Town seeking second meeting on proposed tower

By Bill Rea

There are a number of concerns regarding a telecommunications facility proposed for Bolton's north hill, so the Town is asking Rogers Communications to hold another open house.

That doesn't mean the company is obligated to hold the session, but Town councillors last week voted to make the request.

It's proposed for the Caledon Centre for Recreation and Wellness property at 14111 Regional Road 50, and one of the concerns is its proximity to St. John Paul II Elementary School. Questions have been raised as to whether parents at the school have been kept properly informed on the issue.

The motion, which was put forward by Councillor Annette Groves, pointed out the Town does have a protocol when it comes to approving telecommunication facilities, and that includes arranging a public information centre (PIC), complete with notification of land owners within 500 metres of the base of the proposed tower.

Robert Boffo, a Councillor Rob Mezzapelli parent at said he was originally going to oppose having another St. John Paul, PIC. He pointed out the one that was already held was well attended. "I was overwhelmed by the attendance," he declared, adding there was considerable opposition to the proposal. He didn't think another public session was going to change that. But he did agree it was up to the Dufferin-Peel Catholic District School Board to share information like this with parents, and said he manager of community services for the Town, told Councillor Johanna Downey there is an extensive process in place for dealing with applications like this, including making sure the school was notified. She added it's up to the school to make sure parents are kept informed.

Parties will meet to decide future of old Alton School

By Bill Rea

Town of Caledon staff are not keen on getting into a long-term lease for the old Alton School House, but the two local councillors want more discussion.

Councillors last Tuesday, sitting in committee, took little time to approve a motion from Councillor Barb Shaughnessy deferring the staff recommendations and calling for a meeting on the issue.

The motion calls on the Town to coordinate the meeting of community stakeholders. Those stakeholders are to include, but not be limited to, the Alton Community Group, Heritage Caledon, Town staff, Peel District School Board, Peel Art Gallery, Museum and Archives (PAMA), etc. They are to discuss findings from the Town's Tourism Strategy of 2014 that identified Alton as an arts and culture hub and consider possible uses for the school. It also calls for a meeting to take place by the end of October.

Staff had been advocating negotiations with the Peel Board for fair consideration of a land exchange for the school.

That had been agreed upon about four years ago when the new school in Alton was built. The staff report to council stated the Town was to receive the old building in exchange for the land for the new facility. The problem, according to staff, is both buildings are serviced by the same septic system, and they said private ownership is not permitted in such cases.

Staff stated the Ontario Building Code requires that sewage systems be located wholly on the property of the building or buildings they serve.

The old school, which was closed in the summer of 2013, is currently vacant and is still owned by the Peel Board.

Staff said the Board had indicated interest in a long-term lease arrangement with the Town, at a nominal rate. That would give the Town long-term use of the old building, with the municipality taking on responsibility for the costs, including capital improvements, maintenance, etc.

The Town had asked for a building condition assessment (BCA) of the old school to determine its current state, as well as what capital improvements might be needed down the road. But the Board said the Town would have to pay for such a study. Staff said the municipality spent about $5,000 on it, funding it through unplanned expenditures in the 2017 budget.

The conclusions of the BCA indicate about $652,000 in work will be required floor complies with current accessibility standards. That would require washroom upgrades, door widening and the installation of automatic doors.

As well, operating costs of the building have been estimated at $82,500.

Staff also pointed out there's been no use for the old building determined at this time.

As well, staff cited constraints to possible future uses of the building, including maximum occupancy due to the septic system, limited parking during school hours and limited access to the parking lot when students are arriving at or leaving school.

Staff said the old school was built in the 1870s, with additions and remodeling in 1907 and '29, and it's regarded as a landmark on Main Street. It also has a heritage designation.

There was a meeting in July involving staff from the Town and Peel Board, as well as Shaughnessy, Councillor Doug Beffort and Trustee Stan Cameron. Staff stated that while the Board doesn't have funds to cover costs associated with the building, there was a verbal agreement to provide half the funding of a $30,000 feasibility study to develop potential uses for the site, develop solutions to overcome the limitations and determine the costs for dealing with problems.

The staff report stated they have not yet developed the scope of this work, and there's been no independent confirmation that the necessary work can be done for $30,000.

Two charge in after Aug. 16 shooting

Caledon OPP reports two men have been charged in connection with a shooting Aug. 16 in the area of Highway 10 and Old School Road.

The victim, a man in his 20s, was shot, but sustained non-life threatening injuries.

A 19-year-old man from Mississauga and a 26-year-old from Etobicoke have been charged with attempted murder, kidnapping and possession of a schedule I substance (cocaine).

The investigation is ongoing by members of the OPP Caledon Major Crime

Unit with assistance from Peel Regional Police.

Police do not believe there is any ongoing threat to public safety as a result of this incident.

They are asking anyone with information regarding this incident to contact them at (905) 584-2241 or toll free at 1-888-310-1122. Those who wish to remain anonymous may call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477 (TIPS). They can also submit information online at www.peelcrimestoppers.ca would support the call for a second information session.

"I just know we're going to get the exact same response back, only more of it," he remarked.

Tollett confirmed for Councillor Jennifer Innis that Rogers is not required to hold another meeting, although there's nothing wrong with the Town asking.

Groves added she had received an email from the company earlier that day, indicating if the Town wants another session, they would be willing to comply. Groves noted there were a lot of concerns, adding she hoped the PIC would be held while school is in session.

Councillor Nick deBoer observed that since the Town owns the land, the municipality can simply say it's not interested in hosting the tower. Tollett said that direction would have to come from council.

Downey wondered if another PIC was going to change any minds, but Groves countered the public is asking for it.

"I'm sure their opinion will not change," she commented, but added it's important for council to have that input.

Open house Saturday at fire hall

Mono Mills firefighters, Caledon OPP and Peel Paramedic Services invite the community to an open house this Saturday (Sept. 9).

