Parking area planned for Cheltenham Badlands

By Bill Rea

People visiting the Cheltenham Badlands normally find parking can be something of a challenge.

That's about to change, as Peel Regional council last week approved the construction of a parking area just east of the site.

The Badlands are a deposit of Queenston Shale on the south side of Olde Base Line Road, between Chinguacousy and Creditview Roads. The soil and vegetation have been worn away at the site by erosion, and the result is a formation of red rock with deep gullies running through it.

There is also an idea to set up a viewing area for the site.

The staff report to Regional council last Thursday stated the site is owned by the Ontario Heritage Trust (OHT) and is managed by Bruce Trail Conservancy (BTC). The Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) has designated it an area of natural and scientific interest (ANSI). Staff also pointed out it's become a popular tourist attraction.

Concerns have been expressed over the safety of people visiting the site. There is currently no designated parking area, meaning cars have to be parked at the side of the road where there are numerous steep hills. Sightlines in the area are a worry too.

The concerns were

Conservation (CVC), Caledon Hills Bruce Trail Club, Caledon Countryside Alliance, the Town and the Caledon Environmental Advisory Committee.

The Region brought in a consulting firm to look into the concerns, and while there was no history of any significant traffic accidents around the site, there was the potential.

Staff said 10 possible solutions were looked at as part of the study, with the off-street parking lot being viewed as the preferred alternative.

OHT owns the land being eyed for the lot, and staff stated the Region would be allowed to build it there at no cost to the municipality. The plan is for BTC to be responsible for its maintenance.

The parking lot will consist of 33 parking spots, as well as room for two school buses. Staff added there was consideration given to making sure the design blends in with the natural surroundings and minimizing the impacts on the local environment.

The current plan is for construction to start in the spring of 2015, with the lot opening that fall.

Staff reported the cost of the project was originally projected at $1.5 million. But based on the design work that has been done so far, the estimate has been reduced to $1 million. They added they are seeking other funding partners through the federal and Provincial governments.

Sally Rook, project manager with the Region, told councillors there could be liability issues if the situation is not addressed.

Kendrick Doll, natural heritage coordinator of OHT, told councillors MNR put up the Senate reform is off the table

By Bill Rea

Last week's Supreme Court ruling on Senate reform has prompted the government to take the matter off the table.

The high court ruled that substantial support from the provinces will be needed to bring in reforms, such as elections to the upper chamber or term limits, and there would have to be unanimous consent to do away with the Senate all together.

"Any Senate reform of any kind, and that includes abolition, is a decision that only the provinces can take," Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson commented in reaction to the announcement from the court. "The provinces don't even want to talk about it."

Tilson added the court ruling essentially calls for the status quo.

"We're stuck with it for the time being," he remarked.

Tilson observed that the government will respect the court ruling, although he didn't think it was in accord with the wishes of most Canadians.

"I believe almost all Canadians want some kind of reform," he commented, but added there doesn't seem to be any consensus among the provinces for either abolition or reform.

Piggy bank robbed

Cash from a child's piggy bank, as well as two tablets, were reported stolen April 22 after a house on Plummer Road in Bolton was broken into.

Caledon OPP reports they were called out shortly after 1:40 p.m. and it was determined the incident took place about two hours prior to that. The preliminary investigation revealed the suspect(s) got in the house by forcing their way in through the back door and then disconnecting the alarm system.

Police are asking anyone with information about this to contact them at 905-584-2241 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

Regional councillors envious of tourist attraction, but not traffic

Kendrick Doll, natural heritage coordinator of OHT, told councillors MNR put up the money in 2000 to buy the property as part of the Bruce Trail. He also pointed out the site is within the Niagara Escarpment Plan.

Work has been going on for about five years on a management strategy for the site, with traffic and safety being a priority.

But there has also been a priority set on dealing with visitors actually walking the site, as they are thought to be adding to the erosion. "You take some of the site with you," he said, referring to what happens when people leave.

He said a viewing platform would perform the same function as a boardwalk at a wetland, allowing people to see the site without actually walking into it, providing a "safe, educational and worth-while experience."

BTC Executive Director Beth Gilhespy told councillors the trail has been crossing the site since the late 1960s, adding it's maintained by volunteers from the Caledon Hills club.

She said they area aware of the degradation of the site.

"It's a challenging site for a trail because of the clay," she observed.

A viewing platform will add value to the experience of the site, as many people just want to see it and not hike it.

But Councillor Allan Thompson, who has the Badlands in his ward, that the platform is one of the items on the OHT wishlist, and is only conceptual at this point.

"I think we all agree it's a wonderful feature," commented Mississauga Councillor Pat Saito, who was chairing the meeting in the absence of Chair Emil Kolb. "I'm glad the traffic's in Caledon."

"It's a great spot," Councillor Patti Foley remarked, but she agreed there are "thrill hills" for traffic going along Olde Base Line. Cars taking the hills might have very little time to see pedestrians. "The safety factor is a big concern."

Councillor Richard Paterak was appreciative for all the work that had gone into this.

"It's very complex when you have so many agencies," he observed.

"It's been a long journey to get here," Thompson remarked.

As a farmer, Thompson was a little apologetic, pointing out it was bad farming practices that started the erosion in the first place.

He also expressed the hope there will be signs on the road, advising motorists when the parking comes available, since the site's popularity is growing as a tourist attraction.

"It's now got to be a hive of people," he said. "We're worried somebody's going to be hurt."

Thompson added there's still more to be done at the site.

"To me, this is a very good start," he commented.

Parking around the Cheltenham Badlands has been a major concern for some time.

Open House at Mono Mills will start Emergency Preparedness Week

Emergency Preparedness Week, which runs from May 4 to 10, is aimed at encouraging residents to be prepared to cope on their own for at least the first 72 hours of an emergency while rescue workers help those in urgent need.

The Town of Caledon is reminding residents that the recent ice storm that hit the area just before Christmas turned people's attention to the importance of being personally prepared, as many residents experienced prolonged power outages.

"Experience has shown that individual preparedness goes a long way to help people cope better, both during and after a major disaster. Get an emergency preparedness kit now. It can make a world of difference," said Fire Chief Dave Forfar. "During Emergency Preparedness Week, I encourage you to take concrete actions to be better prepared. Please do your part."

Localized emergencies, such as a blackout, a flood or a severe storm, can happen anytime throughout the year in Caledon. Being prepared also means knowing the risks specific to a community to help better prepare; practising a plan where the family would reunite if an emergency strikes; and preparing a home and vehicle kit to help cope for a period of time.

Caledon Fire and Emergency Services invites the community to join them to learn more about emergency preparedness. Visit www.getprepared.ca for more information on how everyone can make homes and communities safer places to live. Resources are also available at the local libraries and online at www.caledon.ca/fire

To help people get started in putting together a personal preparedness kit, selected items will be specially priced at the local Home Depot and Canadian Tire Stores from May 4 to 10.

Caledon Fire and Emergency Services will be holding special events in the coming days. They will include a car wash and open house this coming Saturday (May 3) at Mono Mills Fire Station from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. There will also be information displays set up at the Walmart store in Bolton May 8 and 9 from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m., the Home Depot store at 12760 Regional Road 50 in Bolton May 10 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and the Bolton Canadian Tire store at 99 McEwan Dr. May 17 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Two charged with stunt driving

Shaw's Creek Road proved to be a fruitful area to find speeders Sunday, according to Caledon OPP.

Police report charging two motorists with stunt driving that afternoon.

