GREATER TORONTO DAY OBSERVED IN TOWN

The Exchange in Bolton was a very busy place last Thursday. There were volunteers on hand, including a contingent from Humberview Secondary School, contributing their time as part of Greater Toronto Day, a project held by Global News. There were many local seniors on hand, and students Ashley Hutchins and Komal Gill were assisting Bolton resident Sam Warren work on this bird house. Turn to page A3 for more scenes of Greater Toronto Day.

GTA West word might wait until 2018

By Bill Rea

It looks like Caledon residents who have been waiting a long time to learn the status of the GTA West Corridor are going to have to wait a while longer.

Notification of an Order in Council at Queen's Park has indicated the Advisory Panel for the Greater Toronto Area West Highway Corridor has had its term extended to April 20, 2018.

The panel was formed in April 2016, and the plan was for it to be in place for one year.

Mayor Allan Thompson came into possession of this document, but he didn't receive it first hand. He said he got it through Councillor Barb Shaughnessy, and she apparently got it from an interest group that the Province sent it to.

It was not, however, sent to the Mayor, "which I find really disappointing," he said.

The Ministry of Transportation suspended work on the environmental assessment

(EA) of the corridor in December 2015 to conduct an internal review of the work undertaken since 2007, and ensure that the project still aligned with current government policy and emerging technologies.

To assist with the review, an advisory panel, made up of industry experts, was appointed.

The broad corridor snakes through the southern part of Caledon. It's proposed the corridor will eventually contain transportation features to facilitate east-west movements. That includes the possibility of a 400-series highway.

Thompson said this action shows no regard or respect for municipal government, also pointing to the inconvenience being experienced by those who have interests in lands affected by the corridor.

Conservation Authority gala receives record support

Credit Valley Conservation Foundation (CVCF) hosted its 12th Annual Conservation Gala May 4, and the final count shows a record level of support from the local community.

More than 375 guests raised $237,000 in the spirit of the next 150 years of conservation in the Credit River watershed.

Funds raised support CVCF's five-year Protect, Connect and Sustain Campaign. The campaign goal is to raise $5 million for Credit Valley Conservation (CVC) by 2020 to support three key projects: Conservation Youth Corps, land securement and the Credit Valley Trail.

"We are grateful for the tremendous support the gala received from our friends and partners in the community," CVCF Executive Director Terri LeRoux said. "Nature is essential to healthy communities and individual well-being, so we want to do everything we can to protect it."

"Through our five-year campaign, we continue to raise funds that support the important environmental work CVC does to protect, connect and sustain us," LeRoux added. "Funds will be invested in securing new conservation lands, inspiring youth to be future environmental champions and building the Credit Valley Trail to connect the Lake Ontario waterfront to the headwaters of the Credit River in Orangeville."

Since 2006, the Conservation Gala has raised more than $1.6 million in support of CVC projects and initiatives that enhance the local environment for present and future generations. Every year the gala is attended by corporate leaders, individual philanthropists, community stakeholders and municipal representatives.

This year's event, held at Lionhead Golf Club and Conference Centre in Brampton, included a special welcome address by Carolyn King, the former chief of the Mississaugas of the New Credit First Nation, a Birds of Prey display where participants could meet native wildlife, and a substantial silent and live auction featuring more than 125 items and experiences.

Lots of activity for Greater Toronto Day

There was plenty of activity at the Exchange in Bolton last Thursday for Greater Toronto Day, put on by Global News. Volunteer MBC was active in lining up volunteers for the event from Humberview Secondary School in Bolton. Angie Seth of Global News was doing live repots from the scene, as Volunteer MBC Executive Director Carine Strong and Mayor Allan Thompson watched. Students from Humberview helped out in the kitchen, and that resulted in this pizza lunch for the seniors.

Make sure to have a permit before doing any burning

Caledon Fire and Emergency Services is concerned over the large amount of rubbish and garbage being illegally burned on properties over the past couple of weeks. This is a violation of the Town’s Open Air, Recreational and Agricultural Fires Bylaw and the Ontario Fire Code. Property owners are reminded that they can be subject to large invoices for services rendered for non-compliance with the bylaw. Emergency responses to these incidents take fire services away from residents requiring real help.

Specifically, the only permitted items that can be burned are non-treated wood, branch, twigs and logs. Burn permits are mandatory and are issued under strict conditions to protect lives, property and the environment.

“When a permit is issued, the owner is agreeing that they will comply with the conditions of the permit. If fire crews are wrongfully dispatched, fees can be applied and, in some cases, those fees could be in the multiple hundreds of dollars,” said Caledon Fire Chief Darryl Bailey. “We do not like to levy a fee, but the fire service needs to be readily available to respond to people that are experiencing an emergency and in need of our help.”

Property owners are reminded that not all yard waste is allowed to be burned. The most common, non-permitted items that are illegally burned are grass clippings, trash, aerosol cans, furniture, pressure treated wood, construction materials, plastics, metals and tires or rubber. For any non-permitted item, residents can use local garbage and recycling services or visit the Region of Peel website for yard waste and pick up information at www.peelregion.ca/waste/yard-waste

There are conditions and restrictions to the Open Air Burning Permit, as well. The permit must be obtained for any type of burning, and can only occur in approved areas of Caledon. Permits are available online at caledon.ca/burnpermits, or in person at the Fire Administration Headquarters, 6211 Old Church Rd. in Caledon East between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Failure to obtain a permit may result in an invoice as set out under the current Fees Bylaw. For more information, visit caledon.ca/fire or contact Fire and Emergency Services at 905-584-2272, ext. 4303 or by email atfire@caledon.ca

Traffic stop leads to drug charges

Three men are facing drug-related charges after an April 29 traffic stop on Highway 10 in Caledon. Caledon OPP reports an officer stopped a black Acura MCX on a matter involving the Highway Traffic Act. While speaking to the driver, the officer developed a reasonable and probably suspicion that the men in the vehicle had contravened the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act. The driver, a 22-year-old man from Brampton, was charged with driving while under suspension, possession of a Schedule II substance (cannabis marijuana — under 30 grams), possession of a Schedule I substance for the purpose of Trafficking (cocaine) and possession of property obtained by crime under $5,000. A 23-year-old man, also from Brampton, and a 21-year-old man from Burlington were both charged with possession of a schedule II substance, possession of a Schedule I substance for the purpose of trafficking and possession of property obtained by crime under $5,000.

New director arrives at the McMichael Canadian Collection

Internationally respected art historian Ian A. C. Dejardin has officially joined the McMichael Canadian Art Collection as its new executive director.

Dejardin, 61, was selected following an extensive global search conducted by the McMichael last spring. He is fresh from his 12-year leadership of the renowned Dulwich Picture Gallery in London, England.

