SHOW JUMPING RETURNS TO EQUESTRIAN PARK

What promises to be a very busy season of show jumping got its start last week, as the Caledon Pan Am Equestrian Park in Palgrave hosted the Classic at Palgrave Phase 1. The final event of the week was the $50,000 RAM Equestrian Grand Prix. Christian Sorensen of Caledon was competing on Zellobee. He completed the course without knocking down any rails, but he took about a second and a half too long to do it. The event was won by Conor Swail. Turn to page 14 for more on the event.

Information lacking for GTA West route

By Bill Rea

Finding a preferred route for the new highway is going to be complicated.

It's also going to be hard to get a consensus among Town councillors.

Councillors heard a couple of deputations last Tuesday, and then spent hours discussing a staff report.

One of the points made is that there is still a lot of information that's lacking.

Several of the staff recommendations dealing with specific route options were dropped from the final motion to pass at council, and those recommendations that remained stipulated that positions from the Town were based on limited information and subject to change.

On presenting the report, Director of Development Approval and Planning Policy Mary Hall said the numerous recommendations were based on what councillors indicated they wanted.

"Staff did their very best to fill your requests," she said, adding they have been following a process set out by the Province.

She also said there have been meetings with numerous interested groups, including the Peel Federation of Agriculture (PFA), and a group of landowners in Alton.

One of the first recommendations in the report (which was eventually dropped) dealt with the alignment of Highway 410 and its possible connection with the proposed new highway 413.

Scott Arbuckle of IBI Group, suggested another option for that.

Andrew Walker, representing Sunnymede Farm, in the area of Old School Road between Dixie and Heart Lake Roads, expressed disappointment that concerns raised by his clients seem to have been disregarded. He said Sunnymede is the largest feedlot in Peel.

"Their business is not an insignificant enterprise," he added.

Walker also said the staff recommendation contradicted their report, which stated "further studies are needed in both the GTA West Study and in local road network improvements before a preferred Highway 410 alignment can be determined."

Magna coming to King with its corporate office

By Mark Pavilons

King Township is rolling out the welcome mat for its newest corporate partner — Magna International.

Magna will be building its new flagship corporate office at its 105-acre parcel at the corner of King Road and Jane Street in King City. They hope to have the project completed by December of 2017.

Magna is proposing to build an amalgamated corporate office of some 200,000 square feet, including research and development facilities, various amenities and underground parking. It will initially house more than 625 employees.

It's good news all around, not only for King Township, but York Region and in fact, the province. King Mayor Steve Pellegrini said unlike other large corporations who often pack up and leave, Magna has chosen to stay in York.

“It's fabulous news,” he said. “I'm so ecstatic. The plans are fantastic.”

Magna's application is to formally rezone the lands from agricultural to commercial. The lands, in King City's Community Plan, have always been designated as Prestige Employment and King couldn't have secured a better corporate partner.

“Talk about prestige,” Pellegrini added. “We couldn't do any better. We are proud to welcome a highly regarded and globally significant corporation such as Magna to the King community.”

His sentiments were echoed by King CAO Susan Plamondon.

“Township staff are prepared to assist and support Magna's efforts to move through the municipal approval process in a timely and effective manner,” she said. “We look forward to working with their team through the process and welcoming them as our newest and biggest corporate citizen.”

Jamie Smyth, King's economic development officer, noted King's location and proximity to Highway 400 and Pearson airport make it attractive to investors.

These things have “definitely factored in to Magna's decision to consolidate their global headquarters in King,” he said.

Presently leasing office, as well as research and development, space in Aurora, Newmarket, and into Peel Region and beyond, these deals expire at the end of 2017 and the company has been exploring moving all their corporate and group office operations under one roof.

The company filed a formal rezoning application with King Township Tuesday afternoon (May 19).

“We are delighted to see that our thoughtful land use planning efforts and movement towards investment readiness is proving fruitful,” the mayor added.

Pellegrini is hoping to have concept drawings and more information available at his June 4 business lunch. It will be held from noon to 2 p.m. at the Cardinal Golf Club on Highway 9. To register, contact the King Chamber of Commerce at www.kingchamber.ca

Regional councillors make another attempt at starting facilitation

By Bill Rea

Efforts heated up again last week at Peel Region to bring in a facilitator to address land use issues in Caledon.

Mississauga Councillor Carolyn Parrish tried to put forth a motion that Regional Chair Frank Dale ruled out of order. Parrish made an unsuccessful attempt to challenge the ruling.

While she wouldn't divulge the contents of the motion, she said it basically asked that facilitation be started.

A motion was passed at Region last month that called for facilitation, but it had stipulated that all parties involved in the appeal of the Bolton Employment Expansion Area and the Mayfield West Phase 2 Employment Expansion Area be invited to participate, and that the Town decided to participate. There was also a provision that the request of Solmar Development Corp. for party status in the appeal of the Bolton Employment Expansion be either adjourned or denied, and that the Region support the Mayfield West Phase 2 Landowners' Group for the dismissal of Solmar's appeal of the Mayfield West expansion.

A letter in last Thursday's Regional council agenda package from lawyer Michael Melling the legal firm of Davies Howe Partners stated Solmar had reached a settlement with the Mayfield West Phase 2 Landowners Group. That meant Solmar's appeal of the Regional Official Plan amendment (ROPA) dealing with the employment lands in that area was being withdrawn.

Last Thursday's Regional council meeting also included a delegation from Patrick Harrington of the legal firm of Aird and Berlis, representing Argo Caledon Developments. He commented on the Bolton Residential Expansion Study (BRES). The ROPA for that has been appealed, and Harrington said the hearing for that is not scheduled until February.

He said they support the efforts of the Town and Region to keep the employment and residential issues separate. He also said BRES is part of an ongoing public process, so including it in facilitation would not be appropriate.

Public Works Commissioner Dan Labrecque said the ROPA for BRES is not yet in the public domain.

Regional Solicitor Patrick O'Connor said Caledon council has not yet taken a position on facilitation. That's expected to take place at next week's council meeting in Caledon East.

Parrish expressed the opinion the withdrawal of the Solmar appeal changed the situation from previously passed motions, so she should have been allowed to present her motion. O'Connor said the motion passed at Region in April included conditions, and one of them was the Town had to agree to take part.

Regional Clerk Kathryn Lockyer argued it involved re-opening an issue that had already been decided, requiring a two-thirds majority at the council table, and both Dale and O'Connor agreed.

Commenting later, Mayor Allan Thompson stressed the importance of keeping the process open, and he said that would be taken away with facilitation.

“The big thing is we think it's very important we keep this open and transparent,” he commented.

He added such openness seemed to be missing when the Town dealt with the massive Canadian Tire development in Bolton.

“Lessons learned,” he said.

Town council to discuss facilitation Tuesday

Bringing in a facilitator to address land use issues in Caledon has been discussed a lot lately at the Peel Regional council table.

Caledon council is slated to discuss it this coming Tuesday (May 26), and Mayor Allan Thompson is hoping a good crowd of residents will be out for the debate.

“We cannot erode the planning process that has served Caledon and its residents well,” he said.

The meeting is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. Thompson said this item likely won't come up before 2.

Peel is now offering excess waste collection

Starting this week and running until May 29, Peel Region residents can take advantage of a two-week excess waste collection for curbside pick-up.

During the period, residents may place unlimited quantities of acceptable waste at the curb on their regularly scheduled collection day. For this period only, no garbage tags will be required.

Set out standards must be followed and residents should adhere to the following guidelines — Place organics, recycling and garbage at the curb no later than 7 a.m. but no earlier than 7 p.m. the night before; keep the weight of bags, containers and bundles of wood to less than 20 kilograms (40 pounds) each; remove any item that is used to keep container lids shut (such as bungee cords) before collection; and containers must have two handles that are attached or moulded to the exterior and have lids that are easy to remove

Landscaping/renovation/construction building materials (such as sod, soil, shale, cut stone, drywall, tiles and large amounts of wood), tires and automotive parts, waste electronics and household hazardous waste are not collected at the curb at any time and can be dropped off at Peel's Community Recycling Centres. Fees apply on some materials.

For more information on these programs, call the Region at 905-791-9499, 905-584-2216 or visit peelregion.ca/waste

Safety awareness campaign focuses on carbon monoxide legislation

Caledon Fire and Emergency Services is expanding the Home Safe Home Door to Door Program again this year to include the entire Caledon community.

Don't be alarmed if you see fire crews pull up to your house and a firefighter approach your door. Chances are there isn't an emergency, but rather firefighters spreading the word on how to ensure you never have one.

"The Town of Caledon supports the principle of 'prevention rather than cure,' taking a proactive approach to fire and life safety," said Fire Chief Dave Forfar. "We believe education is a key component of home safety and over the next several months, our firefighters will be delivering the message of being proactive rather than reactive."

Beginning May 15, and running through to Oct. 9, Caledon firefighters will be visiting homes throughout Caledon weekdays from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and weekends from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Through the Home Safe Home public education campaign, residents will have the opportunity to ask firefighters questions. The focus of the safety campaign this year will be to educate home owners on the new carbon monoxide legislation and to ensure their family is safe from this "silent killer."

For more information about Fire and Emergency Services in the Town of Caledon, visit www.caledon.ca/fire or call 905-584-2272, ext. 4303.

Man charged in shooting incident

An 18-year-old man from Caledon has been charged in connection with an April 20 incident in which a woman was shot with a BB gun in Bolton.