The first was a 24-year-old woman from Owen Sound who was stopped shortly after noon. Police said an officer was on speed enforcement and clocked a northbound Ford Fusion going 114 km-h in a posted 60 zone.

The other incident took place about three hours later, as an 18-year-old man from Caledon was stopped. Police said a southbound Toyota Echo was spotted going 120 km-h in a 60 zone.

Both people were charged with racing motor vehicle and both cars were impounded for seven days.

Police watching traffic around Forks of the Credit

Improved weather means more aggressive driving, and Caledon OPP are looking out for it.

Police report they are working closely with Forks of the Credit Road residents, acknowledging that there is an increase in traffic safety issues as the weather gets warmer. They will increase visibility and enforcement on the Forks of the Credit and the Bel-fountain area by targeting aggressive drivers early on.

"Due to increase in vehicular and pedestrian traffic in these areas in the warmer months, we are looking at various options of visibility and enforcement to ensure the safety of residents and motorists in the area," observed Staff Sergeant Mike Garant, operations manager of Caledon OPP.

Notice of Public Open House & Roundtable Discussion 2015 Provincial Plan Review

The Niagara Escarpment Plan, Oak Ridges Moraine Conservation Plan, and Greenbelt Plan are all up for review by the Province in 2015. In preparation for the provincial review, the Town of Caledon is conducting its own assessment of these plans.

YOUR CHANCE TO HAVE YOUR SAY . . .

Planning staff would like to hear from Caledon's residents, landowners and businesses, in advance of the provincial review, on how these provincial plans have changed the way you live, work and play in Caledon. Come learn what they are, why they affect you, and how to have your say.

Tuesday, May 13, 2014 at the Caledon Community Complex in Caledon East from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. (open house session 6:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.).

WHY IS THIS IMPORTANT TO CALEDON CITIZENS?

The review of these plans is important as parts of Caledon lie within the Niagara Escarpment Plan, Oak Ridges Moraine Conservation Plan, and Greenbelt Plan. The provincial review will work to address challenges, capitalize on opportunities, and ultimately seek to strengthen the effectiveness and relevance of these plans. Your insight and input is critical for us to capture a broad range of Caledon-specific perspectives on these three provincial plans.

Jake's Women ends Caledon Town Hall Players' 50th Season

By Constance Scrafield

Following on with the last of three productions for this year's 50th Season, the Caledon Town Hall Players (CTHP) are performing Jake's Women by Neil Simon.

Their first production, in the fall was The Odd Couple, female version and at the end of February they performed On Golden Pond.

Both earlier plays are universal favourites and Jake's Women is another well-loved comedy-drama, a piece the group has staged before over the half-century of performances.

This play features Jake, a writer, who lives, to a large extent, in his own imagination, talking to the women who were or are a part of his life. They appear to him, as imaginings, in his office at home to converse, analyse and advise him in his minute-to-minute existence. For each of his moods and needs, he conjures another apparition — or one comes to him of its own will.

All seven of the ladies featured in this dance appear as phantoms while only two of them are not part of his actual life: his first wife, Julie, who died and his daughter, Molly, as she was at 12 years old, although she is still very much alive and part of his conscious world.

Otherwise, there is his second wife, Maggie, who is fatigued with his always lounging around at home, presumably to work but, in fact, not producing much, while she supports a busy career. She has started to talk about breaking up their marriage.

Additionally, there are his now 21-year-old daughter, Molly, joining him both really and "otherly," as it were; his crazy sister, Karen; his "girlfriend" Sheila; and, finally, his psychiatrist, Edith.

Holding the stage for the whole play as Jake is Doug Maund, whose role and dialogue is the mainstay of the show. It's a huge part, with steady flow of conversations and monologues. His wife in the play, Maggie, is also Maund's real life wife Laura.

It is an interesting piece. The ebb and flow of really-there and really-not characters interacting with Jake create no confusion, as Simon's skillful writing keeps everything straight. There is also the element of flashbacks during the encounters with the assorted ladies.

At all times of course, Jake is looking for solace and affirmation, the happy ending, an explanation for it all. Does he find any of it? You will have to see the play to find out and, for sure, have a good time waiting to discover the resolutions for which Jake is hoping.

Working as producer for this presentation is Heidi Cachel, who is also playing the sister, Karen.

When asked why, of all the shows CTHP has produced, this was one of the plays chosen, along with The Odd Couple and On Golden Pond, Cachel told us, "It's a hoot — a comedy-drama that is both hilarious and touching. There are good characters in it and, of course, we have more women than men in our casting, so this works well for us."

Of the constant coming and going of real and imagined conversations between Jake and his women, if the process is a bit tricky, Cachel assured us, "It's pretty clear. He says things like, 'I didn't send for you.' He's trying to muster up his imagination so he can write. Doug, as Jake, is on the stage for the entire play. Jake is a fabulous character and Doug handles it so well."

"We are thrilled to be doing this play," she added. "It's a lot of fun."

Jake's Women is playing at the Caledon Town Hall in Caledon village at Highway 10 and Charleston Sideroad May 2, with two performances May 3, a matinee and evening show, as well as May 9 and 10.

The roast beef dinner package at nearby Knox United Church is scheduled for this Saturday evening's performance. Tickets and information are available at 519-927-5460 and now online at www.caledontownhallplayers.com

Explore diverse artistic expression

During May, the Peel Art Gallery, Museum and Archives (PAMA) is welcoming three exciting exhibitions that showcase various mediums and processes used by emerging and established artists.

Visitors will be able to explore works of featured artists and their use of painting, drawing, photograph and mixed media.

Art gallery exhibitions include Paint and Process, which runs until May 25, with an opening reception this Sunday (May 4) at 2 p.m. Brampton artist Karen Darling focuses on the artistic process behind her completed paintings in the exhibition. Darling uses a unique method that experiments with the use of wax, paint and environmentally-friendly stone paper as the foundation for this new body of work.

Another exhibition is entitled Photography in the Time of Digital Disenchantment, and it runs from Sunday (May 4) to July 6, with an opening reception Sunday at 2 p.m. and a talk by Guest Curator Peggy Taylor Reid at 2:30 p.m. Digital photography changed the nature of taking pictures, and created a saturation of images in electronic and social media. It also created a distance from the historical tradition of the photograph as a physical object. The artists featured in this exhibition attempt to re-establish this link by humanizing the photographic process. Artists include Dianne Bos, Virginia Mak, Zach Nader, Rob Canali, Elizabeth Siegfried, Brea Souders, Osheen Harruthoonyan and Sarah Anne Johnson.

As well, there's an exhibition called Legacy: David Somers and PAMA's Works on Paper Collection. It will run from May 11 to Aug. 25, with a talk by Guest Curator Judy Daley June 8 at 2 p.m. David Somers, curator and manager of the Peel Heritage Complex (now PAMA) from 1989 to 2009, was instrumental in shaping the direction of the organization, in particular its outstanding collection of art. Before his untimely death in 2009, Mr. Somers established a Works on Paper Endowment Fund to ensure the collection would continue to grow in this key area. This exhibition highlights the diversity of PAMA's Works on Paper Collection and pays tribute to the many artists and donors who continue to support its growth in honour of Mr. Somers.

PAMA is a place to explore and learn about Peel Region's culture and heritage, as well as use conversation, questions and stories to help make new and fascinating connections to the surrounding community.

Operated by the Region of Peel, PAMA is at 9 Wellington St. E. in Brampton. Visit pama.peelregion.ca to learn more.

