HERB CAMPBELL'S COMMUNITY GARDEN WINS CONSERVATION AWARD

Herb Campbell Public School was among the recipients of Friends of the Credit Conservation Awards, presented by Credit Valley Conservation (CVC) last week. The Award of Merit recognized the school's "ongoing commitment to environmental awareness, innovative school yard greening and engaging students in environmental projects" through the Community Garden. The Garden is a work in progress, as there are plans for a Medicine Wheel Garden Outdoor Classroom, which will inspire collaborative learning. Peel will look for another configuration of council

By Bill Rea

When it comes to a position on the future configuration of its council, Peel Region doesn't have one, at least at this time.

Councillors spent about two hours last Thursday debating whether to hold a public meeting on the proposed changes for the next term. But several Mississauga councillors said they would veto what's been proposed, so the meeting would be a waste of time.

Regional councillors last year narrowly approved a councils in Peel representing a model that would see the body at least a majority of the registered electors (voters) in the region. That means the City of Mississauga would have the necessary numbers to be able to veto any proposed change.

A staff report that went to council last week suggested holding the public meeting April 27. Regional Solicitor and Director of Legal Services Patrick O'Connor told Mississauga Councillor Carolyn Parrish the public meeting is required for the process to continue, but she was still opposed to holding it.

Mississauga Mayor Bonnie Crombie agreed, stressing it's unreasonable to add eight new councillors and that she plans to resist it. She also agreed the meeting would be a waste of time and money.

"There are lots of other alternatives," she maintained.

"I think this is our last kick at this," Brampton Mayor Linda Jeffrey remarked. "Our residents are underserved and we don't accept the status quo."

"You are politicians who are not supporting public consultation," Brampton Councillor Michael Palleschi to his colleagues from Mississauga. "Good luck to you."

Several councillors think weighted votes might be answer

Brampton Councillor Martin Medeiros agreed not holding the meeting would be in contrast to the vaules the Region is supposed to represent.

“This is almost anti-democratic,” he declared, adding the public needs to have the opportunity for input. “This is not what we should be doing.”

Caledon Mayor Allan Thompson observed that if Mississauga councillors don’t like whats been proposed, the solution might be to get input from the community.

“We need public engagement,” he said. “You have nothing to lose and there’s nothing to fear.”

Brampton Councillor John Sprovieri didn’t think the public would be happy with an expanded council. He agreed there should be a public meeting, but with different numbers. He suggested adding the four councillors he said Brampton needs, and keeping the Caledon and Mississauga numbers where they are now. He wondered how residents would react to that.

O’Connor told him they can’t go to the public with new figures because there’s no resolution authorizing them.

Parrish put forth another model, which would see Mississauga get another councillor, two more for Brampton and Caledon gives up one. She also said things need to get moving if the new numbers are to be in place for the 2018 municipal elections. If Brampton wants more representation, the councillors will have to work with Mississauga, she added.

Crombie thought that was reasonable, agreeing Brampton deserves more representation.

“The problem is we’re out of runway,” she said.

Caledon Councillor Annette Groves said the Province should have taken this task on.

She added she could understand the position of Mississauga, but pointed out Caledon is growing too.

She also appreciated the need for the public to be consulted. Groves reminded her colleagues that they were angry when the Province passed legislation calling for the election at large of the Regional chair, without consultation.

Mississauga Councillor Jim Tovey used to be a community advocate before getting on council, and he said public consultation doesn’t always live up to its billing. He likened it to asking people council. Caledon Councillor Barb Shaughnessy thought the matter could be solved by simply giving Brampton the extra councillors they need. She was concerned that Mississauga councillors seemed to be saying it didn’t matter what they might hear from the public.

“We have to hear from all sides,” she said, also pointing out that Caledon has always worked with Brampton and Mississauga.

Brampton Councillor Grant Gibson suggested it’s time to take a look at the size of Caledon council, and maybe reduce it.

“It’s long overdue,” he said.

Brampton Councillor Elaine Moore said giving more councillors to Brampton won’t mean more politicians, a some of the City councillors will take on Regional seats.

She also agreed that weighted votes might be the solution.

“If this was easy, it would have been done a long time ago,” Jeffrey remarked. “I’m not here to be reasonable. I’m here to represent Brampton.”

“This triple majority is strangling us,” she added.

Mississauga Councillor George Carlson agreed the weighted votes could be the way to go. He added the weighting could be adjusted in the future, as needed.

O’Connor told Gibson council could ask the Province to legislate a solution. But without a definite position from council, it would just be a request.

While a number of councillors spoke in favour of weighted votes, O’Connor said they couldn’t decide on that route right then. He said the Province had authorized the public meeting of the proposal council had already approved. Another proposal would have to go to Queen’s Park.

“I would like us to be able to come up with a made in Peel solution,” Tovey remarked. “It’s time we looked at it.”

But Crombie argued this was not simple. She said it needed a staff report and more discussion.

“I think we’re all getting a little bit lost in the weeds,” Caledon Councillor Jennifer Innis remarked, observing there needs to be a complete processs. She also agreed the Province needs to step in on this.

“We are not going to find a solution that we’re all going to agree upon,” she said.

Teen Ranch will host 50th anniversary Easter Egg Round Up April 15

By Brian Lockhart

If you’re looking for a really fun day of activities for the family, head out to Teen Ranch in Caledon for their annual Easter Egg Round Up.

The event will give you an afternoon in the great outdoors at the 150-acre Ranch on Highway 10, just south of Highway 9.

“This is our seventh year. Approximately 2,200 people came out last year,” said Teen Ranch event coordinator Corrie Ensom. “Right from the start, the event has become a lot bigger than we anticipated. This year is our 50th anniversary of Teen Ranch, so that will be the focus of our event.”

The Ranch was founded in 1967 and has continued to expand and offer more activities over the years. It is a year-round facility that provides many different programs.

As in the past, this year’s event will feature activities for all ages.

“We have a craft area where we offer six different crafts,” Ensom said. “We have a games area where kids can earn free chocolate. Pony rides, trail rides, a giant swing, a climbing wall, trampolines, hay rides, petting farm, ice skating are also offered . . . and of course the egg hunts.”

The Easter egg hunt is for kids up to age 12 and is divided into age groups so the little ones won’t get lost in the rush to find the treats. The Ice Cream Parlor will be open all day if you wish to purchase additional drinks or snacks. And of course the Easter Bunny will be making a personal appearance.

