In celebration of International Women's Day I want to recognize and celebrate the social, economic, cultural and political achievements of women in our community.

While strides have been made, challenges still remain in achieving gender-balanced leadership, government and wealth.

Gender balance is essential for economies and communities to thrive. Let's all help create #BalanceforBetter

Victory House to host fundraisers for new women's shelter

Written By JOSHUA SANTOS

Victory House Association of Dufferin-Caledon plans to open their women's shelter by the end of the year.

It will offer women and children in need by housing them at a temporary home. The day-to-day programming will be led by a group of volunteers.

"We have professionals coming in for counseling, but it's the volunteers that come in from the community to perhaps make a meal for them at dinner time," said Pat Valliere, executive director and founder of Victory House. "The community helps the women get back to community living."

The goal is to transition the women in need back to the community through personal and spiritual growth based on Christian values.

Organization personnel plan to refurbish a 5,000 sq. ft building. They have an overall goal to raise $350,000. Caledon Hills Fellowship Baptist Church, at 16591 Airport Rd., donated a building to them with a no lease cost for 25 years.

The members are working to raise money for renovations.

"We haven't even done the renovations on it yet," said Valliere. "That's what this money is all going to be for. It's going to need a lot of money to do the inside, the kitchens and the bedroom."

They are working on a septic design for the building with the assistance of an architect. They have also received approval from the Town to host the building.

Valliere said received calls from people who either want to work with the organization or even donate furniture.

"We can't store it on the property right now, so I asked people if they can hold off on that, because what we have to do then is get a truck to move it with trailer that we have up in Fergus and bring it here," said Valliere.

The property has access to over 40 acres of ponds and tranquility trails. The building will feature an upper floor that will be most suitable for the private rooms for the women and their children. A tour of the property is schedule for the spring.

Their next fundraiser, Voices for Victory House, will take place at the Caledon Hills Fellowship Baptist church on Sunday, April 7 at 3 p.m. It is also scheduled to feature Hannah Shelton Campbell and Cara Cameron with a vocal performance, Mark Lane-Smith on the violin and Sean Derraugh on the clarinet.

"It's a fundraiser with a group called the Dufferin Concert Singers and the New Tecumseth Singers," said Valliere. "We're going to people doing solos, we're going to have people singing and doing violin. This whole group gets together; there's about 40 of them, and they do fundraisers all over. Normally, it's for them, but they are donating all of the funds back to Victory House."

Tickets for the concert cost $20 each. They can be purchased online at www.thevictoryhouse.ca or at the Caledon East Guardian Pharmacy.

This follows their first fundraiser gala they had in November of last year held at the Royal Ambassador. About 170 people attended, which exceed the organizations' goal. They enjoyed live music, dancing, drinks, raffle prizes, and a live and silent auction. More than 50 volunteers joined working together to raise funds to establish the shelter. Individual tickets were available for $100 or as a group of eight for $800.

"At the fundraiser, we did amazing," said Valliere. "That was our first major fundraiser and we were so happy because we had people from the community that came out as well to volunteer designing the septic plan and donating flooring, that are over and above the amount of money that we made at the gala. Which was perfect."

For more information on the organization, you can visit their website at www.thevictoryhouse.ca

Family Transition Place to host 8th annual International Women's Day fundraiser

Written By MIKE BAKER

With International Women's Day (IWD) taking centre stage tomorrow (March 8), Family Transition Place (FTP) is preparing to welcome the community to its 8th annual IWD Luncheon in celebration of the worldwide event.

Taking place at the Best Western in Orangeville, the event is one of FTP's primary fundraisers. This year, those in attendance will be joined by comedian and writer Anna Gustafson, who will serve as the event's keynote speaker. As well, FTP's Executive Director Norah Kennedy will provide her annual update on the organization's programming and service delivery in the community.

"This year is shaping up to be another successful event. We have Ana Gustafson coming in – she will be sharing her life story and talking about the importance of International Women's Day," said Stacey Tarrant, Manager of Development & Community Relations with FTP. "This year's theme is Balance for Better. Again, just like we have done for the past couple of years, it will be talking about closing the gap on gender parity."

In a stunning report released by the Global Economic Forum in early 2018, it has been estimated that gender parity will not truly exist in our world for another 200 years – roughly six generations.

