Bob Fines welcomed Conservative Party of Canada leadership hopeful Maxime Bernier to Fines Ford Lincoln Tuesday, along with Mayor Allan Thompson and Councillor Johanna Downey.

Leadership hopeful Bernier stops in Bolton

By Bill Rea

Making things easier for the entrepreneur will also improve the economy of Canada.

That's what Maxime Bernier is promoting in his quest to be the next leader of the Conservative Party of Canada.

Bernier, the MP for Beauce in Quebec, brought his leadership campaign to various spots in the Greater Toronto Area (GTA) Tuesday, including a brief stop in Bolton, at Fines Ford Lincoln. There, he was greeted by several luminaries, including dealership proprietor Bob Fines, Mayor Allan Thompson and Councillor Johanna Downey.

"I like what I'm doing," he commented during the stop in Bolton, adding he enjoys the chance to communicate with people, both those who are members of the party and those who aren't. "They like the message."

Calling himself a "Conservative who believes in individual freedom," Bernier was stressing the need to end corporate welfare and use the money that's saved to reduce taxes for entrepreneurs. He said the issues he's hearing most about from people concern the economy. The is concern over the lack of economic growth, which he said should be at least three per cent annually. The growth has been around 1.2 per cent over the last two years. That means an economic platform is very important, especially considering that unemployment stands at about 15 per cent for those aged 15 to 30.

Bernier said his policies will lead to more private investment, as entrepreneurs will want to invest. He said that will lead to more economic growth.

He also stressed the importance of fairness in his campaign, stating that no one area of the country will see benefits over the others.

"I won't do anything special for a region of the country," he said. "I'm against that."

Bernier said there are four themes to his campaign; individual freedom, responsibility, fairness and respect.

"Imagine a country where these principles of freedom, responsibility, fairness and respect are the basis of all political decisions," he's quoted as saying on his campaign website (www.maximebernier.com). "I am going to fight for this ideal, with passion and conviction. I know that I can convince a majority of Conservatives, and a majority of Canadians, to support this vision."

Bernier is in his fourth term as an MP. He served in several cabinet portfolios in Stephen Harper governments, including Industry.

United Way announces appointment of interim president

United Way of Peel Region's Board of Directors has appointed Anita Stellinga as Interim President and CEO to ensure a smooth transition while the Board conducts a search for someone to permanently fill that position.

Stellinga began her career with United Way in 1995, progressed through various positions and was appointed Vice-President of Community Investment in 2011. She has also previously supported the organization in a transition role as the Interim Director of Resource Development in 2010. She will continue in her role as Vice-President of Community Investment.

"I am honoured to work alongside United Way of Peel Region's dedicated volunteers, community partners and exceptional staff during this transition," she said. "I will work with my colleagues on the senior team to ensure the organization continues to meet the changing needs of Brampton, Caledon and Mississauga.”

Prior to joining United Way, Stellinga was a member of the senior management team of the Polycultural Immigrant Community Services organization. In this role, she founded the Sunshine Summer Day Camp in West Toronto, which provided summer camp opportunities to low-income families. She is a member of the Peel Newcomer Strategy Group, Co-Chair of The Peel Poverty Reduction Strategy Group,

"Anita is a pillar in the Peel Community who has over 20 years of United Way experience; she was a natural choice for the Board," Board Chair Tom Dyck declared. "Anita will work closely with the experienced executive team and dedicated staff at United Way to ensure it is business as usual."

Clean-up continues on Highway 9 after fuel spill

By Bill Rea

An eastbound lane of Highway 9, east of Mono Mills, remains closed after an accident early Tuesday morning involving a truck pulling fuel tankers.

Caledon OPP reports the incident took place at about 2:25 a.m. The truck, hauling tandem fuel trailers, was westbound when the driver lost control of the vehicle, causing it to jack-knife and the rear trailer to rollover and spill some of its contents. As a result, the rear trailer spilled approximately 12,000 litres of gasoline onto the roadway, surrounding ditches, catch basins and low lying areas of the highway.

Constable Stephanie Hammond, media officer with Caledon OPP, reported speed did not appear to be a factor in the crash. She added there were no injuries.

The road remained completely closed until shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday, although the one eastbound lane was still closed and likely to remain closed for about a week. She explained the Ministry of Transportation needs to make sure repairs are carried out, and that environmental crews complete their clean-up, and that's expected to take several days.

Although there was a considerable amount of fuel spilled, Hammond said there's no report that any got into the nearby Humber River.

"They were pretty good at keeping it relatively contained," she observed.

Caledon Fire and Emergency Services, Brampton Fire Services, the Ministry of the Environment, the Ministry of Transportation, Brampton HAZMAT and several crews were at the scene to assist with the clean-up and remediation efforts.

Mayor Allan Thompson expressed appreciation for the work of the crews at Tuesday evening's meeting of Caledon council, pointing out they were working around the clock to prevent contamination of wetlands, etc.

"Our volunteers and our workers have put in a lot of hours so far, and I thank them for that," he said.

Crews were working in the rain Tuesday morning to deal with the fuel spill on Highway 9, east of Mono Mills.

Fatal snowmobile incidents has OPP worried about doubling of numbers

With fatal snowmobile incidents now more than double the number this time last season, the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) and Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs (OFSC) are dismayed to see the same behaviours drive the numbers up at an alarming rate.

Fatal snowmobile incidents and resulting deaths now sit at 20 for the season, compared to eight such incidents and 11 deaths to this time last year. Thirteen of the deaths have occurred within the past six weeks. The causes and contributing factors clearly reflect snowmobilers' ongoing disregard for their own safety and that of their fellow riders and passengers:

- Twelve of the deceased either collided with a tree, a rock, a snowbank, a road vehicle or another snowmobile.
- Speeding excessively, too fast for the conditions and/or losing control of their snowmobiles were actions in nine of the incidents.
- Four of the snowmobilers were traveling on frozen waterways. Three of them encountered open water and the fourth fell through the ice. Sadly, in one of those incidents, a young passenger died.
- Driver inattention was the primary cause of four fatalities.
- A lone snowmobiler died of hypothermia after her snowmobile became stuck in the snow — a harsh reminder of what can happen when riders do not pack an emergency kit for each ride.

