Group from R.F. Hall ready to help out in Nicaragua

By Bill Rea

Nicaragua is one of the poorest countries in the Western Hemisphere, but there are always people around ready to help out.

That includes a contingent from Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School that's about to travel south to help build a school.

Chaplain Brenda Holtkamp said the group departs tomorrow (Friday), returning Feb. 2.

They will be staying in Jinocua, which teacher Glenn MacGowan said is a very small village close to the border with Honduras.

The students and accompanying teachers will be assisting with the building of an additional classroom onto a secondary school there. MacGowan said it's only recently that there was a school there at all. Previously, kids had to walk a long way to their school. The current project will add a fifth classroom to the facility and finish it.

"It's just a very impoverished area and the government hasn't built a school for them," he commented.

"So we're going to help them out," added Grade 12 student Michelle Ocampo.

MacGowan said they will be helping to construct the foundation, with workers from the community eventually completing the masonry work and the roof.

nity workers," she said, meaning they will do simple jobs like mixing concrete, carrying water and preparing the earth for the foundation.

"It's just something that I always wanted to do," Ocampo said, explaining her participation in the project. "I wanted to experience a new culture and do what I can."

Grade 12 student Tyler Kann also he's always been interested in "experiencing just how most of the world lives," adding he wanted to "kind of get out of the bubble."

This is going to be his first time away from Canada.

"For a while, I've wanted to travel to other parts of the world to see how they live and experience their culture," commented Grade 11 student Maria Pepple.

"Lots of people don't see very much of the world and how parts of the world live in poverty," Grade 11 student Sierra Gogol added.

Grade 11 student Caitlin Asmunt thought it would be "cool to just see how another culture lives."

This will be her first time out of Canada too.

Grade 12 student Katrina Dasilva commented that an opportunity like this comes once in a lifetime; the chance to "walk in solidarity with how the other side lives."

She also thought the opportunity would be "riveting."

"It pushes you to change the way you live your life," she added.

"We're lucky enough to have an opportunity like this," Grade 12 student Brendan Longstreet observed, adding it lets them appreciate what they have here. "So why not take it?"

Everyone agreed the experience promises to be like nothing they's experienced before.

"I've never made a brick before," Dasilva said. "I haven't done any sort of ground work like that before."

Holtkamp said there aren't many concerns about the physical labour involved. The real worry is over the ability to communicate, since the people in the village will be speaking Spanish.

Town Hall wins two GTA-wide awards for energy use reduction

By Bill Rea

Caledon Town Hall received two awards for Team Excellence and Building Performance through the Waste to Reduce Program, led by CivicAction.

The announcement of the awards was made to Town councillors last week by Public Works Director David Loveridge.

The awards were actually presented Dec. 4.

The categories recognize buildings in the Race to Reduce that have demonstrated active and sustained landlord and tenant collaboration for energy conservation, and most significant energy reductions between 2012 and 2013.

Loveridge observed that Race to Reduce is a challenge aimed at getting office buildings within the Greater Toronto Area (GTA) to collectively reduce their energy use by 10 per cent. He pointed out that the challenge grew from a realization that office buildings within the GTA account for almost 20 per cent of carbon emissions, and consume about 37 per cent of the electricity and 17 per cent of the natural gas that is used.

The first award was a Team Excellence Award.

Loveridge commented the project that was recognized was a recommissioning exercise which identified in the Corporate Energy Management Plan. He said there was a gap found in staff knowledge and understanding of the operation of the facility.

An engineering firm was hired to provide technical expertise and suggest improvements. Tom Darlow, of the Town's energy and environment section, led the project and started putting those recommendations into place, once he became facilities manager.

As well, Loveridge said a small staff team was formed, and employees at Town Hall were consulted to help create a balance between staff comfort and energy efficiency. He also pointed out an energy dashboard has been installed outside the council chambers to help keep staff up to date on energy use.

The second award was in building performance, for the greatest energy reduction in a building of less than 250,000 square feet.

The Town, guided by its Corporate Energy Management Plan, demonstrated significant success in reducing energy use at Town Hall. Between 2012 and 2013, Town Hall energy use fell 19 per cent through the collaborative efforts of the Facilities Management Team and staff.

Loveridge stressed the awards would not have been possible without the commitment of staff and the foresight that came from the creation of the energy management plan.

"This is an excellent example of staff commitment to continuous improvement through innovative collaboration," commented Mayor Allan Thompson, who called the awards a huge achievement. "My congratulations to all staff who contributed to this project."

"The positive behaviour change and energy reduction results have given our team the support and enthusiasm we need to move forward and accomplish even greater energy conservation efforts across Town facilities," Loveridge said.

"We were competing with almost every high-rise office building in the GTA," he added.

The Race to Reduce is an initiative of CivicAction, a non-partisan, not-for-profit organization that brings together senior executives and rising leaders from all sectors to tackle some of the region's toughest social, economic and environmental challenges.

Groves wants staff report on rules on building permits

By Bill Rea

Town of Caledon staff is being asked to clarify its obligations when it comes to issuing building permits.

Councillor Annette Groves introduced a notice of motion at last week's council meeting which would direct staff to prepare a report outlining when a permit must be issued, as well as defining what applicable laws might be involved, eligibility requirements for a conditional permit and the accompanying timelines to accept or reject a permit application.

In the body of her motion, Graves noted the issuing of permits is regulated under the Ontario Building Code, adding the Chief Building Official will issue the permit unless the proposal violates the Act, building code "or any other applicable law."

She added there is a long list of statutes that have to be complied with for a building permit to be issued.

It's expected council will discuss this motion at its next regular meeting, scheduled for Jan. 27. Grove's motion asks for the staff report to be ready for council's Feb. 10 meeting.

Beffort wants another haul route for pit

By Bill Rea
Mississauga Road might not be up to the task of being a haul route for the Caledon village area Pinkney Pit, so Councillor Doug Beffort wants an alternative found. Beffort introduced a notice of motion at council's last meeting that would call on the Town to work with representatives of Lafarge Canada, Credit Valley Conservation (CVC), Ministry of Natural Resources, Niagara Escarpment Commission and Peel Region to come up with another route. His motion suggested through the neighbouring Pinchin Pit, which has been rehabilitated and is owned by CVC. The motion stated Lafarge operated the Pinkney Pit, on Mississauga Road south of Charleston Sideroad, adding it has become active after being dormant for a long time. Part of Mississauga Road is the approved haul route for the pit, but Beffort's motion stated it's not constructed for heavy trucks. It's expected the motion will be discussed at the Jan. 27 council meeting.

