As the Cadets stood motionless during the ceremony, rain dripping off their faces, the bitter wind blowing directly at them, they moved not a muscle. As they stood side by side with the veterans, placing the wreaths. There could be no prouder moment.

During the march to the Cenotaph, the Bolton Sea Cadets marched with heads held high. It was an awesome sight to see. These young Cadets are very worthy of the title Men and Women in Uniform.

These women and men of Crescent proved that they can stand shoulder to shoulder, hold their head high and proud, with anyone.

The Town of Caledon and all parents of Crescent Cadets, should be very proud of their sons and daughters in uniform.

I can feel sorry for what Rob Ford's been going through

I'm one of those guys who gets upset when I see a person in a high position suddenly fall, even if they deserve it.

Thus I feel sorry for what Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is going through, although he's absolutely right when he says he has no one to blame for this mess but himself. I doubt very much that anyone else pushed him into smoking crack.

Still, I have to feel for someone who has experienced such reversal of fortune.

I recall back about 25 years to a very upsetting photo that appeared on the front page of many daily newspapers in the Western Hemisphere (including in this area), of a sobbing and handcuffed Jim Bakker being conducted into a car. Now I have very limited time, patience or use for evangelists, which is why I very seldom watch them on TV. And there was something about that guy that always bothered me. The only reason I ever watched him at all was he and his wife Tammy Faye were on late at night. These were the days when I was working nights waiting tables, and I seldom felt like going straight to bed when I got home. I'd channel hop if there was nothing appealing on Johnny Carson, and sometimes watch a couple of minutes of proselytizing. I could seldom stand more than a couple of minutes of that rubbish, but it was enough to make me appreciate that Bakker had done rather well for himself. I guess there could have been a bit of jealousy there too, but I'm inclined to doubt it.

But even if I had little use for the guy, I had to feel sorry for him when he eventually fell, imagining what it must be like to have been a high as he had once been, and then brought so low.

I had similar feelings for the likes of Conrad Black, Alan Eagleson, Derek Sanderson, and even Richard Nixon. I even have a bit of such sympathy for O.J. Simpson (please note the word "bit").

Now it is true that several of these guys managed, as the cliché goes, to land on their feet. That's possibly a function of luck, or ability or combinations of those, along with other attributes.

Sometimes it takes a massive fall from grace for some people to get the message that they need to straighten themselves out. Bakker is something of an example of that. I have read that he was in a prison cell before he read the Bible straight through for the first time, and that was when he realized he had taken some parts of it a long way out of context. I think it says something telling of the evangelist trade that Bakker was able to fly as high as he did without anyone straightening him out.

Jimmy Swaggart, however, was another matter. True, he made a tearful confession in front of the world not too long after Bakker's fall. But I have never been able to understand why very few people, at the time, remembered that he was one of the people active in the torpedoing of Bakker, calling him "a cancer on the body of Christ."

I might have sympathy for people in a spot like that, but I guess there is also a certain malicious satisfaction in watching big mouths like Swaggart having to eat their own words.

And I hope he chewed them well.

I believe the Rob Ford situation was predictable and inevitable. But I don't believe it's necessarily the end of him, either as a man or a politician. It is clear, and he has said so himself, that his act needs a lot of cleaning up.

It's not surprising that there have been calls for him to resign. You hear calls like that directed at any political leader when he or she steps into disfavour, whether they deserve it or no.

I get a couple of emails every week from an outfit calling itself Freedom Watch, occasionally calling for the resignation of American President Barack Obama (I hear from a couple of other groups pushing essentially the same message). I'm not sure why these jokers want him out. I seldom take the time to read this stuff because I can find better sources of drivel, but I'm sure partisan politics has a lot to do with it.

Such allegiance (often blind allegiance) to a point on the political spectrum is nothing new. And I do believe it's something that has been plaguing Ford since the day he got elected. There are plenty of people out there who can't stand seeing someone they don't like getting elected. I think they are called sore losers.

I don't think it's necessary for Ford to resign, understanding of course that he's got a very important job to do, while at the same time sorting out his personal issues. If he can deal with both matters at the same time, then more power to him. If it's necessary for him to take a leave of some sort while he takes care of other business, then I think there would be a lot for support for the guy.

It is, however, a shot only he can call.

The last week saw a certain amount of progress, combined with various revelations being gradually unveiled. I'm generally occupied with other things Sunday afternoons, so it was not often that I was able to listen to the radio show Ford used to do with his councillor brother Doug Ford. But I made a point of listening to last Sunday's offering, which turned out to be the last (the show has been cancelled). I believe the mayor started the process by apologizing, although I thought he took much too much time specifying what he was sorry about. My thoughts went back a couple of decades to the blubbery apology Swaggart came out with. He never got specific. If memory serves, it was the media who filled in the gaps. Swaggart's performance was drenched with tears, but dry when it came to specifics.

Although I was born and raised in Toronto, I haven't lived there in more than a quarter of a century, and I last worked there during the 20th century. I have never met Rob Ford, and I have seen him in public only once.

My brother still lives in Toronto. We were talking on the phone in the last week, and the topic of swapping mayors came up. He was a lot keener than I, but I think he still pines for David Miller. He is of that political persuasion. I sometimes wonder what excuses he makes up to explain me.