Seventeen males and three females, which include a 16-year-old and an 11-year-old girl, have been killed to date.

According to OPP Deputy Commissioner Brad Blair, the prominent demographics among the deceased may come as a surprise to some and are telling in terms of the attitudes and behaviours among some Ontario snowmobilers.

"Men in their 50s and 60s make up the majority of this season's snowmobile deaths, with 15 of the 20 deceased within these age groups," Blair said. "What snowmobilers and their families need to take away from this is that even those with considerable driving experience — be it on a snowmobile or in a road vehicle — are equally vulnerable to the inherent risks associated with this popular, yet high-risk recreational sport."

"A snowmobiler impacting another vehicle or a tree isn't an 'accident,'" OFSC Executive Director Paul Shaughnessy observed. "It's a preventable incident, often the result of excessive speed and operator inattention."

"Some snowmobilers do not appreciate that they are operating a motor vehicle, machines that are capable of reaching significant speeds," he added. "They need to drive with due care and control."

OPP is urging snowmobilers to stay off lakes and rivers, the conditions of which are deteriorating rapidly in many parts of the province. Family members are also encouraged to help their loved ones make smart decisions before they head out, to help ensure a safe return home from their ride.

OPP and OFSC are reminding snowmobilers to check for trail status and conditions before each ride.

Three break-ins in west part of town

Caledon OPP are looking for a man between the ages of 40 and 50 in connection with three reported break-ins Feb. 21.

They occurred in the area of Heritage Road and Old School Road.

Police said the investigation has revealed that an individual was knocking on the doors of homes in the area at the time of the break-ins, claiming to be an employee of Hydro One. Hydro One has confirmed that they did not have any employees in the area.

This individual is a person of interest in the investigation and police would like to speak with him.

He's described as having brown hair, which was bald on top, with a moustache. He's about 40 to 50 years of age with a thin build, and about five feet eight inches to five 10 in height.

Police are asking anyone with information about the break and enters or the person of interest to contact Detective Sergeant Matt Noble or Detective Constable Rob Hlebec at the Caledon OPP Detachment at 905-584-2241 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

Police are reminding residents to contact the OPP Communications Centre immediately at 1-888-310-1122 to report any suspicious persons, activity or vehicles in the area. Information such as the physical description and clothing of suspicious individuals, make, model and colour of vehicles, licence plate information, direction of travel are all useful tools for investigators.

Dating incidents explored

Six lonely people looking for love get more than they bargained for when a dating agency mistakenly pairs them up with the wrong partners in the Inglewood Schoolhouse Performers' production of Karen Doling's Date with Destiny. Directed by Kathie Maloney, the two-act comedy will be presented at the Inglewood Community Centre, March, 24, 25, 31, April 7 and 8. An April 1 dinner theatre performance, which is a fund raiser for the Knox United Church, is sold out. But there are plenty of seats available for the other five shows. This is the first time in its 30-year plus history the theatrical group has staged a production for three consecutive weekends. Performance time is 8 p.m. with the theatre doors opening at 7:30. Tickets are $20 and can be ordered online at inglewoodperformers@hotmail.com or by calling (905) 838-2874. They are also available at the Inglewood Store or Body Perks (clients only). ENSEMBLE PERFORMED AT CHAMBER CONCERT

The latest performance in the Caledon Chamber Concerts series featured the Ensemble Made in Canada. The Ensemble consisted of Angela Park on piano, Rachel Mercer on cello, Elissa Lee on violin and Sharon Wei on viola. The program included works by Mozart and Brahms.

Concert series presents all-Mozart program

Caledon Chamber Concerts continues its 2016-17 season March 25 with a concert by the Lacroix-Vachon Duo. Frédéric Lacroix on pianoforte and Christian Vachon on violin will present Mozart's "Viennese" Sonatas for Pianoforte and Violin. Fortepiano is a generic term to signify any piano that predates the construction of the modern piano. The piano used by Lacroix is a copy of a piano by Anton Walter from around 1790, a Viennese maker who built pianos in the late 18th century. His pianos were recognized as being some of the best in the city and both Mozart and Beethoven owned Walter pianos. These early pianos were built within the case of the harpsichord which explains that visually, they are often mistaken as such. The most significant changes are in the actual action (which is much less complicated in the Viennese piano and the hammer hits the string inverse to that of the modern piano), the smaller size of the hammers and the strings which are strung straight (crossed-strung on moderns). Other notable differences are the pedals which are knee levers. There are two knee levers: the traditional damper pedal and the moderator, which is the equivalent of the soft pedal, and puts a piece of felt between the hammers and the strings.

Vachon will be using a period bow. Violin bows changed greatly between 1750 and the beginning of the 19th century, transitioning from the baroque bow to the modern design known today. The developments varied greatly from region to region. Mozart wrote different sets of sonatas most likely for different violin bows in mind. For this particular concert, Vachon will be using a copy of an early transitional bow from circa 1765-1770 made by Chinese bow maker Chris Zhang. This bow is probably similar to what Mozart might have used for the "Viennese" Sonatas for Pianoforte and Violin. At its base, it is similar to a baroque long sonata bow, but with a higher tip and a screw mechanism in the frog. It is also made of pernambuco wood, instead of the traditional snakewood used in the baroque period. As such, it is lighter and more agile than bows from the baroque period or modern bows, as well as shorter than a modern bow. Its particular features give certain expressive characteristics in phrasing and articulations that are quite different from modern bows but well reflected in Mozart's writing.