Caledon OPP had reported the victim had been sitting on a pathway between the Royal Courtyards and Willow Street at about 6:40 p.m. A dark coloured Volkswagen Golf, occupied by four males, drove up to the pathway and one of the occupants shot the victim in the back with the BB gun. The BB pellet lodged in the victim's back and she required medical attention for the injury.

The suspect was arrested April 29, and charged with assault with a weapon and possession of a weapon for dangerous purposes.

Busy weekend for Caledon OPP

It might have been a holiday weekend, but officers from Caledon OPP were kept pretty busy.

Police report they received almost 300 calls for service over the weekend, including traffic accidents, driving offences and calls for assistance.

As well, OPP reported a sharp increase in the number of drinking and driving changes laid in the Greater Toronto Area, and there were five such charges in Caledon. Those five people charged also include a charge of possession of a schedule II substance, refusal to provide a breath sample, obstructing a peace officer and personation with intent to avoid arrest.

CAR SEAT CLINIC

Caledon OPP Auxiliary officers recently held the latest of their child car seat clinics at the Bolton Fire Hall. York Region Auxiliary Constable Trevor Pirri was explaining some of the adjustment requirements to Shane Miller of Bolton. The next clinic is scheduled for May 26 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the fire hall at 28 Ann St. in Bolton. It will be by-appointment only. Call 905-584-2241 for more information or to book an appointment.

Couple charged with trafficking drugs

A 27-year-old Caledon man and 30-year-old woman from Toronto face charges after a Caledon OPP investigation of people known to be involved in the drug trafficking trade.

Police report officers from the Street Crime Unit and the OPP Drug Enforcement Unit started the investigation April 22.

Shortly after 5 pm, a vehicle stop was conducted by involved officers which resulted in the arrest of the man and woman. Both were found to be in possession of drugs, believed to be cocaine and crack cocaine, with a street value exceeding $12,000. Officers also found a quantity of cash in the vehicle.

The man was charged with trafficking in a schedule I substance, possession of a schedule I substance for the purpose of trafficking, possession of property obtained by crime and two counts of failure to comply with a probation order. The woman was charged with trafficking in a schedule I substance and possession of property obtained by crime.

Cheltenham Badlands temporarily closed

Master Plan in progress to protect rare natural landscape

Human activity on the Badlands is eroding the sensitive red shale, permanently changing its unique appearance. As a result, the area is temporarily closed while public consultation, planning and fundraising are conducted as part of a Master Planning process. The Master Plan will address additional public safety concerns, conservation activities and opportunities for public enjoyment of the site.

Mezzapelli does not want Province controlling Town planning

He also stated that his clients have not been invited to the table during the consultations.

Councillor Johanna Downey said she had understood that all members of the agricultural community were represented by PFA.

“All members of the agricultural community are welcome at the table,” she added.

Downey also wondered if it’s appropriate at this stage to comment on preferred routes, wondering whether the Town should just say what routes it doesn’t want used.

Hall told Councillor Annette Groves a working group has been set up with the Ministry of Transportation (MTO), Peel Region and the Town, and said efforts are being made to expand it.

She also said affected municipalities are expected to provide input to the Province’s plans, but Caledon has fallen far behind on that task.

Councillor Gord McClure added that not all the farms impacted by the study have been contacted by MTO.

Councillor Barb Shaughnessy commented that PFA supports agriculture, but it can’t advocate for one farmer over another. She said there needs to be a stakeholders’ group. “I think the best person to represent them is them,” she declared.

Hall told Downey she’s heard MTO had been holding community meetings, and more are planned for June. She said all impacted landowners would be invited.

Councillor Doug Beffort expressed frustration that they can’t get information from MTO. He said the Ministry needs to wake up and understand “this is our life, this is our town, this is our future.”

Regarding the alignment of the proposed highway south of Bolton, Hall said staff was supporting a plan to have it farther to the south, on lands that are actually in Brampton, with an interchange at Coleraine Drive.

For the stretch of the road running through south Albion, staff is promoting an alignment south of Healey Road. Hall pointed out that would put an interchange with Airport Road closer to the Tullamore industrial area.

As for west of Highway 10, Hall pointed out one of the suggested alignments would be close to a cemetery, as well as the new Alloo School.

As far as fragmenting farmland is concerned, the staff report pointed out that any option “will cause a significant number of splits for agricultural parcels that are larger than 97 acres.”

Hall also told councillors MTO is planning this highway out to 2031, but she maintained they should be looking well beyond that, in the order of 40 to 70 years.

She also told Councillor Nick deBoer they’ve dealing with piecemeal release of information from the Province, meaning the Town is supposed to come up with positions with limited information. DeBoer commented the Province is looking for quick solutions, making him think about how foolish the whole project is.

Hall told Downey staff is seeking some direction from council, because that will carry more weight when the talk to MTO, than if they were just presenting opinions from staff.

“I think you shouldn’t be rushed on this,” McClure commented. “Take your time.”

“This is going to be a pivotal exercise for this municipality,” Councillor Rob Mezzapelli observed.

He pointed to the need to protect agricultural land, as well as the need to plan for long into the future. He also said there’s no way to put in a highway without impacting on people and farms. But he also said he saw an opportunity to preserve farmland, adding that the new highway could define that.

Mezzapelli brought up plans to extend Highway 427 to the north, and stressed his belief that there should be some separation between the lands set aside for that and homes in Bolton.

He also liked the idea of having an interchange with the new Highway at Coleraine, calling it a “good logical place to have an interchange.”

Councillor Jennifer Innis said MTO needs to be reminded that it’s asking for positions during one of the busiest times of year for the agricultural community.

One of the recommendations dealt with coming up with a full build-out scenario for the Town’s Whitebelt area to be conducted in the study. The corridor runs through much of the Whitebelt, and that was one provision Mezzapelli had problems with. He said he didn’t want the Province to be in the position of telling the Town how to plan the community, and he wanted assurances that’s not what the provision said.

Haiqing Xu, manager of policy, told him MTO needs proper employment numbers to address things like road capacity and interchange location. If the Town doesn’t ask for that to be considered in the study, the municipality might have to pay for it later.

TAX SAVINGS FOR YOU AND YOUR FAMILY.

The Government of Canada has new ways to help you and your family save on taxes. There are measures available to help like:

- The Family Tax Cut: Couples with children under age 18 can now split their income between the higher-income spouse and the lower-income spouse for tax purposes.
- Tax-Free Savings Account: Starting in 2015, you can earn more tax-free investment income than ever before. Keep more of your savings or spend it on the things that matter.

Important milestone reached in hospital redevelopment

William Osler Health System continues to make great progress in the transformation of Etobicoke General Hospital, moving steadily toward construction of the facility’s new four-storey wing.

Infrastructure Ontario and Osler recently released a request for proposals (RFP) to the three teams short-listed to design, build, finance and maintain the new wing.

As part of a Request for Qualifications (RFQ) process, three teams were short-listed in March. The teams were chosen based on their development, design, construction, financial and facilities management experience, and their capacity to undertake a project like this one. The three short-listed companies invited to bid are EllisDon Infrastructure Healthcare, Etobicoke Healthcare Partnership and Plenary Health.

“This means that we are one step closer to transforming Etobicoke General Hospital and ensuring families have access to the services they rely on, like emergency, critical care and women’s and children’s care,” said John Davies, chair of the Osler Board of Directors. “Over the last 43 years, there have been dramatic shifts and increases in Osler’s patient volumes and acuity and, in the community itself. What has only grown stronger is the commitment of the staff, physicians and volunteers who work tirelessly to provide care, treatment and support to those we serve.”

Etobicoke General, which opened in 1972, is undergoing significant revitalization to meet the growing demands of its community. The new four-storey wing will add approximately 250,000 square feet of space to the hospital and house the services most urgently needed by the community it serves. Some features of the project include:

- A larger, state-of-the-art emergency department.
- Cardiac Care and Intensive Care Units.
- A maternal newborn unit with birthing suites and a specialized nursery.
- A new ambulatory procedures unit.
- Cardiorespiratory and neurodiagnostic services

“When it comes to Etobicoke General, Osler’s vision of ‘patient-inspired health care without boundaries’ will lead us to help change the face of health care in this community for generations to come,” said Osler President and CEO Matthew Anderson. “Together with our partners and with the significant support of the Ontario government, we are transforming this hospital and positioning Osler on the leading edge of health care delivery in this region and beyond.”

To prepare the 42-year old building and systems for the new addition, Osler will soon be starting its Early Works project. This includes replacing existing chillers, upgrading the heating plant, upgrading the normal and emergency power distribution systems, providing structural modifications to support the mechanical system upgrades and providing integrated building systems connections for the new addition. Osler is also upgrading the western hydro lands parking areas to create more parking spaces, improve traffic flow and enhance safety.

Osler is also in process of planning for the construction of a new Ancillary Services Building on the site of the Etobicoke General Hospital. This building will house a number of outpatient programs/ services and also allow Osler to foster new partnerships with other complementary organizations for innovation and education.

“Almost everyone in our community has used Etobicoke General for the provision of care for themselves or a loved one,” said Osler Foundation President and CEO Ken Mayhew. “Now, with a new, state-of-the-art wing, we enter a time of unprecedented opportunity to expand programs, services and to have the best in technology and equipment. This requires donor investment and every gift made to Etobicoke General will impact our health care today and for generations to come.”

Clarification

Last week’s story about Citizens Against the Melville Pit (CAMP) getting ready to take their case to the Ontario Municipal Board contained a small inaccuracy.