"That is an absolutely ridiculous statistic," Ms. Tarrant said. "It's frustrating too, because I know and have heard a lot of people who aren't in this line of work and who don't see the things we see on a daily basis say that we have achieved gender parity. We have seen a lot of shifts in society, but a lot of people don't realize there's still a lot of work to be done."

Since arriving in the community back in 1984, FTP has provided critical services to thousands of women and children who have experienced abuse and had been exposed to unhealthy relationships. While there has been "great progress" made in many ways since then according to Ms. Kennedy, the local facility still finds itself in a position where demand for its services is on the rise, rather than on the decline.

Since the beginning of 2016, FTP has reported close to a 15 percent increase across the board in clients served per program, with a 13 percent increase in the number of callers to the organization's support information line over the past year alone.

"Things haven't really changed over the past year," Ms. Tarrant said. "Our emergency shelter is still full, we still receive calls from people every single day asking if we have space and we're constantly working with women to find safe, affordable housing. In terms of programming, we're bursting at the seams. There's a big demand for almost everything we do here in Dufferin County and Caledon."

The facility provided emergency shelter for 82 women and 47 children between April 1, 2017 and April 1, 2018, while putting up 14 women and 12 children in second stage housing. 377 women signed up for woman abuse counselling, 107 women and 19 men enrolled in sexual abuse counselling, while 324 women and one man required transitional support services. In total, FTP received 4,305 calls on its crisis and information lines.

While FTP is partially funded by the provincial government, Ms. Tarrant estimated the organization has to raise in the region of $400,000 each and every year to pay for all it does in the region.

A significant chunk of that is set aside for the organization's Rural Response Program and Youth Education programs, which are, currently, completely unfunded by the government. In its last annual report, FTP noted 104 women had made use of the Rural Response Program, while 1,534 students had been engaged through its Youth Education Program.

"Our Rural Response Program was developed just a couple of years ago. We have space in Shelburne and we use it to serve women in nearby areas," Ms. Tarrant said. "The service model looks a lot different to the one we use at our facility in Orangeville. We allow for up to six crisis counselling sessions, providing women with abuse education, safety planning, and appropriate community referrals."

She added, "The exciting thing about this program is that it allows our staff to meet and serve women in the community. We have seen a significant uptake in the number of people reaching out to us through this program, and have heard some powerful testimonials from people saying they wouldn't be alive without the support they received."

Regarding the Youth Education program, FTP has a presence in all schools in Dufferin County, connecting with students from Grades four to six.

"That program is all about educating our youth on what a healthy relationship looks like. Unless we educate our youth, the cycle of violence against women will continue," Ms. Tarrant said.

While FTP has a significant presence in Dufferin-Caledon, with an satellite site also in Bolton, Ms. Tarrant noted the organization's ultimate goal is a unique one.

"Ironically, the goal of FTP is to put ourselves out of business. We want to live in a world where violence against women doesn't exist," Ms. Tarrant said. "But, until then, we will never rest on our laurels because we give people new beginnings and new hope each and every day. There's nothing more powerful than that."

FATAL COLLISION: Jason Goodlip, 29, of Brampton has been identified as a victim of a multi-vehicle collision on Highway 10 in Caledon on Tuesday, March 5.

Brampton man dead in crash in Caledon

Written By JOSHUA SANTOS

A 29-year-old Brampton man died in a tragic crash on Highway 10 in Caledon on Tuesday, March 5.

Jason Goodlip of Brampton was pronounced dead on the scene, according to Caledon OPP. Another driver was transported to a local hospital with non-life-threatening injuries.

Peel Paramedics were on scene of the multi-vehicle collision. They received the call at about 9 a.m.

Goodlip leaves behind his pregnant fiancée Karolena Laupee. She was due to give birth in late July. They have been together for two years. Laupee said words cannot explain how she feels right now, other than she's in shock.

"I can't believe you're gone," Laupee wrote on social media, with photos of her and Jason. "You were my everything plus more! We have our daughter coming in a couple months and I promise you, I will never let her forget how much of an amazing dad you are and person! I'm never going to forget about you. My life is never going to be the same. Rest in Peace my angel until we meet again."

Laupee declined a request to be interviewed. Her mother, Melanie Jesso, said the family is trying to process the incident. She said Goodlip will be greatly missed.

"We're just trying to cope minute to minute and trying to come to grasp with everything," said Jesso.