While at the Dulwich, Dejardin launched the critically acclaimed Painting Canada: Tom Thomson and the Group of Seven exhibition, which set record attendance at the 200-year-old gallery before equally successful stops at the National Museum of Art, Architecture and Design in Norway and the Groninger Museum in the Netherlands, finishing to similar acclaim at the McMichael in 2013.

“The global interest and fervour for Canadian art is alive and well,” he said. “I’m excited to share my personal passion for The Art of Canada to the world as executive director at the McMichael.”

“Like many new Canadians, Ian was born outside Canada, but has a natural affinity for all things Canadian. He shares his deep expertise in a casual, collaborative way, and his quirky, self-deprecating sense of humour and unassuming but enthusiastic style make him literally the perfect leader for the McMichael right now,” Andrew W. Dunn, chair of the McMichael’s Board of Trustees, commented. “Ian’s international perspective brings a sense of confidence about The Art of Canada and its world-class stature that many Canadians accept only when acknowledged outside Canada. We are excited to have Ian take on the leadership of the gallery as we embark on our second 50 years, surprising our visitors with contemporary art, international comparisons, sculpture, and music, while celebrating and showcasing our outstanding collection of Group of Seven and historical art and Inuit and First Nations art, which we call collectively and inclusively, The Art of Canada.”

Dejardin’s fascination with Canadian art began decades ago when he stumbled upon a book featuring images of works by members of the Group of Seven and Tom Thomson. When he became director of the Dulwich in 2005, Dejardin took it upon himself to assemble the first big Group of Seven and Tom Thomson exhibition outside of Canada in almost 100 years, beginning a multi-year collaboration with the McMichael, which culminated in the record-breaking Painting Canada exhibition. Two years later, Dejardin co-curated From the Forest to the Sea: Emily Carr in British Columbia. He is currently collaborating with Sarah Milroy on a 2018 exhibition featuring the works of Canadian master David Milne, which will show at the McMichael in 2019.

Dejardin holds a Master of Arts degree in the history of art from the University of Edinburgh, and a postgraduate diploma in art gallery and museum studies from Manchester University.

Dejardin succeeds Nathalie Mercure, who took on the interim executive director role in September 2015.

“Nathalie has been an outstanding contributor to the McMichael in her 18 months of leadership,” Dunn said. “Her positive attitude, collaborative leadership style, and methodical attention to detail have created a strong foundation for future growth, with a talented and engaged management team, an excellent exhibition schedule masterminded by Dr. Sarah Stanners, our chief curator, and a pervasive sense of optimism across our staff, our volunteers, and our visitors and patrons. We are forever grateful to Nathalie for her efforts and very happy that she has agreed to join our Board in the fall to capture her expertise and energy for the McMichael.”

Learn about 1837 Rebellion

William Lyon Mackenzie led the Upper Canada Rebellion of 1837.

Stories of his alleged escape through Caledon will be the topic at the next meeting of the Caledon East and District Historical Society.

Author and historian Chris Raible is an authority on the Mackenzie era.

The talk which had been scheduled for last June, but had to be postponed, will be June 28 at 7:30 p.m. at St. James’ Anglican Church in Caledon East History remembers Mackenzie as a publisher, the City of Toronto’s first Mayor, a reformer calling for independence from England, and a leader of the Upper Canada Rebellion of 1837.

In December 1837, after the rebellion failed, Mackenzie became a fugitive with a price on his head. His escape to the U.S. is rife with tales of where he hid along the way. Many of these tales allegedly happened in Caledon. Are they true?

The cost will be $5 for visitors.

Lil’Ed and The Blues Imperials bringing big sound to Orangeville Blues and Jazz

“Rough and ready blues played with unmitigated intensity . . . Swirling, snarling, riveting slide. The Blues Imperials pound out riffs and rhythms like they’re overdosing on boogie juice. Scorching and soulful, joyous and stomping.” — Living Blues

Alligator recording artists Lil’ Ed and The Blues Imperials, touring in support of their latest Alligator CD, The Big Sound Of Lil’ Ed and The Blues Imperials, will headline the Orangeville Blues and Jazz Festival June 3.

MOJO magazine included the new CD in their influential Top Ten Best Blues Albums Of 2016. Currently celebrating 27 history-making years and The Blues Imperials ply their musical talents with skills that have been honed to a razor’s edge. Mixing smoking slide guitar boogies and raw-boned shuffles with the deepest slow-burners, Lil’ Ed Williams and his Blues Imperials — bassist (and Ed’s half-brother) James “Pookie” Young, guitarist Mike Garrett and drummer Kelly Littleton — deliver gloriously riotous, rollicking and intensely emotional blues.

The band received the Living Blues Award for Best Live Performer three times in five years. They won the coveted 2009 Blues Music Award for Band Of The Year, the same honor they received in 2007, and in 2016 were named Blues Band Of The Year by Blues Blast Magazine. Williams recently guested on TBS Television’s CONAN, with Conan O’Brien proclaiming Lil’ Ed as “the man who taught me to play the blues.”

underway, and includes an impact assessment of the alternative solutions and recommendations for future implementation.

Columbia Way Stormwater Management Facility

The Town of Caledon has initiated an environmental assessment of the Columbia Way Stormwater Management Facility.

The study will investigate alternatives for retrofitting the facility to provide an enhanced level of water quality protection.

Located on a tributary of the Humber River, the facility controls runoff from adjacent residential developments and agricultural lands north of Columbia Way. It consists of a dry pond with no permanent pool that retains water only during storm events and provides little to no water quality benefit.

Both the Town and the Toronto and Region Conservation Authority have noted that the facility has exceeded its sediment retention capacity and has significant potential for improvement.

The Study is a Schedule 'B' project under the Ontario Environmental Assessment Act and will include public consultation (details to follow). For more information contact the project managers below or visit caledon.ca/notices.

Region receives Canadian Award for Financial Reporting for 15th year

For the 15th consecutive year, the Region of Peel has won the Canadian Award for Financial Reporting from the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada (GFOA).

The Award, which recognizes excellence in governmental accounting and financial reporting, was established to encourage municipal governments throughout Canada to publish high quality financial reports.

The Region received the award for its 2015 Annual Financial Report. The Report was commended for its “constructive spirit of full disclosure” and clear communication of the municipality’s financial story. The online Report is also AODA compliant, which is unique for municipalities.

“This award is a testament to the Region’s Finance team for their commitment to financial stewardship and transparent reporting,” Regional Chair Frank Dale said. “I would like to thank the GFOA for their recognition. We look forward to doing even more to keep residents and stakeholders informed about the Region’s continued financial health and prudent use of taxpayers’ dollars.”

ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS OF HYDRO ONE NETWORKS INC.

Hydro One Networks Inc. has applied to raise its electricity distribution rates and other charges. Learn more. Have your say.

