Library in partnership to help students volunteer

By Bill Rea

Caledon Public Library, along with Volunteer MBC and Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School, have joined to help local youths find opportunities to volunteer.

The program, which was launched yesterday (Wednesday) at the Caledon East branch of the public Library (housed at Robert F. Hall), will see Shan Abbasi, volunteer coordinator Volunteer MBC, there the second and fourth Friday of every month, from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. he will be talking to students about volunteer opportunities in the community.

Several dignitaries, including Mayor Allan Thompson, were on hand for the launch.

Tom Wisnicki, principal at Robert F. Hall, observed students are required to put in volunteer hours in order to graduate. But he also told the students on hand for the launch that they should keep it up later in life, as it enriches lives.

He said Caledon is a community that has a lot of volunteers offering support for various activities, and those supports are recognized, more than is the case in an urban area.

"I can tell you that you're not going to get the Mayor of Toronto to come out to your local high school for an event like this," he said.

Caledon Public Library CEO and Chief Librarian Colleen Lipp said she was happy the library is partnering with the school and Volunteer MBC.

She said the role of the Library is to build and enhance connections, adding there are a number of ways to do it. "Creating connections is one of the most important things we do," she declared. "I hope you will take full advantage of the connection opportunities that are provided here."

Volunteer MBC Executive Director Carine Strong expressed her thanks to the school and Library, as well as Thompson.

"They have been absolutely wonderful to work with," she declared.

Strong reflected that it's not always easy for people to connect with organizations to which they would like to contribute. She said Abbasi will be available to help find ways for them to contribute in ways they will feel passionate about.

"There are many, many different ways that you can give back," she remarked.

Celebrate 150 years at Cheltenham United Church

Next Sunday (Oct. 15) is going to be a special day at Cheltenham United Church, as the congregation marks its 150th anniversary.

Founded the same year that Canada was founded, the idea of the church started the previous December, with a meeting at the home of John Lyons to discuss the building of a Presbyterian Church, according to information supplied by the Church.

Those at the meeting decided to start a subscription list as a way to raise funds for a building. For a location, they chose a site at the top of the hill at the south end of the village, on a half acre that had been donated by a Mr. Campbell.

Plans were made in January 1867 to hire an architect. The contracting job went to Ebenezer Haines and Son, who owned a saw mill in Cheltenham.

By the fall of that year, the new church was completed. It was a one-room, single storey building with the entrance next to the road with a porch over the door. It was approximately 30 feet wide and 40 to 50 feet long, heated by a huge box stove with a row of stove-pipes up each side. Coal oil lamps provided light. Straight-backed seats were arranged with two aisles. Much of the labour was voluntary and the entire cost of building the church was $735.

The first morning service at the new church was Nov. 3, 1867, presided over by Rev. Dr. R. Burns, professor at Knox College in Toronto.

The establishment of the church was a major event for the people of Cheltenham. Many had recently settled in the area. They included a lot of Scotch Presbyterians and Irish Protestants. An outstanding trait of these pioneers was their love of a church and reverence for God's House.

By January 1907, it was realized by the congregation that the building was not up to their needs, so they decided a new one had to be constructed.

The building committee consisted of W. J. Cation, Alex Campbell, John Wilkinson, J. W. South, W. W. Wilkinson, James Lyons Jr., George Caldwell, Jas Lyons, James Hall, Thomas Lyons and William McKechnie, and work began in the early summer. The old church was taken down as the new one was being built. This new building stands on the same lot as the old one but a few feet to the north. A corner stone was laid July 30, 1907 at a ceremony conducted by Rev. Dr. E.D. McLaren.

The building was designed by architect John M. Lyle of Toronto with contractors Jarrett and Sons of Alliston. The total cost of building the church, including the furnishings and decorating, was $8,342.

The new church was officially opened Jan. 30, 1908 by Rev. G. Crawford Brown. During the construction, the congregation had worshipped in the Baptist Church on the north hill, being kindly invited to do so by the Baptist Congregation.

In 1925, Cheltenham Presbyterian Church, without a vote being taken, passed into the United Church of Canada and has remained ever since.

A number of ministers and congregation members have passed through over the years, and families of the original founders still attend.

The 150th anniversary will be marked by the special commemorative service next Sunday, starting at 10 a.m.

The current minister is Heather Stevenson who is completing her ministry internship at the church. In fact, she grew up in the area and is quite at home at Cheltenham.

Jones impressed with new NDP Leader

By Bill Rea

Jagmeet Singh is the new leader of the New Democratic Party of Canada, and there are hopes he will do well, including from some of his fellow MPPs.

The Bramalea-Gore-Malton MPP was elected party leader over the weekend.

"I wish him well," Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones commented earlier this week, observing the party seems to have been struggling since the death of former leader Jack Layton in 2011. "I think he'll be an exciting leader."

Jones said she has worked with Singh in committee at Queen's Park, and she thinks he'll breathe life into the federal party.

She also said he's a "very effective orator."

Fire Prevention Week is a good time to prepare

You and your family are fast asleep when the smoke alarm sounds. Do you know what to do?

Fire Prevention Week is Oct. 8 to 14, and it's the perfect time for Caledon Fire and Emergency Services to remind all households to develop a home escape plan together and practise it. A plan includes working smoke alarms on every level of the home, in every bedroom and near all sleeping areas. It also includes two ways out of every room, usually a door and a window, with a clear path to an outside meeting place (like a tree, light pole, or mailbox) — a safe distance from the home.

"In a typical home fire, you may have as little as a few minutes to escape safely from the time the smoke alarm sounds," Fire Chief Darryl Bailey observed. "That's why home escape planning is so critical in a fire situation. It ensures that everyone in the household knows how to use that small window of time wisely. This pre-planning is what everyone will draw upon to snap into action and escape as quickly as possible in the event of a fire."

Home escape planning is one of the most basic, but fundamental, elements of home fire safety and can make the difference between life and death in a fire.

Consider these additional tips and recommendations for developing and practising a home escape plan:

- Draw a map of your home with all members of your household, marking two exits from each room and a path to the outside from each exit.
- Practise your home fire drill twice a year. Conduct one at night and one during the day with everyone in your home, and practise using different ways out.
- Teach children how to escape on their own in case you can't help them.
- Make sure the number of your home is clearly marked and easy for the fire department to find.
- Close doors behind you as you leave — this may slow the spread of smoke, heat and fire.
- Once you get outside, stay outside.