Admission is $20 per vehicle and parking is limited, so pile as many people (as are legal) into the car before you head out. There is an additional discounted charge for trail rides, pony rides and the giant swing.

The Easter Egg Round Up will take place April 15 and will get underway at 1 p.m. and all activities will be open through to 5 p.m.

You can find out more by visiting the Ranch’s website at www.teenranch.com

Caledon residents honoured at Environmental Awards Ceremony

Credit Valley Conservation (CVC) honoured local community members at its annual Friends of the Credit' Conservation Awards, held last week in Mississauga.

More than 85 guests and representatives from CVC's Board of Directors attended the event.

This year's ceremony marked the 30th anniversary of the Conservation Awards. Since the program began in 1986, CVC has honoured 340 individuals, landowners, community groups, small businesses, corporations, municipalities and agencies in the watershed that have made significant environmental contributions. The awards are issued by CVC's Board of Directors to honour those who demonstrate the organization's core values of leadership, collaboration, innovation and integrity through environmental practices.

Caledon residents Peter and Frances Chiddy were honoured with an Award of Merit for their environmental land management practices. They have been a valued partner of CVC for three years. The Chiddys' have planted thousands of trees and shrubs. Their environmental practices include manure management, pasture rotation and removing invasive species from more than two acres of land.

The Chiddys' property lies within an environmentally significant area and contains woodlands, wetlands and valley lands. Their efforts have increased forest cover, enhanced wildlife habitat and controlled the spread of invasive species.

“On behalf of the Board of Directors, I would like to extend my gratitude for all the meaningful environmental work over 30 years," Mississauga Councillor Nando Iannicca, chair of CVC, said. "I am proud of all the remarkable achievements our award recipients have accomplished. With each project and initiative these leaders continue to improve the local environment and our quality of life."

The Conservation Awards are an opportunity for CVC's Board of Directors to recognize important environmental work that is carried out at the local community level. Awards were presented to 21 recipients.

They included Herb Campbell Public School, which received recognition for “ongoing commitment to environmental awareness, innovative school yard greening and engaging students in environmental projects.”

14 Critical Home Inspection Traps to be Aware of Weeks Before Listing Your Caledon Home for Sale

CALEDON - According to industry experts, there are over 33 physical problems that will come under scrutiny during a home inspection when your home is for sale. A new report has been prepared which identifies the eleven most common of these problems, and what you should know about them before you list your home for sale. Whether you own an old home or a brand new one, there are a number of things that can fall short of requirements during a home inspection. If not identified and dealt with, any of these 14 items could cost you dearly in terms of repair. That's why it's critical that you read this report before you list your home. If you wait until the building inspector flags these issues for you, you will almost certainly experience costly delays in the close of your home sale or, worse, turn prospective buyers away altogether. In most cases, you can make a reasonable pre-inspection yourself if you know what you're looking for, and knowing what you're looking for can help you prevent little problems from growing into costly and unmanageable ones.

To help homesellers deal with this issue before their homes are listed, a free report entitled "14 Things You Need to Know to Pass Your Home Inspection" has been compiled which explains the issues involved.

To hear a brief recorded message about how to order your FREE copy of this report call toll-free 1-855-217-7810 and enter 79. You can call any time, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Police warn potential victims to be wary of the romance scam

Romance scams continue to cause victims severe financial hardship and personal embarrassment, which inhibits their decision to report the crime. Members of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) Anti-Rackets Branch say criminals use the romance scam to seek potential victims online — generally people who are single or recently unattached. This form of mass marketing fraud often occurs through dating-related “meet” websites, social media platforms, or via e-mail blasts. In some cases, prolonged interaction has cost some victims many thousands of dollars before the “relationship” ends, usually without the individuals ever meeting in person. Among the most vulnerable are seniors.

OPP and their partners at the Canadian Anti-Fraud Centre have some tips to help people avoid becoming a victim of the romance scam.

- Don’t give out any personal information in an email or when you are chatting online. Educate yourself. Check the person’s name, the company name and the addresses used.
- Ask yourself — “Would someone I have never met really declare their love for me after only a few letters or emails?” If the answer is no, report it to police.
- Never send money, or give personal credit card or online account details to anyone you do not know and trust. A request to send money to a foreign country to someone you have never personally met should be a red flag.

- Check website addresses carefully. Scammers often set up fake websites with addresses that are very similar to legitimate dating websites.

If you or someone you know suspect they’ve been a victim of the romance scam, contact police. You can also file a complaint through the Canadian Anti-Fraud Centre, Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477 (TIPS), or online at <https://www.tipsubmit.com/start.htm>

“Despite the cruelties involved and the emotional trauma sustained, it’s still important for victims of romance scams to report the crime,” Deputy OPP Commissioner Rick Barnum said. “All users of computers and the online world should educate themselves and use best practices to ensure their personal and financial security.”

Officers from Caledon OPP are currently investigating cases of 36 vehicles that have been broken into.

Between March 23, and April 4, 36 parked vehicles, located in mainly rural areas within Caledon, were entered by a person or persons. The thief or thieves entered the vehicles through unlocked doors and in some cases gained access to the vehicles after first opening unlocked garage doors. Cash and other valuables were stolen from a number of these vehicles.

Police are asking anyone who may recognize the individual in the accompanying photograph, or have information about these thefts, to contact Detective Constable Steve Linton at Steven.Linton@opp.ca, or by phone at 905-584-2241.

Tip information can also be submitted online at www.peelcrimestoppers.ca, or by phone to Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477). Crime Stoppers does not subscribe to call display and those providing information will remain anonymous.

Police are reminding all residents to lock unattended vehicles, remove any valuables from them, and report any suspicious activity or suspicious persons in the area.

Impaired driving charge laid

A 65-year-old man from Caledon was charged Feb. 11 after Caledon OPP responded to a complaint about a car being driven erratically.

An officer found the blue Volvo and pulled it over.

Upon investigation, the officer determined that the driver’s ability to drive was impaired by alcohol and arrested him.

The man was charged with impaired operation of a motor vehicle and driving with more than the legal limit of alcohol in his system.

The driver’s licence was suspended for 90 days and the car was impounded for seven.

Police are reminding the public that they should let them know if they observe erratic or unsafe driving. They can call 9-1-1 if it’s an emergency, or 1-888-310-1122 or *OPP (677) on a cell phone for non-emergency situations.

