Debate on Canadian Tire motion was stopped before it started

By Bill Rea

Caledon councillors were ready last week to discuss the zoning on the massive Canadian Tire development in Bolton, but the debate was halted before it even started.

Councillor Jennifer Innis, who was chairing the meeting, ruled the Town did not have the authority to deal with the matter. She said local authority had been superseded by a Ministerial Zoning Order (MZO), which the Province issued for the development in July 2013.

"We couldn't debate it," she remarked later. "Couldn't discuss it."

Councillor Annette Groves

had put forth a notice of motion calling for an Official Plan amendment and rezoning process for the site, in light of plans to produce and store hydrogen there.

Her motion, which was included in the agenda of last Tuesday's meeting of the General Committee of council, stated Canadian Tire has applied for a site plan amendment for the large distribution centre, which is currently being constructed at the corner of Coleraine Drive and Healey Road. The amendment will allow for the production and storage of hydrogen on site, to be used internally to power equipment.

Such site plan amendment applications do not require a public information meeting.

Such meetings are required for rezonings or Official Plan amendments.

The motion also noted the MZO permits bulk storage of petroleum products, but does not specifically permit their production.

It also stated there have been concerns raised by the public over the safety of producing and storing such material.

Groves' motion called for the rezoning and Official Plan amendment, complete with the required public process. It also stated the amendments should have the effect of revoking the MZO. As well, the motion called

Thompson and Innis get chance to try out hydrogen-powered car

By Bill Rea

The presence of hydrogen could cause a lot of concern for some people. That's been demonstrated locally, with the worries some people have that Canadian Tire is seeking a site plan amendment to the massive distribution facility that's going in Bolton to allow for the production and storage of hydrogen on the site.

The plan is to use the hydrogen internally, to operate equipment.

But there's a case to be made that it might not be dangerous at all, and could well be the way of the future, when it comes to operating devices like automobiles.

A hydrogen-powered Hyundai Tucson was at Town Hall in Caledon East last Thursday, and Mayor Allan Thompson and Councillor Jennifer Innis got the chance to try it out.

Both said they were impressed.

Chad Heard, senior manager of public relations with Hyundai, said it takes about three to four minute to fill the pressure delivery system to about 10,000 psi.

According to material he provided, hydrogen is pumped into the cell through a flow plate. It runs into a platinum catalyst that causes a chemical reaction that splits hydrogen molecules into positive ions and negative electrons. There's a polymer electrolyte membrane that only allows the ions to pass. The electrons are forced along an external circuit creating an electrical current that powers the vehicle, similar to the way water is diverted in a river to rotate a power wheel.

Another catalyst causes the electrons and ions to combine with oxygen that has been pumped into the cell, and the result is water.

Heard said these cars are ready for mass production, although they are not for sale yet. They are only available for lease. He said the company wants the cars back after three years so the engineers can take them apart and evaluate how they've performed.

The cars produce no emissions, he said.

Heard added there are fueling facilities in Mississauga, Brampton and Markham.

The car, when filled with hydrogen, is good for about 426 kilometres, Heard added.

See 'Hydrogen' on page A3

Motion stopped by 'lame excuse'

for a prohibition on "the storage and production of hydrogen or other noxious gases as a means to ensure general public safety and compatibility to existing and sensitive residential land uses."

There was little debate when Innis announced the motion would not be discussed, although Councillor Barb Shaughnessy voiced some concerns.

"I really believe everybody has the right to have a discussion," she remarked, adding the Town could issue a letter asking the MZO be reviewed.

Innis countered the motion didn't ask for that.

Groves didn't comment on the matter while council was in session, but she later indicated she wasn't very pleased with the way things turned out.

"They wouldn't give me an opportunity to speak, . . . which I find is totally undemocratic," she said, adding to halt her motion on "some lame excuse" was wrong and not fair to the people who are interested in this.

"It begs the question, 'What are we trying to hide?'" she added.

Chad Heard, senior manager of public relations with Hyundai, was giving Mayor Allan Thompson and Councillor Jennifer Innis a look under the hood of this hydrogen-powered Hyundai Tucson.

Region partners with Salvation Army

Peel Region recently launched a new partnership with The Salvation Army Thrift Store by opening Donor Welcome Centres at four of the Region's Community Recycling Centres (CRCs).

"We are delighted to be launching this partnership with The Salvation Army Thrift Store," Peel's Director of Waste Management Norm Lee said. "The Salvation Army Thrift Store is already very active in our community in facilitating reuse, and supporting community initiatives, but its reuse work with the Region of Peel will also help us meet the Region's 75 per cent waste diversion goal."

The Salvation Army Thrift Store Donor Welcome Centres are now accepting donations at the following Peel CRCs: Brampton CRC, at 395 Chrysler Dr.; Heart Lake

CRC, at 420 Railside Dr.; Battleford CRC, at 2255 Battleford Rd. in Mississauga; and Fewster CRC, at 1126 Fewster Dr.

These centres accept accessories, antiques and collectibles, books and media, eye glasses, furniture, gently-used clothing, household items, plumbing fixtures, power equipment, shoes, small appliances, sports equipment, tools, shop equipment and toys.

The Salvation Army Thrift Store is a national, charitable organization that operates 106 Canadian stores, including four in Peel. In 2015-16, they diverted 68.8 million pounds of gently used clothing and household items nationally from Canadian landfills. Visit thriftstore.ca for information on The Salvation Army Thrift Store.

Councillor Jennifer Innis got a turn at the wheel of a hydrogen-powered car last Thursday.

Hydrogen-powered cars might be in the future

Thompson pointed out there are already hydrogen powered trucks on the highways.