The story stated Ecojustice is offering its services to CAMP pro-bono. In fact it was offering its services, but not currently.

We apologize for any misunderstanding.

Why Pay Your Taxes on Time?

Did you know that property taxes collected by the Town of Caledon are distributed three ways?

The Town of Caledon pays the school boards and the Region of Peel in four pre-determined installment dates.

- These obligated payments come out of the Town's own cash if taxpayers pay us late.
- If the Town of Caledon does not have sufficient cash flow to pay the Region of Peel, school boards, and to pay for the provision of services, we may have to borrow money in the short-term, which impacts all taxpayers.
- To minimize the impact to all taxpayers, late payment fees are applied only to accounts with unpaid taxes.

Further information on late payment fees is available at www.caledon.ca/tax.

2015 Tax Assistance Program for Low Income Seniors and Persons with Disabilities

To provide financial assistance to low-income elderly homeowners and low-income persons with disabilities, Town of Caledon By-law 2015-019 allows for a residential property tax credit of $450 subject to the following conditions.

To qualify, the property owner or spouse of the owner must:

FOR SENIORS:

1. Be 65 years of age or older by the application date; and
2. Be in receipt of the monthly guaranteed income supplement as provided under the Old Age Security Act (Canada); and
3. Be continuously assessed as the owner and reside on residential real property within the Town of Caledon for a period of not less than one year immediately preceding the application date.

FOR PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES:

1. Be in receipt of benefits under the Ontario Disability Support Program Act (ODSPA); and
2. Be continuously assessed as the owner and reside on residential real property within the Town of Caledon for a period of not less than one year immediately preceding the application date.

In addition, all owners of the property must either be a qualifying senior or qualifying person with disabilities or their spouse.

This residential property tax rebate, where allowed, will be an outright grant made by the Town and will not entail repayment of any kind. Application forms may be obtained from the Corporate Services Department at Town Hall, or by calling 905.584.2272 x. 4216, or by visiting the Town's website at www.caledon.ca/taxhelp.

Plays until this weekend

Baco Noir: more than one kind of Spirit

By Constance Scrafield

Poised on the hill upon which Lindy and Bruce are trying to establish a new vineyard “north of highway 13,” Baco Noir’s tale of conscience versus brutal practicality plays out in a completely humorous way.

Big changes to anyone’s life, especially those that are following a dream, can also bring sharp reality checks and difficult decisions. For this married couple in the new play now showing at Theatre Orangeville, the dream, the changes and the difficult decisions test their relationship as they begin to understand the differences in how they each see things.

Bruce’s family were vintners in France for generations — three generations ago. Answering the call of his heritage, Bruce must now compete with insects that live on the wild grapes around the land without harming them while those same insects demolish the Baco Noir vines that he and Lindy planted and have nursed for the last three years.

Their neighbourhood mentor, Oscar, the well worn farmer, brings his well-worn wisdom to the problem in the form of a large container of bug killer called Grim Reaper.

No need to say more for you to realise this is a Dan Needles play, recently penned by “Dufferin’s favourite playwright.” That tender touch makes us laugh out loud.

But, wait — the city folk hauling their dreams to the country, the old farmer who will show them “the right way” to do things — sounds familiar to Wingfield fans. However, Needles takes us all several steps further by introducing a Spirit into the mix.

From the beginning, Lindy insists on putting all initiatives on hold until they have called to the spirits to join them in their efforts to save the vineyard and bring the vines forth to good health and fruition without the deadly use of the Grim Reaper bug spray. So, the two men make concessions, sitting obediently with their hands in a pose of meditation, calling on the guidance and assistance of the spirits — of the earth and the rocks and the ancestors.

Much to Lindy’s surprise, one of those Spirits accepts her invitation.

Taking on the form of Al, the pilot living down the road, whom no one ever sees, the Spirit meets with some resistance from Lindy as to whether or not she believes.

“But you invited me!” he reminds her.

And so it goes, with the really amusing solutions to every clink in the road, to final resolution — that is the reason we love Needles.

It is clear that the cast members are having fun doing this play.

Jay Davis, in his introductory role at Theatre Orangeville, is very amusing as the Spirit — he has lots to work with in the way of funny moments.

Lindy and Bruce, played by Perrie Olthuis, returning to Theatre Orangeville, and Craig Pike, here for the first time, vie with each other, wrangling over their diverse views of what might work — for the grapes — for their marriage. They are sweet with each other, believable in their affection and sincere in their newlywed struggles, ready as well to deliver the laughs.

Terry Barna as Oscar is, just like the character you have met in your own back fields, the farmer of crops and earthy wisdom, dishing out the attitudes and advice that, at one and the same time, are familiar and fresh. Never sanctimonious; always hilarious and charming.

It is chemical blasting versus the organic way; practicalities versus hopeful alternatives; the paranormal versus the doubting.

Altogether, lots of laughs and lots to think about.

This is the world premiere of Baco Noir and each of these actors is blowing life into the characters for the first time on a stage, basically creating the flesh and blood versions.

Although any play you see for the first time is new to you, the initial productions of a play are important to the future of playwriting and theatre in Canada. This knowledge can make a difference to the way we perceive these new works, how patronising them, responding to them carves out the final version, the one that will go on to support other theatres across the country.

Interesting, isn’t it, how a couple of hours of being entertained can matter in the bigger picture.

Baco Noir plays until May 24 at Theatre Orangeville. Tickets, as usual, are at the Box Office at the Town Hall on Broadway; by telephone 519-942-3423 ext 0 and online at www.theatreorangeville.ca

More artists in battle with each other

The latest Art Battle took place recently at Alton Mill, with Max Grunin of the Caledon village area Whole Village, taking the honours. He won $100 and the chance move on to the regional final May 22, with a opportunity to compete at the National Championship in Prince Edward Island in July. Others taking part in the finals were Paige Bultje of the Guelph area, Linda Jenetti of the Shelburne area and Ida DeMaria of Nobleton. Art Battle is live, competitive painting, in which the artists create the best work they can in 20 minutes. With only limited tools, the artists must battle to create the winning piece. Photos by Bill Rea

Caledon Concert Band celebrating 40 years in 2015

When the members of the Caledon Concert Band present their spring concert at the end of the month, it won't be just a fun musical afternoon.

It will be a celebration of four decades of volunteer community music.

The community-based concert band will celebrate their accomplishments with a concert entitled Springtime Around the World, to be held at the Albion-Bolton Community Centre auditorium May 31 at 3 p.m.

The band was formed in 1974 by a handful of local musicians looking for a place to play. Over the 40 years since, hundreds of musicians ranging in age from eight to over 80 have rehearsed weekly, learned new music and new skills, developed their playing ability and found new friends as they share music together each week.

Along the way, the band has performed as many as a dozen concerts per year, both in the Caledon area and around southern Ontario in places such as Niagara-on-the-Lake, Stratford and Burlington.

The band has also competed in many prestigious competitions, including invitations to the National Finals of MusicFest Canada which earned the band Gold and Silver awards in 2006, 2008, 2009 and 2012.

It's not just the band celebrating an anniversary, though. The band's conductor, Rob Kinnear, is celebrating 30 years in his role as well. Kinnear joined the band originally as an instrumentalist but was quickly given the baton and has been conducting ever since.

A retired high school music teacher, he enjoys the chance to conduct and to teach music every week to a group of fellow musicians, some of whom have been performing under his baton for the entire 30 years he has been the band's musical director.

"Music is a part of life," he said. "It doesn't matter where you come from, or how old you are. You can learn to play and to enjoy making music with your friends."

It's a family affair, too. His wife plays flute in the band, his son plays baritone and his daughter plays bassoon. Several other families also call the band home, including one husband and wife team who met in the band, later married, and now their teenage son plays with them as well. They're not the only "band families" either. As well as being a place to perform music, the band is a social group and many of the musicians have been fast friends for decades.

The band's members are all volunteers from the Caledon area and neighbouring regions. The musicians range in age from high school students to retirees. Some have been playing music all their lives, and others have just begun their musical education. In addition to providing a place to rehearse, develop and perform, the band also raises funds to support music education.

A series of scholarships are awarded to graduating high school students pursuing post-secondary music education, and an annual concert raises funds to help support the music programs at local public schools, along with providing a venue for the public school students to showcase their talents in front of a wider audience.

Tickets for the May 31 concert will be available at the door, or may be reserved in advance by calling Andy at 416-276-7852. Adult tickets are $12, while students and seniors are admitted for $10. As always, children aged 12 and under are free of charge.

The band invites the community to come out and help them celebrate decades of music in Caledon.

2015 Grown in Peel Guide now available

Peel is home to farms that grow everything from apples to watermelons, and beets to pumpkins.

To help encourage residents to eat fresh and buy local, the Region of Peel has launched its 2015 Grown in Peel Guide and updated www.GrownInPeel.ca

The Guide features 37 farms, retailers and farmers' markets in Caledon, Brampton and Mississauga, as well as an easy-to-read map and the seasonal availability of vegetables and fruit.

"One of the ways the Region of Peel is focused on improving the health of its residents is by encouraging a healthy diet, which is rich in vegetables and fruit, to help reduce the risk of diabetes, heart disease, stroke and some types of cancer," said Acting Medical Officer of Health Dr. Eileen de Villa. "Visiting a local farm lets you purchase and enjoy the tastiest seasonal food that Peel has to offer and is a fun and enriching experience for the whole family."