Caledon East resident heading up Follow Your Heart at Harbourfront

Follow Your Heart, a production of Evolution Dance Theatre, in Toronto will be opening at Harbourfront Centre's Fleck

Discovering dreaming

Ever wake up with the feeling that you've just forgotten something important?

Do you have a recurring dream, nightmare, or dream of loved ones who have passed? Are you at a crossroads?

When Stefania Ingresso and Monica Duncan met in a Caledon meditation class, they found the powerful messages and imagery that bubbled up from classmates' meditations and dreams compelling. They were also amazed that there was nowhere local to cultivate this dream-escape.

Enter the Orangeville Dream Group (ODG), dreamwork for balance, healing and inspiration.

Duncan, a Headwaters writer, has always been keen on dreamwork. As a child, she learned to face her nightmares. From "waking up" in the dream, it was a short step to having a much more profound experience.

"Now dreams are my 'go-to' spiritual advisor," she said.

Ingresso, a certified Yoga teacher, is also a lifelong dreamer. "I've been dream journaling since I learned to write."

Together the pair have developed a forum for remembering and working with dreams, with the goal of initiating a soul dialogue. Dreams are workshopped not so much for "interpretation" but for the dreamer to discover their own inner authority. Gentle yoga grounds the sessions "bringing awareness to the cues from our bodies," Ingresso said.

"The great thing about group dreamwork is that each individual contributes to everyone else's understanding," Duncan said.

In the ODG's process, the dreamer decides what resonates.

"Ask any question," Ingresso said, "you'll learn to decode your dream's answer."

While ancient civilizations valued dreaming, it was only in the 1950s that Western science "discovered" REM dreaming sleep. Now it's known that everyone, including animals, dream. Dreaming informed the prophets, gave the DNA helix, and was the inspirations of Einstein, Mozart and Keith Richards, among others.

In an age of outer distractions, Duncan and Ingresso are directing the compass back to the heart.

"Skating on the surface of life, being pulled a thousand ways, gives us anxiety," Duncan said.

"Dreamwork is a way to find authentic fulfillment," Ingresso observed, adding it's also fun.

Eight ODG sessions will start May 7 at Westminster United Church.

Dance Theatre May 8.

It will be the world premier of a multimedia extravaganza with more than 40 artists on stage conducting a journey into the human spirit. It boasts spectacular costumes, as well as a compelling love story, gorgeous music and stunning dance — ranging from traditional belly dance to jazz to hip hop and more — Follow Your Heart tells an inspiring story of love and struggle, rooted in the rich traditions of Middle Eastern dance and culture.

And it's to star Caledon East resident Teria Morada in the role of Almaza.

Morada is a multi-talented performer, known as a dancer, choreographer, singer and actor, who has been performing since she was three.

"I do act, but it's not something I do all the time," she observed, although she will be doing it in this show.

"This is my first big production with Evolution," she commented.

There is an emphasis on the empowerment of women in the story, in which a modern Middle Eastern woman Almaza is in love with Jivan, a traditional man in modern-day Toronto. It is a love story that embraces both taboos and long-established customs.

"It's a traditional story," she said. "It's a story that's been heard many times before."

As well as being a performer, Morada is also an accomplished Canadian Rhythmic Gymnastics Champion. Her work has taken her all over the world, performing and choreographing, and she has studied and performed a wide variety of dance styles. Her accomplishments include being a two-time Junior Canadian Rhythmic Gymnastics Champion, five-time Provincial Champion and National Team Member. She contributed choreography for Canada's 2012 Olympic Team and shared the stage with them at their gym club's year-end event in 2011.

Morada is also the founder of Azucar Picante Entertainment, through which her dancing, singing and choreography were featured in the L.A.'s Best Dancer's Revue at the Alex Theatre and The Playboy Mansion in Los Angeles, The Tropicana Cuban Cabaret (Canada Edition), Moulin Rouge, Rio, Alma de Fuego, Mosaic International Shows in Hollywood, a Poker Kings event in Dublin, Ireland featuring world class darbuka player, Issam Houshan.

Naturally, dance has been a very important part in Morada's life.

"I think I was just born that way," she said, commenting she's in tune with all types, including tap, belly-dancing, etc. "I'm very happy when I dance, and sing."

She said she became interested in belly-dancing when she was living in Los Angeles. A friend got her to give it a try.

"I started getting good at it," she recalled. "It kind of fit with me. It kind of fit with my body type."

Follow Your Heart runs from May 8 to 11 at Harbourfront Centre's Fleck Dance Theatre.

Morada said the show will be performed again in September, but in a different theatre.

"I'm staying here for a while," she said.

Tickets for Follow Your Heart can be obtained by calling 416-973-4000 or visit www.EvolutionDT.ca

Dealing with anger to be addressed at Lifetree Café

How to control anger will be discussed at Lifetree Café this coming Wednesday (May 7).

The program, entitled Out of Anger: The Battle Between Self-Control and Out of Control, will feature the filmed story of Jerry Hartman, whose ongoing anger issues led him in and out of prison until he was at last accused of assault with a deadly weapon.

"I had this mentality that if you mess with me, you won't do it again," Hartman said.

"If you beat me, you won't do it again because you're going to pay. When I was around people, I wanted them to fear me."

Participants will discover what practical tools helped Hartman discover how to control his anger and transform his life.

The program will run from 7 to 8 p.m., and admission will be free. Snacks and beverages will be available.

Lifetree Café is at St. James' Anglican Church, 6025 Old Church Rd., Caledon East.

Lifetree Café is a place where people gather for conversation about life and faith in a casual coffeehouse-type setting.

Questions about Lifetree may be directed to Mark Tiller at 905-584-8506 or mark.lifetree@gmail.com

Editorial

Feds have better things to do

The Supreme Court of Canada last week effectively let the air out of Prime Minister Stephen Harper's efforts to bring in massive reform to the Canadian Senate.

The Court ruled that the provinces would have to get a substantial say in any major reforms, and they would have to unanimously agree to have the body abolished.

While we can appreciate that the Prime Minister might be frustrated over this development, it probably works out for the best.

While the Senate might currently be in something of a proverbial doghouse owing to the actions and allegations regarding some of its members, we don't believe that taking any serious action is a major priority with Canadians. There might be a desire to see some changes, but we don't think many in this country are losing sleep over it.

There are other federal concerns that Canadians are concerned about, such as the economy, unemployment (especially among youth) and international issues that require the immediate attention of our leaders in Ottawa.

It is true that the Senate was established for a reason. Part of the reason was to help provide equal representation between regions of this vast country.

There are some who would like to see senators elected, but we have to wonder how many of them really want to see another level of elected politicians looking around for votes. As well, would not an elected Senate be in a position to supercede the House of Commons.

Others would like to see term limits imposed on senators, and there is probably merit to that.

If the government is really interested in reform, perhaps it should address its attention to the House of Commons. The idea behind an elected parliamentary chamber is voters send MPs to Ottawa to be their voice to the government, but there is a strong perception that the MPs serve more in the role of being the government's voice to the people, and we think Canadians would like to see something done about that.

Our Readers Write

Thanks for kindness

We would like to thank the many people who came to the assistance of our friend who had a severe dizzy spell and fell in the parking lot outside the Swiss Chalet in Bolton Thursday night (April 24).

We didn't even know she had fallen until our waitress came back to our table and told us. By that time, there were many people outside helping her, including two nurses, one who stayed by her side monitoring her life signs and keeping her calm for the hour that it took for an ambulance to arrive.