"Where's Sparky?" contest

To keep fire safety top of mind, Caledon Fire and Emergency Services will be hosting a number of open houses at various fire stations, along with an online contest — "Where's Sparky?" — during Fire Prevention Week. "Where's Sparky?" will test Caledon residents to correctly name Sparky's location and be entered in a draw to win prizes.

For more information about Fire Prevention Week activities in Caledon and the "Where's Sparky" contest, visit www.caledon/fire

Open Houses

Open houses are scheduled for October to recognize Fire Prevention Week. Residents are invited to attend and enjoy a complimentary pancake breakfast while learning more about general fire safety, making a home escape plan and house trailer safety.

They will be Oct. 7 from 8 a.m. to noon at the Bolton station at 28 Ann St.; Oct. 8 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Valleywood station at 2 Snelcrest Dr.; Oct. 14 from 7 to 11 a.m. at the Alton station at 19630 Main St.; and Oct. 15 from 9 a.m. to noon at the Palgrave station at 17177 Regional Road 50.

Man charged at spot check

A Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere (RIDE) spot check on Emil Kolb Parkway Sept. 16 resulted in a 43-year-old Bolton man being charged.

Caledon OPP reports a 2007 Chevrolet Equinox was stopped at about 9:40 p.m. at the spot check near the intersection with Duffy's Lane. An officer detected the smell of alcohol on the driver's breath. A test was conducted and the driver failed, so he was arrested.

The man was charged with driving with more than the legal limit of alcohol in his system and driving while suspended.

Overcrowding at Brampton Civic getting worse, NDP maintain

Ontario New Democratic Party Leader Andrea Horwath released new information recently that shows chronic overcrowding at Brampton Civic Hospital has only gotten worse in 2017, with occupancy rates in acute care stuck at more than 100 per cent and reaching as high as 109 per cent.

Horwath said it's time for a government that's focused on improving the health care Ontario families are getting — not one that cuts it.

"Too many Bramptonians know first hand that the day Brampton Civic Hospital opened, it was already overcrowded," Horwath said. "Can you imagine if it was your child in the waiting room for hours, or your mom laying in a hallway because there are no rooms left?"

"Kathleen Wynne has turned her back on patients and the front line healthcare workers that treat them," she added. "The cuts have gone too far, in Brampton and across the province."

Horwath released numbers her office obtained through Freedom of Information requests that show Brampton Civic Hospital's Acute Care and Mental Health beds operated above safe capacity throughout 2017.

"These aren't just numbers," she maintained. "These are Ontarians left waiting in pain on stretchers in hallways, with no privacy and sometimes, not even any food."

"Hallway medicine and long wait times are potentially dangerous, they're painful and they're stripping Ontarians of their dignity," she added.

Horwath was joined by Sunanda Dhanna who was a patient at Brampton Civic Hospital recently and who described her experience and frustration with how she was treated.

"I spent two and a half days on a stretcher in various hallways at Brampton Civic," said Dhanna, a registered nurse practising at Trillium Health partners. "I was shuffled from hallway to hallway, once at one o'clock in the morning. I had no privacy, I couldn't sleep because the hallways are so loud and busy, and I didn't even get a meal for the first day and a half. What is happening to our hospitals is unacceptable — something has to be done."

The Ontario Hospital Association said recently that hospitals were careening toward crisis this winter, and called on the Wynne Liberals to provide immediate emergency funding for hospitals.

While Wynne and the Liberals have forced years of cuts and freezes on hospitals, including a $300 million shortfall this year, Patrick Brown's Progressive Conservative predecessor started the downward spiral. The last Conservative government fired 6,000 nurses, closed 28 hospitals and slashed more than 7,000 hospital beds.

Health care is a priority for Horwath. She said she's committed to properly funding Ontario hospitals at a rate that, at minimum, keeps up with inflation, population growth and the unique health needs of the communities. Horwath has demanded that the layoffs of nurses and frontline care providers stop, and has introduced a plan to create Ontario's first universal prescription drug program. Providing drug coverage for everyone — regardless of age, income or health history — can improve health outcomes, and reduce pressure on hospitals and emergency services.

Reconstruction coming on Humber Station Road

Reconstruction on Humber Station Road will take place between Castleberg Sideroad and King Street over the coming weeks.

The Town of Caledon has reported the work will include embankment stabilization for an approximate length of 150 metres. The construction work will be 850 metres south of Castleberg.

Humber Station will be closed to through traffic for the duration of the project. Local access will be maintained. The road closure for this work will be effective as of Oct. 10 with an anticipated completion date of Nov. 27.

All questions regarding this project can be directed to the Town of Caledon Finance and Infrastructure Services at 905-584-2272, ext. 4328.

We believe everyone over the age of 60 should get a FREE baseline hearing test. You can join us by simply booking YOUR test today and encouraging your friends to join you. It takes less than 60 minutes, you don't need a doctor's referral, and there's no cost or obligation whatsoever!

This year we're donating $4.00 for every test with the goal of providing FREE hearing aids to those who can't afford them – So book your test, bring your friends, and together, we can make a difference!

WHY

Our hearing health is closely connected to our brain's health. Since hearing loss becomes so prevalent as we age, we feel that the links between hearing loss and depression, mental fatigue, reduced cognitive capacity, even dementia highlighted in recent studies* are a big deal.

Early detection may not prevent hearing loss, but it could help reduce some of its effects. We believe that together, we can make a difference!

HOW

You can join the campaign by taking 2 easy steps:

- 1 Make an appointment to get your hearing tested.
- 2 Encourage your friends to get their hearing tested too.

Feds provide $99,000 for Peel art gallery and museum

Region of Peel families from Caledon, Brampton and Mississauga will benefit from improved community spaces for better accessibility to arts and heritage.

That will result from $99,000 from the federal government for a much needed retrofit to two of the main elevators at the Peel Art Gallery, Museum and Archives (PAMA).

The funding was announced recently by Brampton South MP Sonia Sidhu on behalf of Innovation, Science and Economic Development Minister Navdeep Bains, minister responsible for the Federal Economic Development Agency for Southern Ontario (FedDev Ontario).

This investment is being allocated under the Canada 150 Community Infrastructure Program, a $300-million fund that was established to celebrate Canada's 150th birthday through investments in the community spaces that bring Canadians together. Of that amount, FedDev Ontario is delivering funding of up to $88.8 million across southern Ontario.