Town and Region release statements on what councillors were paid

By Bill Rea

The hours can be long, the issues complex, and plenty of frustration on the job is almost a guarantee.

But there are the advantages, which includes the salary that goes with holding elected office in a municipality like Caledon.

The Town and Peel Region recently issued their annual statements on the remuneration and expenses that went to the individual councillors.

Not surprisingly, Mayor Allan Thompson was the highest paid municipal politician in Caledon, with a total package of $177,589.95.

That included his salary as mayor of $83,689.99. Added to that were $3,643.25 in statutory benefits, $5,161.04 in pension costs through Ontario Municipal Employees Retirement System (OMERS) and $611.86 in other benefit costs, such as employer portions of health, dental and insurance costs. As well, he was reimbursed for expenses. That included $4,977.37 for printing and advertising, $2,862.50 for training, development and seminars, and $797.34 for his mobile phone. There was also $1,338.61 for other expenses and $375 for his participation with the Rural Ontario Municipal Association (ROMA). This amounted to a total package from the Town of $103,456.96.

Thompson also sits on Regional council, meaning he receives an income from Peel as well.

All 24 Regional councillors, including those from Brampton and Mississauga (with the exception of Regional Chair Frank Dale), were paid salaries of $54,315.35, and there were benefit costs, as well as reimbursement for expenses. Thompson was paid $9,772.74 to cover benefits and $7,580.88 for expenses. As well, he got $2,464.02 from the Region for sitting on the Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO) Board.

Each member of Town council received a salary of $36,046.10, although the other amounts paid out varied from individuals.

Councillor Barb Shaughnessy received her salary, along with $1,501.72 in benefits, $2,184.75 through OMERS, and $265.84 to cover other benefits. She also received $500 for office supplies, $2,032.89 for training, development and seminars, and $609.59 for her mobile phone. That meant she received $43,140.89 from the Town.

In addition to her salary as a Regional councillor, Shaughnessy received $9,764.88 from Peel in benefits and $8,458.27 to cover conferences, mileage and other expenses. That brought her total municipal package to $115,679.39.

Councillor Johanna Downey was paid her salary by the Town, as well as $1,501.72 in benefits, $2,184.75 for OMERS, $265.84 for other benefits and $519.90 in expenses to cover her mobile phone. Her total from the Town came to $40,518.31.

In addition to her Regional salary, Downey got $9,772.74 in benefits and $8,670.24 to cover expenses. As well, she sits of Credit Valley Conservation, so she received $751.70 in remuneration and $286.20 in expenses. Her total package came to $114,314.54.

Councillor Jennifer Innis received her salary from the Town, along with $1,501.72 in benefits, $2,184.75 for OMERS and $265.84 in other benefits. As far as expenses were concerned, she got $131.41 for office supplies and $847.18 for her mobile phone. She received a total of $40,977 from the Town.

Along with her salary from Peel, Innis received $9,772.74 in benefits and $6,656.50 for expenses. As well, she received $1,689.09 in remuneration for sitting on Toronto and Region Conservation Authority (TRCA), as well as $1,045 for expenses. That brought her municipal income to $114,455.68.

Councillor Annette Groves' remuneration included her salary, $1,501.72 in benefits, $2,184.75 for OMERS and $265.84 in other benefits. Her expenses included $282.38 for office supplies and $906.37 for her mobile phone, for a total package from the Town of $41,187.16.

Along with her Regional salary, she received $9,772.74 in benefits and $8,404.56 for expenses for total municipal remuneration of $113,679.81.

Councillor Doug Beffort was paid his salary by the town, along with $473.37 in benefits, $265.84 in other benefits, $214.71 for office supplies and $394.91 for his mobile phone for a total of $37,394.93.

Councillor Gord McClure's salary was combined with $473.37 in benefits, $265.84 in other benefits, and $252.68 for his mobile phone for a total package of $37,037.99.

Councillor Nick deBoer received his salary, along with $1,501.72 in benefits, $2,184.75 in contributions to OMERS, $265.84 in other benefits, $2,788.99 for training, development and seminars and $299.49 for his mobile phone. His total came to $43,086.89.

Councillor Rob Mezzapelli was paid his salary, plus $1,501.72 in benefits, $2,184.75 for OMERS, $265.84 in other benefits, $517.89 in office supplies and $688.57 for his mobile phone, for a total of $41,204.87.

The Gentleman Clothier: be careful what you wish for

By Constance Scrafield

We all want to escape our lives some of the time — forget to be grateful for what we have, where we are — and these feelings are the pivot of Theatre Orangeville’s production of The Gentleman Clothier, by Norm Foster, currently playing at the Opera House until April 9.

There are a few things we learn about Norman Davenport early on: that he is a reluctant bachelor, a more modern man than he knows in his acceptance of people and a fussy sort of chap who reckons he would be happier living in a more reserved, disciplined, even stuffy time — say, 1892.

On the opening day of his new tailor shop, set in this here-and-now time, his last-minute preparations are interrupted by a feisty, bright young woman, Sophie, who is quite open about being a lesbian — it is 2017, after all.

She informs him that he cannot open without staff to show his readiness for the crowds that will surely come and that, as a highly knowledgeable measurer for the making of suits, it is she whom he must hire immediately.

Lots of humorous bullying on her part and shilly-shally on his and, sure enough, it looks as though she is irresistible.

Then, in comes Patrick, also slightly before the door to the shop is officially open, looking for a job as a handyman, a chap without a wife but with a daughter so ill that she must have dialysis three times a week. Norman’s resistance is already at a low ebb, so there is much less persuasion needed for Patrick to secure a position.

At last, the shade on his door window is pulled up and the moment, years in the waiting for Norman, has come: his shop is open! And look, here comes his first customer, Mrs. Alisha Sparrow, seeking to have a bespoke suit made for her husband.

Alisha is quite a contrast to the down-to-earth Sophie, and the banter between them uses those differences for great fun.

Although the four actors have not worked before together, they have all performed at Theatre Orangeville. So, welcome back to Maria Dinn as the effervescent Sophie, tall, leggy, chucking her lines at the other characters, laying it down — all that — hilarious.

Likewise, the elegant Heather Hodgson is back as Mrs. Alisha Sparrow, with her etiquette and sad story about a wayward husband for whom she is nevertheless buying a suit, if only to remind him that she is his wife.