FINDING THINGS TO DO FOR PD DAY
A lot of the local school kids had the day off Monday so their teachers could have a professional development day. But there were lots of things going on for them to do. The Town put on a free snowshoeing session at Caledon Village Place in the morning. Michelle Willison of Caledon East and her daughter Lauren, 7, were giving it a try for the first time. The Palgrave United Community Kitchen was a busy place as young folks were working on food-based programs. Breanna Hifawi, 10, Kristi Bier, 11, and Evelyn Hesjedahl, 9, were busy washing these apples before using them to make something.

House fire near Cheltenham under investigation

Damage is estimated at $30,000 after a house fire south of Cheltenham Friday night.

Caledon Fire and Emergency Services reports they were sent out at about 11:45 p.m. to the location on Creditview Road, south of King Street.

Upon arrival, firefighters found a detached two-storey home and confirmed there was a fire in the ground floor living room in the area of the wood stove. Four occupants of the home were accounted for.

Crews, using hand lines, commenced an offensive fire attack. The fire was struck out within 10 minutes of crews arriving on scene.

All four occupants, one adult female and three children were transported to Brampton Civic Hospital for minor smoke inhalation.

Six fire vehicles and approximately 26 fire fighters were on scene.

The home did have working smoke alarms which alerted the occupants to the fire.

The cause of the fire is under investigation. Crews from Cheltenham, Inglewood and Snelgrove Fire Stations responded, as did Caledon OPP and Peel EMS.

Caledon Fire and Emergency Services would like to remind all residents that working smoke alarms will alert them to a fire in the home, but to safely escape everyone must know what to do when the alarm sounds. In a fire, every second counts. It is critical to have a home escape plan in place and to practise it. Residents must develop a plan that will allow everyone to safely escape.

Planning, discussing and practising the plan are essential. Each person must know the actions to take when the smoke alarm sounds. Consideration must be given to who will be responsible for young children or other persons who may require assistance. Caledon residents are encouraged to download a Home Escape Plan Template from the Town website at www.caledon.ca/fireprevention

Alcohol involved in all three snowmobile deaths OPP investigated this season

This is Snowmobile Safety Week in Ontario (Jan. 17 to 25).

With three Ontario snowmobile deaths already on record (in OPP jurisdiction) so far this season, drinking while snowmobiling was one of the topics at hand as OPP and Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs (OFSC) kicked off provincial Snowmobile Safety Week at OPP General Headquarters last Thursday.

Following police investigation, alcohol was found to be involved in all three of the fatal incidents and was the primary cause in two of them. Two of the three victims were not wearing helmets.

Last season, 21 people died while snowmobiling (in OPP jurisdiction) and police continue to see recurring contributing factors.

Alcohol was involved in at least seven of last season's incidents and speed was found to be the primary cause in 11 of them.

With several weeks left in the 2015 season, OPP is reminding snowmobilers to take charge of their own safety, as this is the only way to eliminate snowmobile fatalities.

- Do not ride if you have consumed alcohol or drugs: Snowmobiling under the influence of any amount of alcohol or drugs carries severe penalties. If convicted of snowmobiling while impaired, a rider could lose all driving privileges (car, truck, motorcycle, off-road vehicles and snowmobiles).

The same "warn range" suspensions issued for having a BAC (Blood Alcohol Concentration) between 0.05 and 0.08 mg. that apply to driving a motor vehicle, also apply to driving a snowmobile.

- Take it easy: Always ride within the speed limit, within your own ability and according to current trail and weather conditions.
- Slow down at night: Ride cautiously at night and never outrun your sled's headlights.
- Know before you go: No ice travel is ever completely safe. Hypothermia or drowning from riding into open water or falling through the ice are serious risks, as are collisions with fixed objects such as docks, ice huts or shorelines.
- See and be seen: Good judgment, depth perception and quick reaction time depend on being able to see properly at all times. Slow down and keep right in reduced visibility situations like snow dust, sun glare, heavy falling snow, or when visor or glasses are fogged up; always wear bright colours and reflective materials so others can see you more easily.
- Ride with companions: Never snowmobile alone. Riding buddies can provide immediate assistance for breakdowns, when getting stuck or in emergency situations.

- Be prepared: Snowmobiling incidents occur in unpredictable and uncontrolled natural settings where each rider needs to always expect the unexpected. Snowmobiling can take you far away from emergency assistance, so each rider must be prepared by carrying a tool kit, spare parts, flashlight, first-aid kit and survival items such as high-energy food, fire-starting equipment and a compass.

OPP is committed to saving lives on Ontario's highways, trails and waterways through the reduction of preventable injury and death.

Initiatives are developed and delivered through the Provincial Traffic Safety Program.

OFSC is committed to proactive leadership in promoting safe, responsible riding, on and off Ontario snowmobile trails, by building safer snowmobiling knowledge, attitudes and behaviours through rider education, safety legislation, development and enforcement.

Paramedics deliver ambulances filled with toys to Peel Children's Centre

Christmas arrived at Peel Children's Centre (PCC) as a fleet of two ambulances and a minivan overflowing with toys and diapers were delivered.

This was a couple of days before the holiday, courtesy of Peel Regional Paramedic Services (PRPS) and the Peel Paramedic Association (PPA).

"We are thrilled that Peel's paramedics have again donated the proceeds of their toy and diaper drive to Peel Children's Centre," said PCC's CEO, Humphrey Mitchell. "This outpouring of generosity will make the holidays a much brighter time for several families that are struggling with serious mental health challenges and material needs."

Annually, during November and December, PRPS and the PPA partner to host a toy and diaper drive where paramedics, Regional support staff and many organizations throughout Peel drop off hundreds of toys and thousands of diapers into donation bins at paramedic stations throughout Caledon, Brampton and Mississauga.

"This year marks our fifth toy and diaper drive in support of the Peel Children's Centre," said Brad Bowie, community relations specialist with PRPS. "To be able to help our community this holiday season by donating gifts for Peel's children and their families is a privilege."

PCC is a fully accredited, charitable children's mental health centre that has served Peel since 1985. Each year, PCC provides more than 6,900 services free-of-charge for children and youth under age 18 and their families, who are experiencing serious mental health challenges such as aggression, defiance, impulsivity, anxiety, depression, attachment disorder, attention deficit/hyperactivity disorder and self-harm. Peel paramedics respond to more than 100,000 emergency medical calls every year. For more information about Peel Regional Paramedic Services, visit peelems.ca or follow them at twitter.com/peel_paramedics

Motion Device ready to prove rock is not dead and they plan to do it on their own terms

Caledon’s very own Motion Device has just released its second official Kickstart-er campaign in an attempt to get a new full length album funded by fans.