Unfortunately, we don't know her name or the names of the other kind people who helped with blankets and something to cradle her head while she lay on the ground. We wish we could thank you all personally, but you know who you are and you can be very proud of what you did for our friend to keep her comfortable until the ambulance finally arrived.

Also, the staff from Swiss Chalet were so caring, especially the manager, the owner and our waitress.

Changing the Senate

The Supreme Court of Canada has confirmed that any changes to the Senate must receive the approval of seven of the 10 provinces representing at least 50 per cent of the population.

Quebec Federalist Liberal Premier Philippe Couillard, meantime, has declared he would not consider a Senate amendment until conditions set by Quebec for formally accepting the 1982 constitution are met. We cannot expect the opposing, more nationalist parties in Quebec of ever demanding less. Couillard is neither being intransigent nor disloyal to Canada; he must govern within the demands of the people of Quebec as is expected in any democratic state.

We can all be proud of the 1982 amendments that resulted in a constitution made in Canada for Canadians and incorporated a statement of principles of law that is the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. But while the 1982 Constitution was the necessary step to making Canada an independent country in both law and spirit, we have paid a heavy price in uncertainty and stress since. Those 1982 amendments met the seven-of 10 and 50 per cent criteria, with the sole dissenter being Quebec. The 1987 Meech Lake and 1992 Charlottetown accords, which sought to meet those extra demands of Quebec, may have been well intentioned, but ultimately failed to meet the approval of Canadians and caused the added stress that nearly tore us apart.

Constitutional change in this country then is a terribly difficult thing to do and inevitably pits one region against another. As a country, we may not be perfect in every way, but there are none better to compare. Perhaps we need to accept the fact that as is, we are a most fortunate and blessed country, the envy of the free world and learn to live with that.

Canadians are split on whether the Canadian Senate should be elected or abolished, with only a small, nine-per-cent minority stating the Senate should stay as is. The strong majority then agree that the Senate should at least change, but either of those options, Senate election or abolition, will require amendments to our Constitution. Even that minority in favour of the status quo may wish changes for the Senate, but have come to the conclusion that Senate change is not worth the price that would have to be paid.

When it comes to the Senate, we therefore cannot elect it, nor can we get rid of it; not right now in any case, and perhaps not ever. But does that mean we can do nothing positive to improve the situation?

The original vision for the Senate was that it was to be the "chamber of sober second thought." It was meant to protect

Interesting and stressful times

"May you live in interesting times."

I think we have all heard this quote from the past. I did some quick googling, and found frustratingly conflicting details as to its origin.

There are some sources that say it's a Chinese proverb, and other sources that emphatically deny that.

I have always thought it was meant as sort of a blessing — expressing the wish that the recipient never be bored. But I have also heard accounts that it was meant as something of a curse.

Whatever was the intention of the whoever it was who came up with the quote, I have always accepted that if it were addressed to me, it would be meant positively.

It is a fact that I have lived in interesting times, and believe I have benefitted. True, I have lived through some terrible days, such as 9-11 and numerous other disasters. But there have also been wonderful achievements I've been able to see, which people living 100 years ago would have marveled at, such as men walking on the moon, or doctors finding ways to keep people alive by transplanting organs. In my younger days, I saw things happen that would make people today shake their heads in wonder, like the Toronto Maple Leafs winning the Stanley Cup.

No matter, I once got a loud laugh from a group at a party when that quote came up, and I asked, part facetiously and part seriously, "Has anyone ever lived in boring times?"

Frankly, I would think I was cursed if I lived in uninteresting times. I would hate to think I was going through life bored. But there are also lots of tales of people who seem to lead uninteresting lives, but who get rather good at finding things in which to be interested nevertheless. I've read accounts that people in prisons, including prisoners of war, have been able to deal with the boredom by coming up with seemingly mundane things to hold their attention.

My ability to do things like that has come in handy during more council meetings than I could count.

It is a fact of life that we all have to deal with boredom. Indeed, I doubt many of us could survive to old age if we were in a constant state of excitement.

All periods of history have been interesting. The fact that not much might be known about certain times doesn't mean there wasn't anything interesting to hold people's attention. It could simply mean that historians couldn't think of anything interesting to write about.

And some of us find certain periods of our past more interesting than others. Personally, thinking about the 20th century, I have always been intrigued by the 1940s, probably because of that major war that took place during that decade. The '60s will always hold my attention, partly because it was such a turbulent time, but mainly because I came to awareness during that period. I also have very vivid memories of the space program of those days, as well the tragic assassinations of the Kennedys and Martin Luther King. I will always remember the August evening in 1968 I spent at a fishing camp on Lake Nipissing. I had made friends with some kids from Ohio and was in their cottage, and their parents had brought a portable TV. We all watched the riots at the Democratic convention. On the other hand, reruns of I Love Lucy notwithstanding, I have seldom found much of interest in the '50s.

Since humans have been walking around, they have been very good at finding ways to keep themselves interested in their times, right from the days when the main motivation was to try and avoid being devoured by some wild animal.

Now, just about all of us go through our respective days obsessed with the idea of trying to get through them, maybe considering the down time that comes with weekends as the reward for the times of stress we subject ourselves to. And who among us does not eagerly look forward to that period known as vacation to get away from some of the pressures.

I know I'm making it sound like I blame the world of work for all our problems, or at least a lot of them. And it is true that in many cases, our jobs are our main source of stress and accompanying other problems. And for many of us, our jobs get in the way of doing some of the things we might really like to do. For example, the one game the Blue Jays won last week against Baltimore I had to miss completely because I had to work late — Not to worry though, because I was home in plenty of time to watch them blow the other two.

On the other hand, for many of us, our jobs are what defines us, and provides us with identity.

They also provide us with our income, which brings us, not necessarily to interesting times, but to stressful times.

Have you done your Income Tax yet?

As of this writing (Friday night), I have made a good start on mine, but it is not yet complete.

For many of us, tax time is relatively simple. For me it's a bit more complicated. Owing to my job, there are some work-related expenses that I'm allowed to claim a break on (mainly to do with my car). I also have some modest investments, which add a certain amount of confusion to what is already an ordeal.

I have always rather enjoyed working with numbers. Although I am a writer, I would much rather kill time working on a Sudoku or Kakuro than a crossword puzzle. But when it comes to these damned tax forms, things just get too tedious. I usually get one of those computer tax programs, and I'll admit they have helped steer me in the right direction a couple of times.

But the really big problem is finding the time in which to do it all, and keep up with all the other normal demands on times, like work, household and watching the Jays blow ball games (they are getting hammered by Boston as I write this).

In view of the great stress involved, I think tax time could qualify as an interesting time, which might tie in with the belief of some that the saying I quoted off the top was meant as a curse. This is not a time of year that I enjoy. I'm also mindful, as I'm sure most of you are, of the line underneath where the signature goes on the tax return — "It is a serious offence to make a false return."

The reality is I have very little reason to put off doing my taxes, considering the fact that the sooner I get them done, the sooner I get the refund cheque, and yes, I am getting a refund. Since I first started in the workforce, my parents (my father in particular) nagged me annually to max out on my RRSP contributions, so I always have, finding the money somewhere, and that almost always means a refund.

Yet the whole thing is an ordeal, but as I have already observed, ordeals are part of that group of things that make life interesting.