The concert takes place at St. James' Anglican Church, Caledon East at 8 p.m. Tickets are $35 for adults and $15 for students 16 years of age and younger and may be purchased in advance at Forster's Book Garden, Howard the Butcher and BookLore. Tickets will also be available at the door on the night of the concert. For more information call 905-880-2445. Commercial Fill

You are invited to attend an Open House about a Commercial Fill Land Use Study currently being conducted by the Town of Caledon

DATE: March 22, 2017

TIME: 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

LOCATION: Town Square Café, Caledon Town Hall, 6311 Old Church Road, Caledon East

BACKGROUND:

The management of excess soil is essential to protect human health and the environment and is a growing concern amongst municipalities in the Greater Toronto Area (GTA). The disposal of excess soil raises concerns about the quality and quantity of the soil being disposed: increase in truck traffic, damage to roads and infrastructure, dust, noise, flooding, erosion, and groundwater contamination. Caledon and other near urban communities are attractive destinations for commercial fill operations due to their proximity to where excess soil is originated. Currently, existing quarries and pits are also being targeted for commercial fill operations.

PURPOSE:

Council has passed an Interim Control By-law for a period of one year to facilitate a study on commercial fill in the Town. The purpose of this study is to develop a greater understanding of commercial fill and to formulate policy and regulatory framework for the management of commercial fill operations. By May 2017 a draft Commercial Fill Land Use Study report, draft policies and regulations will be available for review.

CONTACT:

If you have questions or require more information, please contact Ohi Izirein, Policy & Sustainability Division, Community Services Department by phone at 905.584.2272 x.4271, by email at ohi.izirein@caledon.ca or visit Town Hall (6311 Old Church Road, Caledon East) Monday to Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

ACCESSIBILITY:

If you require an accessibility accommodation to attend or participate in this Open House, or to access any materials related to this item in an alternate format please contact Legislative Services by phone at 905.584.2272 x.2366 or via email at accessibility@caledon.ca. Nothing is permanent

We have no trouble understanding how there might be many upset, if not angry people within the Credit View Public School community.

Staff at the Peel District School Board last week sent a recommendation to trustees, suggesting the school be closed at the end of the current school year. The recommendation was received, meaning no final decision has been made yet. The board is ready to hear from members of the public at the March 22 meeting, with a final decision expected April 12.

Trustee Stan Cameron, Caledon’s representative on the Board, stressed last week nothing has been finalized. But we also think he’s a man who recognizes reality when he sees it. He commented after last week’s discussion that he expects the recommendation for closure will be approved.

“It’s a difficult time for any community,” he remarked, and we’re certainly not prepared to debate that point.

Like any school, Credit View has been part of the community for decades. Its halls and classroom are filled with memories of students who have passed through on their way to what ever the adult world had in store for them.

Cameron himself agreed it was “a sad report” that contained the staff recommendation.

But again, there is reality. There were 81 students who showed up for class in September, and they were spread over 10 grades. As well, there were five schools involved in the Pupil Accommodation Review (PAR) that was started late last year. Credit View rated lowest in terms of the number of students it could accommodate and highest when it came to considering needed repairs.

If the result of this process is the school must close, then we hope the community takes up the suggestion of Cameron, and holds some sort of commemoration “of the wonderful years the school has given the community.”

That would be fitting.

Our Readers Write Apology for reference to parents

Re: My letter “In Defence of Ignorant Elders,” Caledon Citizen April 24.

On clearing my mailbox this week, I found a letter from Skid Crease regarding a sentence used in the above letter to the editor.

It appears that Mr. Crease believes that “Unfortunately his parents obviously failed to teach him any normal social graces, manners or respect” defames the reputation of his deceased parents and he wishes me to apologize for this.

I therefore wish to tender my formal apology to Mr. Crease, his parents, and any family members who felt that this was the intent of my remark. This was and would never be my intention.

Rotary Club of Palgrave’s Weekly Rotary Minute

By Doug Nicholson

This week, I thought it would be interesting and fun to name a few prominent Rotarians from around the world covering the past 112 years of service above self.

These Rotarians, or Honorary Rotarians, reflect the diversity of intellectual, cultural, military, sports and government leaders who have supported Rotary.

- Neil Armstrong, astronaut and the first man to walk on the moon — Rotary Club (RC) of Wapakoneta, Ohio.
- Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands — RC of Amsterdam.
- Clarence Birdseye, developer of a process for quick-freezing food — RC Gloucester, Mass.
- Frank Borman, astronaut — RC of Space Centre, Houston.

It happened today

As Jane Austen put it, “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune must be in want of a wife.”

That surely must apply if the man in question has a good job with the prospect of advancement.

Such was the case with Napoleon, who married Joséphine de Beauharnais this day, March 9, 1796.

Power failures are tiring

There are some things in life we have to learn the hard way, and the lessons some times come with little warning, even if we always knew they would come eventually.

My wife and I had to deal with a power outage last week.

Now it is a fact that I’m a big boy who has had to deal with such issues lots of times, but this one had certain implications.

Having been born in the late ‘50s, I have vivid memories of the massive Northeast blackout in 1965. I was a little kid at the time, and was appropriately frightened.

The lights went out shortly before dinner time. My brother and I had been down in the rec room of the house.

The lights and TV went out simultaneously, and since we were in the basement, everything suddenly went pitch dark. I think I had every right to scream like the bratty little kid I was.

It was a complicated evening for my family. My father’s job at the time required reasonably frequent trips to Europe, and he was due to start another trip to France that night. My late dad was a man with a temper, and I clearly recall how packing in candlelight did little to improve his mood. He had probably arranged to get to the airport either by limousine or taxi. I forget exactly which mode of travel he used, but by the next evening, we knew he had made it across the Atlantic, where the lights were working.

It was never planned to have the family accompany him to the airport. It was the second Tuesday of the month, meaning my mother’s bridge club was to meet that night. The ladies all got on their respective phones (which were all still working, despite the blackout), and in light of circumstances, called the whole thing off. Mom also called the babysitter and told her to stay home. She stayed home with her offspring. The three of us spent the evening sitting in the living room, since there was nothing else to do.

Remember, this was the ‘60s, so little boys had their transistor radios. That’s what we listened to that night.

The whole thing was a God-send for teachers the following day. Getting their little charges to write about what they did the night before spared them the bother of coming up with some other assignment. That’s how Mrs. Shortt kept me occupied that afternoon.

I’ve had to deal with lots of other outages over the years, and as I got older, they ceased being frightening, but became increasingly annoying.