"This investment is a community-building project to celebrate Canada's 150th anniversary," Bains said. "And there's no better way to mark this milestone than to celebrate the places that bring us together — the places that allow us to stay fit, unwind and connect with our friends and neighbours."

"That's how we establish the bonds of common understanding and friendship in a country where people come from every corner of the world," Bains added. "The values of openness, diversity and inclusion that define all Canadians are forged in our community spaces."

PAMA officials hope the funding will make the facility's arts and heritage spaces more accessible.

"PAMA's historic Court House and historic Jail opened in 1867, and celebrate their 150th anniversary in 2017," PAMA Manager Marty Brent observed. "This year, our Canada 150 celebrations included a range of exhibits, events, workshops and programs, collaboratively developed with community partners, which celebrate our community's history and diversity. Inclusivity is our central theme, characterizing Canada today. The elevator project ensures accessibility to all PAMA spaces."

CONTRIBUTOR TO CHRISTMAS WRITING

Bolton writer Maureen Kowal has made a contribution to a new book, entitled Christmas with Hot Apple Cider. The book, published by N.J. Lindquist and Les Lindquist of That's Life Communications, is a collection of many heart-warming and humorous Christmas stories and poems, both fiction and non fiction, written by Canadian Christian writers. Her contribution is a poem entitled A Christmas Prayer. She said she composed it in August, and it reflected a memory of her sitting on her grandfather's knee. "I really loved my Grandpa," she said. Christmas with Hot Apple Cider is available at Forsters Book Garden in Bolton. Donna Kamiel-Forster is seen here with Kowal.

Municipal Class Environmental Assessment for the Columbia Way Stormwater Management Facility Retrofit

THE STUDY:

The Town of Caledon has initiated a Schedule 'B' Class Environmental Assessment Study for the retrofit of the Columbia Way Stormwater Management Facility. The Columbia Way Stormwater Management Facility is located south of Columbia Way, between Taylorwood Avenue and St. Michael's Crescent in Bolton, on a tributary of the Humber River. The facility currently functions as a dry pond with no permanent pool, retaining water only during storm events and providing little to no water quality benefit. It currently controls runoff from the adjacent residential developments as well as agricultural lands north of Columbia Way. The Town of Caledon and Toronto and Region Conservation Authority have noted that the facility has exceeded its sediment retention capacity and has significant potential for improvement.

The Study is being undertaken to investigate feasible alternatives for the retrofit of the Columbia Way Stormwater Management Facility such that an "enhanced" level of water quality protection is provided, in addition to restoring its water quantity control effectiveness.

THE PROCESS:

The Study will be conducted in accordance with the planning and design process for Schedule 'B' projects as outlined in the Municipal Engineers Association "Municipal Class Environmental Assessment", (October 2000, as amended in 2015), as approved under the Ontario Environmental Assessment Act. The Class EA process includes public/external agency consultation, an evaluation of alternative solutions, an assessment of potential impacts associated with the proposed improvements, and the development of mitigation measures to identified potential impacts.

WE WANT TO HEAR FROM YOU:

Public Participation will form an integral part of the Class EA Study to ensure that the ongoing concerns of the public and affected groups within the study area are identified, documented and assessed. The Project Team invites public input and comments, and will incorporate them into the planning and design of this project.

If you are unable to attend the public meeting and would like to provide any comments on the study, or for any further information on the study, please contact the study leaders below:

PUBLIC NOTICE Proposed Parking Program

As Caledon grows, residential developments are becoming more compact, with homes positioned closer to the street and to each other. ## Fun times at Honey Garlic Festival

There were plenty of interesting things to see and do Saturday at the Honey Garlic Festival, held at Albion Hills Community Farm. Lots of fresh farm produce was available, and there were also some goodies prepared by hospitality students from Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School, like Emily Calabrese, Isabel Abela-Martins and Emma Hunter.

Animals are a fun part of any farm, and Carey Edeburn, 15 months, of Caledon East didn't know what to make of this miniature horse, named Sunflower Elliemae.

Contract awarded for work on Mayfield Road

By Bill Rea

R.V. Anderson Associates Limited will be getting the job for some of the work involved in proposed construction on Mayfield Road.

Peel Regional council recently accepted the staff recommendation in favour of the company.

The contract calls for detailed design, contract administration, construction inspection and supervision services. The company will be getting roughly $2.8 million, not including taxes.

The project will involve the stretch of Mayfield from Chinguacousy to Mississauga Roads. The proposed improvements call for widening the east-bound component from one to three lanes and the westbound from one to two lanes, as well as turning lanes at Chinguacousy, Creditview and Mississauga Roads. There are also provisions for a three-metre multi-use trail on the south side of the road and a paved shoulder on the north. As well, there are to be improvements in dealing with storm water.

There were four companies bidding on the project, and the Anderson bid was the highest; more than $260,000 more than the second highest. But Regional staff reported they were well ahead when it came to the technical evaluation of the bid (understanding of the project, methodology, experience, scheduling, etc.) Staff also pointed out there were value-added features in the anderson proposal that would lead to cost savings on the order of $610,000.

Challenges posed by fake news

There was a day when the only “fake news” we encountered was April 1.

That has all changed with the arrival of U.S. President Donald Trump’s daily tweets and his frequent references to the “fake news media.”

Well, as the old saying goes, it takes one to know one.

After all, when it comes to fake news, who could outdo Trump’s declaration that five million votes in the 2016 presidential election were cast illegally, or his assertion that he had proof that while in office former president Barack Obama had ordered Trump’s phones wiretapped?

We’ll probably never know the extent to which fake news played a role in Trump’s electoral college victory. (Note we refer to it that way because in reality challenger Hillary Clinton polled three million more votes, following in Al Gore’s footsteps as a candidate who lost the election despite winning the popular vote.)

It’s likely no coincidence that the issue of fake news has arisen in the age of the Internet and the related emergence of social media.

As we see it, one of the most important steps taken by Robert Mueller, the special counsel investigating Russia’s involvement in the 2016 U.S. election, has been his request that Facebook provide information on the purchase of advertising space by Russian agencies in the months leading up to the election.

Is it possible that those purchases led to the publication not only of anti-Clinton ads but also anti-Clinton fake news? And could it be that those publications zeroed in on key “swing states” that could give Trump the presidency?