Hydro One Networks Inc. has applied to the Ontario Energy Board to raise its electricity distribution rates effective January 1, 2018 and continuing each year for another 4 years, until December 31, 2022. If the application is approved, a typical residential customer of Hydro One Networks Inc., using 750 kWh per month, would see increases as set out in the table below:

2018 an increase of $2.79 per month	2020 an increase of $2.31 per month	2022 an increase of $2.23 per month
2019 an increase of $2.47 per month	2021 an increase of $1.95 per month

Other customers, including businesses, may be affected as well.

Hydro One Networks Inc. has also acquired the electricity distribution assets of Norfolk Power, Haldimand County Hydro and Woodstock Hydro. The distribution rates for the former customers of these distributors will remain frozen at current levels until December 31, 2020. As part of this application, on January 1, 2021, and January 1, 2022, the distribution rates for these customers will also be increasing.

If the application is approved, a typical former residential customer of these three distributors, using 750 kWh per month, would see increases as set out in the table below:

Former Utility	2021	Increase	2022
Norfolk Power	$3.18 per month		$1.09 per month
Haldimand County Hydro	$4.52 per month		$1.09 per month
Woodstock Hydro	$1.08 per month		$0.84 per month

Other former customers of these distributors, including businesses, may be affected as well.

Hydro One Networks Inc. has also applied for new service charges and for adjustments to many of its specific service charges, including increases to charges for the collection of accounts, for disconnection, reconnection and removal of load control devices and for access to Hydro One Networks Inc. power poles. You are encouraged to review the application carefully to determine whether you may be affected by these changes.

The Ontario government has introduced the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 that, if passed, would implement electricity rate reductions starting in the summer of 2017. The amounts set out above are provided before the application of any credits that would be implemented under the Fair Hydro Act, 2017.

THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD IS HOLDING COMMUNITY MEETINGS

The Ontario Energy Board (OEB) will be hosting several regional community meetings. Please check the Ontario Energy Board website at www.oeb.ca under the EB-2017-0049 case number for specific details of the meetings in your area. The community meetings are designed to allow customers to:

- Learn more about Hydro One's costs and rate application.
- Find out how the OEB will review the application.
- Get involved and provide your comments about the application to the OEB.

THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD IS HOLDING A PUBLIC HEARING

The OEB will hold a public hearing to consider the application filed by Hydro One. During the hearing, we will question Hydro One on its case for the rate increases. We will also hear questions and arguments from individual customers and from groups that represent Hydro One's customers. At the end of this hearing, the OEB will decide what, if any, rate increase will be allowed.

Hydro One has applied for approval of rates for 5 years. You may not get notice of future rate changes during this 5 year period.

The OEB is an independent and impartial public agency. We make decisions that serve the public interest. Our goal is to promote a financially viable and efficient energy sector that provides you with reliable energy services at a reasonable cost.

BE INFORMED AND HAVE YOUR SAY

You have the right to information regarding this application and to be involved in the process.

- You can review Hydro One's application on the OEB's website now.
- You can attend the OEB's community meeting where you can ask questions, make comments and voice your concerns.
- You can file a letter with your comments, which will be considered during the hearing.
- You can become an active participant (called an intervenor). Apply by June 14, 2017 or the hearing will go ahead without you and you will not receive any further notice of the proceeding.
- At the end of the process, you can review the OEB's decision and its reasons on our website.

LEARN MORE

These proposed charges relate to Hydro One's distribution services. They make up part of the Delivery line - one of the five line items on your bill. Our file number for this case is EB-2017-0049. To learn more about this hearing, find instructions on how to file letters or become an intervenor, or to access any document related to this case, please select the file number EB-2017-0049 from the list on the OEB website: www.oeb.ca/notice. You can also phone our Consumer Relations Centre at 1-877-632-2727 with any questions.

ORAL VS. WRITTEN HEARINGS

There are two types of OEB hearings – oral and written. Hydro One has applied for an oral hearing. The OEB is considering this request. If you think an oral hearing is needed, you can write to the OEB to explain why by June 14, 2017.

PRIVACY

If you write a letter of comment, your name and the content of your letter will be put on the public record and the OEB website. However, your personal telephone number, home address and email address will be removed. If you are a business, all your information will remain public. If you apply to become an intervenor, all information will be public.

This rate hearing will be held under section 78 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, S.O. 1998 c.15 (Schedule B).

OMB could use replacing

It was announced a couple of weeks ago that the Province is planning to introduce legislation that would see the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) replaced by local planning tribunals.

We believe there is a lot of merit in such a plan, although the exact make-up of such tribunals is not yet known. Mayor Allan Thompson was quite right to point out “the devil’s in the details.”

It is true, however, that a new system needs to be put in place, a system that respects the concept that the planning of communities has to be based at the local level. That means the people who live or work there, those who have invested substantial portions of their net worth in homes or businesses, those who have well and long-established vested interests in the community must carry a certain amount of clout, perhaps more than they have in the past. And maybe the person who has the deepest pockets and can afford the high-priced experts and counsel should have to defer, to an extent, to the local will.

When we refer to the “local will,” we of course are thinking of the decisions made by the local and duly-elected councils in a municipality, decisions usually based on the good professional advice offered by well-trained and paid municipal staff. These people (both councillors and staff) are employed by and are accountable to the people closest to the ground and most impacted by municipal planning.

Such judgement must always carry some weight, but that clout cannot ever be unlimited.

We always have to be mindful of the fact that staff, being human, can sometimes get things wrong, just as councils can get them wrong, too. And yes, OMB hearing officers are just as capable of “blowing it,” as well. There has to be a balance and we wait to see what the government at Queen’s Park is going to come up with.

One of the proposed changes would see the removal of “de novo” hearings for most planning appeals. It has been a practice at OMB hearings to treat appeals of land use planning decisions “de novo,” meaning as if the municipality had made no previous decision. That has gone on for some time and begs the question of what’s the point of having elected councils in the first place, if their decisions are going to be ignored in the event of an appeal?

Pending what the details of the proposal contain, we think it does represent a refreshing change in the Province’s attitude toward municipalities. Over the years, there have been clear indications the people at Queen’s Park hold the local level of government in contempt, and it’s not just the Liberals who have been guilty of that. It was after all, the Progressive Conservatives under Mike Harris who amalgamated six municipalities in Metro Toronto into one “megacity,” opposition and public opinion be damned.

Any change to such attitudes is welcome, and we are hopeful.

Rotary Club of Palgrave’s Weekly Rotary Minute

By Krysta Cadden

Each year, the Rotary Club of Palgrave awards youth in our community the Rotary Memorial Youth Leadership Award.