She described Goodlip as free spirited, caring, loving, always happy and up for an adventure.

"He was very genuine," said Jesso. "Always out to help people, always thinking about other people before himself. An awesome boyfriend and fiancée. He was going to be an

Fire damage at Brampton Flying Club exceeds $3.5 million

Written By JOSHUA SANTOS

Caledon Firefighters estimated damage to exceed about $3.5 million after a mammoth fire erupted at the Brampton Flying Club on Monday, March 4 at about 10 a.m.

Caledon Fire and Emergency Services were on the scene in the afternoon immediately trying to extinguish the flame.

"Upon arrival, crews found a fully involved aircraft inside a hanger," said Darrell Bailey, fire chief of Caledon Fire and Emergency Services. "An offensive attack was performed, fighting a fire from within a structure. The fire was fast moving with rapidly changing conditions. Crews were ordered to withdraw from the hangar because of structural damage, and began a defensive attack, fighting a fire outside of a structure, to prevent the fire from spreading."

Bailey said there were earlier reports of someone still inside the hanger. The missing person, however, was located several hours later.

"As of 3pm today, the occupant who was considered missing has been accounted for. No injuries have been reported," states a Town news release.

A number of aircrafts were destroyed inside the hanger when an aircraft inside caught on fire.

There is no fire hydrant in the immediate area of the property. Bailey said crews had to use tankers to shuttle water to the scene from fire hydrants some distances away.

"Also, minimal water was used from an in-ground water supply nearby which was later replenished," said Bailey.

The Ontario Fire Marshal Emergency Management Office has been notified as the fire caused massive destruction to the property.

"OFM was called because damages exceeded $500,000," said Bailey. "OFM will receive an investigation report from Caledon Fire, through typical reporting procedures."

Caledon Fire received assistance from King Fire and Emergency Services, Orangerville Fire Department and Brampton Fire and Emergency Services. The fire cause remains under investigation.

"Brampton, Orangerville and King provided station coverage for three Caledon Fire Stations," said Bailey. "Brampton also provided one aerial apparatus, fire truck with a ladder."

Bailey said Caledon Fire released the building back to the owner, who will need to work with the insurance company to coordinate a clean-up of the site and determine when it can be reopened.

The building was one of seven hangars at the airport. The roof of the building collapsed as thick, black smoke filled the skies. The nearby Brampton Flying Club restaur-rant was evacuated.

McLaughlin Road from Old School Road to King Street was closed. Local residents were asked to stay clear of the area as emergency crews were on scene.

Headwaters Health Care centre optimistic on reform to services

Written By MIKE BAKER

After the provincial government last week announced sweeping changes to Ontario's health care system, Headwaters Health Care Centre (HHCC) President and CEO Stacey Daub is remaining optimistic the looming reform could have a positive impact on services in Dufferin County and Caledon.

Last Tuesday (Feb. 26), Christine Elliott, Deputy Premier and Minister of Health and Long-Term Care, revealed the provincial government had a plan to "fix and strengthen" the public health care system. She revealed services would now operate under a single health agency called Ontario Health, with between 30 and 50 local Ontario Health Teams spread across the province.

The move will, essentially, eliminate a variety of singular provincial entities, such as Cancer Care Ontario, Ontario Mental Health Foundation, Trillium Gift of Life Network and 14 different Local Health Integration Networks (LHINs), merging as one under the Ontario Health umbrella.

Speaking to CBC last week, Ms. Elliott noted the decision to reform Ontario's health care sector was not made to cut costs, instead indicating it's a much-needed change to improve the standard of care for patients.

"This is a transformational change and is being done to centre care around patients, families and caregivers. That's not happening right now," Ms. Elliott said. "We want to truly integrate and connect care so patients have a seamless care experience throughout their journey and throughout their lives."

She added, "As patient ombudsman and Ontario's Minister of Health, I've had the opportunity to hear from thousands of patients and families and this is what they want. This is what we need in health care right now and we're ready to move forward with this transformation."

In a release to media, local MPP Sylvia Jones expressed her support for the proposed changes.

"Ontario's new plan for health care will better organize our hard-working health care providers, including doctors and nurses, to work as one connected and coordinated team focused on patients' specific local needs," Ms. Jones said.

While work to overhaul the provincial health care system will begin in the spring, Minister Elliott indicated it would take years to implement.