One example we’ve heard of is an unfounded report that Clinton got rich by tapping into the Clinton Foundation, a charity established after her husband left office.

No one knows whether the Russian meddling actually produced the surprise Trump victory, and today Clinton thinks the killer punch was delivered by former FBI director James Comey when he announced a fresh investigation into her use of a private email server while she was secretary of state.

But one thing we don’t think has been disclosed is just how it came to be that the email probe was renewed on the eve of the election, with the follow-up announcement that nothing new had been found coming too late to affect the vote. Is it just possible that Comey or some other senior FBI official was the victim of a fake news tip?

Probably the saddest aspect of the current controversy is that it comes at a time when daily newspapers are suffering huge losses of advertising to the Internet and a variety of other competitors. Dailies like the Toronto Star, which once ran full sections of classified advertising and food ads, today have virtually none of either and find themselves having to rely on a few retailers who refuse to join the trend to the Web, flyers, billboards and TV commercials.

This huge loss of revenue, combined with declining readership, has forced even the best North American dailies to reduce their editorial staffs and in many cases abandon the costly exercise of investigative reporting.

In such circumstances, it’s surely distressing to see the president of the United States accuse the “mainstream media,” and the New York Times and Washington Post in particular, of being sources of fake news.

The reality is that those two newspapers and other news sources such as CNN and the Associated Press are getting “leaks” from whistle-blowers in the White House and Congress and hopefully doing their best to confirm the authenticity of those disclosures (no small task even at the best of times).

All things considered, our advice is to practise skepticism concerning anything you see on the Internet that cannot be confirmed by a reasonably reliable source.

Am I still a Trekker?

I admit I used to be a Trekker, but I have lapsed over the years.

The original Star Trek series was on the air in the mid-60s, and I would watch it whenever my parents weren’t around to object.

Alas, the show only lasted three seasons, and during the third year, it came on at 10 Friday nights. Staying up that late, even on a Friday night, was something my folks tended to raise a fuss about.

But not to worry. Right after it went out of production, Star Trek went into syndication, meaning it would be on every afternoon, just about the time I got home from school. I remember reading in TV Guide one weekend that it was on the tube after school, so I rushed home that Monday, determined not to miss it. And they were showing episodes from the first season, and the offering that particular Monday was one of my favourites from the whole series; The Squire of Gothos (you Trekkers out there will know what I’m referring to). I was a very happy little kid that day.

Needless to say, I watched it everyday, so it wasn’t too long before I could say I had seen all 78 episodes, and not too long after that, I was able to say I had seen them all multiple times.

I kept watching them all through high school, and even when I lived in residence while in university. There would be bunch of us who would gather when it was on; usually late at night, by this point.

In time, the motion pictures started coming out, although I will admit my interest was starting to decrease a bit. When I was away at school, money was a little on the tight side for me, and I didn’t have a car. Going to the movies usually meant a two-mile walk, so my exposure to the cinema in those days consisted of attending campus showings of old movies. Not that I’m complaining. The guy who ran the campus theatre (his name was Jack) was very good at getting an eclectic mix of classics and trash. I saw Doctor Zhivago for the first of many times on campus, and Deep Throat for the first and last time. What a piece of garbage that was!

The point is between trying to make ends meet during my first experience living on my own and working during the summers when I was home, I didn’t see the first Star Trek movie in the theatre. I had to wait several years until it came on TV.

By this point, a couple of the sequels had already gone through the theatres. They were okay, but nothing really that great, and certainly not living up to the hype that had accompanied them. And when I finally saw the first one, I thought it was the weakest of the bunch.

But then they started coming out with new versions of the Star Trek saga on TV.

I watched the first couple of episodes of the Next Generation with more curiosity than enthusiasm, then sort of abandoned the whole thing for most of the first season.

But come the second season, I started watching it again, and was enjoying what I was seeing. I guess maybe it took about a year to get the bugs out of the stories, and correct some of the mistakes they made in the original series.

The special effects were better, in keeping with the fact that things had had 20 years to progress during their development. But they complimented the story being told, rather than overpower it.

Moreover, the original series, particularly late in the run, had hardened into a format where the ship had Captain Kirk and Mr. Spock, with Dr. McCoy around to deliver the odd smart remark. Most of the rest of the ship’s company were made up of a bunch of one-line wonders.

The Next Generation had a large cast, and they made use of it. As well, Captain Picard used his common sense the way Captain Kirk used his libido. True, wondering if he’s going to get the girl can be a way to tell a story, but not if you want multi-dimensional offerings week after week.

I was editing newspapers by this point, but the Next Generation was on late Saturday afternoons, so I tried to make sure I was home to watch it. In time, I got a VCR, so it didn’t matter whether I was home or not.

Then they brought in Deep Space Nine, starting while the Next Generation was still in production.

I fear that killed the proverbial Golden Goose, as I realized I was being forced to OD on Star Trek. My interest fell off, and it never really came back.

In time, I married, and my wife used to watch Voyager, and later Enterprise. I watched a couple of episodes of both with her, and tried to get interested, but I just couldn’t.

I think the notion of Star Trek had slipped away from me.

Now we come to Discovery, which just started in the last couple of weeks. I have seen the first couple of episodes, and I have to tell you I am not too impressed. My main problem is the issue I alluded to a bit a couple of paragraphs ago. The show has some pretty impressive special effects, and the producers are letting them, at least in the early going, get in the way of telling good stories.

There were some decent special effects on the original series, with people dematerializing and materializing on the transporter, or getting zapped with a phaser. But they didn’t get in the way, so each episode was allowed to stand, more or less, on the story being told, and how well it was told.

I realize it is still early days for the new series, so I should be willing to see what develops a little down the road. I’ll watch more of it if I have time. Right now, about the only series I make time for is Designated Survivor, and I’m only able to make time for that because Beth PVR’s it for me.

But I’ll try.

In the 1920s, the British government embarked on a program to facilitate the movement of people and goods by air.

They were also anxious to compete with the Germans and their successful airship program.

The government commissioned the construction of two airships, one built by government interests, while the other was the work of private industry.

The private ship, called R.100 was a fine airship that successfully completed a round trip between England and Canada. It even flew over Toronto, meaning it was arguably the largest man-made object that ever flew over the GTA.