The young band already completed a successful campaign a year ago and re-leased their debut EP Welcome to the Rock Revolution in 2014.

This time around, Motion Device is set on proving to all the naysayers that rock is far from dead. Although the music industry seems to be bent on forcing every other genre down the public’s collective throat, this very young rock band, lead by their 13-year-old vocalist Sara, plans on bringing rock and metal back to the fore-front.

They are eager to show many doubters out there that these days all a rock band really needs to make it in the music business is fans and Motion Device has already built quite an audience. The band is approaching six million views and 33,000 subscribers on their Youtube channel and more than 13,000 likes on Facebook — and all that has been done without the help of a record label.

In fact, the band’s management was recently called into one of the largest music companies in the world to meet and discuss their future plans. Although a record deal might be in the cards one day, Motion Device is not planning on handing over control of their little empire. They truly believe they can accomplish all their musical dreams with the support of their fans, who happen to be all over the globe. A recent shipment of CDs and merchandise was just sent out to Argentina, Ireland, Belgium, England, Brazil, Sweden, Denmark, Canada and the U.S.A.

Motion Device has built quite a fan base with their fair share of Youtube covers over the past few years, but their fans have been especially impressed with the band’s original material and they keep asking for more.

The band receives hundreds of comments from fans on a daily basis, but there’s one in particular that constantly comes up: “Faith in humanity restored.”

It seems people in this world are in need of more rock music and Motion Device is ready to give them exactly what they need.

Catch Motion Device performing at Stewart Maguire’s Landing in Bolton Jan. 31.

Group from Hall getting away from cold to help in Nicaragua

The local group will be put up by host families while in Jinocuaao.

Planning for the upcoming trip to Nicaragua included fund-raising efforts. The school hosted a Spanish Fiesta last month. Participant Brendan Longstreet and his grandmother Bernadette Brayley were looking over some of the silent auction items available.

“They get to live with families in their living conditions,” Holtkamp observed. “The experience should be sweeter because we get to immerse ourselves with the whole project,” Ocampo added. It won’t be all work down there. Holtkamp said there will be trips to see various points of interest, including a volcano. They will also get to check out the largest artisan market in Central America.

“It has everything there,” she said, adding the focus is small cultural artwork, as well as needlepoint, pottery and leatherwork. It will be part of a tour of the capital, Managua, their first day there. There will also be chances to play soccer with the young people living there. Holtkamp added there is the hope that there will be some interesting conversation; “Ideas on what young people face in different cultures.”

MacGowan said that Nicaragua is the largest country in Central America, and the second poorest in the hemisphere (Haiti is the poorest). The trip is being made in partnership with Casa Candiense, a Toronto-based non-profit Canadian-Nicaraguan partnership that supports grassroots community development in Nicaragua and seeks to educate Canadian youth about global issues.

Holtkamp said the students are paying for their air travel. There will be a big change in the weather they will be flying into, with temperatures in the area of 30 degrees. Holtkamp added the southern part of the country is mainly rainforest, while further north, where they will be, is dry tropical. “It’s a good place for us to get a really good experience,” Holtkamp observed.

Music at the Spanish Fiesta was provided by members of the jazz band Fellowship of Swing.

Residents invited to take part in Budget

The Town of Caledon invites its residents to participate in this year’s review of the 2015 budget. There are a number of opportunities to attend budget meetings and engage throughout the process. “The 2015 budget process is underway. As a new council, we are looking forward to hearing from citizens and understanding what is important to them,” said Mayor Allan Thompson. “On behalf of council and staff, I encourage and welcome all residents to become informed and engaged, and have their say.” There have already been two meetings at which the budget has been discussed. Further sessions are planned for Feb. 2 and 3, at which various Town departments will make their budget presentations to council. Presentations dealing with parks and recreation, corporate services, general governance, economic development, and fire and emergency services will take place Feb. 2, starting at 3 p.m. The following day will see presentations from public works, human resources, development approval and planning policy, and library, again starting at 3 p.m. Final approval of the budget is planned for March 3, with the meeting starting at 1 p.m. All information on the budget will be posted to www.caledon.ca/budget. Alton Mill presents a festival of flames, food and fine art

Warm up to winter and bring the whole family for a blizzard of fun, at the sixth annual Fire and Ice festival Jan. 24 and 25 at the Alton Mill Arts Centre.

It's time to rediscover Canadian winter traditions and enjoy spectacular ice carvings, a snow playground, skating on the millpond rink, and a spellbinding fire sculpture. Try snowshoeing with experts from Caledon Hills Cycling, learn to build an igloo, or watch ice carvers Jim Menken and Winston Uytendogaart create a crystal sculpture garden in the Annex Courtyard. Potter Ann Rander-aad will demonstrate a raku firing in her outdoor kiln, while blacksmith Ray Schindler will create ironworks in the forge.

Indoors, mill studio artists will be conducting workshops and demos to warm body and soul.

Check out Give it a Whirl at The Hive's encaustic workshop (Studio 201, both days at 1 and 3 pm, $15 per person for supplies), or make a mark and create Words of Fire in Studio 206, where artist CJ Shelton will be building a collective word "mandala," a circular design made up entirely of written words. Bridget Wilson (Studio 208) will host a fused glass workshop (pre-registration required at bw@artglass-design.com) and Paul Morin will help budding artists create abstract canvases with his interactive spin art sessions.

Chill out and warm up with hot drinks and treats from Shaw's Creek Café, try a maple syrup snow pop from Love's Sweetness Maple Syrup, or enjoy a beer and a bite hot off the Millpond barbecue.

Saturday only, experience a Canadian tradition — outdoor pond hockey. Cheer on the teams competing in the Millpond Hockey Classic beginning at 9 a.m. Junior, women's and men's games are scheduled on two historic ponds — the Alton Mill and the Millcroft Inn and Spa. Opening ceremonies will take place at 11:30 a.m., with MP David Tilson, MPP Sylvia Jones, Mayor Allan Thompson, and Councillors Barb Shaughnessy and Doug Beffort in attendance, along with celebrity referee and Hockey Hall of Famer Ray Scapinello. Free skating gets under way at 3:45 p.m. Saturday and will continue Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. Also Sunday, a bona fide curling rink will be open, with "rock stars" at the ready to demonstrate their technique and assist novice curlers.