It will be at the Mono Mill Station and will run from 9 a.m. until noon.

There will be a complimentary pancake breakfast, courtesy of Caledon East Foodland.

As well, there will be an OPP Child Car Seat Clinic (register in advance by calling 905-584-2241).

There will also be information regarding general safety, police safety, making a home escape plan, paramedic services and an auto extrication demonstration.

Remember school bus safety now that school has started

Caledon OPP are reminding the motor- ing public of some safety issues and rules of the road involving school buses.

The buses come in various sizes, but all are chrome yellow and display the words “school bus.” Drivers must stop whenever approaching a stopped school bus with its alternating red lights flashing and stop arm extended. When approaching from the front, leave a safe distance from the bus. When coming from behind, stop at least 20 metres away. Do not proceed before the red lights stop flashing and the stop arm is retracted.

Drivers must obey these laws regardless of how many lanes there are or the speed limit on that road. The only exception is if there is a median (physical barrier) in the center of the road and the bus is being approached from the front.

Drivers who fail to stop are subject to being charged, resulting in fines that range from $400 to $2,000 and six demerit points.

Remember that these laws are in place to protect children who are at times easily distracted. Parents should take the time to educate their children to be aware of their surroundings when they are on or near school buses.

Julie French crowned Queen of the Furrow

There was lots of modern equipment being used to plow the furrows, but some of the competitors looked to the past. Caledon resident Bert Speirs was using this 1925 Rumely Oil Pull Tractor made in La Porte, Indiana. It's guaranteed "to burn successfully all grades of kerosene under all conditions, at all loads up to its rated brake horse power."

One of the attractions at the Plowing Match was the annual Mayor's Challenge. This year's competition was won by Erin Mayor Allan Alls.

By Bill Rea

Albion resident Julie French will be representing the Peel-Dufferin Plowmen's Association for the coming year as Queen of the Furrow.

French was acclaimed to the title last Thursday at the association's 92nd annual plowing match, held at Wrightway Farms on Innis Lake Road.

The sash and crown were presented to her by current Queen of the Furrow Caleigh Van Kampen of Amaranth.

Van Kampen will be representing the association at the International Plowing Match, to be held in Huron County later this month.

She addressed those on hand for last week's match, commenting the experience of the last year gave her the opportunity to represent women and youth in agriculture at many events.

She also stressed the need for marketing, pointing out people appreciate the hard work farmers put in toward feeding the world, and that message has to be repeated.

Although she was the only one seeking the position, French was asked to speak about the history of agriculture in Peel and Dufferin.

She referred back to the 1800s, when European settlers were looking for places to farm, and how this area offered forest, as well as rich soil.

French also reflected that about 175 acres of farmland is being lost per day, adding that would have been impossible 150 years ago.

She observed there have been many advances in agriculture over the years, including the tractor, which helped reduce the need for manual labour on the farm, while speeding up and increasing production; the growth in selective breeding; and technology.

"This is an ever-advancing subject," she observed. "Agriculture is becoming a more automated process.” French also pointed out the evolution of agriculture in Peel and Dufferin has not taken place over night. She pointed to the need to appreciate the progress that has been made, and what’s to come.

Van Kampen made similar references when she spoke about the changes in agriculture over the last 25 years, and what’s likely to come.

She pointed to the use of social media, noting that people have been moving away from agriculture and the importance of using technology to draw them back.

“It’s becoming more and more important to speak out for agriculture,” she declared.

Horses can still pull a plow, and that’s what Steve Bickley from Bobcaygeon was demonstrating as his wife Laurie watched. He was being pulled by Percherons Torry and Khloe.

Peel-Dufferin Plowmen’s Association President John Davis and Queen of the Furrow Caleigh Van Kampen thanked members of the Wright family for hosting last Thursday’s Plowing Match.

Mike Duffy’s strange lawsuit

The $7.8 million lawsuit launched by Senator Mike Duffy must surely be one of the most unusual Canadian civil actions ever.

Although the lawsuit names as defendants the RCMP and the Senate, almost all the grief Duffy suffered could be traced to actions by the Prime Minister’s Office when it was occupied by Stephen Harper.

It was that office, or more likely the PM himself, that ignored the Constitution Act provisions governing Senate appointments when Duffy was named to represent Prince Edward Island, a province he hadn’t called home for at least four decades, and where the only P.E.I. property he owned was a cottage his family visited each summer.

The law regarding Senate appointments includes two key requirements: the appointee must own property worth at least $4,000 and must be a resident of the province he or she is to represent (the property could be located anywhere in Canada).

Had the Harper government given Duffy one of the 24 seats assigned to Ontario (the same number assigned to Quebec, the four western provinces and the four Atlantic provinces), he would have faced few, if any, of the 31 charges brought before Ontario Court Justice Charles Vailancourt, who wisely dismissed every one of them.

Why? Because the main allegation — that he had charged for living expenses in connection with his Ottawa-area home — was predicated on his need to portray the P.E.I. cottage as his principal residence. As a senator representing Ontario, he would have had no such ability unless he lived beyond commuting distance of the national capital.

To his credit, Duffy questioned the legitimacy of his 2009 appointment, as the Constitution clearly states that a senator “shall be resident in the Province for which he is appointed.”

It seems that Harper, along with leading Conservative senators, reassured him that it would be fine, as long as he had the cottage.

It seems he was also told that, in order to keep up appearances, he should bill for living expenses for his home in Kanata, lest failing to do so raised questions about his claim to reside in P.E.I.

That Duffy has real grievances that need to be addressed goes without saying. But we wonder whether the lawsuit, as currently framed, is the way to go, and has much chance of success.

There is no doubt, based on the evidence at his trial, that the Harper government set up Duffy to take a very public fall for a series of bad decisions stemming from his politically motivated appointment as a senator from P.E.I.