But the big metropolis to the south plays an important part in the lives of the people surrounding it, including up here. The kind of mayor people in the big city elect impacts on us, even if we don't get a vote. There is no mechanism for removing him from office, but City council has an obligation to keep an eye on things.

In this province, we are all going to be able to elect our municipal representatives about a year from now. If Rob Ford can clean up his act enough to win re-election, good for him. From what I've been hearing over the last week (and things have been changing day-to-day), a re-election campaign is on his agenda.

As it should be, the issue will be decided by the voters.

It was a special Remembrance Day service at the Town Cenotaph

I have been attending Remembrance Day ceremonies for at least 25 years, but for me the one Monday at the Town of Caledon Cenotaph in Caledon East will be one of the most memorable of them all.

You see, usually when we have our Remembrance Day Ceremonies at 11 a.m., the 11th day of the 11th month at the Town, we will have staff, our emergency services and a few residents attend. We do not need to block off many parking spots and it is a nice small ceremony.

Well folks, all of that changed Remembrance Day 2013. We had to block off more than half of the parking lot. It was a good thing that Provincial workers — court services — got the day off.

Our Fire Chief, the two Deputies and the Fire Honour Guard started that morning at an assembly at Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School. They were very impressed with how attentive the students were. At the end of the assembly, the Chief, Deputy Chiefs, Fire Honour Guard and the teachers and students marched down to the Cenotaph at the

Mayor's Report By Marolyn Morrison

Town Hall.

I was in my office, which faces Old Church Road, when I saw them all march past. It was a very impressive sight. I got my coat on and went out with our staff to the Cenotaph to start the Remembrance Day ceremonies. What a wonderful sight.

Before me was the Robert F. Hall student body, including the band, along with our Public Works employees in their safety vests, our Fire Department and Fire Honour Guard, the OPP, residents wearing their medals and a Second World War veteran proudly displaying his many medals received, along with a current serving member of the Canadian Armed Forces in Uniform. What a wonderful sight.

Unfortunately for me, it made me very emotional, since I have such a connection to the Canadian military with a grandfather, step-father, father-in-law and two sons and a daughter-in-law who have served or are presently serving. I believe that tears cleanse the soul — so my soul is cleansed!

I am so proud of everyone who attended, with a special mention to all of the students from Robert F. Hall who were very respectful and exceptional.

We are fortunate that we have many Remembrance Day services leading up to Remembrance Day. We were in Alton Sunday morning and half the village turned out to pay their respect with the Legion organizing the ceremony and fully participating, the air cadets, Fire Honour Guard and the Alton School children singing O Canada during the ceremony. We were in Bolton Sunday afternoon for their exceptional ceremony, with many, many residents turning up and a wonderful organizational job by the Bolton BIA. Bolton's ceremony included a bus load of serving members of the Canadian Armed Forces from Camp Borden, along with the Sea Cadets, Air Cadets, Guides, Scouts, Brownies, Cubs and various organizations. It was also a lovely ceremony.

This brings me back to the wonderful community that we are so fortunate to live in and be a part of. Thank you all who participated, you make our community special.

Federal government concentrating on seizing Canada's moment

Canadians gave our government a mandate two years ago; a mandate to support job creation, keep taxes low and help make our streets and communities safer.

With the support of our Economic Action Plan, Canada has created approximately one million net new jobs since the depths of the global economic recession, the best job-creation record in the G7. Yet, the job isn't done. Our natural wealth, sound finances and the ingenuity of Canadians are aligned to create Canada's moment. We must seize that moment and build on what Canada has accomplished.

This is why the Speech from the Throne, delivered by Governor General David Johnston, lays out our government's priorities for this session of Parliament. Our government will build on our record, supporting economic growth and jobs for Canadians. We will take new steps to support and protect Canadian families. We will always put Canada first.

To help promote jobs and opportunity, we will continue to implement our Economic Action Plan. We will spend responsibly and balance the budget in 2015. We will introduce legislation requiring balanced budgets during normal economic times.

We'll continue to reform the Temporary Foreign Worker program to ensure that Canadians always have the first chance at available jobs. We will conclude negotiations on a comprehensive trade agreement with the European Union with the potential to create 80,000 new Canadian jobs. We'll also continue to expand trade, opening new markets in Asia and the Americas.

Ottawa Journal

David Tilson
MP Dufferin-Caledon

We will continue to support and protect Canadian families. We will do this by putting consumers first and work to increase choice. We believe Canadian families should be able to choose the combination of television channels they wish to view. This is why we will require unbundling, so Canadian families can choose which channels they want to pay for, while also protecting Canadian jobs.

We'll take action to reduce roaming costs on networks within Canada, while also enhancing high-speed broadband networks for rural Canadians. We will also end "pay to pay" policies, so customers won't pay extra to receive paper bills; expand no-cost basic banking services; work with the provinces and territories to crack down on predatory payday lenders; empower consumers by requiring disclosure of the cost of different payment methods; and take further action to end geographic price discrimination against Canadians.

We will work to better protect Canadians families, putting victims first and introducing a comprehensive Victims Bill of Rights, to restore victims to their rightful place — at the heart of our justice system. We will also introduce legislation to combat cyberbullying, to help protect our children from a threat that can reach into their homes. Furthermore, we will change the law, to ensure that a life sentence means a sentence for life for the most dangerous offenders.