Coming back to us after his last stint here, is Jeff Hanson as Patrick, rolling along, accepting his trials philosophically, determined to be cheerful through them. Solving all the minor problems both here and there, Patrick is quick and resourceful.

To them all, Norman talks about his disillusionment with the present day and his certainty that for him another time would be a better time.

Then, Sophie offers the moment for Norman to make a wish — if he dares to believe.

Which he does: kudos to Stephen Sparks for his delivery of Norman.

Fancy living in another time? No problem, Norman — here is a lady bug. Just put her on your hand, make a wish and blow your little lady bug to fly away and voila! You are whisked back to the “good old days” of 1892, with your own tailor shop, in London, in a time and place that is perfect for you.

Funny thing is that the same three characters of his 2017 life are now back with him, their lives entrenched and not new to the rigours of living in 1892. It is no easy moment for Norman to realize the amazing transformation that has taken place: his wish has been granted. Wonderful, wonderful — until he discovers that it has taken a century or more to develop the freedoms his own modern world enjoys.

There is one aspect to his new life in the old world that is truly splendid for Norman. He finds love. Well, well.

The Gentleman Clothier is both funny and sweet, with a good surprise ending and an interesting moral dilemma. It is, after all, a Norm Foster play. It’s on now until April 9.

For tickets and information, you can drop in to the Box Office at 87 Broadway or the Tourist Information Centre on Buena Vista Drive at Highway 10; or call 519-942-3423; online at www.theatreorangeville.ca

What’s in a name?

On the eve of their 200th anniversary, did you ever wonder how and why some regions, counties and communities were named?

The Belfountain Heritage Society presents author and historian John McDonald, who will speak about The Origin of Place Names in the Halton, Peel, Belfountain and Erin Areas and their communities.

It will be this coming Tuesday (April 11) at Belfountain Community Hall. The Society will be holding its annual general meeting, starting at 7 p.m., followed by the presentation at 7:45.

McDonald will present the origin behind the names of many of the communities that make up Peel, Wellington County and Halton Region. This colourful powerpoint presentation will include several beautiful vintage and contemporary photographs of the area.

After four years of research, McDonald also provides a brief look at the life and times of William Halton, the man for whom Halton County was named, his contributions to the development of Upper Canada (present-day Ontario) as well as some of the contrasts between Wellington, Peel and Halton.

There will be no charge for the presentation, and light refreshments will be served.

Jay Epstein appearing at CrossCurrents

Traditional country singer and songwriter Jay Epstein will be performing tomorrow (Friday) night at CrossCurrents Cafe in Bolton.

Think of Hubert Corless Sunday

Sunday marks the 100th anniversary of the start of a bloody battle that many historians hold up as a key point in Canada’s coming of age as a nation.

The Battle of Vimy Ridge was a great victory for Canadian forces, but it came at a terrible cost.

According to the Canadian War Museum website, 3,598 Canadians were killed and another 7,000 wounded.

But there is a local connection to the story, and it involves a young man named Hubert Corless. There’s a street named after him in the eastern part of Bolton, just south of Allan Drive. There’s also a park, with a stone commemorating his sacrifice.

The stone, which bears his picture, states he was killed at the age of 17 the first day of the battle, in other words 100 years ago Sunday. He had been born in 1899 in the family farmhouse on the south side of what was 5 Sideroad (now Queensgate Boulevard).

There will be much attention paid to the anniversary Sunday, with reflective articles, documentaries, etc. We in this area can think of the 3,598 who died in the battle and put at least one face to it all.

Lest we forget.

Premier should ‘step down’

Dear Kathleen Wynne:

If Oscars were handed out at Queen’s Park, you would surely have several.

Your latest display of sympathy and concern for the Ontario people who are now having trouble paying their bills because of the prices of all the utilities (that you control) hitting all time highs — well, your performance was pathetic. And to follow it by pretending you can help by reducing our hydro bills, from a utility you are trying to sell. Really ?

And then, after all the opposition is complaining about the ads you are running to promote this hydro bill reduction coming soon, you keep doing “the wrong thing” again and again. Apparently it is illegal to use tax payers’ money to run campaign ads. And by the way Kathleen, do you really think we, the people, are that dumb that all these ads will convince us to vote for you again?

Let me tell you just how dumb we are.

All we see here is you going against what the people of Ontario are suggesting. All these ads you are airing is convincing us that you have no way of understanding budgets and financial planning. We know that the cost of all these ads are paid for by the Province of Ontario, which is us. So we can expect to see you again finding another way to get more money from us to pay for your uncontrollable spending addiction.

Do us all a favor; step down!

Rotary Club of Palgrave’s Weekly Rotary Minute

By Krysta Cadden

For most of us, the desire to give back starts with a “moment.”

It is usually that instant you recognized another in need and realized you had the ability to help.

Some have it early in life; others are late bloomers. I was lucky enough to witness someone’s “moment” not too long ago.

On the streets of downtown Toronto, we are often met with the presence of the homeless and those less fortunate. On a night last week, I was downtown with my son and came across such an individual as we were exiting the ACC. Another man began taunting this gentlemen who was begging for help. It had an impact on my son that I wasn’t necessarily prepared for. He immediately walked closer to the man in need and gave him some of his own money and told him he hoped things were better for him.

On the long subway ride to get closer to home, the incident sparked much conversation, some tears and a huge dose of parental pride that not only had my son had his “moment” but that I was there to witness it. He is already making plans for how he can help with fundraising, donations, trips to hand out supplies etc.

In truth, I wish ultimately there was no need for “moments” and that all the world had all it needed to thrive. But, we know that is not the case. My moment turned into Rotary. What will yours become?

Please visit www.rotaryclubofpalgrave.com for more information on the Youth Exchange Program and for more information on our Club and all the wonderful ways you could get involved.