The Grown in Peel Guide is now available free of charge at Peel libraries, fairs and municipal buildings, or a copy can be requested by emailing growninpeel@peel-region.ca

Peel offering excess waste collection

Starting this week and running until May 29, Peel Region residents can take advantage of a two-week excess waste collection for curbside pick-up.

During the period, residents may place unlimited quantities of acceptable waste at the curb on their regularly scheduled collection day. For this period only, no garbage tags will be required.

Set out standards must be followed and residents should adhere to the following guidelines — Place organics, recycling and garbage at the curb no later than 7 a.m. but no earlier than 7 p.m. the night before; keep the weight of bags, containers and bundles of wood to less than 20 kilograms (40 pounds) each; remove any item that is used to keep container lids shut (such as bungee cords) before collection; and containers must have two handles that are attached or moulded to the exterior and have lids that are easy to remove

Landscaping/renovation/construction building materials (such as sod, soil, shale, cut stone, drywall, tiles and large amounts of wood), tires and automotive parts, waste electronics and household hazardous waste are not collected at the curb at any time and can be dropped off at Peel's Community Recycling Centres. Fees apply on some materials.

For more information on these programs, call the Region at 905-791-9499, 905-584-2216 or visit peelregion.ca/waste

The case for representation

The message might not have been new, but timing was refreshing. Caledon's former CAO Patrick Moyle appeared before Town council last week with an update on the work of the task force to look into terms of reference of a review of the governance of Peel, options for the election of the Regional Chair and the composition of council.

There have been calls that Brampton deserves more representation at the Regional council table, and it looks like they can make a pretty good case. But not if it's going to result in Caledon losing representation.

One of the points he commented on is a lot of people in Caledon don't realize that about 36 per cent of their property tax dollars go to the Region to provide a lot of the services we all depend on, like water, public health, garbage collection and maintaining some of the main roads in the community. Local residents need and deserve their representation.

There is a good example of why that is playing itself out at the Region these days. Discussions on how to deal with land use issues in Caledon have been coming up lot at the Regional council table. There have been calls for facilitation to look into these matters. Caledon's representatives, interested in trying to keep the process open and transparent, have been fighting the notion. Mayor Allan Thompson and councillors are aware that there have been charges over an apparent lack of openness in dealing with such matters as the massive Canadian Tire development in Bolton, and they want to try and make sure the public is involved.

Councillors are scheduled to discuss the idea of facilitation at their meeting this coming Tuesday (May 26).

Regional council last month voted in favour of facilitation, but there were a couple of conditions. One of them was the Town had to decide to participate.

There are some members of the community who have spoken in favour of facilitation. But do they represent a majority? We suspect not, and one way residents can prove it is by getting out to Tuesday's meeting and saying so. It is very easy for one side in an issue to stack a meeting, meaning it should also be easy for the other side to make sure they are there to be heard.

Granted, the timing of the meeting is not the greatest. It's slated to start at 1 p.m. in the middle of a work day, with Thompson predicting this item won't come up before 2. But standing up for one's community sometimes requires some inconvenience.

As well, it's possible to contact your councillors and tell them what you think of Brampton and Mississauga trying to manage growth in Caledon. Now's the time for them to hear it.

How long will baby boomers wait for long-term care?

The following letter, addressed to Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones, was submitted to the Citizen for publication.

My sister and I lovingly take care of our almost 90-year-old mother who has dementia. She has to be watched and cared for 24 hours a day. Our mother is not the issue. The issue is that she has been on a waiting list for long-term care for almost a year, without signs of being accepted any time soon.

I do not want, or expect, my children to put their lives on hold when we need help. We are baby boomers. How long will the wait be for us? Should we send in our applications now? How many families in the Dufferin-Caledon area are "waiting to pay" for parents to be looked after professionally, safely and with love at this very moment?

This problem will not be going away. Are there plans in place for new care homes to be built to adequately accommodate the elderly in the very near future?

Home and Lifestyle Show was a success

On behalf of the 2015 Caledon Home and Lifestyle Show and the Caledon Chamber of Commerce, let me thank the community, all the vendors, the Town of Caledon and our corporate sponsors James Dick Construction and ScotiaBank for another successful year.

Since 1986, our local Chamber has organized the Home Show as an initiative to present the quality businesses in our neighbourhood and as a fundraising activity — both of which meet the overall goals and objectives of our organization.

This year, the success of our event was a result of a collaborative effort between our event manager, our staff and our volunteers. The buzz over the weekend was around re-energized programs, such as the pet and people fashion show, ask the expert, the Bolton Wanderers, Boy Scout and Palgrave Youth Baseball Club barbecues and the ever popular penny raffle. With the help of great businesses like Music 21 and Flower Workshop, the arena was transformed into an amazing visual experience. We also acknowledge the effort of the volunteers who organized the Kinsmen Toonie Sale and the Friends of the Library book sale. We have set the bar higher and we intend to continue this trend.

Warren Darnley,
Chair of the Board, Caledon Chamber of Commerce

It happened today

It was the work of two extraordinarily gifted young men, one obsessed with the desire to plan and commit the perfect crime, and the other impressed with the writings of Nietzsche and his ideas of "the superman." They chose a 14-year-old boy named Bobby Franks as the victim, but they were eventually caught because one of the killers dropped a distinctive pair of glasses where they tried to dispose of the body.

It took passionate oratory from famed lawyer Clarence Darrow to save them from being hanged.

Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb committed their infamous crime in Chicago this day, May 21, 1924.

It's simple — Don't be a jerk

There are certain things in life that are unfair, but we all have to put up with regardless, if for no other reason than we have no choice.

These things vary from person to person, depending on their standing in life. For example, certain occupations provide certain privileges, but also obligations and additional burdens to bear. Those of you who have ever waited tables, for example, know about verbal abuse from customers who don't like the way the guy in the kitchen cooked their steak, as if the server had anything to do with it.

Despite that, there are the odd times when people on the negative end of such treatment will dig in their proverbial heels and strike back. And I think a lot of us are ready to applaud such actions.

I've been doing a lot of that over the last couple of days, as I've read and heard about CityNews reporter Shauna Hunt and the way she put a couple of louts in their place after they shouted obscenities into her microphone while she was trying to interview some people outside a Toronto FC game last Sunday.

Her ploy certainly worked, as one of the characters apparently lost a very high-paying job with Hydro One as a result. I don't know if Hunt envisioned that he would endure such consequences, but she did make her point. If you haven't seen the tape of this, you might want to give it a look-see. I've been able to access it from a couple of web sources, and in all cases, the obscene words have been bleeped out. But my childhood included enough hours in school yards that I was able to gather what words were being used.

I have heard some people wondering if the guy really deserved to lose his job over this, although from what I've heard, those asking the question are in the minority. We have to remember he was part of a group of grown men who were acting like a bunch of adolescents. Had they been teens acting like that, and had their parents seen the tapes, I suspect they would have been grounded for the remainder of this decade.

One of the great disadvantages of being an adult is that occasionally you are actually expected to act like one.

My job requires me to be exposed to the public every day. When I'm in the field, I'm representing my company, meaning a certain standard of behaviour is expected of me. And since I'm something of a public figure, making a public pest of myself in a fashion that makes the news is not likely to go over well with my boss. So if I cross that line, I really have no one to blame but myself.

I think most of us would agree that it's okay to have a good time, and maybe act a little silly. But there are limits, and being obnoxious with a person who is just trying to do their job goes too far.

There have been times in my line of work when I have been in similar situations, although I have never had to endure the type of suggestive comments Hunt was treated to.

About 20 years ago, when I was working in Toronto, I was covering a street festival along Eglinton Avenue. One woman took it upon herself to remind me that I should ask people's authorization before taking their picture, then followed me around, telling people I was about to photograph that they had the right to refuse. She was annoying, but didn't prove to be much of a hindrance. In fact, some of the subjects seemed a little resentful over her butting in. I think this woman was dealing with other issues as well.

There have also been times I've been targeted by people who don't like me, or some of the things I've written

I was once interviewing a man after a public meeting when a woman of my acquaintance came up to the guy and cited something I had written in my latest column that he might have found offensive. She had the quote accurate, but its context was about 180 degrees off the mark

(which she would have realized, had she read the whole sentence). I probably should have ignored her, but I was angry that she had interfered with me trying to do my job, and called after her that she should read the piece before commenting on it. The fact is she was an active member of a faction that the paper I was working for at the time had editorially opposed. In fairness, I bumped into this woman at a function a couple of days later. She approached me with the words "I owe you an apology."

She went on to say she had only glanced at the column before she spoke, getting around to reading it later. I tried to be as gracious as I could, resisting the temptation to ask what business she had being so rude in the first place.

But it is true that people interfering with me doing my job earn my wrath, and it's sometimes hard to resist the temptation to fire back.

Politicians and elected officials often have to put up with abuse in public, but sometimes they strike back.

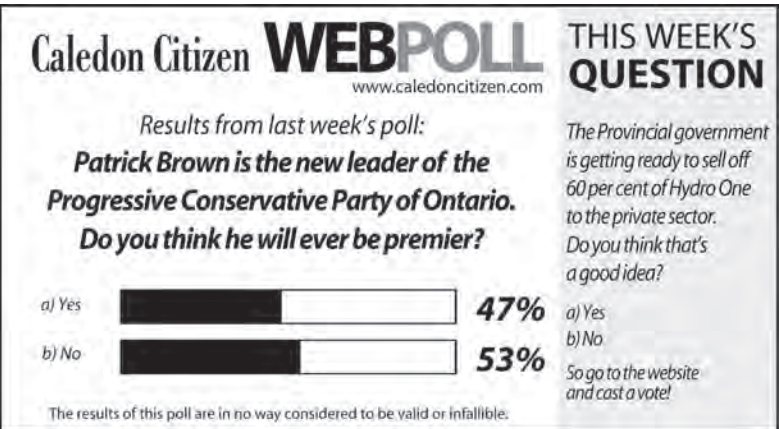

Going back more than 30 years, I remember a couple of occasions when the late Ronald Reagan responded to hecklers by simply telling them to shut up. His perennial popularity let him get away with such antics.