So whether it was meant as a blessing or a curse, I do live in interesting times, and worrying about getting my taxes figured out just makes things more interesting, as well as traumatic. But it's a task that must be done, and since this column is just about done, I can't use it as an excuse to procrastinate any longer. Besides, the Blue Jays lost, so it's time to get to work.

It's also time for bed. I'll work on the taxes tomorrow.

Caledon Home and Lifestyle show goes this weekend in Bolton

Written By BILL REA

People in this ever-changing Town of Caledon can rely upon certain events to knit the community together.

The annual Caledon Home and Lifestyle Show, set for this weekend (May 2, 3 and 4), is one of those events.

Hosted by the Caledon Chamber of Commerce and organized by a small committee of volunteers, the "home show" has experienced its own transitions. But its purpose remains the same. This is the local business community, the local forum for shopping close-to-home and the forum for residents, as friends and neighbours, to express their "Caledon Proud" support for the business community.

What hasn't changed? It's still free for the whole family, it's still free to park all day and there are still plenty of raffles, prizes, events and interesting information that will be available over the three days. There will be food, entertainment and demonstrations. It all comes together on the floor of the Don Sheardown Memorial Arena at Albion-Bolton Community Centre.

The doors open tomorrow (Friday) night at 5 p.m.

The main attraction of the evening will be a visit by Caledon East resident and Olympic Gold medalist Caleb Flaxey. He was part of the championship men's curling team at the Winter Olympics in February at Sochi. He will be arriving at 6 p.m. to welcome visitors and show off his medal, and there will be time for an autograph session. People attending Friday night should bring their cameras, or pick up a signed photo as a keepsake.

Also expected to be on hand for the opening ceremonies at 5 p.m. will be acting Caledon mayor Richard Paterak, along with Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson and MPP Sylvia Jones.

As well, the Friends of the Caledon Public Library will be starting their giant book sale Friday from 1 to 9 p.m.

The doors will open at 10 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday.

Early show-goers might be hungry, so they will be able to buy a hot pancake breakfast from 10 to 11 a.m. both days. This will be in support of the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program in the local schools. And since it's time for the annual spring cleaning, Saturday and Sunday will see File-Bank helping with a free shredding service. This promises to be a safe and secure way to dispose of private documents and files.

For those who miss the breakfast, or are still hungry, there will be a barbecue from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in support of Caledon Coyotes Girls Hockey.

Young and old will have the chance to make friends with some interesting reptiles, as the Amazing Rain Forest will be putting on two shows Saturday; at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. There will also be a coin hunt at noon.

In addition, noon will see the start of entertainment by the Junior Choir, Glee Club and Drum Line from Beryl Ford Public School in Brampton, followed by performances by students of the Moura Music Studio at 1 p.m. and a demonstration by Swar TaeKwon-Do students at 5.

And the Library's giant book sale will continue Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"The main attraction of the evening... Olympic Gold medalist Caleb Flaxey. He was part of the championship men's curling team at the Winter Olympics in February at Sochi."

Meanwhile, the 1st Bolton Venturers will be running an electronics recycling drive outside the arena, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sunday morning will open with the pancake breakfast in support of DARE from 10 to 11. Sunday's barbecue will be in support of Palgrave Baseball and T-Ball.

And there will be another demonstration by Swar TaeKwon-Do at 2 p.m.

Whether one visits once or each day, they will discover something new to do.

There will be free samples from Mars Canada each day. Hummingbird Flowers and Gifts would like to offer the first 200 visitors Sunday a special gift of a Carnation (that's a hint that Moms love flowers for Mother's Day). As well, there will be a Penny Raffle sponsored by Canadian Tire, as well as Daily door prizes.

And there will be a Colouring Contest, sponsored by The Amazing Rain Forest. Kids will be able to drop off their entries at the Chamber of Commerce booth.

The Caledon Chamber of Commerce is a not-for-profit membership organization representing the "voice of business" in Caledon. The support of fundraising programs, like the Home Show, is greatly appreciated. Assuring the success of the 2014 edition of the show are sponsors: The Caledon Citizen, the home-town Canadian Tire and Mars Canada.

Coca-Cola Canada donates rain barrels to ecoCaledon

EcoCaledon is receiving 50 beverage concentrate barrels converted to rain harvesting barrels from Coca-Cola Canada.

Coca-Cola associates from the Brampton production facility joined Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones, ecoCaledon volunteers and Toronto and Region Conservation Authority (TRCA) experts to retrofit the barrels together Saturday.

Rain barrels can help reduce water bills, conserve water during dry periods and lesson polluted run-off. The reuse of these 170-litre barrels will help in the effort to protect local watersheds.

"Water is vital to communities, to the economy, to the world and to our business," said Coca-Cola Brampton General Manager Paddy O'Doherty. "We're always working to conserve water, reduce the amount of water we use per liter of product we produce, support community water programs like those at ecoCaledon."

This is the third year of Coca-Cola's partnership with ecoCaledon. Coca-Cola has donated hundreds of rain barrels since 2011.

"We are pleased to partner with Coca-Cola to increase water conservation in Brampton and Caledon," stated ecoCaledon Chairperson Donna Ferron. "Working together, we can engage more local families in environmental protection and keep our water clean for generations to come."

The community is benefiting from these rain barrels beyond the important water conservation impacts. Fifteen local artists won a competition to have their designs painted on the rain barrels. Proceeds from each rain barrel ecoCaledon sells will fund local high school bursaries for students choosing to pursue environmental studies at a post-secondary institution.

For more information on the bursaries, or to purchase a rain barrel, contact ecoCaledon at 905-584-7336 or www.ecocalledon.org

EcoCaledon is an environmental action group of volunteers established by the Town of Caledon in 1995. The organization promotes programs designed to enhance and protect Caledon's environment including battery recycling, rain saver barrels, high school education and bursary opportunities, as well as seminar and resources that encourage environmental preservation.

Town hosting public session on plan reviews

The Niagara Escarpment Plan (NEP), Oak Ridges Moraine Conservation Plan (ORMCP) and Greenbelt Plan are all up for review by the Province in 2015.

In preparation for these reviews, the Town of Caledon is conducting its own assessment of these plans.

Town planning staff would like to hear from Caledon residents, landowners and businesses, in advance of the provincial review, on how these provincial plans have changed the way they live, work and play in Caledon.

The Town is hosting an informative presentation and round-table discussion May 13 at Caledon Community Complex in Caledon East. It will run from 7 to 9:30 p.m., with an open house session from 6 to 7.

The review of these plans is important, as parts of Caledon lie within the Niagara Escarpment Plan, Oak Ridges Moraine Conservation Plan, and Greenbelt Plan.

The provincial review will work to address challenges, capitalize on opportunities, and ultimately seek to strengthen the effectiveness and relevance of these plans. The insight and input from residents is critical for us to capture a broad range of Caledon-specific perspectives on these three provincial plans.

Commemorating the 100th anniversary Komagata Maru incident in Vancouver

Canada is known around the world for valuing pluralism and openness.

Unfortunately, we have not always lived up to these ideals.

This year marks the 100 year anniversary of the arrival of the SS Komagata Maru in Vancouver. The ship carried 376 South Asian passengers seeking a better life in Canada.

These passengers were detained and forcefully denied entry into Canada due to discriminatory policies that restricted immigration from certain countries.

The incident is truly an unfortunate chapter in Canadian history.