We have all become too used to having electricity available when we want it, not to mention when we need it.

There was the massive outage in August 2003, when I abruptly learned that my ability to do my job had been seriously hampered.

There was a real lesson to be learned that day, as many of us came to realize how much we depend on our electricity. The computers in the office went down, as did the phones. Cellphone technology was such that a charge would last maybe 24 hours if you didn’t use the phone too much.

Problems with my cellphone was not the only thing I had to address. I found stores were having trouble doing transactions because the cash registers needed electricity to work. It was a good thing I had put gas in my car the day before, because gas pumps weren’t working.

But the lights did come on, at varying times in various places.

And then we had to deal with the power going out at our Sandhill-area home at about 2 last Thursday morning.

I’m a fairly light sleeper, so I noticed the problem almost immediately. My clock radio going dark is usually a very reliable indicator of such things.

I woke Beth up because I couldn’t think of anything else to do. Then I realized we have a sump pump in our basement that wouldn’t be working with the power out. And with all the rain we’d had recently, it seemed a cinch we weren’t too far away from having a flooded basement.

We have lived in this house for almost two years. We never had to worry about such things in our last home.

Thus, I spent about 20 minutes in the middle of the night bailing out the pump and lugging buckets of water upstairs to pitch them out from the front porch. I was also having a hard time determining if I was doing much about the water level.

After about 20 minutes of this fun, I decided I needed some sleep. I retired, resolving to get up at 4 to do more bailing.

Fortunately, our cuckoo clock is not electrically powered, so I was able to hear when it was 4; time to get up and start bailing.

I spent the next 40 minutes trying to make a dent in the water level in the pump.

Beth was fussing about with her cellphone. She was able to access the web and found a news story that Premier Kathleen Wynne was planning some announcement about hydro rates. She mentioned it, and I think I can be forgiven for suspecting my spouse was trying to be a wise guy.

She also found a phone number to call about the outage. She did, and was told the authorities were hopeful the lights would be on by about 5:15 a.m.

I bailed as much as my tired body would allow, then went back to bed.

I stirred at about 5:45, and Beth mentioned something about the 5:15 prediction being missed. The lights came on about a minute later.

So a power outage of almost four hours meant I got a lousy night sleep and was not terribly productive at work the following day.

I hope we don’t get billed for the hydro we didn’t get.

Liberal government inaction on Ukraine

The previous Conservative government took quick and decisive action to support Ukraine when its sovereignty was threatened by Russia's illegal occupation of Crimea.

Canada became a world leader in its strong support of the country in its struggle to restore political and economic stability. Several of the initiatives our previous Conservative government put in place to support Ukraine are about to expire and we call on the current Liberal government to take immediate action to demonstrate Canada's continued support through a Ukrainian defence and aid package.

The previous Conservative government had a strong record of action on supporting Ukraine by sanctioning over 270 individuals and entities; providing the country with more than $600 million in aid; contributing four CF-18 fighter jets to Baltic air policing; assigning the HMCS Fredericton to the Baltic Sea and deploying 120 Canadian Armed Forces (CAF) members to Eastern Europe as part of NATO's assurance measures in Eastern Europe; donating 30,000 coats, 30,000 pairs of pants, 70,000 pairs of Gore-Tex boots and 4,500 pairs of gloves, purchasing tactical communications systems, explosive ordnance disposal equipment, tactical medical kits and night thermal goggles for the Ukrainian military; providing $5 million in non-lethal material assistance to the Ukrainian Border Services (helmets, body armour, sleeping bags, etc.); and launching Operation UNIFIER, a military training mission comprised of 200 CAF members deployed to Western Ukraine.

The current Liberal government's record of action on Ukraine has not been nearly as strong, as it cancelled the supply of life-saving radar-satellite imagery; has yet to extend Operation UNIFIER beyond its March 2017 deadline; failed to sign the Canada-Ukraine Defence Cooperation Agreement; ignored Ukraine's calls for lethal defensive military equipment, while providing the same support to the Kurdish military; backed down from its election promise to adopt Magnitsky sanctions; moved to normalize relations with Russian President Vladimir Putin, despite his ongoing illegal occupation of Crimea.

Russian aggression has continued and Ukraine, therefore, needs the continued support of Canada. This is why we are proposing a Ukrainian defence and aid package, which calls on the current Liberal government to extend and expand Operation UNIFIER, Canada's military training mission to Ukraine which is set to expire March 31; restore the practice of providing RADARSAT-2 Imagery to the Ukrainian military; add Ukraine to the Automatic Firearms Country Control List and supply the Ukrainian military with lethal defensive equipment; strengthen sanctions to hold corrupt foreign officials to account by implementing our Magnitsky legislation (Bill C-267 in the House of Commons and Bill S-226 in the Senate); sign and implement the Canada-Ukraine Defence Cooperation Agreement; increase the number of OSCE monitors to report on violations of the Minsk Agreements; provide additional humanitarian assistance to support the 1.6 million internally displaced people in Ukraine; and call on Russia to respect Ukraine's sovereign territory and abide by all aspects of the Minsk Agreements.

Canada has and must continue to steadfastly support Ukraine, as its sovereignty remains threatened by Russia. I join my Conservative colleagues in calling on the current Liberal government to take immediate action on the Ukrainian defence and aid package that will show Ukrainians that Canada will continue to stand united with them.

Wynne's hydro plan: Kicking the can down the road

The Liberal government announced March 2 its plan to reduce your hydro bills.

The need for rate relief and the need for serious action to address the structural problems with the system has been clear as we watch costs escalate. The Premier finally admitted her government's mistake and that their policies are responsible for the 400 per cent increase in hydro rates.