"This is a transformation that is going to take some time, it will not happen overnight," Ms. Elliott said.

The Minister was in Orangerville on Friday as she, along with local Ms. Jones, toured our local hospital and sat down with front line staff to learn more about how care is currently delivered at the facility. Ms. Daub noted it was "a great visit".

"I believe they wanted to come out and visit a community where there are good examples in place that the Minister could learn from, where should could get some advice on how to make this move successful and find out what teams need locally to succeed," Ms. Daub told the Citizen. "We have a lot of things that demonstrate success on the ground here. We have fantastic partnerships already with various Dufferin-area family health teams, with our mental health partners, with Dufferin EMS. The fact we all work together as a partnership is what makes us so successful."

While not confirming whether or not Minister Elliott had suggested Dufferin County and Caledon would be a suitable home for a local Ontario Health Team, Ms. Daub expressed her belief the community would be a great fit.

"I really feel that Dufferin and the surrounding area is really quite well suited to advance the type of integration the provincial government is looking for," Ms. Daub said. "There is an expression of interest going to be put out for communities to respond

'The current structure is not working for the people of Ontario' says Minister Elliot

to, and (Minister Elliott) indicated she thought Dufferin was a good example of a place that might put in an expression of interest to lead one of these new teams."

Should Dufferin County and Caledon be successful in any eventual bid, it would mean, according to Minister Elliott, that people within the community would be the decision makers when it comes to deciding what services and programs to fund locally.

"The current structure is not working for the people of Ontario. We've got to change that," Minister Elliott said. "It will be up to the local Ontario Health Care teams to decide what resources are needed for their area. They will be provided a fiscal allocation every year and will have freedom (to spend it on what they deem necessary and appropriate)."

Any money the government saves in eliminating excess bureaucracy, Minister Elliott says, will be redirected to hiring more front-line workers. A big focus of the plan, she added, was to eliminate the need for patients to be re-admitted to hospital after a stay by improving the home care process. That, in turn, should help to open up much needed beds across Ontario's hospitals.

"Right now, we have over 1,000 patients receiving care in hallways or storage rooms. We are looking to lower those number to allow people to, once they leave hospital, receive care they need at home, be well and not be readmitted," Ms. Elliott said.

Attempts to consolidate provincial health care services has been made in B.C., Alberta and Nova Scotia to varying levels of success. Minister Elliott noted she had the utmost confidence in this "made-in-Ontario" plan.

Dufferin County Warden Darren White expressed his excitement at the announcement and the possibility of the region securing a local Ontario Health Team.

"We are very interested to explore opportunities to work with our community partners to enhance health care services for all residents," Mr. White said. "Finding more ways to collaborate and integrate services that address the entire spectrum of health care and support services for our senior population is a high priority for Dufferin County Council. We have a strong record of building community partnerships and are committed to further strengthening relationships that will help create local solutions to health care challenges."

Ms. Daub is treating everything with a similar sense of optimism, noting, if the provincial government meets its goals, the result should be a "more coordinated and more locally tailored" health care service.

"Right now, the health service is quite siloed. Money comes into different places and areas, from different places and areas, which it makes it hard to think about things collaboratively," Ms. Daub said. "If things work out the way Minister Elliott and the government wants them to, it would allow the community to have more flexibility and provide the opportunity to locally tailor our services."

awesome father. I don't have enough to say about him. There's really no words to describe Jason."

She said Goodlip was always looking out for Laupee, making sure she was okay.

"With the baby coming, he was all over the moon," said Jesso. "He couldn't wait to be a father. He was always there for her."

Jesso said she was ecstatic to be a grandmother when her daughter told her that she was pregnant with Goodlip.

Jesso said they're 80 per cent sure Goodlip will be buried. They're not sure when the funeral will be held, but they're looking at hosting it next week.

"I just want to thank everyone that has been here for us," Jesso said. "He'll never be forgotten. He'll live on in his daughter."

A GoFundMe page has been set up in Goodlip's honour. About $1,655 have been raised by 32 people in 19 hours with a goal of $7,500, as of press time. Funds from the online campaign will be used to offset some of the funeral costs.

"The support from people is overwhelming," said Jesso. "We cannot thank them enough for everyone that has donated. We just want everyone to know that, every penny that is raised, is going to help Karolena and be put away for the baby."