"What we're trying to do is make the impacts better on our community," he commented.

"To me, it's the wave of the future," he added. "We shouldn't be afraid of it."

Thompson added the hydrogen facility intended for the Canadian Tire development will be used to fuel internal vehicles and equipment.

He also said there are cars of this nature in British Columbia, although the fueling infrastructure is not yet in place.

"Ontario's moving quite slow in this," he observed.

Dufferin-Peel offers iFun Orientation for newcomer secondary students

The Dufferin-Peel Catholic District School Board will hold an iFun Orientation Program today (Thursday) at six secondary schools in Mississauga and Brampton.

The one-day school-based orientation program for secondary students who are new to Canada is facilitated by the Multicultural, Settlement and Education Partnership (MSEP), and includes teachers, settlement workers and peer leaders/fellow students who were newcomers in previous years. The program is funded by Citizenship and Immigration Canada (CIC) under the Settlement Workers in Schools program.

“The iFun Orientation Program gives newcomer youth a head start in their new school by familiarizing them with the school building and routines, linking them to students already attending the school, and orienting them to sources of help, as well as the ‘culture’ of the Ontario educational system,” said Joanna Kubica, student settlement support officer.

The iFun program is being offered at Father Michael Goetz, Ascension of Our Lord, St. Francis Xavier, Our Lady of Mount Carmel and John Cabot Catholic Secondary Schools in Mississauga and at Notre Dame Catholic Secondary School in Brampton. The program is available to all newcomer students registered at a Dufferin-Peel Catholic secondary school. Students from other schools in the district will be bused to the closest participating school to participate in the program.

Program activities will include group discussions on strategies for success, a school scavenger hunt, dramatic presentations by peer leaders on what helped them adjust to their new school, a simulated timetable exercise and discussions about graduation requirements and support systems in the school. There will also be an opportunity for newcomer parents to meet with the schools’ administrators and guidance counsellors.

Newcomer students interested in participating in the iFun Program in Dufferin-Peel Catholic Schools, should contact the Newcomer Reception and Assessment Centre at 905-361-2344.

Grade 9 students prepare for their transition to high school

Many of the Dufferin-Peel Catholic District School Board’s 7,200 Grade 9 students are currently preparing for their transition to high school by participating in the board’s Get Ready! for Secondary School and Link Crew transition programs, among others.

Link Crew gives Grade 9 students an early opportunity to connect with a senior student (Link Leader) in their school; someone they can feel comfortable speaking with regarding transitioning to Grade 9. The Get Ready! for Secondary School program, which is a joint project between the board’s Program and Continuing Education Departments, blends 25 hours of literacy and numeracy-focused instruction with secondary school readiness activities that help welcome and prepare students for their secondary school experience.

“Ensuring the success of students as they transition from elementary to secondary school is one of the key strategies of the board’s Student Success Program,” said Carmel Murphy, principal of Secondary Program and Student Success. “These transition programs provide students with opportunities to feel welcome, make connections, and develop relationships with other students and Senior Peer Leaders. Students get the opportunity to learn about their secondary school, teachers and their own personal learning styles before attending classes in September.”

Grade 9 students are participating in a variety of activities during their transition program, including school tours, information sessions, motivational speakers, orientation games, picnics and barbecues. Link Crew and the Get Ready for Secondary programs both ease the Grade 8-to-9 transition for students and parents alike, as their confidence, comfort level, and awareness of secondary programs and pathways are significantly amplified before they enter secondary school.

For more information, students and parents/guardians should visit their school website.

Artist Dorothy Milne-Eplett from Innisfil was recently showing a collection of her creations at Alton Mill. She is seen here with two of her oil works. The one of the left is Dad's Boots, and she said it won a Best in Show award about 20 years ago. "I thought they were joking," she recalled. The other is her signature piece, called Nottawasaga Maple. The show ran until Aug. 20.

ChangeTheWorld 2016 skyrockets youth volunteer engagement in Peel

Volunteer MBC has announced that more than 8,000 young volunteers participated in its ChangeTheWorld (CTW) campaign organized in the Region of Peel by Volunteer MBC in partnership with the Ontario Volunteer Centre Network (OVCN) and funded by the Province.

The six week long annual ChangeTheWorld — Ontario Youth Volunteer Challenge campaign that started April 10 finished its ninth run May 23. The campaign is designed to encourage and inspire high school youth from all across Ontario to volunteer, develop new skills and broaden their awareness of community service organizations by participating in a wide variety of exciting local events and initiatives. Expressing her happiness with the call to action from the youth, Volunteer MBC Executive Director Carine Strong indicated that the agency's role in bringing the community together to build a sustainable and prospering environment is profound.

"Campaigns like ChangeTheWorld prove the growing role of Volunteer MBC in building a caring community together and how instilling a culture of civic engagement in youth plays such a key role for the future development of our communities," she commented.

The success of the campaign continues to soar year over year, from engaging a mere 650 youth eight years ago to more than 8,000 this year, who collectively contributed over 34,000 hours of their time to make their respective communities better places to live.

One of the events, Crossing the Poverty Line, organized by Volunteer MBC's Step

Up Youth Volunteer Ambassadors (SUY-VA) was a huge success.

"Youth come with a fresh perspective and we should nurture that when they proactively take the lead in shaping their future," Shaminda Perera, manage of community engagement with Volunteer MBC. "It is inspiring to see how the youth came together to find solutions to different issues in the community and it's a privilege to support them with these projects as well as to witness their camaraderie break barriers of all sorts."