Things did not go as well for the government ship, called R.101. In addition to design problems, development of the ship was subjected to political interference, especially from the Secretary of State for Air of the Labour government of Ramsay MacDonald, Christopher Birdwood Thomson, 1st Baron Thomson. He applied pressure to press the ship into service prematurely, insisting that he ride along as it made an experimental flight to India. Overweight and under-powered, it never made it.

R.101 crashed near Beauvais, France, claiming 48 lives, including that of Lord Thomson, this day, Oct. 5, 1930.

Local business needs our support, not higher taxes

Canada's local businesses deserve some respect from their government.

After all, they're the backbone of our economy.

Most local business owners are middle class Canadians — the people who put their time, effort and sweat into paying the bills and paying their employees before they pay themselves. They're not big multinational corporations — they're our neighbors. The Trudeau Liberals are targeting them with a massive tax hike, threatening jobs and the communities that are sustained by our local businesses.

These Liberal tax hikes will significantly impact the local manufacturing shops, the farmers selling the local produce you love, and the greasy spoon where your family has breakfast for a treat once in a while. Our communities are woven together by our local businesses. They employ our neighbours, they grow the economy and they sponsor community hockey.

Yet Trudeau is targeting local businesses with a major tax increase. He thinks that most small businesses are just vehicles used by wealthy Canadians to avoid paying taxes. This is wrong, and it's insulting to the Canadians who have worked hard to build up their local businesses. The vast majority of local business operators don't have pensions or government bailouts to fall back on like Justin Trudeau does. Whatever money they can save helps them pay their workers during a bad year or for retirement after a lifetime of work.

So far, Trudeau has increased personal income tax, cancelled the promised local business tax rate reduction, and rolled out their nationalized carbon tax that will squeeze the margins of many local businesses. Now they are proposing to take away the one incentive entrepreneurs had to strike it out on their own.

Why is he doing this? He is doing it because he has a spending problem. Trudeau inherited a balanced budget and a growing economy yet he preferred to keep Canada billions of dollars over budget every year. Now he is going to local businesses with his hand out, demanding they pay for it.

There's nothing fair about this at all. Local businesses grow our communities and create jobs. They need our support, not higher taxes. Canada's Conservatives are going to fight Justin Trudeau's attack on local businesses every step of the way.

Celebrate Ontario Agriculture Week by eating local and buying local

This week (Oct. 2 to 8) marks Ontario Agriculture Week.

It is an opportunity to celebrate the many contributions agriculture makes to Dufferin-Caledon and across Ontario.

The agricultural industry provides more than just high-quality local food to our tables. Agriculture is a key part of what makes Dufferin-Caledon such a special place to live. Over the month of September, I attended the many fall fairs organized by local agricultural societies, from Shelburne to Grand Valley, Bolton to Brampton to Orangeville. Fall fairs are a great example of the historic role the agricultural industry plays and continues to be a key part of our communities. In fact, many of the fall fairs were celebrating anniversaries older than Confederation, proving their historical and essential connection to our community and traditions.

Beyond celebrating agriculture at

Rotary Club of Palgrave's Weekly Rotary Minute

October is Vocational Service Month in the Rotary Calendar.

As Rotarians, we channel our commitment to service at home and abroad through the five avenues of service, which are the foundation of club activity.

- Club Service focuses on making clubs strong. A thriving club is anchored by strong relationships and an active membership development plan.

- Vocational Service calls on every Rotarian to work with integrity and contribute their expertise to the problems and needs of society.

- Community Service encourages every Rotarian to find ways to improve the quality of life for people in their communities and to serve the public interest.

- International Service exemplifies our global reach in promoting peace and understanding. We support this service avenue by sponsoring or volunteering on fall fairs or tractor pulls, a great way we can all support local agriculture is buying products at one of our local farmers market. Eating local and buying local puts money into the pockets of our neighbours and it encourages food production around the corner, reducing the impact on the environment. The Bolton Farmers Market is holding its last market of the season this Saturday (Oct. 7), and the Orangeville Farmers Market international projects, seeking partners abroad and more.

- Youth Service recognizes the importance of empowering youth and young professionals through leadership development programs such as Rotaract, Interact, Rotary Youth Leadership Awards, and Rotary Youth Exchange.

Vocational Service enables us to draw upon our professional expertise to come to the aid and assistance of others, to assist the organizations we support, to mentor our youth and newer associate members, as well as to network within Caledon and throughout the Rotary District at numerous Rotary events.

Come join us at the Caledon Estates Banquet Hall and find out how your professional skills can be used to do good around the world. is holding its last outdoor market Oct. 21. Meanwhile, the Shelburne and Inglewood Farmer's Markets ended before Thanksgiving. I encourage you to visit your local farmers market and support local business before the end of the year.

In my role as Member of Provincial Parliament for Dufferin-Caledon, I have also been working to promote our agriculture industries. I introduced legislation to support the growing craft cider industry in Ontario. In addition to supporting local cideries, my bill, the Growing Ontario's Craft Cider Industry Act Bill 53, sought to help the apple orchards across our province. As a result of the interest in Bill 53, the government recently introduced a support program for local craft cideries.

I am also keenly aware of the burdens on agricultural and rural business from the lack of affordable energy. Whether it is skyrocketing hydro rates or the lack of access to natural gas, I have been advocating at Queen's Park for the government to address the need for agricultural and rural business to have cheap and accessible energy. Finally, I have also been hearing from farmers about the impacts of the massive rainfall and flooding experienced this summer. Even in mid-August, some fields were too wet to plant or were unable to germinate because of the wet conditions. That is why I have been lobbying the Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs to provide support for farmers impacted by this summer's unique weather conditions.

This Agriculture Week, I encourage you to find ways to support local agriculture, by incorporating in-season local food into your Thanksgiving meal or visiting a farmers market.

Women hold conflicting views too

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Claire Hoy

It must be incredibly comforting to be a Liberal, particularly of the small "l" (i.e. leftist) variety, knowing with absolute certainty that whatever you believe is correct, and those who disagree are not only wrong, but likely cretins to boot.

Having covered politics at all levels for several decades, your humble scribe has watched this reality forever, yet continues to be appalled at the extraordinary arrogance they display.

Examples abound, of course, but a recent one involves the disrespectful walk-out of all the Liberal MPs from the Commons committee on the status of women because — wait for it — the Conservative chair of the committee, Lethbridge MP Rachel Harder, is pro-life. Oh, the horror.