OTTAWA JOURNAL

David Tilson
MP Dufferin-Caledon

In 2008, our government secured a unanimous motion in Parliament to recognize the Komagata Maru tragedy and to apologize to those who were directly affected. Soon after, on behalf of Canadians, Prime Minister Stephen Harper officially recognized this historic event and apologized to the passengers and those affected by the tragic Komagata Maru incident.

In reference to the Komagata Maru incident, Prime Minister Harper emphasized that, "We cannot change the events of the past; we cannot undo the misdeeds committed against those long deceased. But we can bring Canadians together in the present to unite our country, and to set us on a course to accomplish greater things in the future."

This is why, as we look back on this incident, it serves as an important reminder of our collective responsibility to vehemently oppose the spirit of intolerance and discrimination embedded in the immigration policies at that time that fueled this tragedy.

To acknowledge this unfortunate event, our government committed $2.5 million to the Indo-Canadian community for projects to commemorate the Komagata Maru incident. We supported the construction of the Komagata Maru monument in Vancouver, prominently located in Harbour Green Park in close proximity to where the ship was anchored in 1914. This May, Prime Minister Harper will unveil a commemorative Canada Post stamp. This stamp was suggested by MP Parm Gill and will help commemorate the 100th anniversary of the tragedy.

Together, we are recognizing our past and recommitting to upholding the values of freedom, democracy and rule of law.

Senate there to guide, not govern

Canada, to a degree, from the excesses of the politically driven House of Commons. The Senate was meant to provide guidance, not governance. In January of this year, Justin Trudeau declared "the Senate is suffering from two central problems: partisanship and patronage." In a way, he was stating the obvious; Senators, as members of their party's caucuses, have taken on the primary role of promoting their parties over duty to protect their country. The Senatorial selection process has devolved to have a bias toward those loyal to party first over those loyal to country first.

Trudeau went farther and removed senators from the Liberal parliamentary caucus. Trudeau did not remove these senators from the Liberal Party, which he has neither the right nor power to do in our open and inclusive party. In fact, Liberal Senators will remain honoured, welcome members at party functions, free to express themselves as do any other Liberal party members; but he did limit Senators' ability to influence those members elected to Parliament. They are free to have their own caucus in the Senate, to reach and express their independent conclusions and recommendations. Future Senate appointments should be worthy Canadians like Roméo Dallaire, who while he became a Liberal Senator, has unquestionable loyalty to country first and foremost.

Trudeau fixing the process

NATIONAL AFFAIRS
Claire Hoy

It has become almost routine these days for the media – and others – to claim that Prime Minister Stephen Harper is consistently undemocratic in his efforts to govern the country.

Never mind it's not based on much beyond the fact that a good many people – and most of the media – don't like the guy and look for a conspiracy behind his every move.

There's a widespread belief that Harper has his mind set on thwarting democracy at every turn and the only way to apparently save us from him is to elect either Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau or NDP Leader Thomas Mulcair to restore Canada to what it was supposed to be before the dastardly Tories managed to con enough Canadians to get them into office.

It is in this context then that one wonders why real – as opposed to imagined – shots at democracy are so often ignored when perpetrated by Harper's political enemies.

Take Trudeau, for example. He has made much of Harper's alleged penchant for stacking nomination meetings in favor of his pals – a claim which is often repeated despite a serious lack of supporting evidence – yet when it comes to Trudeau's own actions, well, even his dictatorial late father might be able to pick up a pointer or two.

You will likely know that Toronto MP Chrystia Freeland – a former magazine editor handpicked by Trudeau in the recent by-election in Toronto Centre – is slated to be acclaimed the Liberal candidate in the next federal election in the newly-created riding of University-Rosedale. That riding will be formed from portions of Toronto Centre and Trinity-Spadina (more on that riding in a moment) as part of the overall redistribution of ridings in time for the next election.

When news of the planned acclamation was announced recently, Hugh Scher, a constitutional lawyer and president of the University-Rosedale Liberal riding association, told The Globe and Mail that the acclamation notice was sent to their association from the party and came as a surprise.

"Without consultation to the executive of the association, they have gone ahead and booked the nominations and determined that Chrystia is going to be the candidate," he said.

Adding that Freeland is "a great lady and a very qualified candidate," he nevertheless added that "holding true to a commitment to open and fair nomination processes is essential to party development and renewal. Recent efforts to circumvent the usual nomination process and to bypass the duly elected community board representatives of University-Rosedale are contrary to basic Liberal and democratic values and to efforts of party renewal that put grass roots community interests ahead of political expediency and backroom dictates." Oh my.

That's not something that Harper has done to our knowledge. Or, for that matter, Mulcair. Both men have essentially allowed the party process to take care of itself. It doesn't mean they have always been pleased with the results, or have never tried to influence them, but they're not in the habit of dictating the candidate and freezing out anybody else who may be interested.

So, you may ask, was anybody else interested or is Freeland the only really qualified candidate available?

Well, two-time Liberal candidate Christine Innes in Trinity-Spadina (the riding recently vacated by NDP Olivia Chow, who resigned to run for mayor) was certainly interested and had worked hard to garner a Liberal nomination.

But when she refused to sign a party pledge that she would not contest Freeland's nomination she was barred from being a Liberal candidate. Not just in University-Rosedale, but anywhere.

As a result, she is currently suing Trudeau and David MacNaughton, the party's Ontario campaign co-chair, arguing that they slandered her by making false public statements that she was guilty of bullying and intimidation in her attempts to win a nomination battle.

That, of course, is ultimately up to a court to decide, but there is no doubt that Trudeau himself intervened to fix the nomination process, rather than let the process play out in a fair and democratic way.

You don't have to possess a great imagination to figure out what the media reaction would be if it had been Harper instead of Trudeau acting in such a grievous, undemocratic fashion, to make sure one of his favorites got the nomination.

And one can only hope that those Liberals in University-Rosedale, whatever they may think of Freeland as a candidate, will be annoyed enough to either stay home on election day or support another candidate.

That's something even Trudeau can't control.

Junior C Bandits finalize roster for 2014 lacrosse season

By Brian Lockhart

With the start of the Junior C lacrosse season only a week away, the Caledon Bandits are putting the final players in place to fill the roster for the 2014 campaign.

"We've had two try-outs prior to this one," said Bandits head coach Mike Gillan at the start of the Club's third session last Tuesday (April 22). "We've just affiliated with Brampton Junior B, the Excelsiors. Now we're waiting for them to make their last cuts. Then we can start to piece together our team."

"We want to leave some cards open," he added. "The first two try-outs were to get the rust out. We weren't exactly looking, but we were running them and getting a preliminary look in terms of numbers and what we have."

The Bandits can sign 23 players, including two goalies.

There are 12 returning players who are clubs, even returning players aren't guaranteed a place on the team — they still have to earn it.

"There's lots of spots to fill," Gillan said. "The door's wide open. We lost two players because they moved up to Junior B, and one we lost because of school. Three of our highest scorers are gone. One graduated, so he's done. One is playing Junior B, and one is at school in Waterloo."

Gillan said he is "looking for intensity" in the players the coaching staff will be selecting to fill the roster.

"At this level, you don't have to be the best player on the floor," he observed. "It might be a cliché to say it, but I want to see that you're willing to make this team — you're not walking to get some water, you're not walking between drills — you're working hard, showing intensity, showing that you want to be part of my team. If you want to be part of my team, I do what I can to put you on it."

nal try-out day Tuesday (April 29).

The league has expanded this season with the addition of teams from Oakville and Six Nations to make it a 17-team league with 10 squads playing in the West Division, including Caledon, and seven teams battling it out in the East Division.