I was never much of a fan of Jean Chretien, especially while he was Prime Minister. But I well remember a time he was attending a function and a protester parked himself right in his path. Chretien, if memory serves, dealt with this fellow in the most basic fashion. He grabbed him by the neck and shoved him out of the way. I applauded at the time. I even wrote a piece praising him for it (one of the very few positive things I ever wrote and Chretien), realizing there was one pain in the butt had been taught a lesson.

You will recall a couple of years ago that Prince William started legal action against a publication that printed inappropriate pictures of himself and his wife. I don't think he did it for the money. He's very well connected with a rich grandmother and the prospects of a really good job one of these days. But he was sending out a message to other photographers and publications that he was ready to hit back if pushed far enough. I think he was also very mindful of the grief his late mother was put through by the media. Good for him. I hope the message was received by all concerned.

We all have rights to do certain things, and if we so choose, we have the right to be jerks. But we also have obligations, and they include being respectful to other people. And if the rights and obligations run into conflict, then there are consequences. I know of a couple of soccer fans who learned about that the hard way. Perhaps there are other people observing their antics who might take a lesson from that.

Alas, I also know there are a lot of people out there who are too dumb to get the message.

MP Tilson touts government's new Balanced Budget Legislation

Our government recently introduced new legislation that will help create jobs, promote economic growth and keep Canadians safe.

Included within this bill is Canada's new Balanced Budget Legislation — a set of rules that will ensure that Canadian finances are secure for our future and our children's futures.

Canadians across the country — including here in Dufferin-Caledon — understand the importance of living within their means and expect governments to do the same. Unlike the Liberal leader, who thinks that budgets balance themselves, our government understands that this is not the case.

Ottawa Journal

David Tilson
MP Dufferin-Caledon

Keeping your pocket books in order requires discipline and tough decisions. This is the kind of leadership that our government, under the direction of Prime Minister Stephen Harper, has provided.

This new Balanced Budget Legislation will prevent future governments from running deficits except in extraordinary circumstances. Should a government introduce a deficit outside of these situations, the salaries of all Ministers and Deputy Ministers would be reduced by five per cent and an automatic operating freeze would go into effect until a return to balanced budgets is achieved.

The contrast couldn't be clearer. While Justin Trudeau and the Liberals have recently introduced a plan that will return us to deficits and burden our children with debt, our government is committed to keeping its promise to the people of Dufferin-Caledon to balance the books and put Canada's finances on a sustainable course.

Group marking five years of engaging SouthField residents

As of this month, the SouthFields Village Residents Group (SFVRG) officially turns five.

This grass roots and volunteer-run organization, administered by local Caledon residents, is reporting that their social media site, events and regular meetings continue to achieve high turnout and involvement from area residents.

"We always strive to maintain our original mission statement of fostering and promoting regular communications between Caledon residents and local government and other stakeholders," stated SFVRG founder Kenneth Bokor. "We are very pleased with the response from the community as we have grown over these five years."

SFVRG takes its origins from other city-run groups, like Brampton's Citizens Advisory Committees (CAC) or ratepayers' associations.

"Years ago, many municipalities founded and funded these types of groups for the primary reason of effectively communicating with local residents within the various wards," Bokor commented. "With some municipalities, every ward had a CAC and worked closely with its City and Regional councilors."

"I helped to start up and successfully run for many years a group for Ward 2 in Brampton and wanted to take this same approach to the new community that I was moving into in early 2010, what is now known as SouthFields Village," he added. "Realizing that Caledon is made up of a community of communities, I saw other residents' associations already active in many areas in Caledon, so starting something in SouthFields seemed like the right thing to do."

"With the help of Yevgenia Casale in 2010, we formed the Village of SouthFields Residents Association," he stated. "We both saw the opportunity to create an organization that would embody a voice for residents in a brand new Greenfield community."

Both local Ward 2 councilors and Caledon's Mayor immediately supported the group. Their very first meeting was well attended and attendance has grown over the years. In an effort to promote further community engagement, the team started to organize and host local events, such as the SouthFields Village Community Day, which went on annually until 2014 and the yearly Clean-Up Day. Their meetings spread to a quarterly basis and they now regularly get more than 125 in attendance.

Casale departed the association a couple of years later and the name was then changed to the SouthFields Village Residents' Group. Additional local residents were added to the team in order to continue to grow and all members were involved in a pure volunteer capacity.

"As I look back over these past five years, I am very proud of the achievements we have been able to garner," Bokor said. "These achievements include assisting in creating and maintaining a sense of community pride and ownership, keeping residents informed of what's happening within and around our village and building solid relationships with our local government officials, town staff, developers and other stakeholders."

The SouthFields Village Residents' Group has also been able to make additional impacts within the community. Bokor, on behalf of the community, wrote in to the Peel District School Board to make a case for the school to be renamed after the village, rather than the street it is located on. The residents' group also worked with EcoCaledon for installation of waste bins along Kennedy Road and the Town for pet litterbag receptacles in the green spaces. They worked with the developers on maintaining key intersection road markings and the Town on installing the only stop sign beacon light at a heavily travelled intersection to enhance public safety. The group is also part of a three-year partnership with Toronto and Region Conservation Authority (TRCA) in delivering stewardship programs to area residents.

Recently, the residents' group was successful in leading a year and a half battle against Hydro One for improper billing of density rate classification charges for SouthFields Village and Anthem developments. Hydro One will be issuing retroactive credits to affected customers next month. Bokor was also able to get a special allowance to have Hydro One conduct another rate audit before the next scheduled timeframe, in order to move area density rates to the best and lowest cost level sooner. Additionally, the group voiced resident opposition to the Town regarding the Monarch Plastics development application and are currently working with Town planners on detailed risk mitigations to the submitted site plan application.

"With our work ethic of being respectful, courteous and professional in our dealings with residents, officials and everyone, we have and continue to operate in a manner that gets things done and keeps our voice heard," Bokor stated.

At the last public meeting in March, Bokor announced his intent to step down from the group at the end of June.

"Again, I am very proud of what we have been able to do and achieve over these past five years," he said. "It's time for me to move on and we've got a great team in place to continue to build on the solid foundation myself and past team members have laid. With the leadership of Eddie Garland, I am confident the SouthFields Village Residents' Group will continue to be an effective entity within the community. We've got a very active Facebook site with over 700 followers that represent engaged residents and the Group hopes to move forward in achieving non-profit status later this year".

The next meeting of the SouthFields Village Residents' Group will be June 10 at 7 p.m. at SouthFields Village Public School. In addition to the regular agenda of development updates and other information, cake will be served to recognize the five-year anniversary of the group.

For more information on the Group, check out their Facebook site at www.facebook.com/southfieldsvillageresidents-group/

A memorial that should be welcomed

NATIONAL AFFAIRS
Claire Hoy

In 1997, a group of noted European academics published "The Black Book of Communism," which outlines in considerable detail the brutality of Communist regimes throughout the world.

Producing a chart covering such Communist regimes as China, the Soviet Union, Cambodia, North Korea, Ethiopia, Afghanistan, Cuba, and others, the authors calculated that close to 100 million people died as a result of these repressive governments, about four times as many as attributed to Germany's sadistic Adolf Hitler.

This is not the sort of thing those of the left side of the political/academic structure want to hear. Indeed, during the brutal and murderous reigns of Stalin and Mao, many left-leaning academics in the West — while ever ready to condemn the dreaded U.S. for its sins — pooh-poohed the notion of Communist bloodletting as mainly western propaganda.

Indeed, Walter Duranty, the New York Times Moscow bureau chief from 1922 to 1936, won a Pulitzer Prize for his coverage of the Soviet Union and dismissed stories about Stalin's deliberate starvation of the Ukraine as "an exaggeration or malignant propaganda."

We would do well to remember this history, which had a direct impact upon many Canadians who were alive at the time and their descendants today, which is why Prime Minister Stephen Harper, much to the chagrin of the intellectual left, is pushing ahead with a monument to the victims of communism to be built on a large tract of land near the Supreme Court building (not right next to it as its opponents falsely claim.)

As a country, Canada has quite properly taken steps to recognize the victims of several historical atrocities — the Holocaust Memorial, for example, will also be in Ottawa — so you would think a memorial to the victims of communism would be a welcome member of that pantheon.

But, oh no.

The very thought of it prompted Green Party Leader Elizabeth May, after hearing of the memorial, to wonder aloud why there was no monument to the victims of capitalism, as if there is a moral relevance between the two systems. Or, as veteran politico Gerry Nichols wrote, "Apparently, May doesn't realize that the victims of communism were men, women and children, while the "victims" of capitalism were the Edsel, Beta tapes and

New Coke."

Even Supreme Court Justice Beverley McLachlin, who has no business getting involved in a political dispute — although she and the majority of her left-leaning justices are doing all they can to thwart any laws approved by the elected Conservative government — fired off a note to Public Works complaining that the memorial "could send the wrong message within the judicial precinct, unintentionally conveying a sense of bleakness and brutality that is inconsistent with a space dedicated to the administration of justice."