This is so typically left-wing. Rather than accept the reality that not all people — women or men — think alike, and trying to accommodate divergent views, they believe there is just one acceptable view — theirs — so what's to talk about?

The biggest irony in all this, of course, is that these are the very same people who claim to believe in treating everybody equally, a tired bromide which only applies to those who subscribe to their cherished view of the world.

As you'd expect, alas, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau is completely in synch with the one-sided Liberal MPs, who apparently are too fragile to even consider the reality, shown in numerous public opinion polls, that a good chunk of the Canadian public, both men and women, are uncomfortable with the fact that Canada is essentially the only western democracy in the world with absolutely no restrictions on abortion.

Abortion advocates always claim that they represent the majority view. This is a deliberate distortion. For sure, only a small percentage believe in a complete abortion ban. But, as much as the pro-abortionists and their media enablers don't want you to think about, the abortion question does not come down to two extremes, either no abortion at all or abortion without any restrictions, which is our current status quo.

All the other countries — many of which are decidedly liberal — fall somewhere in between, with rules kicking in at various stages of the birth process.

According to Trudeau, however — who wouldn't allow a pro-lifer to even run as a candidate — "The fact is that the Liberal Party and, indeed, this government, is unequivocal in defence of women's rights."

Except, of course, the right of a woman to hold a conflicting view, let alone act on it.

The media is just as bad as the Liberals. Reporters, who are overwhelmingly leftist, go into attack mode against anybody who disputes the liberal orthodoxy. They demand an explanation for one side, but never ask their friends how it is that on this issue, Canada is completely out of step with the rest of the world.

As the conservative-leaning group Real Woman put it, the Liberals "apparently don't understand that women differ because of their diverse economic, cultural, religious and educational backgrounds. No sane person believes that all men think alike. Why do they hold such a peculiar standard for women?"

Why indeed?

Many benefits from volunteering

While students do need to compile 40 hours of community service in order to graduate from high school, Strong said the hope is to expand on that and make life-long volunteering second nature.

Thompson agreed. "It's about serving and helping others," he commented.

Thompson added he grew up volunteering, noting many people get into the habit, through their church, community, etc.

He also pointed out there are scholarships available for students who accumulate a lot of volunteer hours.

"Check it out," he said. "There are rewards coming out of this."

The Mayor pointed to the volunteer efforts of Special Olympian Jason Scorcica, and the work he has done to help his cause and the satisfaction he has taken from it.

Scorcica told the students it was his grandmother who first introduced him to volunteering, and he pointed to all the others in the community, like police and fire fighters, who offer their time.

Chris Tampin, director of Jason's Quest, the non-profit charitable agency that promotes Scorcica's work with Special Olympics, etc., commented on how impressed he is with the his efforts. He said Scorcica is out to about 100 events per year.

"The list is endless," he declared. "Its a rewarding," Tampin added. "He's dramatically changed my life."

Masons celebrate 300 years in Canada this year

By Bill Rea

Freemasonry is marking 300 years in Canada, and two local halls marked the occasion with open houses recently.

Freemasonry is a world-wide fraternity dedicated to brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of a supreme being. It is not a religious organization, although members are encouraged to be devoted to their individual faiths.

There have been many famous men throughout the years who were masons, including George Washington, Clark Gable, John Wayne, Don Rickles, etc. Prominent Canadians who were masons included former prime ministers John A. Macdonald, John Abbott, Mackenzie Bowell, Robert Borden, R.B. Bennett and John Diefenbaker, as well as the likes of Harold Ballard, Tim Horton and Gordon Sinclair.

Peel Lodge 468 opened in 1904, and the current hall on Old Church Road was opened in 1957.

The True Blue Lodge 98 in Bolton was started around 1875, according to Past Worshipful Master Derek Paterson, and it used to occupy land where the branch of CIBC is currently located.

The first lodge was known as the Western Light Masonic Lodge, which started meeting at the Masonic Arms Inn, where CIBC is. A banner dating from the 1840s still hangs in the True Blue hall. The Lodge was founded in 1858 by William Graham. Paterson said his great-great-great-grand-sons are still active in the Lodge, adding he was James Dick's great-great-grandfather.

Past Worshipful Master Derek Paterson points to the banner dating from the 1840s, which is painted on both sides.

"It was a way for the common farmer to meet with the business man," Paterson commented, referring to how Masons became established in their communities. He said it was a way for the men from different backgrounds to exchange ideas.

The open house was actually held the day after the new Worshipful Master Alistair Jolly took over his new position, which will last for the next Masonic year, which runs from September to June., closing down in the summer.

"Every installed Master tries to make their own unique spin," Jolly commented, adding he's hoping to focus on Masonic history and education.

He also said anyone interested in joining the Lodge should contact him at alistairjolly@hotmail.com

Paterson said Freemasonry was founded in London in 1717.

"Through the spread of empire, we ended up with a Masonic Lodge here in Bolton," he said.

He also said the site of the current hall on Nancy Street was acquired for $1, and the brethren raised the money in the mid-1870s to build the current hall. He also said the Bolton hall is quite ornate, by lodge standards.

See 'Divisive' on page A15

This portrait of William Graham still hangs in the True Blue Lodge in Bolton.

Discuss improvements to Alton streets

Peel Region is proposing improvements to a couple of the streets in Alton, and is planning two public information centres (PIC) to address the issue.

The first is set for Oct. 18, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Alton Public School. The second will be sometime in January (date to be announced).

The Region is looking at improvements to Main Street, as well as Queen Street (Regional Road 136). The proposed work is scheduled for 2018 and will be aimed at improving safety, providing connectivity to features and attractions, and encouraging walking and cycling within the village.

Beatles tribute launches Theatre Orangeville season this week

By Constance Scrafield

The Caverners Beatles Tribute Band is returning to Theatre Orangeville this week for four performances.

"They're back by popular demand and why wouldn't they be?" said Artistic Director David Nairn. "They're the season opener: the best music in 60 years with the best Beatles' Tribute band in North America."

He commented that he has also been doing the auditions for the upcoming Christmas show this year in Orangeville.

"It never fails in the auditions with the kids," he said. "They have to come and sing a song and there's always a Beatles' song. The Beatles have a crossover audience. Every new generation loves them."

"Of course, next, the youth programs are all under way," he remarked.