The events organized during the CTW campaign ranged from adopting causes to address the environment, personal well-being, care-giving, multiculturalism, community safety and security among others. Some of the events like Lit for Literacy and REBEL 2016 generated a lot of interest among the youth. Lit for literacy was an awareness campaign that leveraged the game of Scrabble to engage youth volunteers to create awareness about the importance of literacy and the benefits of utilizing the vast resources available at the libraries across Peel, while REBEL 2016 in Mississauga was more focused on engaging large numbers of youth volunteers and aspiring artists to organize a youth-led festival of creative expression and community involvement via city-wide events of music, film, the arts, culture and sports. These events were supported and delivered in partnership with all three municipalities from across Peel, their library systems, a number of Volunteer MBC's member organizations, high schools and via a Youth in Action grant from the United Way of Peel.

How to Sell High: Avoid these Three Mistakes When Selling Your Dufferin-Peel Home

DUFFERIN-PEEL - When you decide to sell your home, setting your asking price is one of the most important decisions you will ever make. Depending on how a buyer is made aware of your home, price is often the first thing he or she sees, and many homes are discarded by prospective buyers as not being in the appropriate price range before they're even given a chance of showing.

Your asking price is often your home's "first impression", and if you want to realize the most money you can for your home, it's imperative that you make a good first impression.

This is not as easy as it sounds, and pricing strategy should not be taken lightly. Pricing too high can be as costly to a homeseller as pricing too low. Taking a look at what homes in your neighbourhood have sold for is only a small part of the process, and on it's own is not nearly enough to help you make the best decision. A recent study, which compiles 10 years of industry research, has resulted in a new special report entitled, "Homesellers: How to Get the Price You Want (and Need)". This report will help you understand pricing strategy from three different angles. When taken together, this information will help you price your home to not only sell, but sell for the price you want.

To hear a brief recorded message about how to order your FREE copy of this report call toll-free 1-855-217-7810 and enter 233. You can call any time, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

22 Walkers Road East, Caledon East

Rock Garden Farms going strong on Airport Road

By Bill Rea

Rock Garden Farms has been operating on Airport Road, north of Caledon East, for going on 30 years.

But its roots as a family operation, dedicated to customer service, goes back longer than that.

The 88-acre farm is owned by Nick and Tish Iuglio, but it's their daughter, Margaret Galati, who manages the operation, making it a true family business. She said her three sons pitch in, along with nine full-time employees and about 20 part-timers

"It's a team effort over here," she said. "It's a honour to bring employment to the local area," she added.

The farm has become a destination for some; a place to stop for people heading up to the cottage or coming home.

"We're definitely known as a place to stop," Galati observed. "Treat the people right, give them what they like and they'll come back."

People bring their families from out of town go through the farm. Galati said they see it as representing a look at Ontario in all its glory.

A wide variety of the merchandise is produced on the site, including strawberries, corn, squash, pumpkins, herbs, etc.

"We have our own garden centre," Galati said, adding they do arrangements for things like patio pots, hanging baskets, etc.

She said her parents bought the property in 1988, and one of the first tasks was clearing the assortment of rocks scattered around the site.

"I think we're going to be growing rocks," she recalled her father saying. "There's rocks all over."

That's how the name Rock Garden Farms came to be.

The actual retail operation came about almost by accident, Galati recalled.

The family had been operating Tullamor Farmer's Market for a number of years, with the farm supplying produce there. One year, they had some extra corn, so Galati said her parents decided to sell some of it at the end of the driveway. Within a year, they had developed a following. Then they started a pick-your-own outlet for strawberries. They eventually offered more local produce as people asked for it.

"We slowly built up a clientele," she said. "It slowly evolved into what we have today."

Galati has been managing the business full-time since 1995.

Rock Garden operates from April until November. That's required, since it's regarded as an agricultural and not a commercial operation. Galati admitted she would like to stay open longer and keep things running.

"We're honoured to do what we do," she said.

Galati said her father came from a farm background in Italy, and always worked in the food industry.

He operated the store in Tullamore for 20 years, until the lease there expired.

"It was very good, right until the end," she said.

"That's always been his love," she added. "To bring quality to the community."

Galati said enjoying what you do is and important part of success.

"We're all blessed to love what we do," she said.

"I believe it was always quality first," Galati added. "It was quality service that was our get-go."

What does the future hold for Rock Garden Farms?

Galati said they plan to continue to be of service to the community, adding she hopes the next generation will come to enjoy it too.

"We hope to be here for many years to come," she declared, although a lot depends on the next generation being interested.

Galati agreed it's not always easy.

"It's a seven-day-a-week job," she observed. "You need to be committed."

The family operation at Rock Garden Farms includes Nick Iuglio, Anthony Galati, Tish Iuglio and Stefano, Paul, Margaret and Michael Galati.

SEPTEMBER IS A BONUS MONTH – CALEDON CITIZEN CAN SAVE YOU $50.00

September isn't just the end of summer; it's the beginning of back to business. And until the end of September it can save you money too.

As a "member-to-member" benefit negotiated by your community newspaper, the one-time administrative fee of $50 will be waived if you join the Caledon Chamber of Commerce in September. Chamber members will also receive special rates for advertising on this "Chamber Check-In" page and the Chamber "Women Connecting" page.

Additionally, membership fees can be paid in full or paid monthly. The cost is tax-deductible, and the benefits can start flowing immediately.

"Typically, there are three different ways in which a Chamber membership can create business value," says Warren Darnley, Chamber Chair. "The first benefit is through networking. Your Caledon Chamber offers lots of opportunities for you to network with other businesses in the community, at our trade shows and other events throughout the year."