Although not a criminal act, the appointment was a clear breach of the law, one that to this day has not been corrected.

As readers probably already know, there is no magic in the number any plaintiff chooses in his or her claim for damages, and Duffy could have sued for hundreds of millions. Suspicious as we are that he named the Senate and RCMP as defendants only because of doubts that a political party can be sued, we think he would be happy to settle for a lot less if a way could be found to right all the wrongs he suffered.

In the circumstances, an appropriate resolution would seem to involve little more than an agreement by the Senate to pay him and fellow senators the salary they lost while being suspended without pay by the Upper House, in addition to reimbursement for his legal fees involved in successfully defending against the 31 charges.

But more important, surely, would be an agreement by the Trudeau government to eliminate the fiction of his being a P.E.I. resident by passing a new Order-in-Council amending the original order so as to make him a senator for Ontario and allow the appointment of a true P.E.I. resident to represent the island province.

Evolve is ‘a great new store’

I just wanted the community to know what a great new store they have in Bolton.

Evolve Clothing (formerly Chez Thrift) is spacious, clean, well organized and has great prices and finds. Lots of items at a fraction of the cost of retail, including many designer items.

My teen daughter loves shopping there every week and always finds something great. The best part is the money goes right back into the community. They get new items all the time, so it really is worth checking every week.

Kudos to Caledon Community Services for doing such a great job on the new place!

That was summer

Sorry kids, but facts are facts. By the time these words appear in print, you will be back at school, confined to a regimented routine for the next 10 months, with occasional breaks in late December and March. And I’m envious.

I realize some people might have the feeling that we haven’t had much of a summer yet, and I can appreciate such sentiments. On the other hand, things have not been so bad, have they?

Apart from one Sunday afternoon event at Caledon Equestrian Park that went a little longer than I anticipated, sun burn has not been much of an issue this summer. And while it did alarm my wife a wee bit, that sun burn was rather easy to deal with. I’ve had a lot worse.

Since I am a married man living in the Dominion of Canada, I am frequently pressed into service to cook family meals on the barbecue on the back deck. If I do say so myself, I’m getting quite good at it. I cook burgers and hot dogs and steaks and chicken breasts rather well, and I think I’m improving. One of these days, I’m going to tackle the task of barbecuing a roast on a spit. My late uncle had mastered that, and I hope one day to measure up to his standards. If there is any such thing as an artist on the barbecue, it was my uncle Bill (no, I was not named after him).

A lot of our dinners over the last couple of months have been cooked in our back deck, and that’s likely to continue for the next little while, as long as the weather (such that it is) holds out.

Being a married man living in the Dominion of Canada, I know my place. I should also state that Beth does appreciate my cooking, or at least she says she does. I believe her.

We have had rain over the last couple of months; lots of it; probably more than we needed. But we shouldn’t complain. We’ve been hearing stories for the last couple of months about how badly they want rain in the western areas of the country. On the other hand, think of what people in Texas have had to put up with over the last several days. The fact is we have very little business complaining.

Besides, the rain has helped produce a lot of hay. My brother-in-law is a farmer, and he needs the hay for his operation. True, the rain has complicated his life a bit, as he’s had to time things. But I don’t think he’s complaining about quantity.

There was one week when we couldn’t have complained too much about the weather. It was the week my wife and I were able to get away for a couple of days. It did rain the last day, preventing me from having that last swim in the lake to which I had been looking forward. It was not the greatest disappointment I have endured in my life, and it won’t be the last.

Sleeping has been a lot easier this summer than has sometimes been there case. Our house is not air conditioned, but we keep a fan handy in the bedroom this time of year. Actually, it is a bit of a source of disagreement in our otherwise happy marriage because I like to have the fan on at times when Beth would prefer it not be on. It all goes back to the days before we cohabited, when I lived in a high rise and always had the window near my bed open just a crack for ventilation, even in the dead of winter. I had extra blankets if things got too cold. But opening the window at night has been a little controversial over the last 19 years, since Beth is not as big a fan of open windows at night. As I stated above, I know my place.

I was actually a little taken aback last Thursday at the Peel-Dufferin Plowing Match at the number of people who were wearing jackets; myself included. In late August, we all should have been sweltering.

It is a fact that there have been very few heat alerts this season. There have not been many news releases from the police warning about leaving dogs unattended in hot cars (there have been a few, but nowhere near the number I would have normally expected). That’s good, because I hate reading them.

It is, after all, possible to have a nice summer without having to deal with extreme heat, is it not?

And according to the calendar, summer still has a couple of more weeks to run, meaning there are probably going to be a few more nice days to enjoy, even if kids have to enjoy them while doing homework.

Incidentally, I wrote this column at home over the weekend. Does that qualify as homework? If I can handle it, so can you kids.

The days of sleeping in late and going about a leisurely pace are done for another year, at least as far as school kids are concerned. They now are back at work, as are their teachers. At least the teachers get paid for what they do. When I was a kid and it came to my homework, all I ever got was threats from my parents and teachers.

As I indicated above, the good days are not completely done. There will be a couple of opportunities to enjoy comfortable temperatures in the outdoors. Fall fairs are coming, and they are always a source of good fun.

Many, many years ago, when I was a lot younger and smaller and had dark hair, I dreaded this time of year. Yet I now look back at those times with a certain amount of yearning. And I am pretty sure I’m in good company.

And don’t despair kids. There will be another summer vacation starting in about 10 months.

Conservatives have a positive vision for lower taxes

Even if you've never voted Conservative before, you probably know that Conservatives support lowering taxes as a way to help Canadians and our economy.

But maybe you don't know "why" we support lower taxes.

We believe that there is more to Canada than just government and this belief is at the core of the positive Conservative vision we've been sharing with Canadians all summer. We believe taxes should be lower for Canadians: for businesses, families and individuals. This is the core of a Conservative vision to create prosperity and opportunity for everyone.