There is a new venue for the Bandits this season, at least for the first six home games. They will be playing at the Albin-Bolton Community Centre. Their usual venue at Mayfield Arena is undergoing repairs to the roof, necessitating a switch to the in-town arena.

Gillan said they hope the change will bring in more people to the games since there are a lot more potential fans living nearby.

The Junior C Bandits first home game is scheduled for this coming Tuesday (May 6), when they will host Fergus in Bolton.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Junior C hopefuls go through the paces during Caledon Bandits' try-outs at the Albin-Bolton arena. The Bandits are putting together the final roster for the 2014 season that gets underway May 6.

They're playing ball hockey for another season in Inglewood

As the ice hockey season winds down, things are getting started in the Inglewood Ball Hockey League (IBHL).

Action started with style last Thursday (April 24) with new look jerseys, a new team sponsor (Ron's Tire Discounter) and good games all around.

April 24

George's Arena Sports 2 Ron's Tire Discounter 0

Keeper Greg "The ball stops here" Dodel picked up where he left off last season getting the goose-egg for George's, while Joey Lemos from Matt McNally and Jacob Lake, and Mike Desmarais from brother Jon and McNally provided the game's offense in the first period.

The second and third frames saw both tenders turn away all comers and keep the game at 2-0.

Mr. Handyman 1 We Are Creative 0

For the second game, it was much like the first, with Donato Dorazio turning away all shots and getting the shutout, with Mike Volpe from Justin Fiorini getting the points in the first.

We Are turned up the heat in the third and pulled the goalie, but couldn't sneak one past. While Handymen pressed, they couldn't find an insurance marker.

Carney Plumbing 4 Caledon Hills Cycling 2

The veterans of the league showed that they could still play the game for Carney with Shawn Lane, Brian Dunn and Kelly Regan each potting one and Chris "young gun" Chidwick adding the other.

Assists went to Pete Davis, Todd Elson, goalie Eddy Gaffney and Lane. While Carney went into the second leading 2-0, Caledon Hills Cycling got it going with Travis Cassar from Kyle Dalcin and Sandy Shand, before Chidwick put Carney back into the two-goal lead. In the third, Kurt Snell from Josh Rowland pulled Caledon Hills back to within one until Kelly Regan's cannoning blast found the back of the net for Carney to cement the win.

April 26

George's Arena Sports 4 We Are Creative 2

Each team traded markers in the first frame, with Jacob Lake from Brad Crawford and Andy Sant capitalizing on the power play for George's.

Less than two minutes later, We Are got creative and tied it up with Luca Raggi from Anthony Fera and Michael Spagnuolo. George's answered back in seven seconds with Lake finding the back of the twine tent again, this time with helpers from Jon Desmarais and Jessie Lemos. With the clock running down, We Are drew even once more, this time with Fera getting the marker and Raggi and Spagnuolo helping out.

The second frame saw George's once more pull into the lead, this time for good when Matt McNally from Mike Desmarais found home. The third saw George's cap it off with Jason Duncan from Joey Lemos and Sant.

Ron's Tire Discounter 7 Caledon Hills Cycling 1

After regrouping from the first night, Ron's Tire put the rubber to the road and came out with all four wheels squealing.

Noel Fortner opened the scoring in the first for Ron's from Alex Boughen.

Taking a 1-0 lead into the second, Ron's continued on the roll with Boughen from Taylor Elkins and Fortner, Dylan Elkins from Chris Gikov and Ryan Frangakis and a power play marker from Colin Bromley with help by Chris Steele and James Coulter.

The third Period didn't go much better for Caledon Hills, as Ron's Tire kept on spinning with Frangakis adding two and Nick Brouillette adding a single, with assists going to D. Elkins and Steele. With 10 seconds left, Travis Cassar from Dave Phillips and Peter Anselmi netted one for Caledon Hills Cycling, breaking Justin Parravano's shutout bid.

Carney Plumbing 2 Mr. Handyman 1

In a close match, both teams proved that they could play smart, planned ball hockey.

Carney was the first to get on the board when Chris Chidwick found the back of the net from Mark Olesen-Varnell and Matt Henderson. The second saw Mr. Handyman dominate and start to take control when they answered back to tie the game 1-1 on Mike Volpe's shot and Matt Scida's assist.

Going into the third all even, neither team could solve the keepers until the dying seconds when Ryan Zimmerman from Chidwick and Jordan Rothfuchs bulged the twine and got Carney the win.

IBHL welcomes everyone back who has played before and welcomes for the first time those who haven't. The league also acknowledges team sponsors — Caledon Hills

Cycling (www.caledonhillscycling.com), Carney Plumbing (905-838-2881), George's Arena Sports (www.georgesarenasports.com), Mr. Handyman (www.mrhandyman.ca), Ron's Tire Discounter (www.tirediscounter.ca) and We Are Creative (www.wearecreative.ca). Headwaters equine committee releases report

The Headwaters Equine Leadership Group (HELG) has released a baseline report on the economic impact of the equine sector in the Headwaters Region.

HELG is a committee of the Hills of Headwaters Tourism Association. It is a collaborative initiative with regional stakeholders who are committed to the importance of the equine sector in the region, which includes Caledon, Dufferin, Erin and King Township. Their principle objective is to promote the Headwaters region as a centre of equine excellence in Ontario, and to support, grow and advocate for this sector of the regional economy. HELG and the Headwaters Horse Country initiative are supported by the Ontario Trillium Foundation.

The equine industry has been identified by HELG, municipal partners and stakeholders as an important facet of the economic prosperity of the Headwaters region. As noted in the report, Headwaters Horse Country is home to more than 23,000 horses, 2,000 horse farms and hundreds of businesses that support these horses and their owners. It is also home to four internationally recognized event facilities two of which are hosting equestrian events for the TO 2015 Pan American Games.

The report describes the indicators that impact the economic sustainability of a region that are directly related to the equine sector. Additional data points include primary use of horses, on-farm operating expenditures, on-farm operating cost and on-farm capital expenditures.

The report conservatively estimates the economic impact of the equine sector in the Headwaters to be a minimum of $100 million annually for ongoing operating costs with a further $300 million spent on property improvements, including barns and arenas and as investment in horses. It is also noted that much of this spending is locally focussed, further emphasizing the sector's importance to the local economy.

The equine sector is strong in the Headwaters Region and the economic impact of the sector is an important component of the efforts of HELG. This report will be updated annually and is one of numerous initiatives being undertaken by HELG to support the development of the Headwaters region as a centre of equine excellence.

Summer Camp Offers Invaluable Return on Investment for Parents

In a world where we are overwhelmed with products and services that over-promise and under-deliver, Ontario Summer Camping dares to be different!

BY ANDREW MARTIN

Camp Can-Aqua Andrew Martin, Camp Director
canqua.ca • 613-339-2969 andrewmartin@canaqua.ca

After spending over ten years working full time as a Camp Director, I no longer accept the stereotype that camp is just about fun and friendships for kids. To be clear, I do feel camp is fun and that meaningful, long-lasting friendships are made, but the experience is so much more than just that! In a world that over-promises and under-delivers in almost everything that we experience, summer camp is something that actually delivers the goods time and time again. It provides an opportunity for kids to experience firsthand the very best of the human condition.