Things will really heat up Saturday evening at dusk when Brian Oates ignites a brand new fire sculpture.

This year's creation will feature a circular ice lodge and symbolic tree of life.

After the burn, hockey fans can head indoors to the Hot Stove Lounge Pub Night, or the Ice Cube Lounge for a night of music and art videos (from 6:30 p.m.) Both venues will feature casual food and cash bar. Tickets are available online at www.altonmill.ca or at the door.

Blackhorse Players presenting Norm Foster's Office Hours

By Constance Scrafield

The winter season has begun for the Blackhorse Village Players (BVP) with Norm Foster's comedy Office Hours.

The theatre on Highway 9 has a long history in the Tottenham/Caledon area, founded 45 years ago by Pat and Ken Varco and John Milne. While the Varcos left the area some years ago, Milne is still very much part of the local community and a member of Tottenham United Church.

Margaret Phillips, director of the current production, has been part of it all for 40-plus years.

"We moved here from the Westway," she said in a telephone interview. "We both wanted a country property and found one out here. We were working in Toronto and commuted but we made it."

Then, one day, Phillips noticed a sign about a review being done by a local theatre group.

"It didn't interest me much at first," she reminisced, "but then I thought, 'I'm just going to phone anyway.' They invited me to come for a reading — I was never a good reader and I was worried I would make a lot of mistakes but I didn't and I got a part."

It was love at first tread on the boards for Phillips. She really enjoyed the camaraderie of the group and the whole business of being involved in theatre.

"I had never been involved with theatre ever but I thought, 'Oh, well — just give it a try.'"

Over time, she explained, "I just got more involved. The kids had to come with me. I asked my husband, Gord, to come and give me a hand — so, he did. He still helps out with the scenery."

For a while after they retired, the Phillips went south, but she said they got bored in Florida.

"I'd rather be home," she said and, so, became even more involved, now that she was available to help with the shows in the winter, for BVP put on a full season of plays from October to June.

They began this time round with A Little Quickie in October; now presenting Office Hours in January; March and April will see them producing another Norm Foster work, Skin Flick, and then finishing their season in May and June with Ug, the cave-man musical, tending this year to comedy.

Over the years, Phillips has been the producer for the shows.

"I like to produce too," she said. "The producer sets the cost for everything. And there isn't a lot of money."

"I have worn a lot of hats over the years and it has all been fun," she went on to say, "I have met many wonderful, talented people who have taught me a great deal."

Indeed, the theatre is run on ticket sales, with all the work being done by volunteers. Donations to the maintenance of the building and producing shows are appreciated as support for the theatre's producing fine quality community theatre for the region.

BVP is a member of the Association of Community Theatres (ACT-CO) and Theatre Ontario and has won several awards, both regional and provincial.

As director for Office Hours, Phillips commented, "I'm really pleased with the way things are going. Office Hours is such a funny play."

The basic plot of this satire of the 9-to-5 life revolves around the characters in six different offices within the same city. Sixteen roles are played by nine actors. Naturally, being a Norm Foster play, the writing is witty and the characters are often people we all know. The stories within the play intertwine as the connection between the diverse individuals becomes apparent.

Having necessarily brought her children with her in the early days, Phillips is happy to tell of their own involvement with the BVP.

Her daughter, Cheryl, began by selling "chips and pop (in the early days) when we were playing in the Tottenham Town Hall."

Since then, Cheryl Phillips started to perform by the age of 18 and directed a play for the first time by 28. In this performance of Office Hours, Cheryl is playing two of the roles.

Of her many years with the theatre, Phillips says, "It keeps me sane."

Office Hours runs Jan. 16, 17, 18, 22, 23 and 24; evening curtain at 8:15 and Sunday matinee at 2:15 Jan. 18.

The ‘50s was a good time to grow up in a small town

By Bill Rea

There are some who knock small-town life, especially in years past. But those times contained a lot of nostalgic memories which the Caledon East Historical Society learned about recently. Local author Ken Weber reflected on his own experiences living in a small town in the early 1950s. He said that was a good time to be growing up, with the Toronto Maple Leafs at least being competitive for the Stanley Cup and before people really understood the meaning of the word “terrorism.” Those people were regarded as country types, and often teased by urban dwellers. Weber said he had a cousin who lived in Detroit, and regarded him as backward. “I got him to slow down, though, when I got him to pee on an electric fence,” he said.

Tilson announces investment in recreational fisheries project

The government of Canada has partnered with the Halton-Peel Woodlands and Wildlife Stewardship to undertake tree planting improvements along Caledon Creek. Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson highlighted the government’s investment in the Caledon Creek tree-planting program. Through the Recreational Fisheries Conservation Partnerships Program (RFCPP), the Stewardship will receive up to $5,500 to support the conservation of fish habitat in Caledon. The Stewardship will improve brook trout habitat through riparian plantings along stream courses that have been previously degraded. As part of the National Conservation Plan, RFCPP was created to restore Canada’s waterways and to ensure sustainability and ongoing productivity of recreational fisheries. Given its success in ensuring a more coordinated approach to conservation efforts across the country, and high demand, the government increased the investment in the Economic Action Plan 2014 to a total of $25 million. The Halton-Peel Woodlands and Wildlife Stewardship will contribute to the conservation and restoration of the country’s natural environment and help connect Canadians to the rich natural heritage. Under the third round of the Recreational Fisheries Conservation Partnerships Program, up to $1.28 million has been made available for 14 projects in Ontario. Since the launch of the program, more than $18 million has already been committed to in excess of 300 projects across Canada. Under the first round, the program awarded $5.9 million to 94 projects. In the second round, the program committed up to $5.5 million to 128 projects. The third round will see up to $6.8 million committed for more than 80 projects to be undertaken between 2014 and 2016. The fourth round of funding applications is now closed. Successful projects will be announced shortly.