Our support for lower taxes isn't a matter of seeing black ink on a ledger or because we want to get a favourable press release from the Chamber of Commerce. We believe in lowering taxes because it is good for Canadian families.

When we keep payroll taxes low, it helps the young worker looking to get their first job. When the government raises payroll taxes, like the Liberals have done, it makes it harder for young people to start their careers.

When we keep taxes on Canadian small businesses low, it helps those companies invest, expand and hire more workers. When you cancel tax cuts on small businesses, as the Liberals did in their first budget, it comes at the expense of those looking for work.

And when we cut taxes for families, it means they have a little more money in their pocket at the end of every month. It means a single mom will be able to send her kids to summer camp or a family can save for their child's education.

This is more important than ever. Recent data from the 2016 Census revealed that more Canadians than ever before are living alone. That means fewer households have a dual income to rely on. And it's getting harder for kids to move out of their parents' house. We see this in practice every day, in communities across the country.

Helping Canadians save more of their own money is critical if we want to ensure a better future for all.

Yet, with federal spending at an all-time high, the Trudeau Liberal government is looking to pass the bill to someone else.

And that means tax and user fee hikes for the everyday Canadian taxpayer. And it's not just on the obvious expenses — their approach amounts to a tax on everyday life.

Increased user fees for campsites, fishing licences, and passports are one part of the plan. Continuously increasing taxes on beer and wine is another. By 2022, Trudeau's carbon tax will increase the price of gasoline by 11 cents per litre, making any family road trip a lot more expensive. On top of all of it are year-round tax hikes on public transit, ridesharing services like Uber and kids' sports and arts activities.

Justin Trudeau claims the best of intentions, but his policies hurt the very people they say they want to help. They came to office saying they wanted to help families, but they're now treating even summertime family activities as a source of tax revenue to cover their spending problem.

Lower taxes mean the government has faith in the everyday men and women of Canada to make the best decisions for themselves and their families. This is how we create prosperity and opportunity for everyone in Canada, no matter who you are.

This is what Conservatives believe in.

And these everyday families are who Canada's Conservatives are here to fight for.

Programs to save on business utility costs

By Katelyn McFadyen
Manager of the Energy and Environment Division
Town of Caledon

While there has been some relief in pricing through the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan, utility costs continue to place financial pressures on businesses.

But there is help.

Caledon's Community Improvement Plans for Bolton, Caledon East and the six villages have an Energy Efficiency Retrofit Grant which provides businesses incentives to make retrofits that contribute to the energy efficiency of a building. For information, got to Caledon.ca/cip

In addition, Caledon's two utilities (Hydro One and Enbridge) offer incentive programs to implement measures that lower utility costs.

Hydro One saveONenergy Programs

There are a suite of programs available to businesses organized into two "buckets":

1) Prescriptive Programs: In general, these programs provide an incentive "per unit" or per item that is being retrofitted. Some examples of these programs include:

- Small Business Lighting Program: Eligible businesses will receive a free lighting assessment and up to $2,000 in incentives to upgrade lighting to energy efficient fixtures.

- Peaksaver Plus: Businesses that have central AC and/or an electric water heater are eligible to receive a free programmable thermostat. During the hottest summer days, temperatures will be adjusted slightly to help manage summertime peak demand.

- Audit Funding: Unsure about what options you have to reduce energy use? This program offers up to 50 per cent of the costs associated with energy audits.
- Retrofit Program: This program provides incentives to implement an array of measures from efficient motors to HVAC redesign. Depending on the type of retrofit, you could receive an incentive per unit (i.e per lighting control).

2) Custom Programs: These programs may be more suitable for larger projects, providing incentives based on electricity savings over the pre-retrofit consumption. Non-lighting retrofits receive $800/kW or $0.10/kWh saved, and lighting incentives receive $400/kW or $0.05/kWh saved.

Unsure how to tackle the grant application forms? No problem! Hydro One has contracted the services of Clear-Result to guide you through the grant application process. Contact haresh.patel@clearesult.com

Enbridge Gas Incentive Programs

Enbridge Gas offers a suite of programs to assist customers in lowering their natural gas consumption. Some of the key programs include:

- RunitRight: Experts identify opportunities for savings provided in a report. Enbridge will then provide incentives (up to $8,000) to implement the measures. After the visit, you are provided with a real time energy monitor for up to 12 months to track energy use and set thresholds for anomalies.

- Equipment Upgrades: Enbridge offers programs for upgrading natural gas consuming equipment such as boilers, showerheads, controls, heat recovery systems, demand control ventilation in kitchens etc. Applicants could receive 10 to 30 cents per cubic metre up to 50 per cent of the project costs, to a maximum of $100,000.

- Ozone Laundry: To support hotels, nursing homes and commercial laundry facilities, Enbridge offers funds to upgrade laundry systems with Ozone Laundry, a type of system that cleans with cold water, reducing demand on natural gas.

For support on your Enbridge gas applications, contact an energy solutions consultant at: energyservices@enbridge.com

Additional programs are offered for larger industrial operations. Contact Hydro One or Enbridge Gas to find out more.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Claire Hoy

Some things should be pretty easy.

Take the question of violent demonstrations. Surely whether you're left, right or smack in the middle, you can oppose violent demonstrators.

There now, we all agree. Or do we?

In principle, yes. In practice, absolutely not.

For years, there has been much ado about violent protesters if they are right-wing, e.g. white supremacists. Fair enough. Yet, when it comes to left-wing thuggery, particularly the "antifa" and Black Bloc, well, it's okay that they show up to support "democracy" and "human rights" wearing face masks and wielding clubs. After all, their hearts are in the right place.

Donald Trump, for example, instead of just condemning the white supremacists who despoiled the streets of Charlottesville — which he clearly did — also condemned the "antifa" thugs who were every bit a part of the riot.