The Caledon Chamber owns and operates the Caledon Home and Lifestyle Show presented in April each year.

The second benefit for small businesses is "the more transactional element," Warren Darnley says. By this, he means the membership perks that come with joining the Chamber.

These benefits include:

Member discounts including discounts on gas, processing credit card transactions and, importantly, group insurance for extended health benefits and dental care under policies. "The group insurance rates offered to Chamber members are rates that normally would only be available to larger firms," emphasizes Darnley. "Joining the Chamber gains you access to group insurance at the preferred Chamber group rate."

Darnley points out that the third benefit in joining the Chamber is that it offers your small business the chance to be part of the Chamber's advocacy efforts and its role in shaping public policy.

"It's not just advocacy for traditional issues like lower business taxes and better transit, but important issues that define the kind of community we'd like to create – issues like sustainability on the environmental side, mental health and homelessness," Darnley stresses.

New Chamber board member Cheryl Connors agrees that her organization's Chamber membership has proven invaluable. "Networking is critical," says Connors. "At some point, we all need a pool of contacts – whether it's to find a like-minded, complementary soul with whom to join forces for a pitch to a new client or to be able to refer a good resource to a colleague who needs help."

To take advantage of this limited reduced Chamber membership fee, email: info@caledonchamber.com

Wanted: a court test of ‘development’

“Development” is a noun that can have different meanings, but the most common one, as found in Webster’s Encyclopedic Dictionary, is this: “a tract of land developed as a unit by public or private enterprise for residential or industrial purposes, with the houses, factories, shops, etc., built on it.”

And that’s no doubt the definition thought of when the Ontario government long ago created the Niagara Escarpment Commission (NEC) to control development in the Escarpment area.

Clearly, no one wanted to see huge new industrial, commercial or residential developments on lands that should be preserved as natural settings for posterity.

But now we have a case where NEC has interpreted its mandate as extending to weekend activities on a man-made lake in a worked-out gravel pit near Mono Mills.

We think the Dufferin Landowners Association has good reason for asking Mono Mayor Laura Ryan, whose council wants to ban the waterski competitions, to reflect on what the issue could mean for other landowners in NEC-controlled areas of the Town.

We think the time has come for a test court case that will settle once and for all how far the NEC can extend its definition of “development.”

Compliments to the BIA special event

The live musical entertainment at the Bolton Business improvement Area (BIA)’s recent Special Event Saturday was most enjoyable and a welcome compliment to our weekly downtown Farmers Market.

A great many folks were drawn to the band stand and I applaud the BIA for providing this exciting musical experience and the sheltered seating under their shady tent.

The BIA’s Special Event Saturdays, with parking, music and merchant specials, has the potential to become an important community attraction. I invite everyone to come to the market, participate in the special events and while there, take advantage of the nearby shady walking paths along the historic Humber River.

Rotary Club of Palgrave’s Weekly Rotary Minute

By Diether Weeren

Rotary (RI) and the United Nations (UN) have a long history of working together and sharing similar visions for a more peaceful world.

In 1942, RI was one of the largest “international” organizations in the world, with more than 6,800 clubs in 81 countries and were already working on projects around the world to diminish the causes of war and aggression. In 1942, Rotary clubs from 21 nations organized a conference in London, attended by ministers of education, to develop ideas for advancing education, science and culture across nations. This meeting was the impetus for what is known today as UNESCO — the UN’s Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

In 1945, 49 Rotarians went to San Francisco to help draft the UN Charter. The Charter was signed that year by the representatives of 50 countries. Many of the delegates at the San Francisco Conference that were representing their respective governments, were also members of their own Rotary clubs. The UN officially came into existence Oct. 24, 1945, when the Charter had been ratified.

RI and the UN have been close partners ever since. The two organizations share a history of working together toward world understanding and peace. RI holds the highest nongovernmental status with the UN.

Secretary General Ban Ki-moon praised the invaluable partnership between RI and the UN when he said “our common activities are saving lives. You help the United Nations reach our goals and you help the world understand the UN. The UN is proud to be a partner with RI”

RI maintains ties with the UN and other organizations through its 31 representatives in 15 capital cities around the world. RI representatives, including two youth representatives, serve as unofficial Ambassadors. Rotary also has representatives at UNESCO, UN-HABITAT, the UN Environmental Program, the Food and Agricultural Organization, World Food Programme, UNICEF, WHO and World Bank.

Nov. 12, we celebrate United Nations Rotary Day. An annual event where 1,500 Rotarians and guests “take over” the UN headquarters in New York.

Please visit www.rotaryclubofpalgrave.com for more information on our Club and all the wonderful ways you could get involved.

It happened today

Almost from the time she sank in 1912, there was talk of trying to raise the luxury ocean liner RMS Titanic.

There was even a movie made about doing just that. But it had to be found first.

That was accomplished by a team of American and French researchers, led by Dr. Robert Ballard.

After more than a week of searching the bottom of the Atlantic, they hadn’t found any indications of the great ship, but that was to change.

At about 2:20 a.m. (almost the same time that Titanic disappeared beneath the sea), one of her boilers was found.

That happened this day, Sept. 1, 1985.

Who’s class are you in, kids?

We are now into the week I used to dread as a kid, and I’m willing to bet I’m in good company.

Labour Day weekend is coming, and after that, the start of school for another year. Hard times when you’re a kid, isn’t it?

My late mother was a good and solid woman, but she was capable of being a touch sadistic, if she could get a laugh out of it. I think ahead to tomorrow, the Friday heading into the holiday weekend. At about 3:30 in the afternoon that day, she would make a point of telling me that summer vacation was over. I would get Saturdays and Sundays off from school anyway, and Labour Day is a statutory holiday, therefore not really part of the two-month long break.