Oh please. Of course it conveys "a sense of bleakness and brutality." That's the point. And the fact that it is near the Supreme Court actually acts as a strong reminder how fortunate we are in this country to have a system of laws — despite McLachlin's efforts to politicize them — which the victims of communism had no recourse to.

It is difficult to know what Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau actually thinks of it — or anything else for that matter — but one assumes he can't be pleased having held China up as the country he admires most for its governmental efficiency. It is efficient in many ways, that's for sure. When China was awarded the Olympics, for example, government officials went into various neighborhoods and gave people 10 days to leave — with no compensation, no appeal — to make room for the various Olympic venues. Trudeau, whose father also admired various communist regimes and took his kids to visit them on occasions, may applaud such efficiency, but the millions of Canadians whose background, either directly or indirectly, was affected by communism likely wouldn't agree with him.

Even Ottawa Mayor Jim Watson, complained that it could be "a blight" on the Supreme Court, whose "front lawn" is a tourist attraction. Well, not exactly. There are strict laws about how close the public can get to the Supreme Court, so don't be planning a picnic on the front lawn any time soon.

Harper, in defending the monument, argues sensibly that it is needed to ensure that the mistakes of the past are not repeated.

"Whatever it calls itself — Nazism, Marxist-Leninism, today, terrorism — they all have one thing in common: the destruction, the end, of human liberty. My fear is this: as we move further into the 21st century, Canadians, especially new generations, will forget or will not be taught the lessons had learned and the victories hard earned over the last 100 years ... That's why Canada needs this monument."

Indeed it is.

Caledon Parent-Child Centre thanks its sponsors

By Bill Rea

It takes lots of backing for Caledon Parent-Child Centre (CPCC) to provide the programs it does, and much of that has to be financial in nature. CPCC took some time out recently to show its appreciation to its sponsors. Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson was on hand to offer his congratulations to the donors, as well as to the staff.

Councillor Doug Beffort, representing Mayor Allan Thompson, commented that he was learning a lot about the facility, adding people in Caledon village are looking for something like that.

Executive Director Teresa Colasanti commented on the impact of the donors and their commitment to invest in the community.

She stressed that supporting parents is a critical part of helping to raise children in the community, and the economic return from these supporters investing in children in their early years proves to be significant as time goes on. She said $1 invested in the early years ends up saving $17 later in health care, education, unemployment supports and the justice system.

“We know it’s the right thing to do,” she remarked.

Colasanti pointed out that children do not grow and develop in isolation. While the family is their first environment and has the most impact, they need help. Parents need places that provide support and help them care for and relate to their kids, and that’s where agencies like CPCC come in.

Kara Enns, program facilitator and one of the parents who has benefitted from CPCC, commented on how grateful she was for all the support.

She said her daughter was two when they moved to Bolton.

“It didn’t take long before I got to know all the moms and the kids,” she said.

There were other resources available too, like the parent library, filled with books and resources.

Enns recalled her daughter was very spirited, and she was able to attend programs that helped her prepare for school.

She also said she was glad there was a place parents could go with their kids where there was no housework.

“We’re here because each other supports,” she remarked.

Enns said there are a number of workshops available at the agency, and they provided her with breaks, as well as opportunities to get together with other mothers.

Tilson announces support for seniors’ groups in riding

By Bill Rea

Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson was on hand recently at the Caledon Seniors’ Centre in Bolton to announce that new volunteer resources will be available.

The Older Adult Centres’ Association of Ontario (OACAO) will be getting $25,000 from the New Horizons for Seniors Program (NHSP) for the project.

Tilson stressed the government is proud to work with groups like this that are aimed at helping seniors maintain a good quality of life.

OACAO is a group of non-profit centres, organizations, clubs and individuals that work with older adults. It represents more than 160 centres and some 160,000 people across the province.

Tilson explained the new project will train eight senior regional volunteer leaders who will be involved in planning regional workshops and volunteer opportunities.

“Our government recognizes the valuable contribution seniors have made to our society and the economy,” Tilson said. “By supporting New Horizons for Seniors Program projects, we are acting to ensure that seniors maintain a good quality of life and continue to be active members of their communities.”

Sue Hesjedahl, executive director of OACAO, said the project will be operating out of the central region of the organization. She added the eight volunteers will be trained to take on mentorship and leadership roles to provide educational and networking opportunities.

“The OACAO is very excited about our project — Regional Approach to Volunteer Engagement, Mentorship and Sustainability,” she said. “We will engage, educate and empower eight older adult volunteers to have leadership and mentorship roles in their regions across Ontario. Regional meetings and education forums will be held over the course of the upcoming year. Resources and project findings will be made available on an interactive website and will be accessible to all volunteers in Dufferin-Caledon.”

NHSP has funded more than 13,000 projects in hundreds of communities across Canada since 2006. It received $50 million in funding per year, and Tilson said that since 2006, $2.8 billion in annual tax relief has been provided to seniors and those on pension.

Brewers off to a good start in AAA league

By Jake Courtepatte

Just one game into their first season in the Greater Toronto Baseball League, the Bolton Brewers are proving that they belong there.

A late rally produced a ton of runs in the final few innings, as they took down the Pickering Red Sox 10-8 in their season debut last Tuesday.

Starting pitcher Andrew White allowed one run per inning for the first three, before settling down and pitching three more scoreless in a solid six-inning outing. He allowed only six hits before retiring.

Offensively, Daryl Bond drove in the Brewers' first run of the season in the third, with the rest of the lineup not able to muster up much through six, down 3-1.

But any doubts of the Brewers' competition level were erased in the top of the seventh, as the bats exploded for six hits and six runs. Brandon Hurst came in to replace White in the bottom half, striking out one and allowing zero hits.

The offense continued into the eighth inning, as Bolton added three more runs.

Brett Chater crossed the plate three times for the Brewers over two innings, utilizing a hit, a couple walks, and some good base-running to give Bolton a sizeable 10-3 lead.

A momentary lapse in defense provided a scare for the Brewers, as a series of doubles and errors allowed Pickering to crawl back to 10-8.

Hurst was credited with the save after coming back in for the ninth inning and sitting down all three batters he faced.

Having raised the Strother Cup in the North Dufferin Baseball League five times in the last six years, the Brewers jumped from AA to AAA-baseball this past offseason.

"We have what it takes to make it in this league," said coach Mike Wallace. "We've got some strong hitting, pitching, there's not really a glaring weak spot anywhere."

The Bolton squad will have to hope they can keep up a marathon pace — not only is the competition at a higher level, but games are nine innings, as opposed to seven in the NDBL.

"We're pretty strong late in the game," Wallace said. "We're not worried."

They opened up their home schedule at North Hill Park yesterday (Wednesday) after press-time, hosting the Leaside Leafs. A doubleheader is scheduled for the weekend against the East York Bulldogs Saturday.

Over in the NDBL, the Bolton Dodgers were perhaps a little stale last Friday in their second game of the season, after a 12-day break.

A tough start on the mound for Tyson Hansen put the Dodgers down early to the Ivy Leafs, as they ran up the score, plating five runs in the first inning. The final score was 8-0 after a strong performance from Leaf ace Brad Grieveson, an important factor in Ivy's championship win last season.

Jon Bloomfield was the only positive stat on the field for the Dodgers, going two-for-three at the plate. The Dodgers bring a 1-1 record to North Hill Park Thursday against the Angus Black Sox.

Caledon Cougars under-15 girls bring home Provincial gold

It was an undefeated season for the Caledon Cougars U15 girls heading to London for provincials, where they successfully maintained the trend.

Their team is made up of eight returning players who have been part of the Cougar program since Grades 1 or 2, and four new players. They were rewarded with a ranking of first overall in Ontario after winning gold in Transway Hamilton tournament, Caledon Cougar Classic and being tops in ABS league.

The Cougars opened play over the weekend downing Stoney Creek's Newman Youth 48-38. The girls continued their winning ways the following morning with another win against Timmins Select 46-30. The team then rounded off pool play with a solid 53-34 victory over Sudbury Jam. The wins saw the team finish at the top of their pool and earned them a birth in the gold medal game.

Sunday, the girls prevailed in a hotly-contested final battle with Mississauga.

As expected, the game was a nail-biter, with both teams swapping the lead several times in the first half. Cougars were ahead after the first quarter, but were behind after the second. After a strong half-time talk, the girls came out and dominated in both ends of the floor. The Cougars came home with a well-deserved gold medal in the top Division. They are the first Caledon Cougar team to win Division 1 gold.

The midget girls demonstrated their commitment to development, both individually and as a team, all season long. They persevered through injury and performed admirably in the face of adversity. Head coach Gord Everett congratulated the girls on a tremendously successful season.

The Caledon Cougars Basketball Association provides a range of programs for boys and girls, including house leagues, summer camps and rep teams.

U14 Bolton Wanderers back on the right track

By Jake Courtepatte

Last week's championship win at the Hit the Turf pre-season tournament was a hint that the 2001 Bolton Wanderers are headed in the right direction.

The band of boys under 14 went through three games of round-robin before earning a 1-0 win over a team from Cambridge in the final. All four games were clean sheets for Bolton, scoring eight goals of their own along the way.

"Between the championship and the great weather, it was a great start to the season," said Head Coach Steve Spizzirri.

But success wasn't always in the cards for this young group, many of whom have been playing together now since childhood. Spizzirri said the team, which he has coached for three years, began as a lower-level squad. Two years ago, the team was losing by scores of 15-0.