"I can't believe the outpour of phone calls, and emails and messages on Facebook from everyone to me and my daughter and my whole family. It really means a lot that everyone is being very supportive and thinking of us."

Council votes out 'Albion Township'

By Wes Keller

The battle over street names in Caledon took another turn Monday with approval by Town Council of a motion to delete the former Albion Township (Ward 4) from the naming bylaw.

And, by the same motion, Council voted to retain existing numbering in Bolton and Caledon East on Airport Road, Church, King and Queen streets.

The move by Council, not considered by observer as last to occur before the bylaw becomes effective, is seen by Ward 4 Councillor Emil Kolb as "a compromise to satisfy residents" and the results as "the least disruptive possible" to property owners.

Nor did the motion pass through council without more objections to the whole plan being injected from the gallery.

And the public is to be given a few more "kicks at the can" in what one councillor quipped could drag on until after the municipal elections in November.

The changes to Bylaw 82-5, solicitor David Ostler told a previous meeting of council, will have to be circulated or advertised in the same way as was the original bylaw.

And another public meeting is scheduled before the amending bylaw gets third reading.

Although Monday's meeting had been scheduled as the final in a series dealing with street-name, there was a minimum of discussion about the motion which will have the effect delaying implementation of the bylaw for at least two more months.

The controversy has raged for about six years during which a strong citizen group has been formed to oppose street name, and at least some councillors would like to see the matter resolved, no matter where the political chips might fall.

"We can't back away from the issue forever," Inglewood Councillor Archie Gould said after Monday's meeting.

"I feel strongly that we have to solve emergen-gency problems (with a streets grid system). It will be an inconvenience to some people, but we only have to go through it (the final change) once."

Councillor Kolb, commenting on the political implications in an telephone interview after the meeting at which his motion to except Ward 4 from renaming passed, said the remaining objections to street names appears to be to names chosen will be implemented within the year.

The Town if prepared to erect new signs, and this year's budget is expected to reflect cost of the signs, he said.

Politically, he said council has been trying to select names which will suit most of the people without losing historical significance of names and without duplication names throughout the town.

"The aim is to achieve the best for the most people," he said which emphasizing the need to establish a readily identifiable grid system.

"What little value do you place on a human life that you're so naïve as to (not recognize the need in standardized street name?)" he asked.

Caledon Town Council has voted against allowing the Caledon Ski Club to advertise a proposed development of about 100 lots in the area of present-day Belgrave.

"We would be leaving ourselves open to litigation if we allowed them to proceed with an advertising campaign," Mayor Jim Clarkson said of a request from the club.

He said the land involved has to be rezoned from residential to commercial.

Caledon OPP investigating break and enters in Bolton

Caledon OPP are investigating two residential break and enters, and three commercial break and enters in Bolton.

Unknown suspects pried the glass doors open and entered a business in the area of Highway 50 and Healey Road on Sunday, Feb. 24 at about 1 a.m.

The suspects then proceeded to steal various tools from the business. The same suspects were observed breaking into another business located nearby by prying the front door open and stealing more tools.

Suspect #1: male, 5'7"-5'10", skinny build, camo jogging pants, light-coloured high-top sneakers, baseball hat, gloves.

Suspect #2: male, 5'7"-5'10", slim fit dark jeans, dark jacket with lighter cuffs and waist elastic, fur trim on the hood, tan work boots, gloves.

The suspects were observed driving a white utility van.

One of the residential break and enters occurred on Wednesday, Feb. 27 at about 8:40 p.m. in the area of Columbia Way and Mount Hope Road. The homeowners were away at the time of the incident. The suspect attempted to gain entry through the rear patio door but was believed to be spooked by the alarm.

The second residential break and enter occurred on Friday, March 1, 2019, between 8:30 p.m. and 8:45 p.m. in the area of Cross-Country Boulevard and Highway 50. It is believed that the unknown suspect entered the house through the second floor by forcing the bedroom window open.

The most current business break and enter occurred on Saturday, March 2 at about 8:40 p.m. The unknown suspect shattered the front glass door of the business located in the area of King Street and Highway 50. The suspect then stole cash and documents.

Caledon OPP is asking the residents to check their security cameras for suspicious people or activity between February 24 - March 2, 2019. ### Motorist charged for traveling double the posted limit on Highway 50

A Caledon OPP officer stopped a high-speed vehicle on Highway 50 in the Town of Caledon.