In 2015, there were 567,000 residential electricity customers in energy arrears. The independent officer of the Ontario Legislature, the auditor general, outlined in her 2015 report that Ontarians paid $37 billion more than necessary from 2006 to 2014. I have heard many "hydro horror stories" from families and businesses across Dufferin-Caledon. People are tired of having energy bills where the delivery charge is higher than the electricity they used. People are struggling with their hydro rates. Businesses are closing and seniors are having to choose between food on the table and the keeping the lights on. However, I have serious concerns about the Liberals' plan to reduce hydro rates. Specifically, the plan does not address the exorbitant subsidies we give to solar and wind projects. The reality is that in order to address skyrocketing hydro rates, the government needs to stop signing more expensive wind and solar contracts. Under the current contracts, wind and solar energy averages seven per cent of our power generated, yet it makes up 21 per cent of the cost of our electricity. Rather than stopping signing energy contracts we do not need, the government signed more expensive contracts March 3, the day after their announcement.

FROM QUEEN'S PARK
Sylvia Jones
MPP Dufferin-Caledon

The government's plan also doesn't address out of control executive pay. Currently the CEO of Hydro One has a salary of $4 million, compared to Quebec CEO's salary of $400,000. Nor does the government's plan stop the selloff of Hydro

One. Rather than addressing the structural problems of bad energy contracts, the government is putting an expensive Band-Aid on the problem. In fact, the Premier admits that her plan will cost a staggering $25 billion dollars in new interest payments. So in summary, according to the Auditor General, Ontarians have over paid for electricity by more than $37 billion and now we have to pay $25 billion in interest payments to make up for the government's mistakes. If the government does not stop signing contracts for energy we don't need and cannot afford, they are just kicking the can down the road.

Or as one young person said to me, "It seems to me the Premier is bribing you with my money."

TALK OF THE TOWN
Mayor Allan Thompson

It's been a busy first part of the year here in Caledon and plans are underway for some exciting upcoming events.

We have proudly partnered with the Toronto and Region Conservation Authority, Youth Voice and Rotman School of Management to put together our first Youth Summit. From the summit, we hope to tap into the innovative and creative ideas of our young citizens and give them insights into how their communities function as a whole. This is another step toward engaging our entire community.

Another community engagement initiative my team is working on for the early spring is a digital town hall. We will be streaming live on Facebook to answer your questions and get feedback. More information on this is to come.

A reminder that with spring being around the corner more children will be outside playing, water levels will rise and our roads will show the effects of a long cold winter. Town and Region crews will be out repairing our roads and getting our parks and trails ready for the warm weather ahead.

Enjoy a safe and happy March break and early spring!

Indo-Canadian group sets its sights on $1 million raised for Osler

A local community group is hoping people will open their hearts this Valentine's Day and participate in a good cause to enhance patient care at Osler's three hospitals.

Indo-Canadian Friends of Osler (ICFO), a group of local professionals and entrepreneurs from the Indo-Canadian community, have come together to collect $1 million for Brampton Civic, Etobicoke General and the new Peel Memorial hospitals. The group is hosting a fundraising gala this Sunday (Feb. 12) at Brampton's Pearson Convention Centre, 2638 Steeles Ave. E., with a hope of reaching its target.

Led by Brampton-based entrepreneur Satish Thakkar and his wife Rimple, ICFO was launched in 2014 with a pledge to raise $1 million for the William Osler Health System Foundation.

"More than 50 per cent has already been raised and we are hosting The Butterfly Soiree gala as part of our continuing effort to reach our goal of $1 million to support redevelopment initiatives at Osler's hospitals," Thakkar said.

With strong roots in Brampton, Etobicoke and the surrounding area, ICFO believes that volunteerism and philanthropy are the true cornerstones of progress.

"Indo-Canadian Friends of Osler are among a growing group of community leaders joining Osler Foundation in its quest to support our fabulous community hospitals," said Maureen Sheahan, vice-president of philanthropy with the Foundation. "The Butterfly Soiree speaks to the passion and dedication of a community that cares."

Throughout the campaign, Thakkar said the community response has been very encouraging and everyone has supported the cause with keen interest.

"We live in a community where it's our privilege and opportunity to support our infrastructure," he said. "We are reaching out to businesses and community leaders to open their hearts."

Health care supporters will be treated to an evening of delicious food and delightful company.

"Titled The Butterfly Soiree, the gala will feature Bollywood music, dance and dazzling entertainment. The funds raised will help replace life-saving equipment at Brampton Civic, as well as build and equip Peel Memorial and a new four-story patient care wing at Etobicoke General," Amar Bhatia, president and CEO of International Data Systems and member of ICFO commented.

As well, the program seeks to positively influence health care delivery abroad while learning innovative new ways to improve care and better meet the needs of its own community in Brampton and Etobicoke.

"The donation will also assist an eight-member team from Osler to travel to Punjab, India, where it has started work in partnership with three local hospitals — Dayanand Medical College and Hospital, Shaheed Kartar Singh Sarabha and Apollo Hospitals," Avninder Singh, president and CEO of Akal Optical Group, as well as a member of ICFO, said.

It truly boggles the mind

NATIONAL AFFAIRS
Claire Hoy

You've probably heard the old saw about the kid who murders his parents and then begs the government to look after him on the basis of the fact he's now an orphan.

Kind of like Premier Kathleen Wynne bragging about the fact she's using your tax dollars — even more than she has already — to help fix the skyrocketing electricity prices in Ontario, prices that she and her predecessor Dalton McGuinty are pretty much personally responsible for.

Talk about chutzpah!

For more than a decade now, the Liberals at Queen's Park have been sending out blank cheques in a misguided plan to impose so-called green energy on this province, all the while causing homeowners terrible hardships and chasing business across the border.

Faced with ever-shrinking poll numbers because of her own incompetence, Wynne suddenly came upon a plan — she'll lower your Hydro rates by 25 per cent and pay for it by mortgaging the debt for a longer term.

Wynne, attempting to make it sound as benevolent as possible, likened it to people extending their mortgage term in order to lower the monthly payments. The difference, of course, that in the case of a house mortgage, you still enjoy increased equity as time goes by. In the case of paying for her electrical boondoggles, alas, the only thing you get is a longer and greatly expanded debt.

And she hopes Ontarians are stupid enough to fall for this.

You may recall that in 2015, Auditor General Bonnie Lysk concluded that the Liberals had overpaid $9.2 billion — that's "billion" with a "b" — pursuing their ideologically twisted (my description, not Lysk's) green energy plan.