The Bursary began as the LIFE Award (Living in a Finer Environment) and transitioned to its current moniker following the deaths of some long-time members of our club. We wanted to find a way to honour all of our members who had since passed on. As each of the departed members had provided leadership in one form or another to our club, it was decided to use the youth leadership award as a vehicle to recognize and assist young people who made things happen in our community.

We post (on our website) and circulate application forms to organizations, schools, churches, etc. in our community for members of said groups to nominate young leaders who have made significant contributions. The youth are to be nominated by someone who can speak to their contributions and leadership presence.

To be eligible, nominees must have demonstrated leadership excellence, be enrolled full-time in a graduating class in a secondary school or post-secondary institution and be a resident of the Town of Caledon, Adjala or Mono. It is important to note that the Bursary recognizes leadership excellence and lifestyle — rather than academics or scholarship. The bursary is awarded for further training and schooling.

Do you know a youth in your community who would be eligible and who you would be proud to nominate?

Please visit www.rotaryclubofpalgrave.com to download the application form or contact Krysta Cadden at krystacadden@rogers.com for a copy. Deadline for application submission is June 30.

And, for more information on all that we do, please visit www.rotaryclubofpalgrave.com anytime.

A fall for me

Before I get too into this, I want officials of the Region of Peel to be assured there were no injuries in the events soon to be reported, and no legal action is anticipated, at least not at this time.

I took a flip at the Regional offices last Thursday, but the only thing that was seriously injured was my dignity.

Regional council met last Thursday, and you will recall that was a very wet and rainy morning. I arrived at about 8:30, arriving an hour early in the hope, which proved to be forlorn, that I would get a spot in the visitors’ parking area (the Region needs more visitors’ parking) and went into the Tim Horton outlet in the office complex to get a coffee before going to the Council Chambers. I was walking to the counter when it happened. It might have been the wet floor, or the wet soles of my shoes, or both. But I felt my left foot starting to slide, and down I went.

It wasn’t a very hard fall. The shock was absorbed by the right portion of my fanny and the heel of my right hand. Both were a little sore in the aftermath, but I’ve had a lot worse. As I stated above, the worst damage was to my dignity.

Fortunately, things were a little quiet at the time in the outlet named after the legendary Leaf defenceman, so there weren’t many people around. There was one woman standing about five feet away from me.

“Are you all right sir?” she asked as I got back to my feet.

“Yup,” I replied as I gave her a rueful grin. “Please hold your applause.”

She grinned back.

Now I’m not trying to make light of falls, because I know they can be a serious matter, especially as one gets older. And since I’m now counting the months until I turn 60, it’s part of a reality that’s looking me right in the face.

There are cases in which falls can result from some medical condition. Such was certainly not the case with what happened to me last week, at least I don’t think it was. When one slips or trips, be they six or 60, they are likely to end up on the ground. And sometimes a quick recovery is a clear indication that there’s nothing wrong at all.

You might recall a little more than 40 years ago when then American president Gerald Ford was getting off an airplane in Austria. According to accounts I later read, the heel of his shoe apparently caught on something on one of the steps near the bottom of the gangway, causing him to stumble.

There were articles at the time wondering if there was some medical condition that caused him to take a flop. I recall he got a bit huffy, arguing that his quick recovery should have indicated he was in pretty good shape. The man was well into his 60s by this point, yet he sprang right back up and went about his business.

Again, I think the most serious injury in that case was to the President’s dignity.

There is a problem with the fact that we live in a society that seems obsessed with taking legal action, and my awareness of that was what prompted the opening paragraph this column.

About 20 years ago, in the days when I was living in a high-rise, I stepped in a patch of something slippery in the underground parking garage, and promptly found myself flat on my back. Since there were no witnesses, my dignity took only a minor beating. Yet I realized I had run into a hazard, so I made sure the authorities knew about it.

I went to the super’s office and reported what had happened, specifying the location, and urging the issue be addressed ASAP.

A couple of days later, I received a phone call from a woman identifying herself as a representative of the owners of the building. She asked me about the fall, any possible injuries and whether I had needed medical attention. It was abundantly obvious her delivery was coming from a prepared text. They didn’t give a damn if I had been injured. They were just getting their guard up against a possible lawsuit. And who could blame them?

But there are other cases when falls can be a lot more serious.

My late mother had a fall on a Toronto street about 13 years ago, when she was 78. It was in winter, so the conditions were probably a factor (she believed that to be the case). But it is true she was older and getting frail. She was already dealing with the cancer that would claim her life later in the year. Her fall was a lot more awkward than the one I experienced last week. But fortunately, there were two Toronto Police officers who witnessed it, and they took charge, quickly calling for medical assistance. My mom had a couple of bad bruises and a few other minor injuries, but they were treatable at the scene, and she was able to go on her way. She was so impressed that she sent a letter to the Police Chief, praising the two officers (that was something my mom would have done as a matter of course).

And I know there are a lot of cases in which the consequences of falls can be a lot more serious. I think most of us have known someone who died, and later learned there had been a bad fall not too long before that. I don’t believe that was the case with my mom, and I don’t think she believed it either.

I got through my incident too.

I do know that falls are no laughing matter, but they do happen, and when they happen to me, I try to make as light of it as possible. When my sense of humour leaves me, then I’ll know I’m in real trouble.

Liberal government is reducing Canada’s commitment to fighting ISIS

The recent Manchester concert attack was a tragedy and reminds us that terrorism is an ongoing international problem and that Canada, together with our allies, must maintain our commitment to fighting it.

Following the attack, media are reporting that the current Liberal government has quietly reduced Canada’s contribution to the international coalition to defeat ISIS, which is most concerning. It leaves Canadians with the valid question of whether this action by the current government could represent the end of Canada’s military involvement in the anti-ISIS fight, as the current military deployment is scheduled to wrap up at the end of June.

The current Liberal government, May 15, withdrew one of the two CP-140 Aurora surveillance planes that had been flying missions over northern Iraq and Syria since the fall of 2014. The Royal Canadian Air Force’s (RCAF) Aurora’s are a world-class intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance platform. Their capability to provide comprehensive battlefield intelligence has been integral to coalition efforts. Removing 50 per cent of this capability is a slap in the face to our allies and harms Canada’s international reputation.

The fact the current Liberal government’s decision to withdraw one of the two CP-140 Aurora surveillance planes was made quietly without any announcement, is further proof that this current government has no intention to be open and transparent with Canadians when it comes to Canada’s military deployments. In contrast, our previous Conservative government gave regular technical briefings on the activities of our men and women in uniform. It’s unacceptable that the Liberal government is making major, operational decisions without informing Canadians. Furthermore, removing one of Canada’s CP-140 Auroras from the fight against ISIS is additional proof that Canada is not “back” on the world stage; we are, in fact, withdrawing from the world stage.