An officer from the Caledon Detachment's Traffic Unit was on patrol southbound on Highway 50, south of Columbia Way in Bolton. The officer observed a vehicle travelling at excessive rate of speed going northbound, passing the community centre. The officer obtained a speed of the vehicle of 120km/h. The area is a posted 60km/h speed zone.

A 25-year-old man from Vaughan was charged with Stunt Driving. He is scheduled to appear in Caledon East Provincial Court in April.

As a result of the Stunt Driving charge, the driver received an immediate seven-day driver's license suspension and his vehicle was impounded for seven days.

OPP anti-rackets and it's partners need you to know fraud

The Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) Anti-Rackets Branch and its Canadian Anti-Fraud Centre (CAFC) partners are launching their annual Fraud Prevention Month campaign to help prevent Canadians from falling victim to fraud.

During the month of March, the OPP, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, CAFC, Serious Fraud Office, the Competition Bureau of Canada and other partners are joining police services across the country to promote public awareness to help prevent all Canadians from becoming victims of fraud.

This year, the OPP Fraud Prevention Month education campaign will highlight four mass marketing fraud priorities as indicated by the CAFC:

- Advanced Fee Scam (Money Transfers)
- Phishing and Ransom Scam
- Romance Scam; and,
- Ecommerce Scam

During the past year, Canadians have fallen victim to fraud's destructive toll, causing losses totalling approximately $100 million, with Ontario victims losing approximately $45 million. Unfortunately, this only represents approximately five per cent of the fraud victims that report their crimes to police.

Regardless of age, gender or location, everyone can take basic steps to better protect themselves from becoming a victim of fraud. Some basic tips include never giving out personal or financial information at the door, over the phone, by e-mail or through social media, or on to unsecured retail or dating websites.

adopt a pet

Caledon Animal Shelter currently has Barn Cats available for adoption.

Barn cats, or working cats help to control the rodent population and deter other stray cats from moving in.

These cats are not suitable as house pets as they are semi-feral and shy away from human contact.

All barn cats are healthy, spayed/neutered, vaccinated, micro-chipped & ear tipped. Barn cats are free of charge to qualifying applicants (donation appreciated to help us sustain this program).

The cat must be provided with heated shelter, daily food and veterinary care when required. When you bring the new cat(s) home, they will need to be confined to an escape-proof room or enclosure like a tack room, garage, or XL dog crate for 3-4 weeks while they adjust to their new surroundings. You will feed/water and clean the litter pan daily and provide a hiding spot during the confinement period. After this period of confinement, the cats will usually accept their new home and may be released. You will continue to provide daily food and water and allow them access to shelter such as your barn or garage.

We typically like to adopt Barn Cats in pairs, as they usually like company.

If you are interested in adopting a Barn Cat, please contact Caledon Animal Shelter for more information.

What to Know About Coyotes

The rolling hills of Caledon, with a population of nearly 70,000 people, is spread over 700 square kilometres and includes 260 km of publicly accessible trails, and more than 65 parks. Coyotes are very adaptable and can do well in any forested area. They are known to live in natural valley lands, ravines and urban parklands.

WHAT SHOULD I DO IF I COME INTO CONTACT WITH A COYOTE?

- Stay calm and wait until it moves on.
- Make yourself appear larger and make loud noises to scare them off.
- Don't turn your back. Don't run. Instead, back away and remain calm.
- Never approach or touch a wild animal.
- If it poses an immediate threat or danger to public safety — call 911

WHAT ABOUT MY PET?

- Keep dogs inside at night.
- Clean up after your dog. Coyotes are attracted to animal feces.
- Spay and neuter your dogs. Coyotes are attracted to, and can mate with, domestic dogs that have not been spayed or neutered.
- Build a dog run. A properly constructed dog run can help keep your pets safe, whether your yard is fenced or not.
- Keep cats indoors at all times.
- When out walking your pets, ensure they are kept on a short leash or enclosed in your yard.

CONTACT

For more information, contact the Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry toll free at 1.800.667.1950 or visit mnr.gov.on.ca. If a coyote is posing an immediate concern to public safety, please contact Caledon OPP at 1.888.310.1122.

Andrea End is joining the “Vital” Show at Headwaters Art

Written By CONSTANCE SCRAFIELD

Even though Andrea End lives in Richmond Hill, she told the Citizen, “Three years ago, they held an open juried show and invited artists from across Ontario to submit their work, which I did. At that show, I decided to join Headwaters Arts. I think it’s in the interest of the group to have artists come in from outside the area.