Now bigger, faster and more developed, the boys are not only competing with these same teams, but beating them regularly.

"Seeing the progress they've made, and seeing how happy they are, it speaks volumes about the progress the organization has made over just the last few years," said Spizzirri.

"The club, and the whole organization really, has been going through a lot of change in terms of putting the right people in place to not only bring a positive energy to the club, but to the town."

The Wanderers

are, as Spizzirri put it, looking to put Bolton "back on the map" in terms of a soccer hotbed. He said a shift in the organization's focus and direction may have been off-putting for some kids, especially those who were looking to get to a higher level.

"Some players were left with the feeling that the organization wasn't the best option for their future in soccer," said Spizzirri.

Players were leaving the Wanderers to join other clubs across the GTA, such as Vaughan or Woodbridge.

It was a shift back to the development of the player that had them coming back, and even attracting attention from out-of-town prospects.

"We've gotten back to the level where we're attracting top goalies, and other fantastic additions to the team that have strengthened us," Spizzirri added. "Made us competitive again. It's good to see the boys having fun. A winning team can do that."

The U14's pre-season success is a good starting point. The team kicks off their regular season next week, in a cross-town match-up with Caledon.

Conor Swail had good week at first show jumping event of season

By Bill Rea

Conor Swail always seems to do well when he competes locally, and that was certainly the case Sunday.

He was on top of Sunday's field in the $50,000 RAM Equestrian Grand Prix at Caledon Pan Am Equestrian Park in Palgrave.

There were 17 horse and rider combinations in the field. Swail, riding Simba de la Roque, belonging to Susan Grange of Cheltenham, was one of just two to post a clear round. He was joined in the jump-off by Ian Millar of Perth on Baranus.

Swail, from Ireland, but who's currently based out of Cheltenham, was first in the ring and set a blistering pace, completing the course in just 36.6 seconds. Millar knew he had a tough act to follow. But he commented that one advantage to going second was he was able to see the hoof prints of Swail's mount, meaning he was able to stay inside of that performance, possibly cutting a couple of seconds off his time. The whole issue became academic when Millar knocked a rail down, meaning second place was all he was going to get.

"That horse he was riding was particularly quick," Millar observed of Simba de la Roque. "If I kept going like that, we'd have been within a second."

"If you're going to get beat, you might as well get beat by someone who's that good," he added.

Swail said it was a tough course, since only two combinations got through it clear, with one jump in particular causing a lot of trouble.

He also said he realized the need for speed in the jump-off when he realized Millar was going to be following him. "You know you have a world-class rider behind you," he observed.

He also knew he had a fast horse and wasn't interested in finishing second.

"You can never take things for granted, so I needed to make it very difficult for (Millar)," he added.

Two other riders managed to get through the course without knocking any rails down. Kean White of Rockwood didn't collect any jumping faults on For Freedom Z, but they were a fraction of a second too long. Christian Sorensen of Caledon was also clear aboard Zellobee, but he was about a second and a half over the allowed time, earning himself a time fault.

Fifth place was taken by Susan horn of Bolton on Her Courchevel, followed by Jordan Macpherson of Toronto on Aanwinst and White on his other mount, Sombrero Brinbelles.

Swail had two entries, the other being on Ariana, also owned by Grange, but they collected eight jumping faults, good for ninth place.

Sunday wrapped up a pretty successful week for Swail, as he also won Friday's $35,000 Alberta Premium Open on Simba de la Roque. Amy Millar of Perth was second on Heros, followed by Vanessa Mannix on Nirvana de Terlong, Elizabeth Gingras of Coup De Chance, Horn on Balintore, Sorensen on Bobby and Ian Millar on Baranus.

Staff at the Equestrian Park are now into what promises to be a very busy season of competition, as dressage and show jumping events for the Pan Am Games will be held there.

Millar was very enthused as he described the facility.

"It's beyond words," he declared, adding it's one of the best in North America. "It's going to be the best Pan American facility I've ever attended, and I've attended lots of them."

Conor Swail guided Simba de la Roque over this jump on his way Sunday to victory in the $50,000 RAM Equestrian Grand Prix.

Captain Canada, Ian Millar got Baranus into the jump-off in Sunday's event.

George's are alone at top in IBHL standings

There were two nights of action last week in the Inglewood Ball Hockey League.

When the lights were turned out after last Thursday night's play, George's Arena Sports were alone at the top of the standings.

May 12
Caledon Hills Cycling 4
Carney Plumbing 1

Caledon Hills Cycling pedaled all over the short-benched Carney crew.

Kyle Dalcin got a pair and Matt White and Kelvin Young netted singles for the winning side, with Albert Bettridge, Simon Nicholson, White, Travis Cassar, Dave Philips and Kyle Young helping out.

Carney's go-to guy was Jesse Rooyackers from Jeff Rumbolt and Todd Elson.

George's Arena Sports 5
Ron's Tire Discounters 0

George's were able to roll over the Tire troops and get a goose-egg.

Point getters for the winners were Ferdinando Colella, Anthony Villari, Luigi D'Agostino, Adam Fraccaro, Justin Fiorini, David Ruffalo and Mike Volpe.

May 14
George's Arena Sports 5
Carney Plumbing 2

George's took full advantage of Carney's short bench.

Lighting the lamp for George's were Volpe (two goals and three assists), Fiorini (two assists), Fraccaro (an assist), Dante Monti (on goal), Chris Della Morra (one assist), Chris Mete (one goal) and Villari (a goal and an assist).

Carney got on the board with Rumbolt from Scott Churly, and Shawn Lane from Churly and Brian Dunn.

Ron's Tire Discounter 3
Caledon Hills Cycling 2

Ron's Tire picked up speed and took the win in a close match with the Cycling crew.

Ron's runners were Joshua D'Eri with a pair and a helper, Tony Sousa with the single and a pair of helpers, and Dillon Hesketh-Binci with a pair of helpers.

Caledon Hills go-to guys were Philips with one and one, Cassar with one of each and Peter Anselmi with a pair of assists.

Veterinary care is well in hand for Pan Am Games

By Bill Rea

The upcoming Pan Am Games are going to see some of the top equine athletes in the world in these parts, and they're going to have to be cared for.

Dr. Mike Pownall, of McKee-Pownall Equine Services, has been named veterinary services manager for the equestrian events at the Games.

Dr. Mike Pownall, of McKee-Pownall Equine Services, has been named veterinary services manager for the equestrian events at the upcoming Pan Am Games.

"I coordinate all of the day-to-day veterinary activities," was the way he described his job.

Most of the teams bringing horses to the Caledon Pan Am Equestrian Park in Palgrave will have their own supply of experts, including veterinarians. Pownall and his team will supply support services to these people, as well as help for competitors that don't have their own vets.

During the Games, there will be between three and 10 veterinarians on the site, as well as technicians and veterinary students.

And all of these people, including Pownall himself, are volunteers. He said he was particularly heartened at the way people have stepped up for the Games, considering this is usually the busiest time of year for veterinarians.

Naturally, horses that make it to this level of competition are going to be in top condition, but there is always the unexpected to be worried about.

"They're in excellent shape," Pownall said, "but you never know."

It's possible for a horse to come down with something like colic, or be injured during competition. He added he and his colleagues will be able to assist with horses that are not performing well, carrying out X-rays, blood tests, etc.

While they will be ready for what develops during the Games, the less they have to do, the better.

"Our goal is we're going to be really bored," he said.

"We're dealing with highly-trained athletes," he added.

Pownall said there was no great trick in getting this job for the Games, observing he simply asked for it. He said he's been working with Equestrian Management Group, which runs the Palgrave facility, for about 10 years as an on-call veterinarian. He and his wife, Dr. Melissa McKee, volunteered their services.

McKee-Pownall Equine Services are based in Campbellville, but have offices in Caledon, Newmarket and Niagara.

"The whole company's involved," he said.

Part of the job will be to make sure each horse is checked twice a day for infectious diseases. As well, the animals will be watched as they warm up and compete.

"They are getting the premier service of attention," he said.

The busiest time will be when horses have to be transported to the Pan Am Cross-Country Centre (Will O Wind) in Mono for the cross-country competition. There will be 10 veterinarians on deck for that. In addition to transportation issues, if it's a particularly hot day, they will have to make sure the horses get the necessary fluids and electrolytes.

“ They are getting the premier service of attention.

The work has started on getting ready for his coming tasks. He's been working on scheduling issues, as well as finding billets for the students. Pownall has already deduced where he'll be staying.

"I imagine I'll be living there (at Palgrave) from a few days beforehand until it's over," he said.

"It's going to be exciting," Pownall said. "I'm really excited that this area is hosting it."

He said he's especially looking forward to showing that the veterinary care in Ontario is as good as anywhere in the world.

"We all just enjoy giving back to the Ontario equestrian community," he added.

This will not be Pownall's first experience with this level of competition. He was a volunteer at the 1999 Pan Am Games that were held in Winnipeg.

"I think it's going to be a showcase for Ontario," he observed.

Caledon residents honoured for environmental work

Credit Valley Conservation (CVC) honoured community members at its annual Friends of the Credit Conservation Awards recently at BraeBen Golf and Country Club in Mississauga.

More than 70 guests were in attendance, including representatives from CVC's Board of Directors.