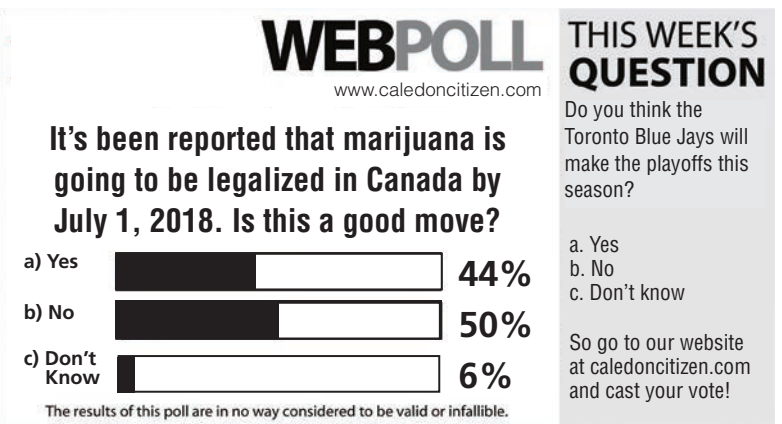

It happened today

There was lots of speculation as to who would replace Lester Pearson when he stepped down as leader of the Liberal Party of Canada.

By the time the convention began to pick a new leader, there were nine candidates in the race. One, H. Lloyd Henderson, failed to get a single vote on the first ballot.

Justice Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau was out in front from the start. Robert Winters and Paul Hellyer eventually joined forces in an effort to stop Trudeau, but it didn’t work.

Pierre Trudeau became leader of the party this day, April 6, 1968.

Budget 2017 fails ordinary, hardworking families and seniors

Finance Minister Bill Morneau tabled Budget 2017 in the House of Commons March 22.

The current Liberal government was quick to tout it as, “a long-term plan to create jobs and strengthen the middle class.” However, it was exactly what we, the Official Opposition, expected — more reckless spending, no results and higher taxes. Budget 2017 fails to deliver for ordinary, hardworking families and seniors and instead, drives us further into debt with expensive programs for years down the road, demonstrating the current Liberal government is completely out of touch with Canadians.

Canadian families were seeking a budget with a jobs plan and action from the government to put more money in their pockets. Sadly, the Liberal government’s tax hikes contained in Budget 2017 will only make it harder for struggling families to make ends meet. They aren’t growing the middle class, but are growing government and Canadian families will foot the bill. The budget confirms that the Prime Minister broke his promise to keep deficit spending under $10 billion a year and to balance the budget by 2019. It puts the deficit for 2017-18 at $28.5 billion and shows Canada running deficits into the foreseeable future. There is no plan return to balanced budget and rather than reigning in his out-of-control spending, the Prime Minister wants to borrow billions more ($13.3 billion over six years).

Budget 2017 hikes taxes on public transit users (1.8 million Canadians); Uber and ride sharing; beer and wine; donated medicines; child care; small business owners (farmers, fishermen, doctors, lawyers, accountants, etc); oil and gas companies; and tourism. The Prime Minister recently admitted that $195 million of the funding for “child care” will actually be going to Ottawa bureaucrats instead of families who need it. Moreover, the current Liberal government can’t tell Canadians how many child care spaces they are actually going to create. They “hope” it will be 40,000, but don’t seem to actually have a plan.

The current government had an opportunity to make life more affordable for those living on a fixed income, but instead continued with their out-of-control spending, job-killing tax increases and massive debt. There are several features in Budget 2017 that will hurt Canadian seniors, including scrapping the Public Transit Tax Credit; eliminating the Family Caregiver Tax Credit; and the Prime Minister’s continued refusal to appoint a Minister for Seniors. This budget offered little more than buzz-words and repackaged ideas, which fail to address the actual needs of Canada’s aging population.

Budget 2017 failed to deliver on the Liberal government’s promise to lower the small business tax rate. When in office, the Conservative government cut the small business tax rate from 11 to 10 per cent and also introduced the Small Business Job Credit. Altogether, our previous Conservative government cut taxes over 180 times during our time in office, lowering the overall federal tax burden to its lowest level in over 50 years. We also understood that the key to job creation is lower taxes, responsible government spending, and support for small business. Sadly, the current Liberal government doesn’t understand how to grow an economy and create jobs. In the last year, Canadians aged 15 to 24 lost 42,000 full-time jobs. The Liberal government’s programs won’t help the vast majority of Canadian workers and businesses who now face much more intense competition from a low-cost, low-tax neighbour to the south.

Genetic testing allows individuals and families to understand if they have a genetic marker(s) that may lead to developing certain health conditions.

As well, it provides a chance to participate in research studies to better understand certain health conditions and create better treatments. With approximately 33,485 genetic tests available, it’s important we ensure individuals are aware of the consequences of getting a genetic test.

Currently, individuals who undergo genetic testing can be compelled by insurance companies and employers to disclose their results and may be denied employment or insurance because of their genetic characteristics. Unfortunately many individuals are getting genetic tests without knowing the risks. However, individuals who understand the consequences of getting a test, decline to get a test out of fear of it being it used against them. As a result, some individuals refuse to participate in tests for clinic research that have the potential to eliminate certain diseases.

FROM QUEEN’S PARK
Sylvia Jones
MPP Dufferin-Caledon

Individuals should never have to choose between a life-saving medical test and employment or insurance. There is a belief that if you are found to have a certain genetic characteristic tied to a specific disease or condition, that you will ultimately develop the disease or condition. That is not the case.

That is why I co-sponsored Bill 30 — the Human Rights Code Amendment Act (Genetic Characteristics), 2016, introduced by Eglinton-Lawrence MPP Mike Colle. Bill 30 is an opportunity to raise awareness about this important issue of genetic discrimination and informing individuals what their rights are. Additionally, it is an opportunity for us to protect individuals who are unaware of the unintended consequences of getting a genetic test, by incorporating genetic characteristics into the Human Rights Code as a prohibited ground of discrimination.

Canada remains the only G7 nation without specific safeguards in place against genetic discrimination. Ontario has an opportunity to take a leadership role and ensure a person’s rights, including their genetic characteristics, are protected, specifically related to employment and insurance.

Bill 30 was debated and passed second reading in the legislature Nov. 3, with unanimous support from all three parties. I am happy all parties see the need for this legislation that will provide the necessary protection to an individual’s genetic characteristics. Bill 30 has now been sent to the Committee on Justice Policy for public input and for amendments. This is an important step in the process to seeing Bill 30 passed into law.

If you have any questions or would like more information about Bill 30, please contact my office at 416-325-1898 or sylvia.jonesla@pc.ola.org

If you would like a copy of Bill 30, please visit my website www.sylviajonesmpp.ca

It’s time for the law to catch up with the science.

No apology for false allegation

NATIONAL AFFAIRS
Claire Hoy

The brilliant American writer and humorist Mark Twain once quipped: “It ain’t what you don’t know that gets you in trouble. It’s what you know for sure that just ain’t so.”