“The Recreational Fisheries Conservation Partnerships Program allows our government to support an important economic sector while also ensuring sustainable fisheries,” observed Minister of Fisheries and Oceans Minister Gail Shea. “Our government is proud to support their

Those were the days when there would only be one phone in the house (Weber said his grandchildren look at him as if he’s from another planet when he tells them that). “One” was an important number in his town in those days. In that town, like many others, there was only one clothing store, one hairdresser, one plumber, one carpenter, etc. One the advantages he mentioned was when one hired a carpenter, they didn’t run the risk of dying of old age waiting for the building permit. There was also one tailor, who Weber said believed in “one size fits all, especially for men’s pants.” He said it was the kind of place where each house had a ball of string next to a stack of paper grocery bags, and people didn’t have to be told to reuse. Weber said his father had a hardware store; the type of establishment where a customer could buy one battery, or a handful of nails. Those were also the days when his father pushed his lawnmower, and drinking water came from a well. Those were also the days when radios had tubes. “You could improve reception by banging it with your fist,” he recalled. And mothers wore hats and gloves when they went shopping. Another advantage he mentioned was everybody knew things about their community. “It was life without Google,” he observed. Weber recalled the church people belonged to was important to them, but it was not something that was regularly discussed, and there wasn’t a lot of friction either. He said Catholics in town watched the Orange Parade, adding it was a Catholic who owned the white horse that led the parade. It was a “product of small-town wisdom and small-town experience” to keep head-butting issues off the table. He recalled there were two good friends in town who both fought at Vimy Ridge; one for the Germans and the other for Canada. “If the generals on both sides had grown up in the same small town, there would never have been a war,” they used to say. When it came to social problems in town, Weber said they had more than their share of people who drank too much. Referring to one priest, he said, “his idea of drink responsibly was don’t spill it.” He added that during the winter of 1950, a group of men from town found themselves stuck in Orangeville for a couple of days. Orangeville was “dry” at the time. He said they called that “a preview of hell.” Weber also recalled a lack of complaining in those days, with a more relaxed atmosphere and more of a general acceptance. “You didn’t have to keep up with the Joneses because we were all Joneses,” he said. Weber pointed out there are a lot more choices facing people today than was the case in the ‘50s. He pointed to the number of TV channels available now, to the one people in his town watched. “Everybody watched it faithfully,” he recalled. He also said TV killed the ‘50s. “The card parties stopped,” Weber said. “People stopped visiting each other.”

work that will benefit Canadian communities for years to come.” “Hard-working organizations like the Halton-Peel Woodlands and Wildlife Stewardship are the foundation of the Recreational Fisheries Conservation Partnerships Program,” Tilson commented. “Our government will continue to advocate for recreational fishing, an important economic activity which contributes billions to our economy and is a part of our heritage. Together with our like-minded partners, we recognize the importance of protecting and restoring fishing habitat for generations to come.”

Have input on fill bylaw

The town will be hosting an open house to get public input on proposed changes to its fill bylaw. It will be Jan. 28, starting at 7 p.m. in the main foyer at Town Hall in Caledon East. The Town is considering amendments regarding fill moratorium for applications in excess of 10,000 cubic metres until a Comprehensive Fill Bylaw is passed, a requirement that the applicant demonstrate the fill is for the purpose of improving the productivity of agricultural land of an existing agriculture operation, providing for an increase in the applicable fees and a requirement for securities on fill permits. Comments from the public at this meeting will be welcome.

Councillor wants open burning considered

By Bill Rea

Should open-air burning be permitted on certain lots in settlement areas? Caledon Councillor Nick deBoer is asking Town staff to look into that. DeBoer put forth a notice of motion at last week’s council meeting, calling on staff at the Fire and Emergency Services department to look into the feasibility of allowing open-air fires on lots that are at least half an acre in settlement areas. The motion stated that such fires are currently not allowed in such areas, and there are a number of residents who have raised concerns over such a prohibition. The motion is likely to be discussed at the next regular council meeting, scheduled for Jan. 27.

Nothing’s final yet with the budget

We will grant that it wasn’t the greatest news that came out of Town Hall last Tuesday, but it’s still early days for working on the Town’s budget for 2015.

The proposals from Town staff so far call for a tax increase of 4.72 per cent to the Town’s share of the property tax bill.

The Town’s share last year was about 36 per cent, and it’s still too soon to say what it will be this year.

This time of year also calls for realistic thinking. We can all agree that no tax increase would be lovely. But we should also all know that’s not going to happen. Some short-sighted people in Caledon thought they were doing something positive more than 20 years ago when they opted for no tax hikes for several years, and the community’s infrastructure suffered as a result.

And an even more basic fact is if we want services from government, there is some payment involved.

We all say we want nice roads on which to drive, a fire department that is going to be there when that emergency develops and they’re needed, libraries with materials we need and programs to entertain and educate our children, recreation facilities that are clean and well maintained, and a municipality that will be able to provide all these services, along with others.

It’s very easy to blame government for not using tax dollars wisely, and we would be the first to agree that there will always be room for improvement. But there are a lot of times when the demand from the public creates a lot of heat that government simply can’t ignore.

It’s not just at the local level. Taxpayers want things from their Region, their Province and their federal governments.

True, governments can simply say “no,” and hold the line on what’s provided, simply telling the public there’s no money.

And then they can take that argument to the voters at election time, and stack them up against opponents who offer everything.

As we have all seen many, many times before, it’s not so much the sound and prudent policies that rise, but taxes.

There are other factors involved. Mayor Allan Thompson mentioned last week that one problem the Town has is a lack of industrial and commercial assessment. In other words, if there were more businesses and industries paying taxes in Caledon, the burdon on the homeowners could perhaps be eased.

The problem with that sound thinking is there’s lots of support for businesses spending lots of money here, until they actually come.

Once that happens, we start hearing complaints from some (and we stress the word “some”) people, as Canadian Tire officials learned the hard way.

The increase in the Town’s share of taxes of 4.72 per cent might be a little hard to swallow, although we stress again that nothing has yet been finalized. The talk, so far, is Peel Region is going to keep its tax increase at 1.9 per cent, which would dull the overall impact on Caledon taxpayers to just two per cent, assuming there’s no increase to the share paid for education (and nothing final has been decided about the Regional or education rates).

We still don’t know what the final tax decisions are going to be. We all want low taxes and we all want lots of service.

Who is going to be the first to budge?

Police issue reminder of importance of locking up valuables

Caledon OPP are reminding residents to secure their vehicles and homes by ensuring that all entrances and doors are locked when unattended.

Recently, several residences in the south area of Caledon have been targeted and victimized. Officers have received several calls for service regarding vehicles being left unlocked and items being removed. Small change and small items of value were targeted in each occurrence, with suspects gaining entry due to insecure doors.

Police are reminding people to lock their vehicle doors and to never leave wallets or other personal items of value in them. In the event that a vehicle is entered and items taken, the owners are asked to contact the OPP Communications Centre at 1-888-310-1122.