And in later years, my older brother would make a point of making that same point to me, because big brothers have to find things to rub their little brothers’ noses into occasionally.

While it’s been more than 30 years since I was facing the start of school for another year, I still feel empathy for the kids, and always at this time, I find myself wondering were the summer went.

I remember the new school year was always a little hard to face, especially in the early grades. I usually knew who my teacher was going to be, and there was always a certain amount of apprehension. Were they going to live up (or down) to what I had been told?

In Grade 1, I drew a rather young woman with a couple of teaching years behind her, and she and I didn’t hit it off too well the first couple of days. She spent the bulk of the morning recess the second day yelling at me, and since I was a very shy, high-strung kid in a new school (my family had moved that summer), it was a rather rude introduction to the world of reality. Things improved from that rocky start, as she grew rather fond of me, and I her. She represents basically a happy memory.

My Grade 2 teacher was somewhat more seasoned, and she threw detentions around at a formidable clip.

In Grade 3, I drew a rookie, and I think she missed her calling. I guess she thought she had what it took to teach, but from what I recall, she would have made a fine prison warden. She was also the only teacher who ever sent me to see the principal. It was about this time that many of my male classmates were learning how to belch, and she had a problem with us practising in class, even gym class, as I learned the hard way.

The next year landed me in the class of another veteran, and I recall many of my classmates wondered if she was playing with a proverbial full deck. It was kind of frustrating being under the wing of someone who’s sanity you questioned, even if you were just a kid. Despite that, I remember she always had control of her class. There was very little fooling around, although I also remember that she had few notorious trouble makers to deal with.

My memories of her have improved as the years have gone by. It was the last happy school year I would have for a while.

The opposite could be said about the guy I had the following year. My first male teacher was a religious fanatic who enjoyed beating up children, and these were the days when teachers were allowed to do such things. He did it with a certain amount of gusto, although he reserved it strictly for the boys. I remember one occasion when I was being victimized by his violence, much to his amusement, and my humiliation.

I learned some years later that my parents had been advised by others who knew of this guy to keep me out of his class. I was also told my parents seriously considered this advice, with my father settling the issue by realizing I was going to have to deal with difficult people in life, so I might as well start getting used to it. Some years later, he acknowledged that had been a mistake. It was the first and only time I ever heard him use profanity to refer to one of my teachers.

There was also an understanding in those days that parents were careful when it came to opposing teachers, because they were in a position to take it out on the kid.

To make matters worse, as the school year was winding down, this teacher made a point of dropping hints (in front of the class) that I was about to fail the year.

Of course I didn’t tell my folks about that! In those days, one of the last things a kid wanted was to face the wrath of his or her parents on the verge of flunking. But the hints continued to drop, and I well remember the night when I finally broke down and told my parents what I was being told day after day.

Despite the concern about taking on teachers, my parents (after I had gone to bed) decided something had to be done.

Thus it came to pass that my mother was in the office the next morning, face to face with the principal (the same guy who had dressed me down a couple of years earlier for belching in gym class), demanding an explanation. I saw my mom take on many people over the years when her dander was up. I’m sure there were some store clerks who dreaded her approach. I suspect the principal needed some Roloids when she was finished with him.

She told me I had passed when I got home from school that afternoon. The best part of the episode came a couple of days later, as the class was heading home at the end of the day, and the teacher announced that everyone had passed.

Had he been called on the carpet? I suspect so.

An interesting sidebar to all this was there was a young woman who was teaching at the school, and there were indications there was something going on between her and the guy who had told me I was flunking. It was common knowledge that they would stroll together toward the nearby park during lunch hour — I saw it lots of times.

And this woman became my Grade 6 teacher, and I know I was not her favourite student. I have sometimes wondered if she took it out on me for getting her colleague in trouble. That was not a terribly happy year.

I drew a fun teacher in Grade 7; a kindly and whimsical old gent. The problem was he was nearing retirement and was well beyond his prime.

The guy I had in Grade 8 was arguably the best of the bunch. There was a school reunion about six years ago, and I was delighted to get the chance to talk to him again.

I have two cousins and a sister-in-law who are teachers, and I suspect they are wondering little menaces they’re going to have to deal with this year. Do they dread the start of the school year too?

I guess this week is a tough time for the other side of the equation too.

Liberals breaking with convention – appointment of Supreme Court justices

The Supreme Court of Canada is the highest court in the country.

When we think of the Court, we immediately think of this institution as a representation of our shared Canadian values, including the rule of law. A longstanding convention of the Court has been that at least one justice of the Supreme Court come from Atlantic Canada. However, the current Liberal government recently announced that it will no longer be adhering to this convention, leaving Atlantic Canada without representation on the Court.

The Supreme Court is comprised of eight judges and one Chief Justice. Under the Canadian Constitution, the Governor General is given the authority to appoint Supreme Court judges. However, it has been tradition that the appointments are based on the recommendations of the Prime Minister. The Supreme Court Act establishes that three of the nine judges be appointed from the province of Quebec. In order to ensure the Supreme Court is representative of all regions of Canada, there has been a longstanding convention that three judges come from Ontario, a minimum of two judges come from the Western provinces, and one judge come from one of the Atlantic provinces. In addition, the candidates for these positions must have been members of a provincial or territorial law society for at least 10 years or have served as a judge in a superior court. A judge may sit on the Court until he or she reaches 75 years of age.