That's two years ago, so today's tab of unbridled waste would be even more. Add to that the extra $25 billion in debt repayment of her latest scheme, and it truly does boggle the mind. It also leaves a mess for your kids and their kids to be saddled with once Wynne and her crew limp off into the sunset.

We have heard a considerable amount about Ontario residents being forced to chose between paying the rent/mortgage and feeding their kids. At one of Prime Minister Justin Trudeau's townhall meetings, a woman asked him about that, but he just brushed it off as a provincial matter. His famous sunny ways, it seems, don't extend beyond Parliament Hill, which may be why the latest public opinion polls show his saintly status sadly slipping. But we digress.

Residents are being asked to take comfort in the government's decree that Hydro can no longer cut off their residential power until the spring. How generous, given the fact that 60,000 Ontario citizens have had their power cut off in a single year already. And — surprise, surprise — people actually still need power in the warmer weather too. Duh!

Just to rub it in, these same Liberals are offering grants of up to $14,000 for people buying electric cars. So if you can afford say to buy a $100,000 Tesla — which means you can likely afford to pay your Hydro bill as well — your premier is only to happy to cut you a cheque and declare what a fine citizen of the world you really are.

Another serious side-effect of this great Liberal folly that we don't hear as much about these days is the dreadful impact it has all had on business. Yes, yes, I know it's fashionable — particularly in Liberal circles — to bash business these days, but without it, alas, we'd be in even more trouble than we already are.

A recent survey of Ontario members of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business (CFIB) — whose 42,000 Ontario members employ about 500,000 people — found that 87 per cent of these business owners saw their electricity costs go up from five to 20 per cent or more during the past three years.

Asked how that impacted their business decisions, 43 per cent said it caused "delayed investments" — obviously with fewer job opportunities for Ontarians — and 56 per cent said it forced them to increase the cost of their products or services — and guess who is paying for that.

Others said they had to reduce employee hours or the number of employees and 13 per cent considered either closing up shop or moving somewhere else outside of Ontario. And so it goes. Horrible as the direct costs are of this Liberal mismanagement of electricity, the indirect costs make the situation even more dire.

Wynne's cynical and politically inspired re-financing of the debt, while saving you a few bucks now, will continue to cost you even more than it has. And given that these same people are still running things, there's no reason to think it won't get even worse.

Think about it next time you turn on your lights. Unless, of course, you've already been cut off.

Campaign ‘going very well’

Foreign Affairs, and Small Business and Tourism.

His website lists several other plans.

He said a carbon tax will “kill jobs.” He is also calling for an end to trade barriers between provinces, and for aggressively pursuing free-trade deals. Bernier is also planning to balance the federal budget within two years of taking power.

“Debt and deficits are nothing more than deferred taxes on our children and grandchildren,” he stated on his website. “At some point, the bill will come due for the reckless spending from the Trudeau Liberal government. That is why it is important to present a balanced budget within two years of taking office, commit to only running balanced budget, and legislate a debt repayment schedule. This is the right plan.”

Other plans include getting the federal government out of health care, getting the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) out of the telecom industry to allow for more competition, privatizing Canada Post and privatizing airports to help lower travel costs.

Seen as one of the front-runners in a 14-way race for the leadership, Bernier is hopeful he can draw enough support come the May vote.

“I’m working hard for it,” he remarked, adding it’s the party membership who will decide. “Things are going very well.”

WOMEN WHO CARE MAKE CONTRIBUTION

The first meeting of the Caledon Chapter of 100 Women Who Care took place last month, and those on hand voted to donate the proceeds of that session to Caledon Meals on Wheels. Michele Newton and Barb O’Handley of 100 Women were on hand with the cheque for $6,000, to present it to Meals on Wheels Executive Director Christine Sevigny, Verona Teskey and Shirley Hoppler of Prudential Select Real Estate and Christine Gnass of Meals on Wheels. The next meeting of 100 Women Who Care will be May 10 at Caledon Ski Club.

Drop in for March break fun at Caledon Parent-Child Centre

Parents with children up to six years of age are encouraged to drop in to the Caledon Parent-Child Centre (CPCC) and enjoy some free March break fun from March 13 to 16.

The CPCC’s drop-in hours will be extended to remain open Monday afternoon and the week will feature interactive and engaging activities, such as Animals, Animals Everywhere, Costume Party Day, Friends in Our Neighbourhood and PJ Day.

This year, the Centre invites families to “stay and play” during lunch Monday and Wednesday, when for $3 per person, they can eat at the Centre. Monday’s lunch will be “turtle dogs” and Wednesday will feature pancakes and sausages. Fruit, veggies and dessert will be served both days too.

The mortgage world has changed... are you prepared?

It is estimated the “stress test” reduced the purchasing power of homeowners by 20%. Given that home prices are steadily increasing in double digits, this has left many out of the market.

It is also estimated that 30% of people who currently have an insured mortgage would no longer qualify. So that means you can’t port your mortgage to a new property & you may forced to accept the renewal offered at maturity, no shopping around for best rates.

My message to you today is don’t get caught. Just because you qualified for your current mortgage, doesn’t mean you will under today’s new rules. I have highlighted only one of the major changes, others impact re-financing, investment properties and more.

Be safe, not sorry! Your first step, whether thinking of moving, purchasing for the first time or refinancing you current home, to consult me, a Mortgage Broker for professional and knowledgeable insight.

Maybe you have recently been in the market for a new mortgage so you have some insight to the changes or, possibly it has been the status quo for you as you continue to work hard to pay off your mortgage & realize the dream of financial freedom.

The recent changes to the Mortgage Industry are very significant. The most notable being all mortgages, regardless of term or rate type, must now be qualified at a “stress test” rate, currently at 4.64% & 25 year amortization. This rate is significantly higher than the current market rates, but has been done to protect home owners in the event of rising interest rates.

When the news reported this change, they led many viewers to believe this impacted only First Time Buyers. Wrong, it impacts all buyers; although First Time Buyers are often the most affected category.