Ontario Status of Women Minister Indira Naidoo-Harris thought she knew for sure that Tory Leader Patrick Brown was going to speak at a male-only private club — perish the thought — and she also thought she knew she could score a few cheap political points by being outraged and accuse him of sexism.

So, without further ado — and under a huge full-color picture of herself and World War Three-size headlines in the Toronto Star — the minister raged that, “The decision to attend an event at a private all-men’s club shows an appalling lack of judgment and insensitivity on Patrick Brown’s part. Mr. Brown still has time to do the right thing and cancel this private event.”

The club which outraged her is called the Cambridge Club, a site, you may recall, where now federal Liberal minister Chrystia Freeland crashed in to protest a planned appearance by then Tory minister Joe Oliver during the last federal election. Oliver, withering under the criticism, canceled, but that didn’t stop Freeland from using the opportunity to make herself appear as if she’s a victim of the patriarchy. Some victim.

Meanwhile, back in Ontario politics, it took Ottawa Citizen columnist David Reevly to point out that, ah, Brown was not speaking at the Cambridge Club. Instead, his speech — on “Ontario’s Affordability Crisis” — was booked in a public restaurant attached to the Toronto Athletic Club in downtown Toronto. It was open to anybody, male or female, who wanted to pay $40 to go listen to Brown’s speech.

Reevly points out that club is affiliated with the aforementioned Cambridge Club through the corporate group called the “Cambridge Group of Clubs,” but it is in “a different building and has a different clientele. It’s a corporate cousin . . . but is not the Cambridge Club.”

That little detail wasn’t fooling Naidoo-Harris, however. She knows sexism when she sees it. While The Star’s story did quote a Tory — a quote which didn’t really make the situation clear — the Citizen quoted Tory deputy leader

Steve Clark saying that Brown “is not speaking at the Cambridge Club to a men’s-only event.”

No matter, at least not to Naidoo-Harris. She says it’s related to the Cambridge Club so, “He’s going to give a speech through a group that doesn’t count women in . . . so he’s sending a strong message that, in terms of how he regards Ontarians, he’s leaving women out.”

Again, he wasn’t leaving women out. Or men. It was a public event, unlike, dare we say it, all those cozy private events the Liberals had been doing before being shamed out of it, charging people thousands of dollars for private tete-a-tetes with the premier or various ministers.

A further irony in all this is that the Liberals have a campaign called “Facts Still Matter In Ontario,” supposedly to root out the lies proffered by Tories and New Democrats. But the “facts” about Brown’s actual venue didn’t seem to matter a whit to Naidoo-Harris. He’s a man after all. And he’s giving a speech. Surely that’s enough to accuse him of sexism.

I would go one step further and suggest that even if Brown had been speaking to the male-only Cambridge Club, as falsely charged, so what?

Every time you speak to any group you can be accused of excluding all the rest of Ontarians who aren’t invited. And — dare we say it — if you Google “women-only clubs” in Toronto, you’ll find dozens of them, from the high-end Verity Club (which features former prime minister Kim Campbell among its well-heeled members) — to a whole series of women-only organizations such as the Toronto Professional Women’s Meetup, the Young Women in Business, Toronto Chapter, and many others.

The idea of an all-women’s club is exactly the same as those traditional all-male business clubs, i.e. to network in comfortable surroundings with members of your own sex and social status. Why is it “sexist” when men do it, but perfectly wonderful and empowering when women do the same thing?

But that debate, of course, is beside the point here.

What counts in this space at the moment is that a minister of the Crown made a false accusation against the Leader of the Opposition and — at the time of this writing at least — there has been no apology and very little interest from the media outside of the Ottawa Citizen..

Imagine if Brown made a false accusation against Naidoo-Harris. They’d be publishing special editions to roast him.

Chairs Message

Your Caledon Chamber of Commerce is a not for profit membership organization. Our purpose is to represent businesses to all levels of government. We are the “voice of business” in Caledon. Clearly, we share a common belief that a strong & vibrant business community nurtures all the other benefits we enjoy in Caledon. 2016 was a year of change and repositioning. We said goodbye to office staff and are now temporarily volunteer driven. Although busy, our volunteers have demonstrated that many people make for light work. As a result of this engagement we launched a new networking program “Your Morning Business Break” Thank you to members Oliver Garnett (Investors Group) and Teresa Pannia (Hampton Inn). The 2016 women’s Stiletos & Stars Gala had a “stellar” outcome thanks to committee chairperson Sarah Fleming (Fleming Realty). Volunteering on the 2017 Home & Lifestyle Show is Steve Lang (Meadowood Tree Service) with whose help the show is 85% sold out. These programs along with the Awards Gala (schedule for October 19) are non-dues revenue programs that keep our membership fees low and affordable to every size business. The Chamber’s appointed Chartered Accountant Tony Maio completed the 2016 year-end financial statement so I officially call an annual general meeting of the membership for May 10, 2017(7 pm at the Chamber of Commerce offices.) Change is a constant in business and in life. It has the potential to reveal great opportunities that otherwise would be lost to us. I am optimistic about changes that will take place with the new board bring forward.

Sincerely,
Warren Darnley

Peel Region is considering offering incentives, in the form of forgivable loans, to people who renovate their homes to create second dwellings.

Regional councillors recently discussed the Peel Renovates Phase 3 Creating Second Units Program, eventually deciding to refer it back to staff for more details.

The program calls for setting aside $900,000 to allow for people to receive forgivable loans of up to $50,000 for the renovations.

Regional staff reported the loans will be for 15 years, written off in equal annual installments over that period. Human Services Commissioner Janice Sheehy told Brampton Councillor Grant Gibson that's the forgivable part. If the property is sold, the owner has to pay back whatever is still outstanding on the loan.

Staff reported this is the third phase of the Peel Renovates Program, which provides eligible low-to-moderate-income families, individuals, seniors and people with disabilities with funding help for renovations to deal with health, safety or accessibility issues in their homes.

This new program helps create second units, which staff said is an important source of affordable housing, pointing out it's also available in residential areas.

"They can also provide needed extra income to homeowners and senior households to allow them to continue to live in their neighbourhoods and age in place," the staff report stated.

Staff added tenants for these second units would be chosen from the Region's Centralized Wait List.

They added the program is in keeping with the term of council priority to increase the amount of affordable housing.