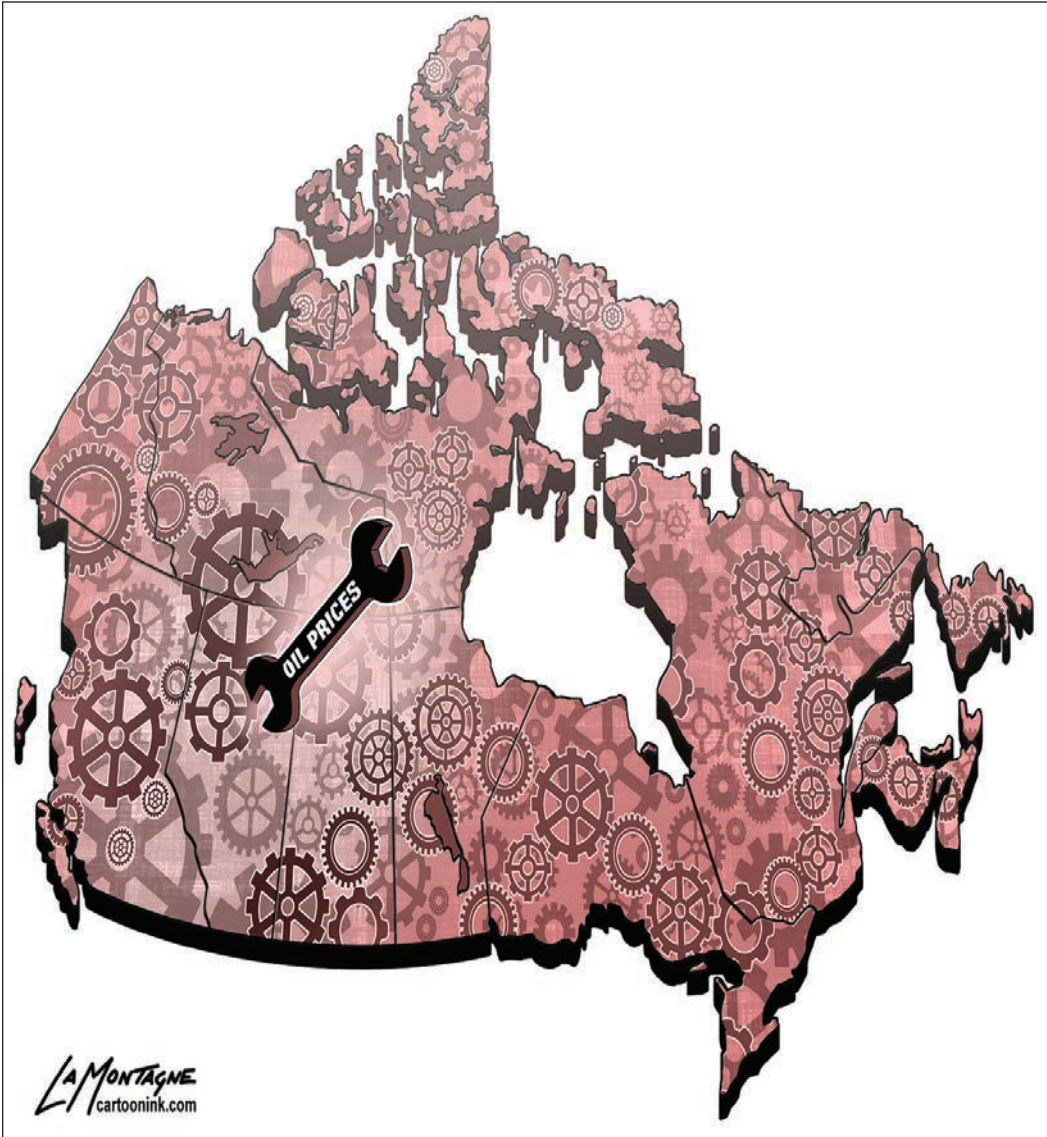

They are also reminding residents to remain vigilant and report any suspicious persons, vehicles or activity immediately. Information such as suspect physical descriptions, vehicle descriptions and direction of travel are all useful information for investigators.

Any information about the thefts from vehicles or any other criminal act can be reported directly to the police or anonymously to Peel Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

It happened today

While the boxing world anxiously waited for a second fight with Muhammad Ali, heavyweight champion Joe Frazier decided to first defend his title against an undefeated, but relative unknown contender named George Foreman.

The fight in Kingston, Jamaica, did not last long, as Foreman’s punching prowess sent the champ to the canvass six times in less than five minutes, before the referee stepped in and stopped the contest. That happened this day, Jan. 22, 1973.

Don’t mock others’ faiths

When it comes to writing these pieces, or general conversation for that matter, one topic I am usually very careful about is religion.

As I have often stated in this place in the paper, I do not consider myself a religious man. On the other hand, I know very well that there are many people out there who read these words and are very devoted to the faith of their choice, and I respect that. I also respect the fact that faith is largely a matter of choice, and we all have the right to make our own life decisions, and live with them.

When it comes to the mainstream religions, there’s really very little reason not to respect them, unless one discounts them all. And I neither expect or hope to ever see that happen.

History records that vast amounts of blood have been spilled in squabbles over the appropriate way to proclaim a supreme being, and one has to wonder what these conflicts accomplished. They continue to this day. They have impacted me too. Both my father’s parents were born in Northern Ireland, and there were times in recent memory when one faith clashed with another in that land, often violently.

The tolerance of many in this world was tested to a great extent in the last couple of weeks, in light of the terrorist attacks in France. Not surprisingly, my attention was quickly caught by the fact that a newspaper office was the prime target of these attacks, with several people being killed in the process.

While the Citizen is no a satirical publication, which Charlie Hebdo is reputed to be (I have never seen a copy, and am not likely to), we are still able to make people mad. We get our share of snarky emails, phone calls and personal visits, dealing with such things as the stands we’ve taken on certain issues, the way particular events have been covered, the way the paper is delivered and words that have been misspelled (I have always acknowledged that spelling is not among my strengths). But we have yet to have a group of gun-toting fanatics bust in and open fire. That’s a little too much to expect.

I guess I’m a Christian, based on my upbringing (my mother dragged me against my will to Sunday school in the local Anglican church, and I always wondered why Dad was never pressed into such weekly chores). I know there are people calling themselves Christians who do or have done terrible things. I don’t condemn my faith because of their actions, and I don’t take responsibility for what they do, any more than I expect them to take responsibility for what I do. These are the acts of individuals.