With the support of a team of energetic and positive role models, a summer camp creates an environment where kids can be together — in person, and not online! — engaging, interacting, and challenging themselves. Camp creates a platform for inclusion and tolerance as kids engage with other children from different backgrounds, cultures, races and class. Summer camp is structured as a series of simple challenges and choices that each child has to navigate. From learning to start a fire, to performing a skit or song on stage, to the nightly "should I brush my teeth?" debate of kids twelve and under...children find their own unique paths through their immersion in a camp community.

Now, all decisions are not so easy. Independence comes with more complex debate and decision-making. "Will I make friends?" tops the list of anxieties new campers feel before getting to camp. "What activities should I pick?" is a popular second. And let's not undervalue the complicated hurdles of trust, acceptance, compromise, forgiveness, bravery, conviction, courtesy, and kindness.

These are all esteemed traits in the outside world and by creating a positive world of exploration and encouragement, summer camp instills each of those traits in campers every day. Can you as an adult imagine how challenging it would be to share your bedroom with nine other people? Overcoming this hurdle is a landmark achievement in itself!

Three reasons why I think summer camp offers parents the very best return on their investment are:

1. THE RELATIONSHIPS YOUR CHILD WILL BUILD

Camp is a world where kids develop friendships with not only peers, but with kids of all ages and backgrounds as well as with adults who are not their parents. Where else is a child able to debate, discuss and engage with an adult who is actively listening to what they have to say? At my summer camp, Camp Can-Aqua, it is a daily occurrence to hear campers and counselors engaged in conversations that are challenging, positive, interesting, and fun.

2. A PLACE TO BELONG

This outcome is not to be taken lightly. In an increasingly complex world where kids are exposed to endless change and instability, summer camp offers children a chance to feel like they belong. At camp, you can dare to be different. Expressing yourself is how one goes about fitting in. Through skits and songs, ridiculous chants and fun challenges, camp provides a sense of common purpose to the campers each session. This connection, this place to belong, is exactly what keeps kids returning to camp each summer. It is something positive and constant in their lives, becoming a place that they are very familiar with and where they know that they belong.

Michelle - age 14 Camp CanAqua

I have gone to Camp CanAqua for six years because I love the atmosphere, the people you meet and the life long friendships. The activities we do are fun, I like to choose my own daily schedule, the staff have all been to camp before and they understand how to make the experience great for everyone. I want to work at Camp CanAqua one day myself to share what I have been taught.

3. A SENSE OF CONTROL

The routine and structure of a typical day at camp help kids feel more in control of their lives. When speaking about Camp Can-Aqua, I can often be heard saying, "At camp you don't HAVE to do anything, but you MUST do something." Kids choose their own adventures everyday! Camp helps children feel in control of their lives, which is an experience they will take with them as they grow and develop into responsible adults. Kids who feel they are competent are more likely to be better problem-solvers in life, long after their time at camp has ended.

Camp is not a two-week decision that occurs over one summer holiday, but rather one of the largest, most significant decisions a parent can make for their child. This single decision can have an incredibly positive outcome on the development of your child's ability to socialize, to compromise, to problem solve, and to recognize when it is their time to lead versus their time to follow.

Following a camp that offers a wide range of growth opportunities for children, while effectively managing their health and safety, is critical to a parent's search, but is easily done.

Ontario parents are fortunate to be in an area offering some of the best/most diverse summer camping opportunities in the world. With over 300 camps province-wide, there is a perfect camp out there for your unique and special kid.

Research is being done more and more on the measurable benefits of summer camp as a medium in child development and education. As a camping professional, I am thrilled that the true benefits of summer camp, which go far beyond the friendships and fun, are being experienced and understood by kids and parents across our province.

Experience summer camp for yourself and your whole family! Camp Can-Aqua offers family camp weekends where parents and children can enjoy a life-changing experience together. It gives parents the chance to see the site, experience the programs and meet staff, and allows kids the opportunity to warm up to the idea of leaving home for their own camp adventure. In addition to family programs, Can-Aqua offers summer camp opportunities for 1, 2 and 4-week stays. To learn more, visit us on line at www.canaqua.ca. A summer of adventure and a lifetime of positive growth await your child!

Andrew Martin is the Owner/Director of Camp Can-Aqua, a summer residential camp near Bancroft, Ontario that welcomes up to 150 kids each session.

George's Arena Sports take the title in Caledon Senior Hockey League

Bill Davis caught fire in the final game of the playoff round robin tournament to lead George's Arena Sports to the Caledon Senior Hockey League title.

Davis scored four goals to erase a two-goal deficit, including the game-winner, sparking George's to a 5-3 win over Fines Ford Lincoln in the final night of action. George's finished the round-robin with a perfect 5-0 record.

Baffo's Pizza, which lost 7-5 to Rutherford Global Logistics, finished the post-season tied for second with Fines Ford. Both teams were 3-2. In the other game the final night of the season, Bolton Chiropractic Centre downed Jiffy Lube Oilers 7-5.

George's 5, Fines Ford 3

Fines took the early lead on goals by Peter Coghill and Nick Rotundo, but George's took over in the second period.

Clark Judge scored once to split two sets of two goals from Davis in the second and third periods. Jack Gibson and Bret Smith each had three assists while Mark Milton had one.

Rotundo finished with two goals for Fines while Steve Sanderson and Bernie Tisdale each notched two assists.

Rutherford 7, Baffo's 5

Paul Speck led the way for Rutherford with three goals and an assist.

Three players chipped in three points each — Frank Cirone with two goals and an assist, Al Stewart with one goal and two helpers and Jim Horan with three assists. Dan Labine scored the other Rutherford goal while Frank McKay had two assists and Romas Krilavicius had one.

BCC 7, Jiffy Lube 5

Nick Taccogna had the hot hand for Bolton Chiropractic with four goals and two assists.

Team sponsor Mike (Dr. Bend) Shore was smoking, too, with one goal and four assists. Ian Kerr, the rookie team rep, had a goal and two assists while Randy Freitag had the other goal. John Pitsadiotis chipped in an assist.

Ron Sampson had two goals and an assist for Jiffy Lube with Larry Pevato adding three assists. Joe Palumbo scored a goal and added an assist while the other goals went to team sponsor Brian Fetterly and Greg MacIssac. Dominic Ierullo and Jim Rogers each had one assist.

Some good hockey played for a good cause

CCS Chief Executive Officer Monty Laskin accepted this cheque for $30,000 from Garden Foods Proprietor Piero Carbone at the conclusion of Sunday's contest.

The Garden Foods Grinders were trailing entering the third period of Sunday's match, but they put the pressure on the OPP Road Runners goal, finally tying the game in the last minute on a penalty shot.

The second intermission of Sunday's game featured a shooting competition. Corine Synmons of Bolton was the first to try her skill.

The local OPP contingent does a pretty good job of keeping the area safe, but they met their match Sunday night when it came to hockey.

The game was close and it took a shootout to settle the issue, but the Garden Foods Grinders prevailed over the OPP Road Runners in the Face-Off for Families event at Caledon Community Complex in Caledon East.

The match was a fundraiser for Caledon Community Services (CCS), and at the end, Garden Foods proprietor Piero Carbone presented a cheque for $30,000 to CCS Chief Executive Officer Monty Laskin.

"We're starved for good hockey," Laskin remarked. "We had it tonight."

The money will go to aid CCS's efforts to build strong and happy families by providing food support, job training and education assistance for youth to help them develop into contributing neighbours.

Melissa Evans was able to join Karlie, Avery, Christina and Brianna Dolderman as they led the singing of O Canada.