The criteria to be eligible for the program includes having the second unit created at the homeowners principal address, property tax and mortgage payments must be up to date, the home is insured and the local municipality has to issue a building permit.

The Region will register a mortgage on title to the home to secure the loan.

Gibson thought the $50,000 limit of the loans was high.

"Sounds like a lot of money to renovate," he said.

Sheehy said it's similar to what's offered in other places, such as Halton Region, adding they want to offer incentives to people, but not too high.

Sheehy also said it's a pilot project, and the amounts of the loans could be tweaked in the future.

She said it will be evaluated in about a year.

Brampton Councillor Elaine Moore observed the program has the potential to address illegal secondary units, of which she said there are many in Brampton and Mississauga. She wondered if the 18 units this program would fund will be much of a help. Moore was concerned about the Region picking the tenants, wanting the homeowners to be involved.

Sheehy said the tenants will be selected, then referred to the homeowner. She added the Region would do checking into things like credit history before recommending them. As well, the owners will be provided information on their responsibilities as landlords.

Mississauga Councillor Carolyn Parrish wanted more of a financial commitment from the homeowners, getting them to “put some skin in the game.”

Meet the Paw Patrol at Fines Saturday

By Bill Rea

Saturday will provide the opportunity to meet members of PAW Patrol, characters in the animated TV series.

They will be appearing at Fines Ford Lincoln from 10 a.m. until noon.

"It's very exciting," dealership General Manager Carlos Martins declared. "If you're a kid, you love Paw Patrol."

Saturday's line-up will include Chase, Skye, Zuma, Marshall and Rubble, and parents are invited to bring their youngsters to meet them and have their pictures taken with them. They are also asked to bring a non-perishable food donation for the Caledon Community Services Food Bank.

Martins said there will also be a colouring contest, as well as door prizes, stickers and tattoos.

Make memories with Easter Bunny at Downey's Farm

Make Easter 2017 a family adventure with a trip to Downey's Farm Market for Easterfest.

Downey's will join the community in celebrating the 16th anniversary of its Easter festival, which has steadily grown in popularity over the years. This year's Easterfest promises to be as exciting as ever, with five full days of activities and entertainment for family members of all ages. It will be April 8 and 9, and Easter weekend (April 14, 15 and 16) from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Festivities will include face painting, crafts, wagon rides, visits with farm animals, puppet shows and performances by magician Steve Baker of Abracadabra Magic. And once again, children will be able to take part in the Easter Egg Scramble — scrambling to find colourful plastic eggs scattered by the Easter Bunny and helpers, and exchanging their egg collection for Easter baskets of treats.

Festival-goers will also be able to buy Easter treats and baked goods, including Downey's famous pumpkin donuts, from the Downey Bakery. Downey's Estate Winery will be open April 8, 9 and 15.

Celebration marks refugee family's first year as new Canadians

By Marni Walsh

About 50 people attended the Headwaters Refugee Sponsorship Committee's celebration for the Al Haj Ali family recently at Westminster United Church in Orangeville.

It was in December 2015 that the family arrived in Canada to make Orangeville their new home.

The Al Haj Ali family are among the more than 25,000 new Canadians who began landing at Pearson airport at the time. They were welcomed with gifts of warm coats by Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and Ontario Premier Kathleen Wynne, representing the love and good will of the nation.

Months before, Dufferin neighbours and area church groups banded together to sponsor the refugee families, mobilize the community and set up resources. This included The Headwaters' Sponsorship Group and Westminster Church in Orangeville. Canadians across the country spent the last year showing these new Canadians, and the world, our best side – our humanity as a nation of peacekeepers.

"This is who we are," Wynne told reporters last December.

The Al Haj Ali family "has done extremely well," said lead sponsor Brian Logel. "Emad has been employed full-time for three months now, so his health benefits will soon kick in. One year later, the family is financially independent."

Emad has his driver's licence and wife Razan has her beginner's licence and is taking driving lessons. Both continue to work on improving their English. Razan did very well in her English as a Second Language (ESL) courses during the summer, continued with correspondence in the fall, and is now in ESL in Brampton. She is in the process of finding out what re-qualifying as a Canadian nurse will entail for her.

Eight-year-old Hamoudi and nine-year-old Fatima are both doing well at school and enjoyed soccer, baseball and swimming this past summer. Logel said little Sara, who was born at Headwaters Health Care Centre in the spring is "a very friendly, happy and healthy baby."

The anxiously anticipated arrival of Emad's brother under the sponsorship of Project Save Haven has been cause for celebration. Awad and Asma Ali Haj Ali finally arrived with their four children, Adnan, 10, Obadah, 8, Obaydah, 6, and Abeer, 3, earlier in the year.

In reflection on the year's experience, Logel said he thought private sponsorship is the best means to successful resettlement. He said government-sponsored families in the area are struggling more without the support of a local team. Sponsors like the Headwaters group guide their families financially and socially, helping them to navigate the many challenges of living in a new country.

Logel credited the Liberals for sponsoring families, but said the government does not have the manpower to help the families on a day-to-day basis.

Girls versus guys in Faceoff to Fight Cervical Cancer

By Jake Courtepatte

It's a battle of the sexes, but it's all for a great cause.

For the second year, We Are Creative Inc. and Sports Marketing All-Stars are bringing the Faceoff to Fight Cervical Cancer to Bolton arena, coming Saturday.

The event raises money and awareness for TEALPOWER, a cervical cancer charity organization.

"Last year, with the support of our local businesses and community, we were able to raise over $5,700 in our inaugural event," said Steve Conforti of We Are Creative. "This year we are aiming higher."

Fans will get to witness some of the top female hockey talent in the country, as the Canadian Women's Hockey League's Brampton Thunder will look to avenge their loss last year to the Sunday Night Hockey League All Stars, a men's league based in Caledon for more than 30 years.

The Thunder bring with them some impressive names, including CWHL Rookie of the Year Laura Stacy and CWHL scoring champion Jess Jones.

Not to mention, Bolton's own Rebecca Vint, who joined the Thunder in 2015 after a four-year stint with the NCAA's Robert Morris University.

By Jake Courtepatte

Thanks to the peewee AE Hawks, Caledon Hockey is tops in the Tri-County region.

A thrilling overtime victory last Wednesday night sent the Hawks' sticks and gloves flying in the fifth game of their championship match with the Ancaster Avalanche, two days after staving off elimination in a game four win.