Yet for daring to condemn both sides in this sordid event, Trump was widely labeled a Nazi, a modern day Hitler, among other things.

Closer to home, the federal Liberals have announced plans to clamp down on "right-wing violence." What about left-wing violence? Tsk. Tsk. Even asking clearly means you're a Nazi. Or worse.

A recent Toronto Star headline illustrates the point. Reporting on violence at a demonstration at McGill University in Montreal, the Star blared: "Violence at right wing protest." It was true, sort of. The problem was that the violence was committed by left-wing radicals, not the right, many of whom show up to these events, as accurately described by National Post columnist Rex Murphy, "clad in black from head to storm trooper toe, with their full arsenal of smoke bombs, brass knuckles, pipes, sticks and baseball bats, pepper spray and even shields (to pummel, not protect)."

They've been doing this for years. Witness every G-7 summit meeting you can think of, pretty well anywhere in the world, and these fascistic-anti-fascists are there, armed to the teeth, ready and willing to strike a blow for democracy. Or so they claim.

For the most part, they continue to get away with it, given a free pass by the media and politicians, who are so enamored of condemning right-wing lunatics — who, by the way, are not on the verge of taking over the U.S., no matter what the newspapers claim — that they ignore the increasingly violent lefties.

After the Charlottesville disgrace, a piece by Star columnist Emma Teitel was headlined: "Time to shame white supremacists." No quarrel with that. But what about the antifa and Black Bloc and their fellow travelers?

Why is right-wing violence evil, but left-wing violence is not only tolerated, but rarely even acknowledged?

Actress Jennifer Lawrence, writes Teitel, tweeted a photo of some white supremacist marchers saying, "These are the faces of hate. Look closely and post anyone you find. You can't hide with the internet you pathetic cowards."

Good idea. Problem is, it's difficult to post the "faces" of the intifa and black block because they tend to wear masks to hide their identity. But a mention by Lawrence of the left-wing haters would add credibility to her outrage.

But if she did that — as Trump discovered — she'd be deluged by social media and the mainstream media for daring to actually speak truth to power — as the left likes to say — and acknowledge that the problem of violent demonstrators is, if anything, more widespread on the left than it is on the right.

Look at the demonstration (again) at Berkeley, where the left-wing thugs showed up to protest a conservative group and managed to smash cameras and beat up reporters and, as Murphy again reports, "in one case threatened a man in a wheelchair, and in general stormed the streets like a wolf pack after a long hunger and a really bad hair day. Anti-fascism is hard thuggish work."

Yes, it is. But it seems to get rewarded with a free pass from the media and usually succeeds in blocking the free speech rights of anyone whom they have deemed unworthy of speaking.

All this, of course, in the name of free speech, civility and democracy.

Even new Tory Leader Andrew Scheer, sadly, has fallen victim to the tyranny of the violent minority and their enablers. Rather than defend the right of the Canadian Nationalist Party — which likely has at most a dozen members — to speak at the University of Toronto, which barred them after activists objected, Scheer said, "I respect the right for universities to determine which outside groups they give a platform to."

How about respecting the rights of any group, left or right, to say their piece, as long as they're not advocating criminality?

That would be brave. And something you'd hope a Conservative would favor. But Scheer, like the rest of them, doesn't have the guts.

Rotary Club of Palgrave's Weekly Rotary Minute

By D. Weeren

Rotary taught me how to cook.

You would never think that Rotary, in addition to fellowship, fun and helping organizations in the community, would be able to teach someone like me how to cook.

Up until last year, I led a very traditional life. My wife took care of everything inside the house and I took care of everything outside of the house. I went along happily in my life, not really knowing how to cook until I decided to volunteer on the Rotary Club of Palgrave Chuck Wagon. I'm proud to say that I have learned to cook from my fellow Rotarians at our events.

My specialties include burgers, pea-meal bacon on a bun with fried onions, and pancakes and sausages for the Terry Fox runners.

Suicide prevention walk will be Sunday

This coming Sunday (Sept. 10) is World Suicide Prevention Day.

The Caledon Suicide Prevention Working Group, made up of community agencies serving the Caledon area in an effort to reduce the number of suicides in the community, will be hosting a walk along the Caledon Trailway to raise awareness and work toward a common goal of preventing deaths by suicide.

The walk will run from 10 a.m. to noon, commencing at Innis Lake Road and going to Airport Road, returning back to Innis Lake Road. Following the walk, refreshments and cake will be served for all those who participate.

This year's theme is "take a minute, change a life."

The purpose of this event is to bring members of the community together in a social but informative setting to reduce the stigma surrounding mental health issues and work toward eliminating suicides and attempted suicides.

The Caledon Suicide Prevention Working Group focuses on creating awareness, promoting training opportunities, and establishing an up to date list of contact information for support services accessible to all residents within Caledon.

Visit www.caledon.ca/crisis for valuable information and resources available to Caledon residents in crisis.

CCS will help fight hunger Sept. 16

Young people will be at local grocery stores Sept. 16 collecting food donations.

Kelly Towsley, volunteer resource specialist with Caledon Community Services (CCS), reported the effort will be going on from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Garden Foods, Giant Tiger, Walmart and Zehrs in Bolton, along with Foodland in Caledon East. It will be part of the observances of Hunger Awareness Week, which runs from Sept. 18 to 22.

"In a country as affluent as Canada, hunger is unacceptable," Towsley stated. "Yet, more than 850,000 Canadians will visit a food pantry for assistance this month alone. Of those, 36 per cent are children or youth. We are working to change the statistics on hunger with Hunger Awareness Week."

"Here in Caledon, the rise in need is represented by those turning to us for support, with more individuals in our community coming to the Exchange Food Pantry for assistance," she added. "In our last fiscal year there were 3,221 food pantry visits."

She also stated that by working together, people can make a difference for the individuals in Caledon who turn to the food bank for support each month.