The same can be said when evil is done by people calling themselves Muslims. More than 30 years ago, when I waited tables in a hotel dining room in Toronto, the place was owned for a time by a Muslim family. I found these people who suddenly were employing my services to be very friendly, sublime and pleasant to work for. True, like any employer, they could be tough when it was required, and sometimes excessively demanding. But they were also very appreciative of people who worked hard, and very harsh with people who were useless.

In other words, they were pretty much like any other people I’ve worked for over the years.

I learned a lot about respect and acceptance from those people.

Among other things, the experience taught me there are a variety of ways in which to proclaim a supreme being, and such methods vary from person to person. None of them are right or wrong.

I was upset by what went on in France in the last couple of weeks. Among other things, it was all an affront to the concept of freedom of speech and freedom of expression. But like all freedoms, there are limits, and it’s up to all of us to respect those limits.

One issue that has been raised of late has dealt with cartoons that have been printed in various publications, depicting the Prophet Muhammad, which evidently sparked the attack on Charlie Hebdo.

While I’m no expert on Islam, I have read enough to know there are many people in the world who would find such cartoons offensive. For that reason alone, I would never have authorized publishing such a thing.

I know there are many people hollering these days about freedom of speech and expression. I deeply believe in those concepts. I would have no business doing what I do for a living if I didn’t.

But these freedoms do not grant anyone the right to be offensive, or obnoxious.

Most of us who make it to adulthood learn to temper what we say to and around other people. We all have the right to speak our minds, but we also understand there’s an obligation to be respectful of those who hear us. And most of us have the good sense to apologize when we cross the line.

I thought Pope Francis put it rather well last week. While he was naturally appalled at what had taken place in France, and defended the idea of freedom of expression, he said there are limits as to how far that should go, and mocking the faith of people crosses that line.

“You cannot provoke,” the Pope is quoted as saying. “You cannot insult the faith of others. You cannot make fun of the faith of others. There is a limit.”

The fact these people believed their faith had been insulted certainly did not give them the right to shoot and kill a lot of people, including journalists and police officers. Being obnoxious is not a justification for killing anyone. If it were, my own hit list would consist of several pages.

But the actions of these few fanatics should not change the way the rest of us think.

I’ve heard a few commentators suggest more cartoons of this nature should be published, partly as a statement of freedom expression, and partly to show these fanatics we won’t be intimidated.

Laudable positions, but I don’t share them.

As I stated above, if it were up to me, I wouldn’t allow such items to be published because it would be needlessly disrespectful to too many people who deserve better. I’m not about to let a couple of extremists change my mind about anything. And as I also stated above, I am not going to make any effort to lay my mitts on a copy of Charlie Hebdo. I wouldn’t have bothered with it before these jerks shot up their offices, and I don’t want these guys influencing my actions.

The last thing I want is for them to get the idea that they influence my life.

Golden Hawks fail to gain ground over two-game weekend

By Jake Courtepatte
Looking to stay hot following an intense 6-5 overtime victory over the powerhouse Stayner Siskins last Thursday, the Junior C Caledon Golden Hawks headed into a weekend back-to-back, hoping to make a splash in the GMOHL standings. They unfortunately would fail to salvage a point in either contest, as defensive lapses left the Caledon goaltending tandem out to dry. Penalty trouble plagued the Hawks Saturday night in Orillia, as the Terriers made good on four power-play goals in a 6-4 victory. Caledon goaltender Sam Procopio made a game's worth of saves in the first period alone, stopping 28 of 31 shots on net in only the first 20 minutes. Goal scorers for the Golden Hawks were Ryan Mouser, Steve Zeppieri, Nicholas McNutt and Ryan Wonfor with his second of the season. James Cyfko was between the pipes the next night for the Hawks against the Alliston Hornets, and was faced with an even tougher challenge than his teammate the previous game. However it was the Hawks who had the first good offensive opportunity of the game, when Cody Forgione sprung newcomer Damian Caringi on a breakaway with a beautiful saucer pass. Caringi's wrist shot would hit the crossbar and shoot straight down, sitting on the goal line before being covered up by the Hornets' goaltender. Alliston would explode for three goals in the latter half of the first period, countered only by a nice snap shot by Ben Ardis that found the top shelf through a screen. Forgione made his second great play of the period while killing off a Steven Klomp five-minute major, diving to stop and slap away the puck rolling into the Caledon net. Caledon's luck turned from bad to worse in the second, giving up the Hornets' fourth goal of the game less than a minute in before a backchecking Alex Palumbo knocked the puck into his own net while diving to stop an Alliston scoring chance.

When all was said and done, Alliston found the back of the net eight times on a miraculous 63 shots. The shot total is the most given up by the Golden Hawks all season. Daniel Cafagna and McNutt also scored for the Hawks in the 8-3 loss. Perhaps the only upsides to Caledon's game was the defensive efforts of captain Forgione and the production of Ardis, who has earned five points through five games in the new year. With only three games left on the regular season schedule, the Hawks will have to rely heavily on luck if they hope to secure a home-ice advantage matchup. Meanwhile, they could fall as far as ninth place if things go sour, forcing a play-in round for the GMOHL playoffs. Their first test of the week is in Schomberg against the Cougars, whom they are currently tied with in points. This Sunday's home game is against the Erin Shamrocks at 7 p.m. at Caledon East. Rutherford adds a bit of air to its men’s hockey lead

The teams are starting to spread out a bit in the standings in the Caledon Senior Hockey League, after last Monday’s (Jan. 12) results.

Bolton Chiropractic Centre and Fines Ford Lincoln traded goals all night until their game ended in a 5-5 sawoff.

In the other games at Don Sheardown Memorial Arena, Jiffy Lube Oilers shaded Yale Industrial Trucks 4-3 and Rutherford Global Logistics bombed George’s Arena Sports 9-1.

Rutherford are now ahead in the standings by two points with 23, followed by the Chiropractors with 21, Oilers with 20 and Fines Ford with 18.

Bolton Chiropractic 5, Fines Ford 5

Rick Agar scored his second goal of the game with five minutes and 15 seconds left in the third period to pull the Chiropractors into a tie.

Mike Shore, Mark Perrin and Paul Speck had the other goals. Howard Wight and John Crossley both had two assists while singles came from David Shoalts and Jeff Boyles.

Jack Gibson was the high-flyer for Fines Ford with three goals and an assist. John Pitsadiotis and Rod Sinclair scored the other goals. John Pallotta, Santo Gazzola, Dominic Ierullo and Frank McKay had the assists.