In addition, our government is committed to putting Canada first. We will protect both Canadians and Canadian sovereignty. This includes ensuring our military has the tools it needs. We will look to our country's 150th anniversary, a chance to celebrate our heritage and our values of democracy, respect for human rights, and the rule of law. We will also reach out to homeless veterans and help provide them the support they need and build on our successful Helmets to Hardhats program, to place veterans in good jobs. In this session of Parliament, Canadians can count on our government to build on our record and continue to deliver on our commitments. We will remain on course for long-term economic prosperity. We will put consumers first, expanding choice and reducing costs. We will always put Canada first, celebrating and defending our country.

They're not 'glorifying war'

For those with an itch to travel beyond the borders of our own great country, there are a ton of books detailing places and things to see and do before you die.

Fortunately, for me at least, my long journalism career allowed me to see many of these places first-hand. Not all of them, of course, but enough to say I've been lucky enough to visit every continent and numerous sites within those continents.

And while it's impossible to pick a single site as an all-time favorite, I can say without question that the most moving place I've been in Flanders Field in Belgium, the site of Canadian physician Lt. col. John McCrae's famous poem: "In Flanders fields the poppies blow
"Between the crosses, row on row..."

It was this poignant poem, written by McCrae the day after he witnessed the death of a close friend, another soldier, which ultimately sparked the widespread movement to adopt the red poppy as the symbol of Remembrance to those who made the ultimate sacrifice to protect the freedoms we all now enjoy.

The further away these distant events grow, the easier it is, one supposes, to forget what they really mean, to overlook the extraordinary sacrifices, not just those who lost their lives — although they will always have a special place — but to all those who fought and supported the fights.

In World War 1 alone, about 620,000 Canadians — a staggering number from a population of just 8 million — served overseas, and 66,655 of them died. Another 172,950 were wounded. In World War II, about 1.1 million Canadians served. Canada was the first Commonwealth country to send troops to Britain in 1939. Indeed, between 1939 and 1945, when the war ended, more than 40 per cent of the male population aged 18-45 signed up, nearly all of them volunteers. (In Ontario alone, 47.77 per cent of that population served, a remarkable show of loyalty and courage.)

Alas, 46,998 Canadians died in the second great war and 172,950 were wounded.

Add to those totals the 516 Canadian military personnel who died in Korea, 121 during various peacekeeping tours, and 157 in Afghanistan, and nearly 115,000 Canadians gave their lives in the pursuit of freedom.

The least we can do is remember them.

Which brings me to those ninnies who, year in and year out, are prepared to dishonor those heroes by claiming that the red poppies we wear on our lapels — and which, by the way, raise about $16 million a year to help out veterans — are somehow not symbols of peace and hope but, as they like to say, are "glorifying war."

Instead of the traditional red poppies, they've taken to hand out white poppies. Or, as one of their organizers — Celyn Dufay, a University of Ottawa student — told the Sun News Network recently, "Young people don't want to celebrate war. We want to work for peace."

The first thing he should do is read McCrae's poem, which is a call by the dead warriors themselves to end war, finishing with the lines:

"If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields."

Then he might want to find a veteran — any veteran — who fought in a war and ask him or her if war is "glorious." And he might want to give a little thought — assuming he's capable of it — to what kind of world he'd be living in if, let's say, all those young men (mostly men, but some women as well) in the prime of their lives hadn't decided to put their own lives on hold and head to Europe to face the evil incarnate that was Adolf Hitler and his Nazis.

He may wish to ponder — if he can get past his own addled, left-wing tripe — whether he would now enjoy the freedom to be able to make an ass of himself the way he and his fellow white poppy propagandists have?

He may wish to consider, on human terms, how disrespectful he and his colleagues are being to those who freely gave up a good chunk of their youth — not to mention those who died and suffered grievous injuries — to protect the life we still enjoy.

Instead of insulting the memories of those noble veterans, he may wish to offer — along with me and millions of other Canadians — a prayer of gratitude for what these people did for us.

May we never forget.

Public has not been well served in Canadian Tire process

This is the first time I have ever written to the newspaper.

I am a voice in Bolton, usually a quiet voice on the sidelines, but I feel this issue is so important my voice must be heard. I must leave my comfort zone and speak up for Bolton.

Like many people in Bolton, I selected the current mayor and representatives, but I feel I was misled. I voted for them on the pretense of moderate growth, which is what their platforms stood for. Little did I know, they only meant housing and population. A 1.5 million square foot trucking facility with 300 to 800 trucks per day is not moderate growth to me. It is the quickest way to fill a spot with no thought to alternate solutions or businesses.

The decisions were made by council long before the process was made public. E-mails were sent asking to expedite decisions because Canadian Tire threatened to move elsewhere if their time line was not met. This is the reason our mayor gives for requesting the Ministerial Zoning Order (MZO) that is rarely granted and was granted in this instance. This MZO would allow Canadian Tire to receive their building permit more quickly. The public meetings were merely procedure to our mayor and councillors. I did not speak out at the meeting, but I did attend a few of them and I saw first hand that the voices were not being listened to. At one meeting, council did not even speak or answer questions and had hired a moderator to represent them.