"By learning about hunger, we can all change the way we think about hunger and activate the changes needed to reduce it," she added.

Visit hungerawarenessweek.ca for more information or contact Kim D'Eri at kderi@ccs4u.org or 905-584-2300, ext. 202.

King resident wins new truck in Meals on Wheels draw

Bob Fines of Fines Ford Lincoln, Mayor Allan Thompson and Caledon Meals on Wheels Executive Director Christine Sevigny were on hand last Thursday to congratulate Richard Turchinetz on winning the Wheels for Meals Lottery.

By Bill Rea

King resident Richard Turchinetz is a very luck man, and he has a brand new set of wheels to prove it, along with two new bicycles and some pretty nifty camping gear.

Turchinetz, who lives on the 17th Sid-erod in the west end of the township, won the grand prize last Thursday in the Wheels for Meals Lottery, put on in support of Caledon Meals on Wheels (CMOW). The lucky ticket was drawn by Caledon Mayor Allan Thompson at the regular meeting of the Caledon Cruisers in the parking lot of the Canadian Tire store in Bolton.

“I can only make one person happy,” Thompson remarked as he got ready to draw the ticket.

The grand prize was a 2017 Ford F-150 pickup truck, which came from Fines Ford Lincoln in Bolton.

CMOW Executive Director Christine Sevigny said there were 5,094 tickets sold. There was a good crowd out for the draw, with tickets being sold right up to the last minute.

Sevigny estimated at least 100 tickets were sold the night of the draw.

Bob Fines of Fines Ford was on hand, praising CMOW for the service they provide the community.

“These folks at Meals on Wheels provide an amazing service,” he said, adding it’s not just the food they provide, but also the human contact.

He said that’s especially important in a large community like Caledon.

“It is a huge community,” he told Thompson. “Caledon is a very difficult place to manage.”

“For Caledon Meals on Wheels to provide this service is an amazing thing,” he added.

“I won!” Turchinetz shouted out when Thompson announced the name of the winner.

Turchinetz said he has never won anything on this scale before.

“It still hasn’t sunk in yet,” he commented as he sat himself in the driver’s seat of his new vehicle.

He bought his ticket at a Caledon Cruisers’ event earlier this year, and it was Sevigny herself who actually sold him his ticket.

He said he already has a seven-year-old pick-up truck, which he plans to give to his son.

“I keep the new one,” he said.

LHIN recruiting for advisory committee

As part of a commitment to placing the needs of patients first, the Central West Local Health Integration Network (LHIN) aims to engage and empower patients, families and caregivers in helping to shape their local health care system.

It is with this important objective in mind and in support of Ontario’s Patients First Act, the Central West LHIN is currently seeking passionate individuals and community advocates to voluntarily serve as members of its new Patient and Family Advisory Committee (PFAC).

Through the sharing of unique health care stories, opinions, perspectives and experiences, the voices of patients, family members and caregivers will help to inform, influence and, in some instances, co-design programs and services within their local health care system.

“Both residents and health care professionals alike place a high value on their health care system, and the need for it to be responsive to local communities,” Carmine Domanico, chair of the Central West LHIN Board of Directors, commented. “The Central West LHIN Patient and Family Advisory Committee will engage and empower the voices of patients, families and caregivers to help shape the planning and delivery of programs and services within their local health care system.”

Expected to meet monthly and committed to meeting no less than six times per year, the PFAC will include between 10 to 15 members who ideally represent the LHIN’s multicultural and geographic diversity. More specifically, the LHIN is seeking committee members who are committed to improving and enhancing the patient experience, and who share the following qualities and attributes:

- Have had recent-lived experience with the health care system as either a patient, family member or both;
- Lives within the Central West LHIN;
- Able to see beyond their own personal experience;
- Committed and passionate about enhancing the patient experience;
- Open-minded, solution-oriented with a positive attitude;
- Able to speak in a large group or in front of others.

For more information or to complete and submit an application, interested candidates should be directed to www.centralwestlhin.on.ca

Deadline for submissions is 4:30 p.m., Sept. 22.

SouthFields Village students are keen on environment

By Bill Rea

They start young when it comes to caring about the environment, and that is certainly the case with students at SouthFields Village Public School.

The Grade 2 French immersion class at the school recently won the Town’s Climate Change Video Contest.

“These children are truly inspiring,” Mayor Allan Thompson commented at the recent award presentation.

Katelyn McFadden, manager of energy and environment for the Town, commented there were nine submissions from various schools, and the one from SouthFields was recognized for its creativity and acknowledgement of current issues, promoting such things as green cleaning products at the school, car pooling, etc. She added it was inspiring to see the enthusiasm of the young people in the video.

Teacher Danielle Denreyer commented they were lucky to be in a town that puts so much emphasis on ecological awareness.

She also offered thanks to the parents of her students for getting the message about conserving energy and not idling their vehicles.

As well, she had praise for her students. “Ideas are certainly what they brought to the table,” she remarked.

Several of the students spoke on what they thought was important about the environment, and the message about not idling was a prominent item for many of them.

There were other issues they wanted to promote, such as picking up garbage around the neighbourhood, recycling, telling people to stop littering, etc.

“ Why do I hear but not understand? ”

If you struggle to understand, you’re not alone, in fact 47% of Canadians over the age of 60 have hearing loss. Your hearing difficulties could be caused by damaged hearing hair cells inside your inner ear (cochlea). When damage occurs in the high-frequency areas of the cochlea (where consonants are heard), speech may sound garbled and comprehension may become difficult. The right hearing aid could help you improve your comprehension.

Canadian Show Jumping Team takes fourth in Spanish Nations’ Cup

The Canadian Show Jumping Team comprised of Caledon resident Yann Candele, along with Kara Chad, Jaclyn Duff and Chris Pratt, finished fourth in the Nations’ Cup of CSIO5* in Gijon, Spain, Saturday.