OTTAWA JOURNAL

MP Dufferin-Caledon

Earlier this month, the Liberal government, following the news that Justice Thomas A. Cromwell would be retiring from the Supreme Court, effective Sept. 1, announced a new procedure for selecting Supreme Court judges that will permit any Canadian lawyer or judge who is functionally bilingual and “representative of the diversity of our great country” to apply to be a candidate for Canada’s highest court. The current government’s new procedure unfortunately raises serious concerns, as it does not guarantee that at least one justice on the Supreme Court be from Atlantic Canada. If the Prime Minister were to appoint a replacement for Justice Cromwell who was from outside Atlantic Canada, it would leave the Supreme Court without Atlantic Canadian representation. This not only breaks with longstanding Canadian convention, but leaves the Court without an Atlantic Canada perspective on important issues. Every single federal Member of Parliament from Atlantic Canada and every single Premier, is a Liberal, and collectively the current government has failed to guarantee their region’s representation on the highest court in the country.

It is within the Prime Minister’s discretion to name Supreme Court justices in whichever fashion he sees fit. Our previous Conservative government appointed judges according to merit and legal excellence; however, we also believed that all regions of Canada should be represented in the country’s top court.

Regardless of the process Prime Minister Trudeau chooses, we as the Conservative Opposition, urge him to respect and follow the longstanding convention that at least one justice from the Supreme Court of Canada come from Atlantic Canada, as he seeks to replace Justice Cromwell. We believe Atlantic Canada should continue to have representation on the country’s highest court and this region of Canada deserves better from the current government.

Annual fall fairs coming in Dufferin-Caledon

Fall means two things to me — back to school and fall fairs in Dufferin-Caledon.

Fall fairs are a great opportunity for everyone to celebrate our province’s proud agricultural community to showcase their hard work. Dufferin-Caledon is home to a number of fall fairs, and our local agricultural societies have been busy getting ready for opening day.

From Sept. 2 to 4, the Orangeville Agricultural Society, competitors, exhibitors and the midway are ready to welcome visitors to its 162nd fall fair with this year’s homage to sunflowers. Getting to the fair is easy, with a free bus ride leaving from convenient locations throughout Orangeville. Visit the website to check for locations and time at <http://oaseventcentre.ca/orangeville-agricultural-society/free-bus-schedule-and-route>

There are many activities and events for individuals and families to enjoy, including the demolition derby, livestock shows, live music, agricultural displays, children’s crafts and home craft displays.

The 149th Shelburne Fall Fair will be taking place the weekend of Sept. 16 to 18. Dig out your rain boots because this year’s theme is Country Roots and Rubber Boots. There will be local musical talent, street artists and more. The Shelburne District Agricultural Society volunteers have put together a fantastic weekend and the fairgrounds are jam-packed with activities for the whole family, including lawn tractor races, shows for dogs, cattle, horses and sheep, an obstacle course, exhibits and much more. For more information, please visit their website at www.shelburnefair.ca

to 18, is celebrating Honey-Bees and Apple Trees in its 163rd year. There is quite a buzz about this year’s fair, held at the Region of Peel Agricultural Society Fairgrounds at 12942 Heart Lake Rd. in Caledon. Drop by with the family for a fantastic family outing. Stay for the Brampton’s Got Talent contest, or take in the demolition derby. For more information on this fair, please visit www.bramptonfair.com

Grand Valley is holding the 144th fair from Sept. 23 to 25 and is also recognizing bees in its theme of Butterflies and Honey-Bees. This year will surely be a great time for the whole family, with events including midway rides, truck and tractor pull, a kiddie pedal tractor pull and pet show. To find out more, please check out their fun and interactive website at <http://grandvalleyfallfair.ca>

Sharing the weekend of Sept. 23 to 25 is the Bolton Fall Fair. The Albion and Bolton Agricultural Society and volunteers have planned a busy weekend in their 158th edition with a focus on Sew It, Grow It, Show It. The official opening is Friday at 6:30 p.m., but the midway is open to visitors Thursday for Toonie night. More information can be found at <http://boltontractorpull.ca/bolton-fall-fair>

No matter where you live in Dufferin-Caledon, there is a local fall fair for you to take your family and celebrate autumn.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Claire Hoy

He’s an odd duck, Stephen Harper.

He first came quietly into Ottawa as part of the western-based Reform movement, and last week, after 18 years as an MP and nearly 10 as prime minister, he left town just as quietly as he came.

For a public figure, he is uncommonly private.

Yet in between his coming and going, Harper served as Canada’s second-longest Conservative prime minister (trailing only Sir John A. Macdonald), and, whether you like it or not, changed the face of Canada.

He created a legacy which, it says here, future historians will applaud, but which — more because of Harper’s prickly personality than the substance of his accomplishments — faces much disparagement.

It was completely typical of the man that, upon stepping out of politics and going back to Alberta to set up a consultancy business, he didn’t even hold a news conference but instead left a video of what he sees as his major accomplishments in the job.

“We cut taxes, made critical investments and balanced the national budget,” he said. “We got tough on crime and put families first. We managed our G7 economy through the worst global recession since the Great Depression, and came out in the strongest position of them all. We took principled decisions in a complex and dangerous world. And, whether at home or abroad, we were always proud to stand up for Canada.”

All of these claims — and more — are relatively accurate. So you’d think that a politician who did all that would have rated a better send-off.

Not Harper. First, he wouldn’t want a formal send-off. And then there’s the reality that so many Canadians — including those who still voted for him in the last election — find it difficult to warm up to the guy.

His personality, as someone once said about another politician long ago, is akin to sandpaper enclosed in an ice cube. That’s just the way he is. And always was.