The current Liberal government’s track record for being open and transparent with Canadians on defence matters has been weak to date. Defence Minister Sajjan has already once attempted to hide our allies’ dissatisfaction with the current government’s operational decisions. The fact is he has no credibility left on this or any other issue.

In light of the Manchester bombing, the last thing Canada should do is withdraw from the fight against jihadi terrorists. The Conservative Opposition calls on the current Liberal government to finally take the threat posed by radical Islamic terrorism seriously and ensure Canada does its part to bring the fight to ISIS.

Cabinet documents show high hydro rates will return after the election

It was revealed May 11, through an internal Liberal cabinet document, that hydro rates will continue to skyrocket after the 2018 election.

We also know from the independent Financial Accountability Officer, Ontario’s budget watchdog, that this Liberal hydro hoax could cost billions. In fact, while the government is providing short-term relief of $24 billion, doing so will cost up to $93 billion: nearly quadruple the proposed savings! Ontarians want hydro relief, but they do not want to jeopardize future generations to get it.

Since the hydro crisis began, my leader Patrick Brown and I have been calling on the government to address the systemic problems with the province’s electricity system. Specifically, the Progressive Conservative Party has been calling on the government to rein in executive salaries, stop signing bad contracts for energy we do not need, and stop the fire sale of Hydro One. Unfortunately, the Liberals decided to simply kick the can down the road, neglecting to deal with these systemic issues.

FROM QUEEN’S PARK
Sylvia Jones
MPP Dufferin-Caledon

The government has decided to offer a short-term solution instead of dealing with the systemic issues. As a result, the average monthly residential bill will start to rise again in 2018. Meaning the average monthly hydro bill will rise to be more than 36.5 per cent higher than they were in 2010, four years after the election.

Another important revelation from these cabinet documents is the return of the debt retirement charge (DRC) in a newly named “Clean Energy Adjustment.” The original DRC was created to pay off Hydro One’s $7.8 billion stranded debt, but in 2011 the Auditor General revealed the government had already collected enough money to pay the DRC. When this information was made public the government removed the DRC from residential bills, but did not remove it from businesses’. Now the new DRC is returning to your bill to pay for the massive debt the government is incurring with their hydro plan. Unsurprisingly, the Premier and the Minister of Energy failed to mention the return of this charge during the release of their plan.

When the government announced their plan, Ontarians hoped that the government had finally listened to them and was going to deal with skyrocketing hydro rates. Instead it appears the government decided to create a short term program which will cost Ontario taxpayers billions in the long-run and will see a return to skyrocketing hydro rates.

Brands are built, not designed

There is often confusion when it comes to the word “brand.” Understanding what a brand is and the building-block elements that create that brand will give important context when creating your corporate brand.

Brand elements

Every brand has the same fundamental, essential elements.

The first is, of course, the actual name of your business, organization or product.

Second, your logo — that stylized graphic or wordmark used to represent your brand name in a visual and memorable way.

These two elements, along with things like your retail space, marketing collateral, advertising, website, slogan or package design, are all essential elements of your brand. And these brand building blocks require strategic thinking and good design to build a strong brand.

Beyond the visual

When we talk about the “brand,” we are also talking about a broader and more valuable asset that is built over time.

Your brand is what your customers, clients, stakeholders and employees think or feel when they think of your company, see your logo, or view your package design.

Your brand is everything the public knows and feels about your company.

What’s the difference?

The elements of your brand exist literally. They are seen. Your brand, however, is something that exists only in people’s minds.

The value of your brand elements is measured by their ability to convey your “brand promise.” Your brand promise is the imagined value and emotional connection people have with your brand. Its value is measured by its degree of positive influence and perception in the minds of your audiences.

Why does it matter?

Brand building is about crafting a “promise of an experience” and delivering it consistently. Your brand promise should invoke emotion. The more your audience relates to the experience, the stronger the brand connection and loyalty will be.

Brands are built over time by consistently delivering well-designed brand elements that convey your brand promise across all points of contact. Clear and consistent promotion of a straightforward and relevant brand promise embeds your brand in the minds of your target audiences, your customers.

Brand success is accomplished when engagement with any single brand element, say just your logo, invokes an involuntary, positive emotional reaction, giving your audience a short cut to choice. Happy brand building.

Conservatives upbeat over new leader

By Bill Rea

The Conservative Party of Canada elected Andrew Scheer as their new leader over the weekend, and there is a lot of enthusiasm with the choice, according to David Tilson.

Dufferin-Caledon’s MP said the new leader met with his caucus in Ottawa Monday morning.

“The entire caucus was on the up-beat,” he observed.

Tilson added there was plenty of enthusiasm around the convention in Toronto, along with the drama that was to be expected in a contest that went 13 ballots.

“The crowd was really spirited,” Tilson declared.

MP Maxime Bernier from Quebec had been touted, especially in the media, as being a “slam dunk” for the job, Tilson reflected, adding he rode with Bernier on the bus to Monday’s caucus meeting.

“I really feel for the guy,” Tilson said later in the day. “He must feel awful.”

Scheer, who turned 38 late last month, has represented the Saskatchewan riding of Regina—Qu’Appelle since 2004, and served as Speaker of the House of Commons from 2011 to 2015.

“I think he’s perfect for the job and will give the Liberals a run for their money,” Tilson commented.

He also spoke confidently regarding the new leader’s youth.

“I’m sure he’ll be attractive to millennials,” he observed.

Tilson had maintained for some time he was supporting Wellington - Halton Hills MP Michael Chong for the leadership, but he observed that as of Friday night, he didn’t know who was going to win.

“I don’t think we were shocked,” he added.

Recently, I was asked to design a brand.

I responded with a question. “Are you looking to build a brand or design a logo?”

“What’s the difference?” you may be asking.

The elements of a brand — the visuals — are designed. But the actual brand must be built.

We get the politicians we deserve

By Brian Lockhart

During a recent trip to Italy, former U.S. President Barack Obama made the statement: “You get the politicians you deserve.”

He followed up that comment by stating, “If you don’t vote and you don’t participate and you don’t pay attention, then you’ll get policies that don’t reflect your interests.”

While that does seem to make good sense off the top, there is a gaping hole in the logic that you “get policies that don’t reflect your interests.”

I have voted in every municipal, provincial and federal election, except for one, since I have been eligible to vote.

I can’t remember why I didn’t bother to vote in that one election many years ago, but the next day I regretted not exercising my right as a citizen and have never missed another vote.

The hole in the logic is that even if you do vote, you still may not get the policies that reflect your interests. Just because you do participate and cast a ballot it doesn’t mean your voice will be heard. If your candidate doesn’t win the election, don’t expect your interests to be noted at the next sitting of Parliament.

A government should reflect the wishes of its citizens — all of them, not just the majority.

Therein lies a failure of democracy.

Even if a government is elected by a majority of 51 per cent, that means almost half of the population won’t “get the policies that reflect their interests.”