A total of nine countries were represented in the FEI Nations’ Cup, presented by Banco Sabadell.

Course designer Avelino Rodriguez Miravalles set a testing, yet fair track in the historic grass arena that would see four double clear performances as the day progressed.

Pratt, 48, got the competition off to a strong start for Canada by delivering a faultless opening round riding Concorde, a 10-year-old chestnut Dutch warmblood gelding owned by The Epic Group LLC. Based in Valencia, California, Pratt’s last Nations’ Cup performance was also in Spain, when he was a member of Canada’s fourth-placed team in Barcelona in 2011.

Duff, 30, of Edmonton, was next in for Canada, riding EH All or None, an 11-year-old bay Hanoverian gelding owned by Windermere Stables Limited. The pair has benefitted from being based in Europe with 2008 Canadian Olympic Champion Eric Lamaze this season, and produced a clear jumping effort only to stop the clock in 78.10 seconds, exceeding the time allowed of 78 seconds for a single time fault.

Chad, 21, of Calgary, and Bellinda, the travelling alternates for the 2016 Rio Olympic Games, rode third in the rotation for Canada. Chad and the 11-year-old bay Dutch warmblood mare owned by Stone Ridge Farms Ltd. produced a beautiful clear effort to add nothing to Canada’s first round score and reduce the pressure on anchor rider, Candele.

Candele, 46, provided the drop score for Canada. Things started to unravel when the white gate at fence eight came down, and another four rails before they were through the timers resulted in 20 faults for Candele and Chaventy-no, an 11-year-old chestnut Oldenburg gelding owned by Legacy Stables LLC.

Counting Duff’s one time fault, Canada was sitting in second place at the end of the opening round behind France, who had maintained a clear scorecard. The Netherlands, Mexico and the home side of Spain were tied in third position heading into round two. Great Britain and Ireland trailed on 12 faults apiece, followed by Germany with 16. Egypt, who posted a first-round total of 18 faults, failed to be among the top eight teams to qualify for the second round.

Canada’s fortunes changed in the second round when Duff was eliminated following refusals at the double combination and again at the ‘b’ element of the triple combination.

Pratt picked up four faults at number three, an unusual oxer filled with brush, while Chad had eight faults after rails fell at the white gate at number eight as well as the penultimate fence. Candele had the comeback of the day, jumping clear with Chaventy-no, but Canada was still one fault shy of a podium finish. With one fault in the first round and 12 in the second, Canada ended its Nations’ Cup bid in fourth place with a two-round total of 13 faults.

France, the reigning Olympic champions, claimed victory with four faults, helped by a double-clear effort from anchor rider Nicolas Delmotte riding Ilex VP.

The Netherlands, who currently hold the World Championship title, finished second with eight faults while the newly-crowned European Champions from Ireland edged ahead of Canada to take third with 12 faults.

“The first round was spectacular with impressive performances from Chris, Jaclyn and Kara,” said Karen Hendry-Ouellette, acting as chef d’équipe of the Canadian Show Jumping Team. “Going into the second round we were in a fantastic position. Everyone’s hopes were high after the first round, but we knew we couldn’t take it for granted and it wouldn’t be a walk in the park. We needed to go out and produce the same way we had in the first round. Unfortunately, even with Yann delivering a brilliant clutch ride, we missed the podium by one fault.”

“Overall, the team camaraderie was fantastic, with everyone working together and supporting each other,” he added.

Canada’s next Nations’ Cup appearance will be on home soil in the $400,000 BMO Nations’ Cup this Saturday at the CSIO5* Spruce Meadows Masters tournament in Calgary.

Mario Deslauriers, Eric Lamaze of Schomberg, Ian Millar and Kean White will ride for the maple leaf in the Nations’ Cup event, which will enjoy same-day broadcast on CBC television from 4 to 6 p.m.

Bolton Kinsmen organize 37th annual Bolton Terry Fox Run

The 37th annual Terry Fox Run will once again be held in Bolton Sept. 17.

The Kinsmen Club of Bolton has been busy getting everything in order for another successful Run. Close to 100 runners, raising $10,000, participated in last year’s event and the goal for this year is to match and improve last year’s efforts.

The meeting place for all participants will be at the Bolton Kinsmen Centre at 35 Chapel St. (opposite the former Baffo’s restaurant) and after a brief ceremony, the Run will officially start at 9 a.m. This year, a one-kilometre run route along the Humber River will be set up. After the runners finish their run, hamburgers, hot dogs and pop will be served. Check out www.terryfox.org for pledge forms or contact John Stegeman or Dean Haig at boltonkin@gmail.com for more information, or if you would like to purchase a Terry Fox T-shirt before the run.

The Terry Fox Foundation’s mission is to maintain the vision and principles of Terry Fox while raising money for innovative cancer research through the annual Terry Fox Run.

In 1980, Terry Fox was a young man with cancer who wanted to make a contribution to the fight against the disease. One year later, Terry had touched the collective heart of all Canadians and today is one of the country’s heroes.

Terry’s Marathon of Hope was the start of a dream that eventually evolved a successful partnership between The Terry Fox Foundation and the National Cancer Institute of Canada.

Be at the Bolton Kinsmen Centre Sept. 17 to help keep Terry’s Dream alive.

Caledon resident Yann Candele guided Chaventy-no over this jump in the Nations’ Cup of CSIO5* in Spain Saturday.

Junior B Northmen retain Founder’s Cup for Orangeville

By Mike Pickford

The Orangeville Jr. B Northmen saved their best lacrosse for just the right time this year, winning six straight at the recent Founders Cup tournament in Saskatchewan to bring home a remarkable second successive national championship.

After what was described at the time as an “almost euphoric” feeling in claiming the Founders Cup on home turf a little more than 12 months ago, the boys traveled west hoping to do it all again. In typical Northmen fashion, they did not disappoint.