Jiffy Lube 4, Yale 3

Team rep Rich Petrie led the way for Jiffy Lube with a goal and an assist.

The rest of the goals were handled by Bill Jenner, Bill Doherty and Marty Madensky. Single assists went to Joe Palumbo, Dom Orazio, Mike McNamara and Steve Sanderson.

Yale’s team rep Jim Dunbar matched Petrie’s effort with a goal and an assist of his own. Garth Young and Steve Tarasco also scored. Tony Calbro bagged two assists with Nick Taccogna and John Castellucci getting one each.

Rutherford 9, George’s 1

Bernie Tisdale and Peter Coghill

were flying for Rutherford with three goals each, while Tisdale also had an assist.

Bob McHardy had a big night, too, with a goal and three helpers. Team rep Gary Hoxey chipped in a goal and an assist and Jim Horan piled up three assists. Team sponsor Romas Krilavicius scored the other goal with James Heenan adding two assists and Ted Callighen one.

Stephan Paccula spoiled Rutherford goaltender Santino Paglia’s shutout bid with 20 seconds left in the game by scoring in his CSHL debut. George Armstrong was the set-up man.

Eric Lamaze goes two-for-two in $30,000 WEF Challenge Cup

It was a case of déjà vu as Eric Lamaze and Rosana du Park stood in the winner’s circle following the $30,000 Ruby et Violette WEF Challenge Cup Round II Jan. 15 at the Winter Equestrian Festival in Wellington, Florida.

The pair had enjoyed exactly the same result one week earlier in the opening round of the 12-week WEF Challenge Cup Series.

For their second win, Lamaze and Rosa-na du Park were up against 72 other entries. Thirteen found their way to a clear round over the track set by course designer Luc Musette of Belgium. Lamaze, of Schomberg, and Rosana du Park were only the second pair back to challenge the shortened jump-off course. Much like a week earlier, when he had been the first one back for the jump-off, Lamaze once again set a blistering pace of 39.78 seconds and left it up to the rest of the field to try to catch him. None who followed were able to post a time of less than 40 seconds, with Lamaze’s long-time Canadian teammate, Ian Millar of Perth coming closest with a time of 40.75 seconds for second place riding Dixon. Kent Farrington of the United States took third after crossing the timers in 40.92 seconds with Waomi.

“We knew we had to go for it, but she is naturally so quick in the air and dependable in the roll-backs,” said Lamaze of his jump-off strategy with Rosana du Park. “When a horse is good and they’re careful, everything suits them. To be honest, I think she is very competitive. I can ask her to go fast in a straight line, or turn very sharp to anything, and she gives 100 per cent. I think she is a great mare and is going to win a lot.”

Rosana du Park, a 10-year-old bay selle francais mare, was purchased at the end of 2012 by Artisan Farms LLC in partnership Lamaze’s Torrey Pines Stable. Following two years of careful and deliberate development, including being campaigned by Torrey Pines Stable rider Carly Anthony, Rosana du Park is now stepping up to the grand prix ranks.

“Carlene and I are thrilled with today’s win,” said Andy Ziegler, who owns Artisan Farms LLC with his wife, Carlene. “Eric and his team have done an extraordinary job bringing Rosana along, and it is nice to see the results of their hard work.”

In addition to his win in the $30,000 Ruby et Violette WEF Challenge Cup Round II, Lamaze also claimed a $3,000 bonus for the second week in a row in the SSG Gloves “Go Clean for the Green” promotion for wearing SSG Digital riding gloves on his way to victory.

The pair of wins signals good things to come for Lamaze on the 12-week Winter Equestrian Festival circuit. With a stable full of top horses, there is no doubt that Lamaze will soon make another trip to the winner’s circle.

“I came to this circuit with fantastic horses,” said Lamaze. “I have some new upcoming horses that are now ready to perform like Rosana and Check Picobello Z. I have a new stallion still in quarantine, Houston, that I think a lot of that is going to be coming out in a couple of weeks. Fine Lady is going to make her debut next week. And Powerplay and Zigali are still in the barn!”

“I planned this,” continued the 2008 Olympic Champion. “I stopped my season after Barcelona (at the beginning of October) to rest some horses, and tried to arrive here with fresh horses. So far, it’s paid off. I have to thank Carlene and Andy Ziegler for their support.”

MIDGETS WIN REGIONAL SILVER STICK

The Caledon Hawks midget ‘AA’ team took the title in the Brampton Regional Silver Stick Tournament held Dec. 28 to 30. In the round robin, Caledon placed first overall, with victories over Duffield Devils, 3-2; Mississauga Terriers, 4-2; and Halton Hills Thunder, 1-0. The Hawks went on to down Newmarket Redmen 5-1 in the semifinals. The championship game was the fifth consecutive win for the Hawks as they beat the hosting team, Brampton 45s with a 4-1 score.

STAVELEY, William Ernest ("Ernie")
 Born on October 26, 1926 to William Thomas and Harriet Irlinia (Watts) Staveley in Dufferin County. Ernie passed very peacefully in Orangeville's Headwaters Health Care Centre on January 17, 2015. He leaves behind sons Brian Ernest (Helene) of St. John's, Newfoundland, Grant William (Meredith Collins) of Cambridge, daughter Beth, and Karen Jones (Tom Melanson) of Orangeville, as well as brother Gerald (Sheila) of Dufferin County, and sister Geraldine (John) Prince of Orillia, and also grandchildren Darrell, Ryan, Ella, Cody, and Shayee. He was predeceased less than two months ago by loving wife Doreen Ruby (Spidle), also by son Eric Francis and brother Norman (Joyce). Ernie lived his long, productive life in the Orangeville-Mono region, where he managed a herd of Holstein Friesian cattle on Staverne Farm, served as Deputy Reeve and Reeve of Mono Township and Warden of Dufferin County, was active on the Board of the Orangeville Fair for many years, established and participated enthusiastically with the Mono Squares dancing group, and made countless, countless friends in this community he loved. He touched the lives of many and it is safe to say that Ernie and Doreen Staveley will both be missed. We will celebrate Ernie's life at the High Country United Church (wheelchair accessible) in Camilla on Monday, January 26, 2015 at 11:00 am. The family will receive friends one hour prior to service time, with the reception to follow. Online condolences can be placed in www.inmemoriams.ca. IN LIEU OF FLOWERS donations to High Country United Church, Headwaters Health Care Centre, the Dufferin County Museum & Archives or charity of your choice would be truly appreciated. Cremation has taken place, and the interment will be at a later date.