"What kind of political process is this?" I asked myself. It was more like a circus with the moderator as ring master and the councillors and mayor as mimes.

The final meeting was also a joke. The people of Bolton filled the seats in the chambers and required overflow seating outside in the hallway. Many people spoke and poured their hearts out and cited research and facts to unhearing ears and minds that were already made up. Councillors even had prepared 10-20 minute explanations to justify the vote they already knew they were going to make, but had not spent equal time debating the issue or seeking alternatives. I left the meeting like many, feeling that the political process is a farce, voices were unheard, not listened to, no one cared.

Is a large trucking facility in this part of Caledon the right decision? Have you looked at where this facility will be on the corner of Healey Road and Coleraine Drive? It is within walking distance of the Harvest Moon subdivision and a school. Have you looked at the current Canadian Tire depot on Steeles Avenue and Bramalea Road? It's an eye sore and it isn't within walking distance of a school or subdivision. Truck distribution centers this massive size mean air pollution, noise pollution, light pollution, busy roads, damage to roads and more truck and car collisions 24 hours a day. What is positive about this? Jobs? Remember, construction jobs go to the company who wins the bid for the job, which is not guaranteed to be a Bolton company. The current staff will maintain their jobs at the new facility and may even receive extended bus service from Brampton. Who's paying for this? If this is supposed to be a higher tech facility, some current staff may even lose their jobs. The only jobs available to those in Bolton would be through attrition or retirement.

Despite all that has happened, it is not too late. We can go to higher levels of government like our Provincial and federal representatives. We can demand Linda Jeffrey, Minister of Affairs and Municipal Housing, revoke the Ministerial Zoning Order. We can write letters, send emails, make phone calls and attend rallies.

Remember, "You must be the change you wish to see in the world" (Gandhi). If we join together and make sure our voices are heard, we can make a difference!

P. Capone,
Bolton

Bolton needs more residents here

Regarding Mayor Marolyn Morrison's column in the Oct. 31 Citizen:

Mayor Morrison must have been writing about Rob Mezzapelli and Patti Foley, when mentioning "one trick ponies."

Prior to the election of those one trick ponies, the residents of Bolton were promised that they will be completely open to the residents, will consult and inform us about everything and that they will make sure that everything in council will be transparent.

For Mayor Morrison, and those one trick ponies, Councillors Rob Mezzapelli and Patti Foley appearing in the local newspapers cutting ribbons at restaurant and business openings, which unfortunately will be closing their doors soon after opening due to the lack of people in the Bolton area, is grandstanding.

Bolton needs residents to keep businesses alive. We need at least 1,800 new residents between Coleraine Drive and Healey Road (where the Canadian Tire development is slated to go) to achieve those numbers. If 120 of the 180 acres is used for residential area, Bolton will have an additional of at least 600 homes with a population of minimum 1,800 new residents. The remaining 60 acres can be used for non polluting new industries which will give employment to 300 or more Bolton and Caledon residents, not bussed employees from Brampton or other areas, and there would be enough land for a park.

Instead of bringing 1,800 more residents to Bolton, diesel trucks are to be stuffed down our throats. The Canadian Tire facility will be high tech, meaning that a lot of the current 1,000 Brampton workers that would be bussed to the facility will be eliminated, due to use of robots, computers and automatic conveying for stacking, unloading, loading and other automatic requirements. Bolton residents who are promised work will get the left-over crumbs, like yard and warehouse cleaners and some janitors. Some people are hoping to get jobs as truck drivers. Why? Bolton companies are constantly looking for truck drivers. All over Bolton are signs offering jobs for truck drivers. If the people were hoping to get a truck driver's jobs from Canadian Tire, thinking that Canadian Tire will be paying them more, forget it!

Bolton will be devastated with the Canadian Tire warehouse, from residents getting cancer from the diesel exhaust. Just remember the recent death of fire fighter in the neighborhood who has died from lung cancer caused by diesel exhaust.

Both Rob Mezzapelli and Patti Foley are the main cause of the devastation in Bolton. They are the ones who tipped the scales in the vote to have Canadian Tire warehouse with diesel trucks blanketing the residents with an additional diesel exhaust. Mezzapelli told us that in 1996, Caledon council proposed the land to be approved for industry. The residents should have asked "what type of industry?"

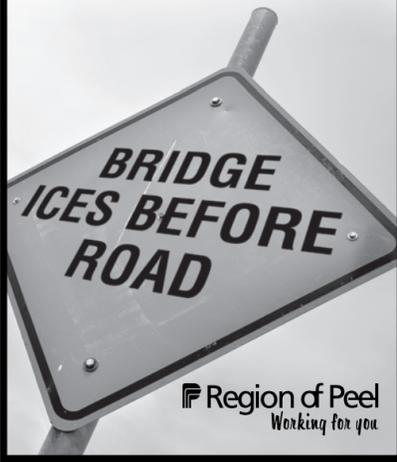

Nobody in their right mind would have thought that there will be a giant Canadian Tire warehouse for diesel trucks in the village of Bolton.

In closing, I would like to ask, who, in a confidential letter, requested the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing to expedite an MZO because the residents agreed with the proposal?