Successful political leaders, almost by definition, are outgoing, hail-fellow-well-met types, who never miss a chance to smile before a camera, kiss a baby, shake a hand, dance a jig, or whatever it takes to be seen to be jolly and down to earth.

Not Harper. Sure, thanks to the efforts of his personable wife, he did appear in public a few times playing the piano and singing. But for the most part, he sat back, aloof, betraying little real emotion and leaving the impression that he just couldn’t be bothered explaining himself.

For all his personal unpopularity, however, and in the face of unprecedented full-scale attacks from the mainstream media (who never forgave him for not talking to them more), Harper still managed to hang onto more than 100 seats in the last election, a remarkable performance for a guy who, all the experts opined, had long overstayed his welcome.

And the current administration, the so-called “sunny ways” of Justin Trudeau, despite all their campaign talk to the contrary, have continued many of the Harper policies they ostensibly hated.

While Harper’s enemies, of course, never had a problem finding fault with him during his years as prime minister, it wasn’t always easy supporting him. He had the maddening habit of staying detached from the criticisms of his opponents, even at times when it would have been easy —and accurate — to shoot down their darts with a simple recitation of some facts.

He was constantly accused by opposition parties, provincial premiers and journalists, for example, of cutting back health spending, when, in fact, the deal he made with the provinces gave them more money to spend than they’d ever had.

But rather than respond to their constant whining, Harper appeared to take the view that since he knew they were wrong, the public, too, would know the truth. But politics, as you’d expect a skilled practitioner to know, doesn’t work that way. So on the health file, and many others, critics continue to hammer away and Harper continued to ride above it all.

Another oddity about Harper was his ability to annoy both his critics and his supporters on the same issue. On the question of social conservatism, for example, critics attacked him for being a social conservative while those, like me, who are social conservatives, despaired over the fact he wasn’t — and never claimed to be — in that camp.

Ah well, eventually, no matter the record, the public wants something new. Now they’ve got it.

And Harper has slipped quietly off into the private world where, no doubt, he’s well suited.

Still no WNV-positive pools in Caledon

Peel Public Health’s ongoing testing for West Nile Virus (WNV) is continuing, with still no major activity in Caledon.

The Region has reported that as of Aug. 20, there had been 31 mosquito pools in Peel that had tested positive for the disease. Of that, 21 were in Brampton and 10 in Mississauga. During that week, there were eight new positive results in Brampton and four in Mississauga. There have been no Caledon pools that have tested positive this year.

There have been no human cases of the disease reported in Peel, although there has been one in neighbouring York Region (in Markham).

To date, there have been 94 WNV-positive mosquito batches found in Ontario. There was one other human case reported in Manitoba. South of the border, there have been 213 human cases of WNV in the United States; with 42 states reporting WNV activity.

Peel’s adult mosquito surveillance program started in June. Adult mosquitoes are collected weekly from mosquito traps at 31 fixed locations throughout the region until late September.

To date, 464 mosquito batches have been tested for WNV.

The larviciding program continues. Larviciding involves applying environmentally friendly products to reduce mosquito larvae in stagnant water. Peel’s larviciding program started in June and will continue until Sept. 30. It takes three weeks to complete a round of larviciding. There will be three rounds of roadside catch basin larviciding this year. The first round of roadside catch basin larviciding was completed July 15. Larviciding crews are currently starting the second round of catch basin treatments in Mississauga. The second round is indicated by a purple dot affixed to the catch basin grate.

Larviciding of catch basins in the green spaces of parks in Peel has been completed. The treatment of surface water sites on public lands is ongoing.

The Region is reminding residents they can reduce the risk of WNV by removing stagnant water on their property. Empty or dispose of containers that can hold water, such as old tires, wheelbarrows, barrels, pails, toys and recycling bins; turn over wading pools, remove water that collects on pool covers; and make sure swimming pool pumps are circulating.

People can also protect themselves from being bitten by mosquitoes by avoiding areas with large numbers of mosquitoes; wearing light-coloured clothing, including long sleeves, long pants, socks and a hat whenever outdoors (even in the backyard), especially at dusk and at dawn; and using an insect repellent and applying it according to the manufacturer’s directions.

Symptoms of WNV may include fever, muscle weakness, stiff neck, confusion, severe headaches and a sudden sensitivity to light. In rare cases, the virus can cause serious neurological illness including encephalitis, or inflammation of the brain.

Highland Powerlifting Club to host 3rd annual competition

The Highland Powerlifting Club will again host the Orangeville Open Powerlifting Championships Sept. 10 at the Athlete Institute.

This is a world-class training facility at the intersection of Highway 9 and Heart Lake Road.

This is the third year for this event, which will again include separate three-lift and a bench press only competitions. These championships are sanctioned by the Ontario Powerlifting Association and more than 40 men and women, ranging from teenagers to older than 60 years of age, will compete for best lifter honours across 11 weight categories.

The 2014 and 2015 events were both tremendous successes, with many lifters setting new provincial records in front of enthusiastic, standing-room-only audiences.

This event would not be possible without the support Highland Powerlifting has received from its sponsors, including Popeye's Supplements Orangeville, The Athlete Institute, Orangeville Equipment Rentals, Hyde-Whipp Heating and Air Conditioning, and Titan Support Systems Canada.

Lifting will commence at 9 a.m. and the public is encouraged to watch and cheer on the competitors.

Powerlifting is a sport that tests total body strength. Athletes compete in three separate lifting events to achieve a combined three-lift total.

The squat requires the lifter to first stand with a weighted barbell across his or her shoulders, then squat down until the hips are below the tops of the knees before standing back up.