With a 1-1 tie after three periods of play, it took the Hawks just 28 seconds to notch the overtime winner, a win head coach Frank Rocca said his team was "very happy" with.

The Hawks were sent to the Tri-County playoffs in mid-February after an impressive run at the OMHA level, at one time putting up six wins in a row before a tough loss to the Oakville Rangers in the OMHA quarter-finals.

They then marched through the Dundas Blues, Stoney Creek Warriors and Orangeville Flyers during round-robin play on the way to setting up the date with Ancaster.

The team put up a 31-10-8 record in the regular season.

Rocca said the team has been "like a family" since they banded together last August.

"We preach family," said Rocca. "Win or lose, we will always be a family."

The championship is extra special, as it is the first ever for the Hawks at the peewee AE level.

Finalists set for Sunday night hockey league

The St. Louis Bar and Grill Wings will be facing the Ken's Lawn Mower Repairs Blades for all the marbles in this year's Sunday Night Hockey League.

The two sides earned their places in the championship match Sunday. They are the last two clubs standing in the eight-team loop.

The Wings blanked the Mr. Handyman Moose Sunday, while the Blades edged the Pommies Cider Company Wild.

The Blades finished the regular season tied for first place in the standings with Inside Out Family Chiropractic Predators. The Wings ended up in a three-way tie for third with the Moose and Wild.

The championship match will be played Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Bolton, following the SNHL All Stars versus the Brampton Thunder charity game Faceoff to fight cervical cancer, which starts at 7.

April 2
Wings 3, Moose 0

In the first game in the semifinals, both teams put in a great effort, only to see the Wings get on the board in the second, which proved to be enough for the win, as they were able to best the Moose.

Net nabbing for the Wings were Darren Levy from Eric Webster and Daniel Hamlett, Webster into the empty net and Bob McHardy also with an empty netter.

Blades 4, Wild 3

In another tight match, both teams left it all on the ice with the Blades able to pull out the win in the final few minutes of the third frame over the Wild.

Blades' bin bulgers were Shawn Simpson from brother Daryll, Dave Gardilcic from Mike Blackwood, Cam Coulter from Dan Shaw, and Coulter from Bogdan Rapan. Wild warriors were Jesse Thompson from Jason Clark, Matt Moss from Marc de Abaitua, and Clark from Dale Deleonardis and Darren Jones.

March 26

It took a final night of round-robin action March 26 to decide who the semifinalist were going to be.

Tie game means both teams miss the semis in Sunday night league

Blades 2, Predators 0

With a hard-fought battle, the fellas from the Blades were able to shut-out the Predators and earn a berth in the semifinals, eliminating their foe.

Court Edeburn garnered the goose-egg while Gardilic from Shawn Simpson and Clark Chung, and Daryll Simpson from Blackwood salted away the win.

All Stars 3, Griffins 3

In a see-saw battle, neither team could best the other this night, causing elimination for both the Sports Marketing All Stars and the Glen Eagle Golf Club Griffins.

Stars' shooters were Matt Dowdle from Ron Toffan and Shane DeLaronde, Steve Smith (unassisted), and Steve Whitten (unassisted). Griffins go-to guys were Jody Spagnol from Tim Vokey and David Ilijasic, Brent Spagnol from Lukas Koroluk and Scott Cantelon, and B. Spagnol from Shane Gordon.

Wild 1, Moose 0

In an evenly-matched game, the Wild were able to pot one in the first and keep the lead for the rest of the night over the Moose, earning their spot in the final four and causing the Moose to wait and see for the final game if they would be able to secure a spot.

The Wild whipper was Darren Jones (unassisted).

Fire 5, Wings 1

The final game saw the short-benched Wings fall to the heat of the Ainsley Fire Protection Fire, but maintain their lead in the standings, taking a half point from the Fire and causing the Moose to get the final spot in the semis.

Fire forces were Shane Ainsley (unassisted), Kevin Wigner from Mark Andreoli, Alex Schittenhelm (unassisted), Wigner from Fab Iafano and Ainsley, and Andreoli from Ryan Wood and Mike Weeda. Wings warrior was Derek Cleary from McHardy and Scott McCrimmon.

Huskies rock their curling season

The Humberview Huskies want to extend their congratulations to the Heart Lake Secondary School senior boys' curling team.

Heart Lake went on to represent Peel Region at the Ontario Secondary School Athletic Association (OFSAA) provincial finals in North Bay.

Although the Humberview senior boys finished in first place in the Peel North Division, they lost a tight game to Heart Lake in the finals. All in all, it was a great year for both teams, going undefeated for the season, with Humberview taking first place, based on their win points.

Their finals game was the tie breaker, and as in all exciting curling games, was decided by one rock in the final end, with Heart Lake taking this year's Peel championship.

The Huskies totally enjoyed their week at the OFSSA finals in North Bay last season as Region of Peel Champions, and wish "Good Curling" to this year's curling representatives from Heart Lake.

PIEGAZE, Pille (née Puhm)
Passed away peacefully on March 29, 2017 at the age of 74 at Brampton Civic Hospital with her husband and children at her side. Pille will be deeply missed by her husband Reinis, son Peeter (Annette) and daughter Kaarin (Mark), grandchildren Isabella and Madelaine, siblings Ilo, Aare and Reet, as well as her many friends. Pille was born January 6, 1943 in Tallinn, Estonia to Arthur Puhm and Jutta Heinloo. Pille grew up in Toronto as part of the vibrant Estonian-Canadian community. She graduated from the University of Toronto in 1966. Pille married Reinis Piegaze on June 8, 1968 and moved to Shelburne, Ontario soon after. In 1982 they built their dream home in Mulmur where she lived for the rest of her life. She was very active in the life of the community. In her thirties Pille helped establish the Shelburne Little Theatre. Later, her interest in fashion and textiles led her to co-found a successful clothing business with her good friend Susan Brown. Pille then became a teacher of English And Drama at Centre Dufferin District High School in Shelburne, where she worked until her retirement. In later years she was very involved with the Piece-makers Quilting Guild and volunteered at the Dufferin County Museum. A memorial and celebration of Pille's life will be held at the Dufferin County Museum (Highway 89 and Airport Road) on April 9th, 2017 at 1:00 PM. All who remember Pille are welcome to come. Donations to the Dufferin County Museum and Archives or Lymphoma Canada may be made online.