Former Caledon mayor Marolyn Morrison was honoured with a Conservation Award of Excellence for her contributions as Chair of the Credit Valley Conservation Foundation (CVCF). As a serving member of the Board for 15 years, Morrison helped raise $3.5 million in support of CVC's work. Her leadership and commitment was instrumental for projects such as the Island Lake Community Trail, Conservation Youth Corps and conservation area improvements. Morrison's legacy of green initiatives established Caledon as the Greenest Town in Ontario.

Alton Public School was honoured with a Conservation Award of Distinction for their part in constructing a rain garden at Alton Park. In 2012, students, staff and parents rallied to win a $50,000 grant through the Shell FuellingChange Challenge. The school participated in the design process, selected plants and created art features for the garden. The rain garden is an opportunity for students to learn about biodiversity and the natural water cycle.

Since 1986, CVC has recognized individuals, landowners, community groups, small businesses, corporations, municipalities and agencies in the watershed that have made a positive contribution to the health of the Credit River, the local community and the surrounding land.

MEN'S CUSTOM BLUE

sapphire & 10kt white gold ring, 3.76 ct. over half an ounce! A real one-of-a-kind beauty. Custom made white gold and sapphire men's ring. This is a very nice, substantial piece, weighing in at 16.2 grams of polished and sat-in-finished 10kt white gold. That's more than half an ounce of gold! While heavy, it's not bulky or massive, but quite attractive. The main stone is a rectangular step cut genuine blue sapphire, 3.56 carats. It's a very dark stone, but graded as VS clarity. The two side genuine sapphires total .20 points. This is a unique high-end ring, for that special person who loves sapphires (September birthstone). Seldom worn. Size 10. Appraised at $3,000. Appraisal will be included for the winner. This is a great, unique gift (or spoil yourself), a real head-turner. A sacrifice at $1,200. Email for photos, mpavilons@rogers.com

Bolton Skating Club puts on Carnival

There was a large crowd out at Don Sheardown Memorial Arena in Bolton recently for the 2015 Carnival, put on by the Bolton Skating Club. The performance put on by the Senior Bronze Quad, consisting of Katelyn Norrie, Halle Priester, Cassandra Wex and Amy Huxtable reflected a great deal of training and practice. These members of the Intermediate Group B were putting on a very entertaining performance.

STUDENTS PRAISED for driving home anti-idling message

Mayor Allan Thompson was at St. John the Baptist Elementary School in Bolton recently with a certificate of congratulations, as well as pizza for lunch. He was greeted by Principal Kelly Barton, teacher Betty de Groot and students Robert Moore, Matthew Didomizio, Sophia DaRosa, Emily Tassone, Emily Ubizo, Nicole Galo, Vanessa Fantin, Daniela Roccatani and Genna Jenkins. Missing from the photo are Isabella Bruno, Sophia Perrota and parent volunteer Angela Perrota.

Caledon, like several other municipalities, has passed a bylaw against the excessive idling of vehicles.

Passed last year, the bylaw prohibits unnecessary idling for more than two minutes. It also established idle-free zones around certain facilities, including all schools in Caledon.

In keeping, the Town earlier this year decided to raise awareness of the new rules by inviting teachers and students at the local schools to submit short "idle-free" videos.

Town officials were very pleased with the response, and that was recognized in April before Town council, when Public Works Director

David Loveridge presented the two videos that were judged the best.

There were nine videos that were presented; five from SouthFields Village Public School, two from Macville Public School, and one each from St. John the Baptist Elementary School and Belfountain Public School.

Loveridge said the videos were evaluated on creativity and originality, along with the use of campaign materials, engagement of parents and the public, as well as clarity of message and potential for impact.

"The message starts with the kids," Loveridge told councillors.

There was a tie for first place, between a group of Grade 5 students at St. John the Baptist and youngsters in Grade 2 French immersion at SouthFields Village.

Mayor Allan Thompson made a point of getting to both schools recently, armed with pizza lunches for the top video makers.

"We're quite proud of you," he told the students at St. John the Baptist. "That's pretty cool."

"It doesn't matter how big or how small you are," he told the kids at SouthFields Village. "It doesn't work unless you can inspire people to work with it."

"This is a lesson that you've learned as a young person," he added. "You have to work with others to inspire to make things change."

The winning entry from SouthFields was essentially a Rap video.

"Listen up! Stop passing gas! Smarten up! Think of our class!" was one of the refrains.

It also showed a sign reading "No Idling. Young lungs at work."

Teacher Danielle Denreyer said the idea was to showcase the need, as well as the fact the project tied in with the science curriculum.

"I was blessed with two classes who have a fantastic sense of humour," she remarked, adding the kids wrote the bulk of the dialogue themselves. "I helped them with the rhyming words," she said.

The video took about a month to produce. "I had to learn everything from the beginning, because I never made a movie in my life," she said.

She added the project has inspired the students to spread the anti-idling message to who ever they encounter; "cab drivers, their parents, people in the street."

The video created by the students at St. John the Baptist involved youngsters picketing outside the school, shouting slogans of the "automobile pollution affects children more quickly" variety.

It also made the point that idling wastes gas and money.

Teacher Betty deGroot said it was the work of the school's Eco Team, with 13 people involved, including a parent volunteer.

Tiana Ramjitsingh was the videographer on the project, holding the camera, and she said she was happy to be on that side of things. "I don't like being in the centre of attention," she said.

And like the others involved with the project, she believes in the fight against idling.

"I just think it's horrible," she said. "It pollutes oxygen."

"It affects us more than it does adults," Vanessa Fantin added. "It's gross."

She added the smell of an idling engine can get in through open windows, and once the windows are closed, it's hard to get rid of the odour.

"I felt the idling was a very important thing," Daniela Roccatani said. "We would make this world a better place if we don't idle,"

"I wanted to help stop idling," Nicole Gal said. "It's terrible and it pollutes air."

"I want to help out in the community," Sophia DaRosa commented. "I hate when people waste their money and gas by idling."

The video took two takes to produce, deGroot said. The first take was shot indoors because it was so cold outside. They were able to get outside for the second session.

"We still had bad weather, but it wasn't too, too bad," she said.

"You have a really good message," Thompson told the students. "You can make a difference if you've got an inspiring message."

Thompson also said both videos are being shown prior to feature presentations at the movie theatres in both Bolton and Orangeville.

Car and motorcycle shows abound

The season has started to get out and shine that cherished hot rod or bike.

There are several events where residents can see some unique automobiles and motorcycles up close and personal and chat with owners.

The Hurt'n Old Guys have kicked off another season of their famous Bike Nights, held every Wednesday at St. Louis Bar & Grill in Bolton.

Organizers welcome everyone to share in their passion. The group holds fundraisers and raises money for Caledon Community Services.

The Caledon Cruisers Car Club, with a long history in the community, hosts its Cruise Nights at the Canadian Tire parking lot in Bolton, located at 99 McEwan Drive East.

ed at 99 McEwan Drive East.

Join them for an evening of memories, cool cars and enjoyable music. Bring the entire family out (pets are welcome). Support their 50/50 donation draw and bonus prize table give-aways, and you'll not only get a chance to win a fabulous prize but also contribute to the club's continued success and help local charities.

Plans are in the works for a car display at Car Zone, during Caledon Day June 13. The display will feature classic, high performance, modified and vintage cars.

HomeJames will be available at events in coming weeks

The holiday season is some months off, but spring has its fair share of events and festivities. Some of these events are open to the public and can involve the serving of alcohol, meaning participants might find themselves having difficulty getting home at the end.

That's where HomeJames comes in.

HomeJames has become very popular in December, with all the holiday celebrations going on. People who fear they have overdone it in the drinking department are able to secure rides home for themselves and their passengers, while getting their vehicles home safe too.

Broadcaster Tayler Parnaby is now in charge of the program, and he has announced it will be in operation for some upcoming community events. They include the Steak and Lobsterfest put on by the Bolton and District Lions Club May 30, Rotary Club of Palgrave's Wines of the World June 6 and the Caledon Day festivities, which will be in Caledon East June 13.

"We'll have full service at each of the locations," Parnaby announced.

Teams of three volunteers will be on hand at these functions. They will include a person to drive the client's vehicle, a navigator and the third member will drive the shuttle vehicle to transport everyone back to base when the job is done.

The shuttle vehicles are an important part of the operation. During the festive season, the local car dealers have been stepping up and lending vehicles to the program for the last several years, and Parnaby was happy to report they have all announced they will have cars at the ready for the coming events.

"Every one of them," he declared. "All eight of the dealers in Bolton are returning, and enthusiastically."

He said he walked into one dealership and was greeted with the words, "You're from HomeJames? We're in!"

"We're grateful," Parnaby added, also observing one of the dealerships even offered to provide two vehicles.

"I can't stress how important it is to us," he observed. "It really speaks volumes of the awareness of HomeJames."

Naturally, another important component of the program is the volunteers to man it. Parnaby said the volunteer pool is stretched to an extent this year, due to the upcoming Pan Am Games, but he's hopeful they will be able to fill the demand for the coming events.

In the six years the service has been offered in Caledon, more than 2,000 drivers and in excess of 4,500 passengers have made it home safely thanks to the program.

"It's quite a number," Parnaby said, adding some 56,000 volunteer kilometres have been driven.

In all of that, police report there have been no mishaps related to alcohol when the program has been operating.

There were 451 people who volunteered for the program last year, and Parnaby is expecting they will pass the 500 mark by the end of this year.

"The awareness of HomeJames is pretty high," he remarked.

There are a couple of ways to go about volunteering. They include phoning 905-951-9000, sending an email to homejamescaledon@gmail.com or going to the website at www.homejames-caledon.ca