Teen Ranch celebrates 50 years in 2017

By Brian Lockhart
Sprawled over 150 acres in Caledon, it is the result of a dream come true, inspired by a man who had some of the best days of his life at summer camp. Teen Ranch is now celebrating its 50th year and has grown from a single old farmhouse on the property to a year-round facility with a dining room (instead of the term dining hall), visitor accommodations, and an Olympic-sized arena called the Ice Corral.
“Our first summer camp was held in 1967,” Teen Ranch founder Mel Stevens said. “We looked at 65 properties all over the place, from Kentucky to Muskoka and Sarnia and Kingstons, but we kept coming back to this place.”
The location, he thought, was perfect with its wide open space, wood lots and access to larger centres in the region. Although money was tight and the landowner at the time was skeptical, Stevens told him, “If God wants us to have your property here, we’ll have it.”

The idea for actually starting a camp here began on another continent. Stevens travelled to Australia with his band at the time, and they became quite a popular group, appearing in shows, radio and television.
“We were a gospel group, but very a different type of gospel group from what the ordinary was at the time. We were quite progressive.”
While in Australia the group promoted the idea of creating a year-round youth camp. Stevens became the director of the camp and stayed on for another five years after the other band members had returned home.
“We arrived home with $10 and 11 suitcases,” he said of returning to Canada.
Stevens was inspired to start a camp through his own positive experience as a youth.
“I guess it goes back to when I was a kid,” he said. “I went to camp every year from the time I was nine to 19, either as a camper or staff member. I went to the Salvation Army music camp for six years — a beautiful camp in the Adirondack mountains for three years — and a waterfront camp in Muskoka. The camp had a more profound influence on me than anything else other than my parents, in developing me as a person. The staff became the example. They walked their talk. It’s a Christian camp. Church didn’t have as great an impact on me as the staff of various camps I went to.”

Since that opening summer in 1967, Teen Ranch has grown to a multi-use, year-round facility with church groups, school boards and hockey organizations becoming a part of the ranch’s existence.
Many international and professional hockey clubs come to the Ranch because of the large Olympic-size ice surface and comfortable accommodations.
A ranch from the beginning, there are now about 50 horses on the premises.
“We run six shows every summer for the community,” Stevens said. “They’re very popular. We have a variety of camp programs, from English and western riding to hockey camps, soccer and BMX direct camps. We also have adventure camps where kids stay here but go off to do mountain biking, caving, or white water canoeing. The Catholic School board in Toronto books about 26 weeks a year where they send Grade 7 and 8 students for a retreat.”

After half a century, Teen Ranch is looking to the future while banking on the success of those who have spent time there over the past 50 years.

Teen Ranch founder Mel Stevens stands in front of the Coach House residence at the camp’s property on Highway 10 in Caledon. The Ranch is currently celebrating its 50th anniversary of operation.

Peewee Hawks clinch Tri-County finals berth

By Jake Courtepatte

The peewee AE Caledon Hawks booked their ticket to the Tri-County championship series Monday in convincing fashion.

In the second to last game of the league's round-robin series, the Hawks met with the Orangeville Flyers in a win-and-you're-in scenario for either team.

Caledon, undefeated so far in Tri-County play, proved to be the better squad by taking the lead about a minute into the game, and a 2-0 lead into the first intermission.

The score held steady until the first minute of the third period, when Orangeville finally broke the shutout. Caledon retaliated with three quick goals of their own, with the score sitting at 5-1 at the final buzzer.

With their unbeaten streak reaching five games, the Hawks have now downed the Flyers twice, and earned a win and a tie with the Dundas Blues.

They finish off the round-robin against the Stoney Creek Warriors, whom they have already beaten 10-1 in the playoffs.

That final game, going Thursday in Stoney Creek, will simply be a warmup for the championship series, where they will face the Ancaster Avalanche: winners of Group A.

Ancaster clinched their spot early with convincing wins over both the Flamborough Flames and Erin-Hillsburgh Devils last week. Schedules are yet to be determined.

The Hawks join their minor midget AA counterparts as Tri-County finalists, who clinched a date with the Garden City Falcons after a 6-4 win over Flamborough Saturday.

Meanwhile, three other Caledon squads are still looking to earn that coveted finals position.

The atom AEs await the results of a Thursday night game between Guelph and Centre Wellington to decide their fate, while the bantam AAs are in a three-way race with Burlington and Guelph for tops in Group A.

They face Guelph Thursday night in what could be the deciding match.

The bantam AEs also have a win-and-you're-in final round robin game Thursday, facing Centre Wellington to determine which of the two will take top seed in their grouping.

The organization's last remaining hope for provincial gold lies in the hands of the midget AA Hawks, who begin their battle in the OMHA championship with the Whitby Wildcats Wednesday following press time. Caledon lost just one game on their way to the final, taking down both the Orangeville Flyers and Niagara Falls Flyers.

MacLennan makes short list for Ontario Athlete of the Year

By Jake Courtepatte

Heralded in November by her hometown of King City, Canada's golden girl may just earn the nod as the top athlete in Ontario.

Rosie MacLennan is one of 13 athletes nominated for the Syl Apps Athlete of the Year Award, which celebrates one athlete who has made a memorable contribution to Ontario sports during the previous calendar year.

"Just seeing the names on that list, it's an honour to be beside them," said the 28-year old graduate of King City Secondary School. "Knowing what they have all accomplished, and some of them at such a young age, I'm just glad that I can be a part of that group."

MacLennan won her second gold medal in as many Olympic Games in August, winning in women's individual trampoline.

She won the award previously in 2013, following her gold medal performance in the 2012 games in London.

"To be recognized at that level, it's phenomenal," said MacLennan, who was the woman of the hour at a ceremony put on by the Township of King four months ago. "Whether it's locally, or provincially, or nationally, it's a great feeling."

Finalists for the Syl Apps Award are nominated by their provincial/multi-sport organization. Winners are voted for by the general public.

Other nominees include track star Andre De Grasse, Toronto FC player Sebastian Giovinco, tennis player Milos Raonic, golf up-and-comer Brooke Henderson, CFL wide receiver Brad Sinopoli, and Blue Jays hurler Aaron Sanchez.