Environmental Assessment Study

NOTICE OF PUBLIC INFORMATION CENTRE #2

MISSISSAUGA ROAD, OLD MAIN STREET, BUSH STREET, WINSTON CHURCHILL BOULEVARD AND OLDE BASE LINE ROAD

The Project

The Region of Peel is undertaking a Schedule 'C' Municipal Class Environmental Assessment (EA) to develop a road design that addresses safety and pavement condition deficiencies on Mississauga Road, Old Main Street, Bush Street, Winston Churchill Boulevard and Olde Base Line Road. The approximate limits of the project area are illustrated on the map.

The EA will review and recommend solutions to address:

- road safety deficiencies
- sight lines that do not meet standards
- pavement condition deficiencies
- road drainage problems
- parking
- pedestrian and cycling needs

This EA will not be considering road widening or increasing the number of lanes and will provide a solution that meets the needs of all road users and maintains the rural character of the community.

The Process

The Class EA process includes:

- public and agency consultation
- an evaluation of road improvement alternatives
- an assessment of the possible environmental effects of the improvements
- the identification of reasonable means to mitigate any adverse impacts

Public Information Centre

Two Public Information Centres (PICs) have been planned for this study. The first PIC (May 9, 2013) sought feedback on the Draft Problem Statement, Preliminary Alternative Solutions and Preliminary Evaluation Criteria. The second PIC will consist of an Open House, where you can speak with different team members about your specific concerns. The PIC will provide an overview of what we have heard and the technical work completed to date. Please join us at this PIC to share your opinions on:

- Alternative design concepts developed by the study team
- Evaluation of alternative design concepts
- Preliminary recommended design concept

The Project Team members will be present to answer questions and discuss the next steps of the study. The second PIC is scheduled for:

Date: Wednesday, Nov. 20, 2013
Time: Open House 4:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m.
Location: Caledon Country Club, 2121 Olde Base Line Road, Caledon

Region receives Distinguished Budget Presentation Award

Peel Regional representatives recently accepted the Distinguished Budget Presentation Award for its 2013 budget from the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada (GFOA).

"We are pleased to have been recognized by the GFOA for this award for meeting the highest principles of governmental budgeting," said Regional Chair and CEO Emil Kolb. "The Region is committed to producing a budget which is fiscally responsible and which demonstrates accountability and transparency in budget reporting."

To receive the award, budget documents had to satisfy nationally recognized guidelines for effective budget presentation and how well an organization's budget serves as a policy document, a financial plan, an operations guide, and a communications device. Submissions are reviewed by a GFOA review committee of professionals with expertise in financial reporting.

"Comprehensive financial reporting, which discloses how local programs and services are funded, is the cornerstone of good government," said Caledon Councillor Richard Whitehead, chair of the audit committee of Regional council. "This award is a testament to a Regional budget process that was fiscally responsible and more accessible to our residents."

The Government Finance Officers Association is a non-profit professional association serving more than 17,800 government finance professionals throughout North America. The GFOA's Distinguished Budget Presentation Awards Program is the only national awards program in governmental budgeting.

Region of Peel Water and Wastewater Master Plan Update
for the Lake-Based Systems

The Study
The Region of Peel is conducting a Water and Wastewater Master Plan for its lake-based systems (where Lake Ontario is the source of drinking water and the discharge point for treated wastewater) to update the current 2007 Master Plan.

The objective of the study is to identify long-term servicing plans for the Region's lake-based water and wastewater systems to support growth to 2031 and to consider longer-term servicing needs for growth beyond 2031, as identified by Amendment 2 (2013) of the Growth Plan for the Greater Golden Horseshoe, 2006.

The study area for the Water and Wastewater Master Plan includes the City of Mississauga, the City of Brampton and parts of the Town of Caledon.

The study will also review the Region's capital plan to meet the current servicing agreements with York Region and the City of Toronto.

The Process
The study will define existing problems and opportunities, consider and evaluate solutions and identify preferred water and wastewater servicing strategies. The study follows the Master Planning Process of the Municipal Engineer's Association. The Master Plan will follow Approach #2 which will fulfill the requirements for Schedule A, A+, and select Schedule B projects and become the basis for future investigations for specific Schedule C projects.

Public Consultation
Consultation with interested stakeholders including the public, special interest groups and regulatory agencies is considered a key component of this Master Plan Study. The study work plan provides for two rounds of Public Information Centres (PICs). The first round of PICs was held on February 14 and February 23, 2012, where water and wastewater servicing concepts under evaluation were presented.

Since the first round of the PICs, the Region has completed a review of potential impacts on the natural, social and economic environments associated with each of the water and wastewater servicing concepts and alternatives that the Master Plan Study has identified. The review has resulted in the selection of preliminary preferred water and wastewater servicing alternatives.