It was definitely shades of a bygone era at the Gordie Howe Kinsmen Arena in Saskatoon as the Northmen completely blew their competition away, putting up 77 goals against the absolute best junior B outfits the country has to offer. Reflecting on the big win upon his return home to Orangeville, Northmen Head Coach Bruce Codd admitted it was a “special feeling” repeating as Founders Cup champions.

“This is just a phenomenal achievement,” Codd said. “Last year was pretty cool to do it at home in front of all of our fans, but the big thing about last year was that we knew no matter what, that we’d be in the tournament right from day one because we were the host team. This year, we had to scrape and claw throughout the whole year to punch our ticket and be able to go back and defend our trophy.”

Not that you would know it looking at the team’s results. They posted a 17-3 regular season record, but the Northmen didn’t have the greatest of starts to the season, according to Codd. While they managed to string together a good run of victories in May, it wasn’t until the playoffs that the Northmen really found their stride. Saving their best for last, Codd believes his team was at its absolute best in Saskatoon.

The team kicked off its second straight nationals appearance with an emphatic 12-6 victory over the Red Deer Rampage Aug. 15. They followed that up with a hard fought 12-8 victory over the Manitoba Blizzard the next day.

Heading into the third day, the Northmen sat atop the standings alongside their American counterparts the Seneca WarChiefs with each team recording two wins from two. What many believed would be one of the most competitive match ups in the entire tournament turned into a one-way blowout as the Northmen put the WarChiefs to the sword with a 9-1 finish.

“That game against Seneca was interesting because we were both 2-0 and we both looked really impressive I felt across our first two games,” Codd said. “Seneca decided to take the approach to rest some of their guys for that game and it really ended up hurting them. They lost to us convincingly and then lost to Red Deer the next day, which essentially put them out.”

With momentum on their side, the Northmen cruised to victories over the Saskatchewan SWAT and Coquitlam Adanacs in games four and five, putting up 26 goals in the process. The tournament’s finale was set for Aug. 20 and a rematch with the Red Deer Rampage beckoned. While overconfidence could have been a factor, considering the relative ease in which the Northmen dispatched of the Rampage in the competition’s opening game, there was absolutely no doubting the final result half way through the game.

“I think the championship game against the Rampage might have been our best game all year, it was near perfection,” Codd said. “We were good in almost all aspects of the game. Our defence was solid, we didn’t give up a whole lot in good quality looks and we were very effective ourselves in the transition. Our power play went three for four, we were good when playing a man short . . . You factor in all of those things and it makes for a pretty dominant game.”

The final result was 18-7 in favour of the Northmen.

While the coach was keen to recognize the efforts of his entire 23-man squad, he did reserve special praise for three individuals he thought really stepped up on the grandest stage in junior B lacrosse.

“Kyle Waters was great for us in that final game,” the coach said. “He scored four goals, three of them back-to-back-to-back in that second period to really seal the game for us. Nick Farrus is another. Nick has been great for us all year long, he has this knack of finding big goals when we need them and he was there for us once again in Saskatoon. He led the entire tournament in scoring with 24 goals. It was a big performance from him.”

Despite the stellar performances of Waters and Farrus, it was very much business as usual when tournament organizers had to determine which member of the Northmen squad would have the distinction of becoming the 2017 Founders Cup MVP. The choice, according to Codd, was more than likely unanimous.

“Mike Sutton was named MVP and rightfully so,” he observed. “He had so many unbelievable performances. Quite often you’ll see that level of play out of your 21-year-olds, the guys in their last year who step it up because they know it’s their last kick of the can so to speak. He stepped it up and then some — he was good in every single game and scored some really nice goals to help us on our way.”

Sutton finished the tournament with 12 goals and 35 assists across six games, good enough for 47 points and the Founders Cup scoring leader title. He finished one point ahead of his fellow sniper Nick Farrus.

And so with another one in the bag, the challenge now for the junior B Northmen coaching staff will be putting together a team capable of challenging for an unprecedented “three-peat.” With six senior players graduating from the team this year, that will be no mean feat for Codd and the rest of his staff.

“That’s the thing about junior lacrosse,” he observed. “You have to be mindful about the fact that you only have these guys for a certain period of time . . . I guess for right now, we’ll celebrate the fact that we are two-time champs, but we know we

Volunteers needed

Caledon Equestrian School hosts program for special needs riders

The Pegasus Program, run by Caledon Equestrian School (CES) is an equestrian program for children and adults with special needs, both physical and developmental.

The program provides therapy for the students, as well as a form of recreation. Not only are the students getting therapy from the horse’s movement, but the bond that is formed between the horse and rider is immeasurable.

The program is volunteer based and its survival depends on committed volunteers. Each rider needs up to three helpers — a leader and two sidewalkers, so the need for volunteers is enormous. A commitment to the whole session is important, as the continuity in the relationship with their helpers is essential for the kids.

Horse experience is not necessary. Training is provided by the CES staff. Volunteers learn to lead and how to side-can’t rest on our laurels. There will be big changes next season and we’re going to have to start working soon to plug the gaps we’re going to have on our roster.”

Most of those, Codd said, will likely come from the “phenomenal” minor system in place in Orangeville. Long considered one of Canada’s bedrock communities for lacrosse, Codd is hoping the success of the town’s junior B outfit will inspire local kids to pick up their sticks and get involved in the country’s national sport.

“This is a big deal for Orangeville,” he said. “It gives local kids something to aspire to. I know when I was younger and growing up, we always looked up to the Northmen teams that had success. I grew up right around the time the junior B team first recorded back to back championships in 1989 and 1990 and it was huge. The interest that generated for the sport was incredible.”

“I just hope we’re able to continue the tradition and inspire today’s generation, because without that steady flow of skilled players coming through our system, there wouldn’t be success for the Northmen organization,” he concluded. “For us, it’s all about keeping up the tradition and culture of winning in our town.”