An important part of Theatre Orangeville's overall planning are those youth programs the theatre sponsors: Theatre Orangeville Youth Singers (TOYS), a long-standing children's choir, plus a variety of theatre arts after-school programs offered to a range of ages. Sharyn Ayliffe, programs manager, said there are still spaces available in those programs. Inquiries can be made online at the theatre website.

As well, in partnership with Community Living Dufferin (CLD), there is the Theatre Orangeville for Exceptional Players, a program for special-needs children aged 11 to 17. The adult clients of CLD join the Creative Partners On Stage to put together, with the professionals at the theatre, two amazing shows per year.

Nairn went on to talk about the five plays lined up for the 2017-18 Season, beginning in mid-October.

Up first is Sugar Road by Kristen Da Silva. This lady has been praised as the next Norm Foster — by Norm Foster!

"Kristen Da Silva and Mark Crawford are two up-and-coming comic playwrights with the most appeal," Nairn commented.

Sugar Road has been workshopped through Theatre Orangeville's New Play Development program.

Here is the set-up: Twelve years ago there was a night of passion between Hannah and Country Music star Jesse, who is coming back to town for the Spurs and Hearts Music Festival. Imagine all the excitement at his return, but is Hannah ready for it?

Da Silva had a successful business career, but she decided to make the transition to her real passion — writing plays.

Sugar Road was produced by amateur theatres and is now ready to be presented by Theatre Orangeville as a professional World Premiere. It runs from Oct. 19 to Nov. 5.

The annual Christmas extravaganza is next at the theatre, opening Dec. 1 and playing until the 23rd. This year, Dufferin's favourite gentleman farmer and playwright, Dan Needles, brings another world premiere.

This Christmas play is a musical, with music and lyrics written and composed by Clive Vanderburgh.

Telling us about the roles for the two children in the play, Nairn remarked, "These are really great parts for children. They are the driving force of the play."

It seems that these two youngsters rescue a turkey which, so it turns out, is meant to be the "guest of honour" at the local church Christmas dinner.

"Casting children for any play is a challenge," Nairn once admitted. "There are so many brilliant youngsters in this area. It's fantastic, but hard to decide how to choose amongst them."

The following production, Trudeau Stories by Brooke Johnson, opening Feb. 15, and running until March 4, is not about politics — so, take the day off.

"It's really interesting to bring this play to Tory Blue Dufferin County," Nairn related. "However, the story is about Pierre. While it is not in any way political, it is remarkable."

"It's a one-woman show with no intermission, about herself and Pierre meeting at the National Theatre School in Montreal and developing a dear friendship," he said. "They were very different people but this was not romantic. He would call her whenever he came to Toronto, where she was living. She spoke to him a few days before his death. This story is about the person, not the politician."

Screwball Comedy by Norm Foster is the fourth in Theatre Orangeville's season. Foster takes us back several decades to the clever back-and-forthing style of the late 1930's movies, with the quick quips between male and female counterparts in any given situation. His situation offer is that of a young female journalist, Mary Hayes, who is determined to make her way in a male-dominated profession. She butts heads with and infringes on the territory of famous journalist Jeff Kincaid, with very funny consequences.

"Its reminiscent of the RKO productions," Nairn commented. "Stephen Sparks is with us for this one with a great cast of favourites."

Notwithstanding the comedy, Foster will certainly leave us with food for thought.

Mark Crawford is back with another play to make us laugh out loud, The Birds and the Bees.

"Mark Crawford loves the rural setting, writing about who we think we are," Nairn said. "This is a lovely play by one of the most exciting, engaging young playwrights out there."

Briefly, when country neighbours are each dumped by their respective spouses, they approach their problems differently. Gail turns from love to beekeeping. Earl thinks he can start anew. Add the return to home of Gail's daughter and a young man worrying about the local bee population — we can relax and enjoy the fun.

"This play will be directed by Jane Spence," Nairn happily said. "Theatre is still very male-dominated. Being able to provide more opportunities for women matters. We need to see more stories about women and written by women. We at Theatre Orangeville are dedicated to moving forward with that kind of direction."

"I'm really jazzed about that," he added.

For tickets or subscriptions for all five or three plays, contact the theatre's Box Office at 87 Broadway or the Visitors' Information Centre on Buena Vista Drive at Highway 10; call 519-942-3423 or online at www.theatreorangeville.ca

October is Child Abuse Prevention Month

A call to Peel CAS could be the most important in a child's life

October is Child Abuse Prevention Month and Peel Children's Aid Society (CAS) needs help to raise awareness about the importance of calling Children's Aid if there is a concern about the safety and well-being of a child or youth.

"We all have to work together to keep kids safe," Peel CAS Chief Executive Officer Rav Bains observed. "Child abuse isn't an easy topic to talk about, but it does exist in our community. What we are asking is that if you have a concern about a child or youth, please call us. We know it may be difficult, but it is the right thing to do."

Last year, Peel CAS worked with more than 10,000 families in the community. More than 90 per cent of their work is done with families in their homes.

"We work to protect children from abuse and neglect and help parents and caregivers build healthy families," Bains said. "Together with partners in our community, we work to assist families who may be facing challenges such as poverty, unemployment, ill health, domestic violence, mental health issues, or caring for a child who has serious physical, emotional or developmental difficulties."

Some families also just need parenting support.

This year marks the 25th anniversary of Child Abuse Prevention Month in Ontario.

Peel CAS, in partnership with Harold F. Loughin Elementary School in Brampton, will be officially launching Child Abuse Prevention Month Oct. 17.

CAS, along with schools, community partners and CASs across Ontario, will Dress Purple Oct. 24 to raise awareness about Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Ontario's leading research study on child abuse and neglect shows children remained with their families in 97 per cent of CAS investigations, a statistic that comes as a surprise to many people.

Peel Children's Aid protects children from abuse and neglect and helps parents and caregivers build healthy families. In addition to protecting children, which CAS does with the support of the Peel community, they also work with families who may be facing challenges.

The best way to deal with child abuse and neglect is to prevent it.

Those on hand for the recent open house at Peel Lodge 468 were past Worshipful Masters Bob Presant and Eric Wenger, Right Worshipful Past Deputy Grand Master Manoj Dave, Worshipful Master for the Mount Moriah Lodge Gerry Taylor and Toronto West District Secretary and Past Worshipful Master John Lloyd.

Peel maintains credit rating

The Region of Peel's Triple-A credit rating was recently reaffirmed by both Moody's Investor Services and S&P Global Rating.