The preliminary preferred water and wastewater servicing strategy has identified three (3) Schedule B projects whose requirements will be satisfied under this Master Plan. These projects are described as follows:

Wastewater Projects

675-mm to 900-mm diameter Northwest Brampton Sanitary Trunk Sewer (Heritage Road from Wanless Drive to Bovaird Drive)
1500-mm diameter twinning of the Lakeshore/Southdown Road Sanitary Trunk Sewer (Clarkson Road to the Clarkson WWTP)
900-mm diameter forcemain from the McVean Pumping Station along Queen Street East to Goreway Drive

There will be three separate sessions held for the second round of PICs, scheduled as follows:

Public Information Centre Locations:

Municipality	Date	Time	Location
City of Mississauga	Monday, November 25, 2013	4:00 - 7:00 p.m.	Burnhamthorpe Library 3650 Dixie Road Mississauga

Carbon Monoxide

THREE THINGS YOU SHOULD REMEMBER

1. Carbon Monoxide (often referred to as CO)

It is produced by common household appliances that burn fuel such as natural gas, oil, propane, kerosene, wood, or charcoal.

These appliances include:

- Furnaces
- Fuel-burning space heaters
- Barbecue grills
- Cooking ranges
- Natural gas water heaters
- Fireplaces
- Portable generators
- Wood-burning stoves

2. Working Together

You and fuel safety experts are critical to reducing CO safety risks in your home.

If appliances are not kept in good working order or if they're used in closed or confined spaces, then carbon monoxide can build up to dangerous levels.

3. Beat The Silent Killer

- Have a certified fuel technician inspect and maintain your gas or oil furnace equipment annually.
- Visit COSafety.ca to find a registered fuel contractor near you.
- Check that outside furnace vents are not blocked.
- Install a CO alarm (on every floor level).
- Never use a fuel-burning appliance or device in an enclosed space.

Wolfpack in the finals after blanking Woodlands

Face Cardinal Ambrozic in championship final

Written By BRIAN LOCKHART

The Robert F. Hall Wolfpack football team have made it to the Region of Peel Secondary School Athletic Association championship after winning their semi-final game 23-0 over the Woodlands Secondary School Rams last Thursday on the gridiron at Hall home field.

It was the eighth consecutive win for the Wolfpack who are undefeated for the season and have been a dominant force this year.

Leading 3-0 after a field goal from kicker Gabriel Siemieniec, the Wolfpack blew the game wide open in the second half, beginning with a touchdown when the squad made it to the goal line on a number of passes to set up a short yardage situation.

Linebacker Dalton Lisso crashed through the middle to score early in the third quarter.

Going to the throwing game, Wolfpack quarterback Jake Smith made the pass to tight end Connor Reiners in the end zone and the RFH squad were leading 16-0.

A final Hall touchdown came in the fourth quarter from Jake Fetterly.

"We were a little sloppy in the first couple of plays," Smith said. "We've always been a second half team, so that's when we put out points up. In the first half, we down a little bit with mental mistakes, when started moving the ball we started putting the points up."

The championship game was scheduled for yesterday (Wednesday) at Centennial Stadium in Etobicoke. The results were not known at press time.

With less than a week to get ready for the championship game, Smith said the squad would be practising every day to prepare for what was expected to be a tough final outing on the gridiron.

"We stuck to our game plan," said Wolfpack head coach Jason Sweeney of the team's objective during the semi-final.

The champion game will pit the Wolfpack again the Cardinal Ambrozic Riverhawks, who secured their trip to the final with a 24-10 win over the number one team, from South Loyal.

Robert F. Hall receiver Connor Reiners catches a pass in the end zone during last Thursday's semifinal game against the Woodlands Rams to bring the score to 16-0 for the Wolfpack. The RFH team won the game 23-0 to advance to the finals.

Peewee AE Hawks score a tie against Halton Hills

The first time they saw the newly amalgamated Halton Hills team, the result was a 1-0 win for the Caledon peewee AE Hawks.

In their second match up recently with Halton Hills Thunder, the Hawks finished the game with a 4-4 tie.

Adam Allen scored early in the first, giving the team the starting point. Halton would tie up the game before the end of the period. Two more goals in the second period by Gabriel Cascallar and Justin Eccleston gave Caledon a push, and they continued to try to hold the Thunder off, but a goal at the end of the period brought Halton within sight. Early in the third, Halton tied it up again, but then a goal by Tyler Skubic put the Hawks back in the lead. Doing their best to hold off any further goals, toward the end of third period, Halton pulled their goalie, giving them the man-advantage. With only eight seconds left in the game, they tied it up.

The rest of the team consists of Braedan Martel, Taylor Murphy, Alec Degiusti, Jaden Amaral, Nicholas Gullusci, Tucker Hardy, Antonio Aquino, Adam Busch, Brian Eichinger, Nicolas Baliseh and goalies Anthony Gonsalves and Danny O'Donnell. Darcy McClure was set to make his long-awaited comeback.

The team would like to give huge thanks to Connor McLachlin for filling Darcy's skates while he was off, giving a great effort and playing with all his heart.

Thanks also goes to the team's sponsors, SGT Electrical Ltd., Aquicon Construction Co., Black Bull Pub and Eatery, Blue Print Hockey School, Bolton GM, Crabby Joe's Bolton, Diesel Express Inc. Golden Hawks maintain fourth place with win over Huntsville

By Brian Lockhart

Considering the number of penalties in the game between the Caledon Golden Hawks and Huntsville Otters in Caledon East arena Sunday, it's a wonder any one could score at all.