In the bench press, the lifter lays on a bench and lowers a weighted barbell to the chest and holds it until the referee gives the command to press it back up to arm's length.

For the deadlift, competitors simply bend over and grip a weighted barbell, which is resting on the floor, and lift it until they stand completely upright with their shoulders back.

All lifts must comply with a strict set of rules and at least two out of three judges must agree that the lift has been properly executed for it to be successful. Competitors are given three attempts to register their highest successful lift in each event.

In the bench press only event, a competitor's best of the three attempts determines his or her total. In the three-lift event, the best squat, bench press and deadlift attempts are added together to record a three-lift total. Final results are determined by ranking the total scores of each competitor from highest to lowest in each weight division.

Senior Brewers bounced from playoffs

By Jake Courtepatte

The Bolton Brewers will have to wait another year to try to see action in the Greater Toronto Baseball League's final four weekend.

Bolton's AAA club was ousted in the opening round of the playoffs by the Thornhill Reds, wrapping up with game three last week. After pulling out a surprise 9-7 victory over the favoured Reds days earlier in game two, the final game of the series was a 10-0 blowout in seven innings.

Rookie Josh Appel pitched his second complete game of the series for the Reds, also earning the win in the opening match. He allowed Bolton just two hits, while striking out seven Brewers batters.

Sean Sutton and Jacob Hillier provided two extra-base hits early for the Reds to take a quick 5-0 lead from which Bolton could never recover, especially with the absence of heavy hitter Brett Chater in the lineup.

Nick Boyd was on the mound for the loss for Bolton.

The 2016 season was the second season of full-time AAA ball for the Bolton club, having graduated from the AA North Dufferin Baseball League after 2014. They are yet to make it past the first round, falling in two games to the Newmarket Hawks last year.

They amassed an almost identical regular season record to their stat line in 2015, earning one less win this year with a 6-19-0 record and again finishing in sixth place.

The Pickering Red Sox also defeated Newmarket in game three of their series to round out the final four, with both Thornhill and Pickering joining the Leaside Leafs and East York Bulldogs.

Pickering was the location over the weekend for the top four teams to battle it out, with the winner earning a berth in the provincial championships. The hometown Red Sox went 2-0 Saturday, needing just one win to clinch the title Sunday in a doubleheader with Thornhill.

After Thornhill took game one 17-6, the scorching heat claimed two umpires as heat stroke victims and the final game was postponed. Action will resume later this week.

To continue following the postseason action, visit www.gtbl.ca

Forest health workshop coming Sept. 17

Credit Valley Conservation (CVC) will be holding a forest health workshop Sept. 17.

It will be from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at CVC's Forestry Operations Centre, at 15526 Heart Lake Rd., north of Olde Base Line Road.

Learn how to protect and manage a forest. Hear the latest on forest health issues, including invasive plants, common tree pests and disease, emerging forest health concerns and more from CVC's forestry specialists and guest experts. In the afternoon they'll assess and learn about forest health first-hand as they explore the CVC forest on site.

The cost is $10, plus HST. A light lunch and refreshments are included.

Preference will be given to participants owning property within the Credit River watershed. Others are welcome as space allows.

To register online, go to www.creditvalleyca.ca/event/forest-health-workshop/

Mud Heroes bring fun to Albion Hills

There was no shortage of mud to be found Saturday at Albion Hills Conservation Area, or people ready to make their way through it, as Mud Heroes made their annual stop in the area, raising money for Camp Oochigeas, a privately funded camp for children affected by childhood cancer. There were walls for people to get over on the course.

Participants had to drag themselves through some of the obstacles, like this one.

There was some very muddy water waiting for people at the bottom of this slide.
Photos by Bill Rea

The course included lots of obstacles for participants to get through, including these tubes, and look at what was waiting for them.

Town of Caledon staff members Sandra Dolson, Sandra Sharpe and Mary Nordstorm joined Councillors Jennifer Innis and Johanna Downey in the mud.

THANKS

Wallace, Norma

The family of the late Norma Wallace wish to thank all the friends and family who supported us through this difficult time. To our ever supportive friends thank you for the meal between the wakes and after the funeral -- thank you!

To everyone who remembered our Mother through memorial donations, floral tributes, cards, food to our homes and phone calls it all meant so much. Shelburne Residence Nursing Home staff your kindness and loving care given to our mother was incredible as you treated Mom with kindness and dignity. Lyn, Darlene, Karen, so many more became like family treating her like she was their Mother. Rev. Darrell Wright thank you for your visits to serve communion it meant so much to her. Rev. Candice Bist and Pastor Ann Harbridge thank you also for your visits. Rev. David Howes - thank you for coming to Mom's bedside when she called. Your conversations with her were so comforting. Thanks to Gord Horsley who became a big part of our family with all his support with our parents.

We extend a deep appreciation to Rev. David Howes and Rev. Gord Horsley for delivering such a meaningful and comforting funeral service. Grandson Micheal Scace thank you for delivering the eulogy on behalf of the grandchildren. We laughed, we cried - the many personal memories of Grandma! Thanks Michelle for the idea of the Grandchildren and great grandchildren wearing the Blue Jays tee shirts at the wake. Grandma would have loved that and would have worn her jersey!

She loved her "Blue Jays"!

Jack and Thompson Funeral Home - your support and personal care to our every need was incredible. Shelburne Legion Ladies Auxiliary thank you for the delicious lunch after the funeral.

To all we say "THANK YOU"

Love From Beth Brown, Gwen Pederson, Bob Wallace, Deb Scace, Kathy Storey,
Dianne Irwin and families