What Obama is really saying is that a vote for the “other guy” means you don’t deserve to have your voice heard if your candidate doesn’t win an election.

The U.S. claims to be a republic. The truth is it hasn’t been a republic for more than 200 years.

The role of government in a republic is to apply the rule of law — not the rule of a majority.

The U.S. shifted from a republic to a democracy and no one noticed. In fact, nowhere in the U.S. constitution or any State constitution does the word “democracy” even appear.

The rain held off Friday night as participants in the annual Relay for Life set off around the track at Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School.

Relay for Life tradition continues at Hall

By Bill Rea

There are some things even the threat of rain can't dampen, and that includes the annual Relay for Life at Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School in Caledon East.

Students were out in force Friday evening, accompanied by staff members and volunteers, to spend the night walking laps around the school track to raise money and awareness for the fight against cancer.

"We're all here because cancer has touched us," commented Danielle Wadden, one of the student organizers of the event.

She also observed that more than 130,000 people in Canada will be diagnosed with cancer this year, "the people we love and care about."

Participants also heard from school Chaplain Brenda Holtkamp, who herself has been fighting cancer.

"You are united in a life-changing experience," she told the students before they started on the walk.

"You are leaders," she added. "You lead us and call us beyond ourselves."

Relay for Life is a way to make a difference

By Bill Rea

Cancer is a subject and disease that has hit just about everyone, whether it's the actual victims, their families or their friends.

But some people work to respond and fight back.

Brampton resident Suzanne Bracken is one such person, and she was a big contributor to striking back Friday evening with her involvement in the Relay for Life event, held at the Brampton Fairgrounds.

Bracken, an aquatic rehab specialist, said Friday afternoon about 150 people had registered for the relay, and she thought they might get about 50 more turning up at the last minute to take part.

"Our biggest goal is to raise funds to support the Canadian Cancer Society," she declared, adding they also want to assist in research, as well as providing support to those dealing with the disease, such as those who need help undergoing medical care, or who need transportation to appointments.

Bracken said she's suffered a lot of losses due to cancer, but there have also been some happier endings.

She said her father was diagnosed with the disease in 2000. In 2014, her best friend was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin lymphoma.

"I felt pretty useless," she recalled thinking. "This was my way of getting involved and trying to make a difference."

This was Bracken's third year taking part in Relay for Life. This year, she was Volunteer Event Chair, as well as a team captain (Heart and Soul was the name of the team) and Community Champion.

"It just seemed that this was the best place for me to be," she remarked.

She added she formed her team, and there were 12 members ready to take part Friday night, including Bracken herself and her 12-year-old daughter Julia.

"It makes a huge difference," she said of the participation with the Cancer Society and such events as this. "The Canadian Cancer Society is in it for the long haul."

"I started it for very personal reasons," she added, but said the participation over the years has given her the chance to talk to many survivors, and that has convinced her it's making a difference.

The stories she has heard from survivors have "completely blown me away."

Promises to be great time at Wines of the World

By Bill Rea
It started off small, but it has grown over the last 20 years.
It has become the major fundraiser for the Rotary Club of Palgrave, not to mention a significant event on the local social calendar.
The club will be hosting its 20th anniversary edition of Wines of the World. It will be June 24 from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at Caledon Equestrian Park. It promises to be an evening of great food, drink and entertainment, as well as part of the commemoration of Canada's 150th anniversary.

"I think it was very small and it was somebody's idea for a good time for the club," Rotarian Nikola Boadway commented. "But it evolved and it became our major fundraiser."

She added the last couple of years have seen many changes to the event. One of them has involved the addition of food. "It is really high-quality, wonderful food," she said.
And this year, it will be representative of Canada, with food from every province, "It's a taste of Canada," she declared, adding it will represent a full meal from coast to coast.

The title sponsors of this year's event are Fines Ford Lincoln and Scotiabank.
Boadway said they are expecting between 800 and 1,000 people to turn out for the occasion, based on the attendance figures for previous years.
The food and drink will be accompanied by the jazz music of Kontakt.
"They donate their time every year," Boadway observed.
Needless to say, wine will be a big part of the event. The wine selection this year was developed with a lot of help from Kimberly Day, wine connoisseur and manager of the LCBO outlet in Caledon East. Each tasting station is presented by community sponsors. Without their support this annual Rotary fund raising event would not be possible.
Boadway also said they have really upped the quality of the wines over the years, keeping track of the latest trends, as well as the varieties that seem to be up and coming.
There will be some Canadian wines, but in keeping with the name of the event, there will be wines representing much of the globe, including North America, Spain, Italy, France, South Africa, Argentina, Chili, Australia and other lands.
And there will be beers and ciders, some of them brewed locally.
"It's great, because they get to go out and meet the people," Boadway observed. "It's a very practical sort of thing."
It takes a lot of work to organize and run such an event, and Boadway said that also means a lot of volunteer help. All the Rotarians are going to be involved, along with spouses and kids. As well, it's also going to be a great time to socialize and meet friends and neighbours.
"It's seen and be seen," Boadway observed. "It's running into people you haven't seen in a long time."
It's also a clear sign that the seasons are changing, and that summer cannot be far off.
"I think it's the first Palgrave event that everybody can relate to," she remarked.
And all the proceeds will go toward supporting the many projects Rotary is involved in. There's not one cause that the funds from Wines of the World will go to.
"We support many different initiatives and programs," she said, both locally and internationally.
Tickets are $60 per person. They can be ordered through the club's website at <https://www.rotarywow.com>

Historic adventure marks Canada’s anniversary, supports charities

By Mark Pavilons

A King Township pilot has combined his love of flying and adventure, into a very special goodwill trek part-way around the world.

Kingscross resident Steven Dengler and his father Bob have created the C150 GlobalOdyssey (C150GO). It will be the world’s first Canadian around-the-world helicopter flight, and the first-ever father-son global circumnavigation by aircraft.

In celebration of Canada’s 150th anniversary, the Canadian crew — comprised of Bob, Steven, and helicopter ace Rob “Dugal” MacDuff — will fly a Canadian-made Bell 429 Global Ranger helicopter more than 37,000 kilometres in just over one month. Starting in Ottawa July 1 and zigzagging the globe, the crew will visit more than 100 airports in 14 countries. Along the way, they will be joined by notable Canadians such as astronaut Dave Williams and hockey legend Guy Lafleur.

Dengler said the journey has been years in the making, involving some “unreal” preparations. What started as a “crazy idea” became less crazy as they sorted out the details.

This is a real chance for the trio to do something historic, but Dengler said his main motivation was the father-and-son connection.

The experienced fixed-wing and helicopter pilot said they chose the Global Ranger for the “fun factor” and the mystique surrounding choppers.