The game sheet listed 68 minutes on 26 infractions for the Golden Hawks and 53 minutes on 23 infractions assessed against Huntsville.

But that's hockey and the game did go on, with Caledon winning 8-2.

At the end of the first period, the Hawks were leading 3-0 on goals from Steven Klomp, a short-handed effort from Christian Bonaldi and a powerplay goal from Kyle Lee.

The Otters lit up the board on their side with a single in the second period, but the Hawks turned it up a notch for the rest of the frame, scoring four more before the buzzer sounded.

Caledon goals came from Steve Zepieri, Chris Smith, and a pair from Daniel Cafagna.

Returning for the final 20 minutes, each team scored a single to end the game at 8-2 for the Hawks.

Cody Forgione notched the final Caledon goal at 1:17 into the third period.

While the score shows the Hawks were on top of the game, the stats back it up. The Hawks took 45 shots on goal while Caledon goalie Chris Velluci faced only 22 in the game, for a 2-1 ratio for the Hawks.

That win was the only game the Hawks played over the weekend. That came after a rather rough time the week before, when they dropped two decisions.

A quarter of a second, if that, could have made all the difference in last Sunday night's game against the Stayner Siskins.

The game was tied at three — a pass went across the net and a Caledon player took the shot that went into the net, but the buzzer sounded to end the game as the puck was in the air and the ref waved off the goal.

It was the right call for sure, but the split second between the time the puck was launched and the clock ran out cost the Caledon squad the game when the teams had to return for an overtime period.

With no scoring in overtime, the teams had to settle the game with a shoot-out.

The Siskins won the shoot-out 2-1 to leave with the win.

The Hawks tied the game in the third period after trailing 3-2 to start the frame.

"I think overall, they (Stayner) shouldn't even have two of those goals because of turn-overs," said Hawk forward Klomp. "Right here on our blue line, the defence giving it right to their guy coming in. That was our mistake for sure."

The squad battled hard in the third, but those two goals had done the damage.

"I think we came out stronger in the first period for sure, but sort of went down as the game went on," Klomp said. "If we played out systems properly and made simple plays we could have come out with a 'W.'"

The squad has been playing a disciplined game lately and spent little time in the penalty box Sunday.

"We made a new rule up — you can't talk back to the ref or anything like that or you have to sit the rest of the game."

The loss to Stayner came two days after another loss when the Hawks were shut-out 4-0 by the Alliston Hornets on Hornets' home ice.

In that outing, the Caledon squad appeared flat for the entire game.

"We couldn't break out of our zone," Klomp said. "We weren't playing our systems properly — it was just one of those games; just one of those bad games."

After 18 games, the Hawks are in fourth place in the Georgian Mid Ontario Hockey League with 25 points and an 11-7 record including one overtime loss and two losses that by way of a shut-out.

The Penetang Kings are hanging on to first place with a 15-3 record and 33 points.

The Alliston Hornets are in second place with a 14-3 record, followed by the Schomberg Cougars with 29 points and 13 wins after 19 games into the season.

The Golden Hawks will meet Huntsville again this week when they travel north tomorrow (Friday) night.

They return to home ice Sunday (Nov. 17) to host the Erin Shamrocks.

The puck drop is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Caledon Golden Hawks forward Christian Bonaldi and Stayner's Derick Robertson chase the puck during the third period of Sunday's Junior C game at Caledon East arena. The Hawks had to settle for a 4-3 loss after the game went to a shoot-out to settle the score.

Personal Best Swim Club great way to learn and improve

Growing up in the Caledon area, Sean Bechtel could be found in a local pool five or six times a year.

Growing up with the traditional swim club experience, Bechtel became a top university swimmer and grew into one of Canada's greatest triathletes.

Bechtel has represented Canada all over the world and become one of the youngest Canadians to ever go to the Pan American Games. This year, Bechtel was the top Canadian at Ironman Mt. Tremblant, and won the National XTERRA Championships as well.

He has lived all over the world, racing and training. But Bechtel is now married, and his wife is expecting a child in January. He is back living in Caledon East and coaching full-time in the area.

Local residents of all ages (youth to adults, to triathletes of all ages) can join Bechtel's local swim program.

The Personal Best Swim Club is looking forward to another great year of swimming. What makes the club unique is that it welcomes swimmers of all ages and abilities to participate. Whether they are beginners learning the strokes or seasoned veterans looking to improve their times, the PB swim club will be able to accommodate.

Joining Bechtel on the coaching squad is former varsity and national level swimmer Angela Nardella. After years of competitive swimming and being a member of many national university championship teams at the University of Toronto, she took up triathlons a few years ago and is consistently one of the first girls out of the water, even against the professional woman. Over the last few years Bechtel and Nardella have helped beginners who just wanted to swim one length without getting tired to world champions achieve their swimming goals.

"One of the benefits of Sean's program is the fact that children, adult and families can get world-coaching and fitness benefits, yet not need to make a massive commitment to swim meets, travel and great expense," Nardella observed.

To help open the club to new members Personal Best is inviting anyone interested in swimming to come to one free workout at any of the swim times. It will be a great way to get introduced to the team and the other members and, hopefully, ease the nerves of swimming with the group.