Henderson won the award in 2015, while Sinopoli was the recipient last year.

Voting is open at www.oshof.ca, and closes March 31.

The peewee AE Caledon Hawks beat the Orangeville Flyers at Alder Arena Monday night to clinch a position in the Tri-County championship series.

Town will not use ranked ballots in 2018 elections

By Bill Rea

Ranked ballots in elections makes sense to a lot of people, but there's not much appetite for having them in Caledon for the next municipal election.

Town councillors recently supported the staff recommendation to stick with the current system, also known as "first past the post."

The use of ranked ballots (sometimes also known as preferential ballots or weighted ballots) would involve voters picking their preferred candidate, as well as naming their second and third choice. The number of first choice ballots would be counted, with the candidate coming in last being eliminated. The second choices on the ballots for the eliminated candidate would be distributed with the last place person being dropped. The process would continue until one candidate has a clear majority.

The staff report to councillors noted changes to the Municipal Elections Act give municipalities the option of using ranked ballots for the next election, scheduled for the fall of 2018.

The report also stated there are many arguments for and against the use of ranked ballots. The system is used for local governments in Scotland, Ireland, Australia and New Zealand, as well as some municipalities in the United States. But it is not currently used anywhere in Canada.

"Ranked ballot voting is believed to capture elector preference," the staff report stated. "Other noted advantages include improved platforms and debates, voters have more choice and there aren't any wasted votes."

But the report also pointed to administrative and financial concerns involving the counting of the votes.

Staff pointed out that voters in Caledon currently vote for their mayor, as well as area and Regional councillors. If this system were put in place, it could require each voter having to fill out multiple ballots.

"This could lead to great confusion for the elector and potentially an increase in the number of spoiled ballots as a result," the report stated.

The staff report went on to say the legislation allowing the use of ranked ballots is new.

"There isn't an adequate level of technical support or resources available to provide a sufficient comfort level with introducing the change to the voting system," it stated. "At this time, staff are not comfortable implementing a complete change to the voting process in the Town that simply hasn't been rolled out or used in Ontario of Canada."

Mayor Allan Thompson agreed the system is not advanced enough to be of benefit to taxpayers.

"I don't think we're there yet," he said. Councillor Rob Mezzapelli agreed it could be "confusing."

"I actually believe this is a better reflection of the will of the people," he remarked, but agreed it might be hard to implement for the 2018 elections.

He also spoke about public education effort, commenting that it should be the public who decides to switch to ranked ballots. He wondered if the town could start a public education program explaining the pros and cons of ranked ballots, as well as first past the post, and possibly have a question on the 2018 ballots.

Clerk Carey deGorter told him staff does its best when it comes to educating the public. She also said staff will be bringing forth a report some time next year about the possibility of putting a question on the ballot.

DeGorter said there are rules governing such questions. They have to pertain to the municipality and have to be answered either with a yes or no.

As well, for the results of such a question to mean anything, at least 50 per cent of eligible voters would have to actually vote. She said the traditional voter turnout in Caledon is between 30 and 40 per cent. DeGorter added the results of such a question would provide useful information, but she warned against basing a decision on them.

Councillor Barb Shaughnessy said she could see Mezzapelli's point, adding she would love to see voter turnout improved. She stressed the need to encourage people to vote, but she said they would also have to be encouraged to take part in any education process. She said there are people who have a hard time understanding the system as it stands.

Councillor Jennifer Innis observed that making things more complicated it going to deter people from voting.

Jones not impressed with government’s announced plans for electricity rates

By Bill Rea

The Province is promising lower electricity bills for residents, but Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones is maintaining the government of Premier Kathleen Wynne is acting out of desperation.

“She had to do something,” Jones observed.

The government announced last Thursday that electricity bills for residential customers will be dropping by an average of 25 per cent, starting this summer.

In a news release, the Province said these measures include the eight per cent rebate announced in January. Wynne announced last Thursday this was achieved by eliminating the Provincial portion of HST from bills.

The government stated electricity rates have been increasing over the years for two key reasons: lack of investment in the system over decades by governments of all stripes, which resulted in the need to spend more than $50 billion in generation, transmission and distribution infrastructure; and the decision to eliminate Ontario’s use of coal in order to produce clean, renewable power have resulted in additional costs.

The government stated the cost of financing these system improvements has been picked up mainly by the ratepayers.

Since the infrastructure improvements are expected to last for several decades, the government has announced it will be adjusting the financing of these capital investments to distribute them over time.

The government has also announced it is sticking to its pledge to have the budget balanced by 2017-18.

“For too long, governments — my own included — have made mistakes in the way we’ve structured Ontario’s electricity system,” Wynne commented in a statement issued last Thursday. “That has resulted in rates that are unfairly high. It’s time to fix those mistakes, in ways that work for today, and for the future.”

The premier also said these reductions have been designed to last. Once the rates have fallen, the government will hold increases in line with inflation for at least four years.

Jones said the government acted because it was feeling pressure from all sides, including residents, hospitals, group homes, etc.

“Everyone is being impacted by higher Hydro rates,” she declared, adding the measures announced last week are not going to solve the problems.

“I would suggest to you people have seen through the scam,” Jones remarked. “They are not pleased future generations are going to pay for it.”

Jones charged that Wynne is trying to save herself from both an angry Liberal caucus at Queen’s Park and angry voters.

She also pointed out last week’s announcement is going to cost $25 billion over some 30 years.

“Really, she hasn’t solved the bottom line,” she remarked.

Jones pointed out there is a surplus of electricity in Ontario, so she wondered why the government is signing contracts to have more built, as she called on the government to stop signing contracts people can’t afford for electricity they don’t need.

She also commented that seven per cent of the electricity generated in Ontario comes from green energy, but that amounts to more than 20 per cent of the cost.

Jones added that the surplus power is either given away, or the government pays other jurisdictions, like American states, to take it. She added it’s unknown if the government can get out of these contracts because they are sealed.

“They won’t let us see them,” she said “She hasn’t solved the underlying problem of how we got here,” she added.