C150GO is a registered Canadian not-for-profit organization supporting both the Southlake Regional Health Centre Foundation and True Patriot Love Foundation.

“This historic milestone in Canadian aviation has been years in the making,” said Dengler. “But for this journey to make a real impact on the lives of Canadians, we want to give back by raising funds for Southlake and True Patriot Love. We are humbled by the work of these charities and are proud to have them as partners.”

Southlake Foundation supports its world-class hospital and the community it serves. Southlake Regional Health Centre is a full-service hospital with a regional, clinically advanced focus, serving more than one million people who reside in the surrounding regions.

True Patriot Love Foundation (TPL) is a national charity that funds unique programs and innovative research in the areas of veteran family health and support. It honours the sacrifices of members of the Canadian Armed Forces, veterans and their families by bridging the gap between military and civilian communities.

The project has attracted some welcome corporate sponsors. Citizens can donate as well, and if you visit their website, you’ll be directed to Southlake or TPL to contribute.

Along the way, C150GO will stop at several Canadian military bases while also visiting several national and international Canadian landmarks, including:

Confederation Bridge (Borden-Carleton, Prince Edward Island): One of Canada’s most important engineering achievements, the Confederation Bridge opened in 1997 to connect Prince Edward Island to the mainland. Almost 13 kilometres in length, it is the world’s longest bridge crossing ice-covered water.

Alexander Graham Bell National Historic Site (Baddeck, Nova Scotia): In February 1909, Alexander Graham Bell made his mark on Canadian aeronautical history when he financed and organized Canada’s first powered flight at his estate in Baddeck. John McCurdy flew the AEA Silver Dart over Baddeck Bay and with it, ushered in the age of Canadian aviation.

Signal Hill National Historic Site (St. John’s, Newfoundland): In 1901, Guglielmo Marconi received the first-ever transatlantic radio signal on historical Signal Hill. The transmission was sent from his station in Poldhu, England, where the G150GO crew will also visit in their travels.

Marconi Centre (Poldhu, England): The signal received in Newfoundland in 1901 was sent from this location in Cornwall, England. Built in 2001, the Marconi Centre Poldhu commemorates the first transatlantic transmission’s 100th anniversary.

Dengler said their visit to the Canadian National Vimy Memorial (Vimy, France) is particularly poignant. This year marks the 100th anniversary of The Battle of Vimy Ridge, a defining moment in Canadian history. They hope to bring a wreath or perhaps an artifact with them.

Bell Helicopter Plant (Montreal, Quebec): Founded in 1935, Bell Helicopter stands at the forefront of aviation technology. Its Mirabel plant, opened in 1983, manufactures some of the world’s most advanced helicopters, including the Bell 429 flown on the C150 Global Odyssey.

Dengler said it’s an international celebration of Canadian accomplishments and culture.

Canada’s 150th is a time to recognize Canadian achievements, and give ourselves a well deserved pat on the back. This will be one of the most far-reaching Canada 150 projects and the crew is very excited about it.

Dengler said they will meet many foreign dignitaries and they hope to connect with Canadians abroad.

The team lifts off from Bolton’s National Helicopters July 1, heading to Ottawa for Canada Day celebrations that day.

From there, they head up the coast to Baffin Island, then off to Greenland and Iceland. The route goes from west to east to take advantage of the prevailing winds and Dengler pointed out a tail wind is always an advantage. The Bell 429 can comfortably travel 400 nautical miles at a time, and two legs of the journey will push the envelope.

Two of the longest stretches run from Baffin Island to Greenland (392 NM) and Greenland to Iceland (400 NM). The luxurious, spacious cabin of the Global Ranger will be altered to accommodate extra fuel.

They will be travelling in the summer, so they don’t expect much in the way of bad weather. But, they are cautious and their journey all depends on conditions.

They have the benefit of the extremely reliable twin-engine Global Ranger, used as a search and rescue helicopter. They also rely on the most modern tracking technology.

“It’s going to be an adventure,” Dengler said.

While trips over water are problematic, they will be flying over some very remote parts of Russia. The crew will fly through Russia from July 14-21.

Steven and Bob Dengler, along with Rob “Dugal” MacDuff, are getting ready to circumnavigate the globe in a helicopter.

Most of the journey’s challenges are operational and organizational in nature and involve clearances and permission from various authorities around the world.

Dengler is quite excited about meeting people on the ground as they make their way around the globe. In some instances, they may be sleeping on someone’s couch in Chelyabinsk and Dengler said “that’s quite something.”

“2017 is Canada’s year. On this the 150th anniversary of Canadian confederation, we will travel across the country and the world with a message of pride, goodwill, friendship,” said Dengler. “C150GO is truly a global endeavor, and it would not be possible without the generous support from our partners.”

The C150GO team will post live updates online throughout their journey on their website at www.c150go.ca, and on social media using the “C150go” handle.

C150GO is actively seeking sponsorship partners. A chance to make a mark on Canada’s history, sponsors will benefit from increased recognition during a year of global gratitude, spikes in tourism and nation-wide celebration. Three sponsorship tiers are currently available, providing benefits that range from a sponsored leg of the tour to an official C150GO helicopter visit.

Founder of Dynatec Mining in 1980, Aurora’s Bob Dengler is a recognized pioneer of modern Canadian mining, growing the company over 25 years into an industry leader employing more than 1,500 people. Bob has a true adventurous spirit; in 2014 he summited Kilimanjaro and in 2015, flew his Bell 429 from Toronto to the top of Baffin Island, a 4,400-nautical-mile journey.

King’s Steven Dengler is a Canadian entrepreneur with more than 20 years of leadership in the tech space. In 1993 he co-founded XE, the world’s trusted currency authority. A renowned financial technology innovator, Canadian investor, and startup mentor, Steven is a proficient pilot of both fixed wing aircraft and helicopters.

A retired test pilot for the Bell 429 Global Ranger, Rob “Dugal” MacDuff is a distinguished helicopter professional with over 12,000 hours of flight experience. Rob has helped other notable Canadians pursue their love for flying, including hockey legend Guy LaFleur.

“Thank You for Making the Evolve Grand Opening a Wonderful Success” by Cassandra Briscoe, CCS Volunteer

You waited patiently Caledon—you lined up in the rain—and we’re thankful that you’re telling us the Evolve Clothing opening was a resounding success. We could not have done it without you.

The official grand opening on May 5 included a live band, cupcakes, and plenty of smiling shoppers.

One shopper was counting down the days for Evolve clothing to finally open. “I have been a little lost these last few months, I had to drive to a thrift shop in Newmarket a couple times,” Jessica said. She attended Chez Thrift on a weekly basis, either to donate bags of clothes herself or to shop for different items.