PB swims are Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 6:15 to 7:30 a.m. (great before work and school) and Sunday afternoons from 4 to 5 p.m. All swims are at Mayfield Recreation Centre at the corner of Mayfield and Bramalea Roads. Bechtel and Nardella are also available for small group and private individual or family swim lessons.

For more information on the team, contact Bechtel directly at sean@personalbest.ca

Stars take first steps in pursuing greatness this season

The Dorado Stars Swim Club was recently out in full force for their first meet of the season in Markham.

There were 53 competitive swimmers who brought their energy and enthusiasm to the first racing opportunity of the season. Just six weeks into training, the swimmers achieved an amazing 178 personal best times out of a possible 291 events. Several racers gained qualifying times for Central Regional competition.

In the 13 and under group, congratulations go to Joshua Maas, Alexandra Marculescu, Jordan McAuley, Taylor McAuley, Martin Naipaul, Tavinder Pourawal, Tia Riarh, Ashley Riddall and Angelique Singh. In the 13 and over class, congratulations are owing to Samantha Hillson, Chloe Noguera, Aran Pourawal and Kiara Sew. Tess Routcliffe achieved five CAN-AM standards.

The club was pleased to enjoy a smooth transition of head coaches over the summer as Pierre Etienne-Lambert headed back to university. The Stars new coaches demonstrated their experience and competence as the swimmers jumped right into well-organized, successful training under new head coach

Courtney Desjardins and assistant coach Laura McPhie. Desjardins was pleased with the number of big heat wins, top-eight placings and club-wide best times from the youngest to the eldest of Stars. She commented that the coach's current goal is "to continually develop and establish key fundamentals and to commit to greatness at all levels and abilities of swimming. This meet was our first step in pursuing greatness this season."

Tilson announces investment in fisheries conservation in Caledon

Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson has announced that through the newly established Recreational Fisheries Conservation Partnerships Program, the federal government is partnering with the Halton-Peel Woodlands and Wildlife Stewardship to conserve fish habitat in Caledon Creek.

"Recreational fishing is a popular leisure activity in Caledon that not only brings family and friends together, but also contributes to our economy by attracting tourists and creating jobs," Tilson said. "Through partnering with our local groups who work on the ground to conserve fish habitat, the government of Canada helps promote investments in recreational fisheries habitat restoration in our province, for the benefit of our communities in years to come."

"The funding of $5,000 provided today through the Recreational Fisheries Conservation Partnerships Program will help the carry out and deliver the Caledon Creek Brook Trout Restoration," added Derek Konieczny from the Halton-Peel Woodlands and Wildlife Stewardship. "The restoration work on Caledon Creek is being supported by a number of groups and agencies including the Halton-Peel Woodlands and Wildlife Stewardship, Ontario Streams, Credit Valley Conservation and the Town of Caledon."

The project was submitted during the first round of applications for Fisheries and Oceans Canada's Recreational Fisheries Conservation Partnerships Program, which closed July 12. In this first round, 18 projects were approved in Ontario to restore, rebuild, and rehabilitate recreational fisheries habitat. The government

Bruce Trail Conservancy top Canadian environmental charity

The Bruce Trail Conservancy (BTC) ranks among the leading Canadian conservation groups.

This is according to a comprehensive new study that examines the Canadian environmental charitable landscape and provides detailed comparisons of charities large and small. The study also sheds light on why these environmental charities are of critical importance.

"Canada as a whole lags behind other countries in key areas," the report stated. "Only 12 per cent of Canada's land surface is protected, ranking 16th out of 30 OECD countries. In comparison, the United States protects 24 per cent of its land."

The report reviewed the work of 32 charities across Canada, and named seven "Top Pick" organizations: BTC, Canadian Parks and Wilderness Society, Ecotrust Canada, Nature Canada, Nature Conservancy of Canada, Wildlife Conservation will provide as much as $1.4 million to support these projects.

The Recreational Fisheries Conservation Partnerships Program will make as much as $10 million available over the next two years to support recreational fisheries habitat conservation activities. The funding for projects submitted in the first round of applications provides up to Society Canada and Wildlife Preservation Canada.

The report was intended to serve as a compass for donors.

"Canadians are inundated by charities asking for money," said Charity Intelligence Managing Director Kate Bahen. "It's time consuming and often difficult to look beyond the heart-tugging photos and stories, to get the facts about what charities actually do. CI's environmental report provides an independent analysis on the state of Canada's most pressing environmental issues and identifies the charities that are working most effectively to make a difference. It challenges Canadians to look beyond the surface, get the facts about what charities do, how they spend donor money, and the results they achieve."

BTC has been in existence for more than 50 years. Its mission is to create a conservation corridor along the Niagara Escarpment, a UNESCO World Biosphere Reserve.

$6.5 million for 104 projects to restore, rebuild and rehabilitate recreational fisheries habitat across the country.

"We strongly endorse the findings of Charity Intelligence's report and are pleased to be included alongside top national charities," BTC Executive Director Beth Gilhespy said. "At the BTC, we are committed to preserving and conserving the Niagara Escarpment for this generation and the ones that follow. Our organization is lean and our accomplishments are a result of the continued commitment of our 1,300 volunteers, 8,800 members and thousands of donors. We are a success because each year our donors and supporters enable us to secure more land and collectively move our conservation mission forward."