The Region has held a Triple-A rating for 22 consecutive years.

"We are proud to be one of only 12 Canadian municipalities with the highest possible credit rating a municipality or region can receive," Commissioner of Finance and Chief Financial Officer Stephen VanOfwegen said. "This rating is a reflection of our every-day commitment to manage tax dollars responsibly and deliver value-added, affordable services to residents and businesses today and over the long-term."

Maintaining a high credit rating is one of the key outcomes of the Region's Long Term Financial Planning Strategy (LTFPS), which guides Regional investments in services, programs and infrastructure to meet the needs of Peel residents, businesses and community partners today and in the future. It supports the Region's 20-year Strategic Plan with a vision of building a Community for Life across Peel.

Divisive issues avoided in Masonic halls

The building of the hall included some in-kind contributions. A Mason was passing through town at the time and needed place to stay. Another Mason put him up, and in return, the traveller paid for the wallpaper which is still inside.

There is a Bible on the altar in the hall. And while religion is part of Freemasonry, Paterson said it's not stressed.

"We are a secular organization," he said, adding they don't discuss things like religion or politics in the hall because that could be divisive. "Being Masons is what unites us. That's our common bond."

"In here, we're all on the same level," he added. "Nobody has a higher rank than anybody else."

Golden Hawks roll over Terriers in three-point weekend

By Jake Courtepatte

The Caledon Golden Hawks regained their scoring touch in Saturday's match with the Orillia Terriers, reaching double digits five days after a lopsided loss to the Alliston Hornets.

Each team entering the game with one win under their belt in the early stages of the Provincial Junior Hockey League season, Caledon tamed the Terriers in a 12-1 drubbing.

Matt Magliozzi and Mathiau Young were the top earners for Caledon that evening, each putting up a hat trick and two assists for five-point nights.

Magliozzi, whose hat trick was completed just three minutes into the second period, has moved up the rankings to fourth in division-leading scoring, the only non-Alliston or Stayner player inside of the top 10.

Young, a first-year Golden Hawk and former Pelham Panther of the GOJHL, moved up to a tie for second in the league in goals.

Marc Simonetta, Sean Nottle, Steve Luongo and James Harris also had multi-point efforts against the Terriers, while 17-year old Brody Read secured the victory in stopping 22 of the 23 shots he faced.

Back on the ice the following day, Sunday's match featured an inter-divisional clash between the Hawks and the Wingham Ironmen.

Heavyweights of the PJHL's Pollock division, the Ironmen came out flying after allowing Caledon to strike first just over a minute in, scoring three unanswered goals after a little more than a minute of play to take a 3-1 lead into the first intermission.

Tyler Whitten and Magliozzi each potted a goal in the second, though Wingham capitalized with one of their own for a 4-3 score after 40 minutes.

After Wingham took a two-goal lead five minutes into the third, Nottle brought it back within reach just before the halfway point of the period. Michael Andrews tied the game with just less than three minutes to go.

Though Caledon was given a glorious opportunity to put it away in regulation time, during a power play to close out the game, it would eventually go to overtime, where Wingham was able to beat Michael Kazcor just more than a minute in.

A three-point weekend launches Caledon into fourth place in the PJHL's Caruthers division standings, one point back of the Midland Flyers with a record of 2-4-1, though they are late-years behind both Alliston and the Stayner Siskins.

The two perennial powerhouses have started their seasons as they left off at the end of 2016-17, sharing one loss between them through the first seven games.

Caledon will look to keep the momentum going tomorrow (Friday) when they visit the 3-2-0 Flyers, before hosting the winless Huntsville Otters at Caledon East Sunday.

Puck drop is set for 7 p.m.

The 310 Running athletes who competed at the Athletics Ontario Bantam/Midget/Youth Provincial Championships in Brampton recently had it going.

Aysia Maurice made her presence felt as she was crowned Provincial Champion in three different events and set a new provincial steeplechase record in the process.

Maurice started off with a gold medal in the bantam girls 1,200 metres Saturday in a time 3:52.88. Sunday morning, she captured the gold in the bantam girls 2,000 metres with a personal best time of 6:48.46, and then went on to win her third gold that afternoon in the midget girls 1,500-metre steeplechase in a new U15 provincial record time of 5:09.17.

CAN-AM OFF-ROAD VEHICLE: Some models depicted may include optional equipment. BRP highly recommends that all ATV drivers take a training course. For safety and training information, see your dealer or call the ATV Safety Institute at 1-800-887-2887. ATVs can be hazardous to operate. Never carry passengers on any ATV not specifically designed by the manufacturer for such use. All adult model Can-Am ATVs are Category G ATVs (General Use Models) intended for recreational and/or utility use by an operator age 16 or older. For side-by-side vehicles (SxS): Read the BRP side-by-side Operator's Guide and watch the Safety DVD before driving. Fasten lateral net and seat belt at all times. Operator must be at least 16 years old and able to hold handgrips and plant feet while seated against the backrest. ATVs and SxS are for off-road use only; never ride on paved surfaces or public roads. For your safety reason, the operator and passenger must wear a helmet, eye protection and other protective clothing. Always remember that riding and alcohol/drugs don't mix. Never engage in stunt driving. Avoid excessive speed and be particularly careful on difficult terrain. Always ride responsibly and safely.

CANADA'S ONLY UNLIMITED MILEAGE WARRANTY

STANDARD ON ALL NEW MODELS.

2017 MAZDA CX-3

“The CX-3 shows Mazda is on a roll design-wise, with its sharply creased sheetmetal, tight proportions, and upscale detailing. This can also be applied to its driving dynamics, as the CX-3 combines tautly controlled body motions, precise and perfectly weighted steering, and a responsive powertrain to make for class-leading handling.”

- Car and Driver

2017 MAZDA CX-5

“The 2017 Mazda CX-5 is new this year, and improves upon last year’s model with a better interior and exterior look, quieter ride, a new-ish standard engine, and a coming turbodiesel that could be among the leaders for small crossovers in highway mileage. It’s offered in Sport, Touring, and Grand Touring trims with varying levels of creature comforts.”

- The Car Connection

2017 MAZDA CX-9

“Attractive inside and out, the 2017 Mazda CX-9 is more than just a pretty face. Its three rows of seating and loaded feature list will satisfy a growing family’s needs, but it’s also a genuine pleasure to drive. It’s one of the best three-row crossover SUVs out there.”

- Edmunds