“I was a little worried at first because it is a new store, with fancier clothing so I thought everything would be priced really high,” Jessica said. However, after looking around for some time and collecting a cart-full of clothing she believes the items are very reasonably priced, for the value you are receiving.

there was a various group of shoppers coming in and out of the store.

Jillian, a 15-year-old girl was very impressed by the beauty of the store. “The bright lights and colourful walls really caught my eye when I walked in,” she said. She also commented on the vast selection of clothes and reasonable prices. From beautiful ball gowns, to winter coats, to shoes, purses, and accessories, Evolve truly has it all.

Evolve resembles any clothing store you would visit in a regular mall and strays from the “unorganized-used clothing” label that many thrift stores are categorised to look like. The store gives people in the Caledon community a shopping experience close to home, with extremely affordable prices for items of much greater value in a large department store or mall.

All donations and purchases benefit the community as 100 per cent of the profits are invested back into programs for Caledon residents. If you haven’t had a chance to check out the new store, head over to 4 Industrial Road in Bolton and get shopping! Head to Evolve Clothing for a shopping experience you won’t forget.

From youth to seniors, male to female,

Bandits lose in Friday brush with Brantford Warriors

By Jake Courtepatte

The Caledon Bandits are still in search of that elusive first win in the Ontario Junior C Lacrosse League season.

They met the Brantford Jr. Warriors for the first time this season Friday, with their foes riding a three-game winning streak.

Dodgers pick up first win over Aurora

By Jake Courtepatte

The Dodgers are on the board.

After a month of rescheduled games and quite a widespread schedule, the Bolton Dodgers picked up their first win in their third game of the North Dufferin Baseball League season.

They took the two points from the Aurora Jays, a surprise 6-2 upset over one of the top offences in the AA league. Veteran pitcher Shawn English was on the mound, while Rob Spencer earned the loss for the Jays.

The win brought the Dodgers' record to 1-2 for the season, currently sitting 10th place out of 15 NDBL teams, but with some skewed positioning after a number of cancelled and rescheduled games.

Last Thursday's game against the Ivy Rangers was cancelled due to weather conditions, while they will hope to bring

Hoping to take that momentum early, Caledon was able to hold them off in the first period, playing to a 2-2 tie at first intermission thanks to goals from Darcy Tainsh and Jordan Oshowy.

Spencer Wood actually put the home team on top with a goal just 21 seconds into the middle frame, before Brantford rattled off seven goals in the final 11 minutes of the period.

Oshowy and Wood were both able to capitalize once more each, but it was all the Caledon offense could muster in a 13-5 loss.

The loss came three days after the first game of their current four-game home-stand, when the Wilmot Wild came to town and flexed their offensive muscle.

Wilmot was able to get seven goals in each of the first two periods, eventually playing to a 19-6 score at the final buzzer after a barrage of shots on goaltender Adam Brennan.

Oshowy, Austin Pope and Wood led the way for the Bandits with two points apiece. Oshowy continues to lead the team in scoring with eight goals and 10 assists through seven games played.

Halfway through their longest home-stand of the year, Caledon's best chances to pick up some points lie directly ahead in meetings with the Mimico Mountaineers (1-5-1) and Halton Hills Bulldogs (2-3-0), with the Mountaineers visiting Caledon following press time Tuesday.

The teams sit one and two rungs up from the Bandits in the OJCLL ladder, while the Six Nations Warriors lead the way with a record of 7-1-0.

The next opportunity to see the Bandits in action comes Tuesday (June 6) when they host the Bulldogs at Caledon East.

The first faceoff is set for 8 p.m.

Hike for World Environment Day

June 5 is World Environment Day, and Credit Valley Conservation will be marking the occasion the previous day with a hike at Terra Cotta Conservation Area.

Hike times are 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

World Environment Day is a great time for everyone to get outdoors and explore nature, appreciate its beauty and importance, and to remember to protect the Earth that we share. Since 1972, global citizens have organized many thousands of events, from neighbourhood clean-ups, to action against wildlife crime, to replanting forests.

This year, Canada is the host country of the biggest annual event for positive environmental action, which takes place June 5th.

The June 4 event will be a 45-minute, low-intensity interpretive hike around the park, exploring native, naturalized and invasive species that proved significant to Canadians throughout history.

Meet at the Visitors' Welcome Centre. Registration is required and space is limited to 25 people per hike.

Rain impacting standings more than runs their record to .500 with a win tonight (Thursday) over the Lisle Astros, their only action this week.

First pitch comes at 8:30 p.m. at North Hill Park.

Rain was also the culprit in the cancellation of the Bolton Brewers' game against the Alliston Athletics, making it 10 days between games before they hit Don McKnight field in Newmarket Saturday to face the Cornhuskers.

The break certainly didn't cause any problems, as they cruised to a 7-1 win to bring them within four points of the league lead.

Their 4-1-0 record is currently good for a tie for third, along with the Orangeville Giants, Clearview Orioles and Barrie Angels.

Barring more wet conditions, the Brewers return to action in Midland all weekend with back-to-backs with the Angels and Midland Indians both Saturday and Sunday.

The Brew Crew does not return to North Hill Park in Bolton until June 22, in their rescheduled game with the Athletics.

Under-13 Cougars hold their own against Ontario's best

The Caledon Cougars U13 bantam girls ended the year as fourth in the province.

The Ontario Cup basketball finals were held in Niagara recently, and the girls demonstrated grit and determination. Losing their place in the gold game by two points, and losing the bronze game by one was tough, but the girls all agree that the experience was one they will remember for a long time.

Friday night's game was against the top team in the province, Transway out of Hamilton. They are a tough and experienced team with a deep bench, but the girls pulled off a win in the last few minutes of the match. The girls worked together as a team, and won as a team. Led by Coaches Peter Jhaj and Mary Magarelli, they dug deep for the win. Kate White led the team in points, Hailey Barbieri demonstrated some of the quickest defence seen all season, Cyanne John and Maya Chocano led the team in rebounds, and Maya Chocano hit the winning basket with only seconds left with a step back jump shot that she has been practising all year.

Saturday morning, the Caledon girls lost against the tough team from GTA West.

Both teams did well and some last-minute hustling by both teams made for an exciting game that could have easily gone either way.

Saturday afternoon, the girls played and won an aggressive game against the Brampton Bounce team.

Sunday, they were facing Ancaster Blitz in the bronze medal game. They fought hard but went down early, finding themselves down by 10 at halftime. They made a valiant comeback with Rain Jhaj starting the run with three successful three-pointers, but just ran out of time, losing 51-50 at the buzzer.

Competition is tough in division 1. The weekend performance demonstrated Caledon Cougars rival any of the top girls' basketball clubs in Ontario. This team has amazing coaches and players, they are not afraid of hard work and have demonstrated yet again that they do their best work under pressure. They will continue to practise hard and represent Caledon well as they prepare for AAU tournaments in the U.S.A.