“I paint with gouache, which is opaque watercolour. I haven’t seen a lot of artists use it on its own. It was used by graphic artists in the early 20th Century when they were making those big colourful posters for shows and advertising.

“So, it’s not a new medium; it’s been around for quite a while. For me, being an artist was just a question. I went to school for commercial art and it was that medium that we used and, when I started painting, that was what I used because I really love it. It’s used more overseas than here.”

She remarked, “I never did work as a commercial artist. I did the schooling, finished school and, then, I did some social work. I worked for developmentally delayed adults associated with Haliburton Community Living.”

Explaining her connection to the area, she commented, “My family had a cottage up there and I lived there for two years. I worked at two part jobs, with Community Living and a little deli. I could pay my rent and paint; take part in art shows during the summer. It was really nice.”

Time well spent in her early 20’s, Ms End went to Europe too.

“My parents came here from Austria. I back packed, took some time in Europe. I have family in Vienna. I travelled in France as well.”

Married with children in their early twenties, she said, “My oldest is an architect and my second son is in commerce. My daughter is working.

“I have been painting. There was a ten year period when the kids were really young when I wasn’t painting, never enough time to start something and see it through.”

Of her subject matter, “I’m drawn definitively to landscapes, the way the sun light is: artists often say it’s the light they’re trying to paint.

“As I continued to paint, I realized it’s water, the water is what I want to paint. People that are really drawn to the water that I paint. A lot of my reference material comes from photos. I take a lot of pictures at the cottage. I don’t paint outdoors; I paint in my studio. The paintings I’m taking to the Vital show at Headwaters, this is a collection. It was a decision to take away the land and just paint the water.”

One of her methods for seeing what she wants to paint now is “I like being out in the canoe and setting the camera low down in the water. You just the ripples and the light from the sun.”

She related a very interesting story about her creative life when she did not have the time to paint. “I was thinking, what did I begin with when I did start painting again? I like working with my hands and making things. When I paint, it’s all about colour painting and the mixing. To me, it wasn’t worth starting that. This is how I started.

“We had a lot of those photos of the kids and doubles. I had a drawer full of photos that I never threw out, that were blurry and rejects. I cut them up into little pieces and I separated them into colours and I made the cut up pieces on a table in my bedroom, so I could leave it out. If I had half an hour, I could slowly make this and it was like making it with mosaics. It was a trillium forest scene. It took me three years to finish but it allowed me to do it in little pockets of time and not have to rush.”

Finally finished, “I did have it at a show in 2008 and won a honourable mention, which pleased me. It’s not for sale.

“That’s what happened. I made this piece with the trillium forest and I thought, when I get back to painting, I’m going to paint this same scene and see how that goes. Now, that painting is an art rental piece in an office. “Over the years, I always wanted to paint larger. When it’s finished or two thirds done, I look at it. There is always an association with water, from cottage and Lake Ontario. My mom packed us up every summer and we went up to the cottage. It was wonderful.”

More adventures of her early twenties, “I worked for Via Rail, for three years. One of the benefits was you can ride the train for free. Three co-workers and I, we went to the West Coast; we went to Vancouver.”

She thought about that trip. “We went down on the beach. It was a cloudy day, really moody. I just remember walking along the shore - it was gorgeous. I just went down to the water and the rocks. That was my first sight of the ocean.”

“I love Lake Superior. My husband’s family is in Winnipeg. We went every two years with the kids. We camped on the way and our tent was set up, facing west, looking out over the lake. Every time we would go and on the way back, we’d go there and I would think, okay, I’ll be here again in two years.”

As to the future, “I want to be able to keep painting and move somewhere north. Where would we like to be? The cottage is near Minden on Gull Lake. It’s a really rugged piece of land; you have to walk down 100 steps to the cottage.”

“I would love to be living in a small community by the water. Richard and I were in Mono Cliffs recently. We really like hiking too.”

Lots to consider and no real hurry about it.

Ms End’s paintings are part, with several other visual artists, of the upcoming show and sale, Vital Signs, at Headwaters Gallery in the Alton Mill Arts Centre in Alton, running from Wednesday, March 6 to April 20. The official opening is Saturday, March 9 from 1:00 pm to 4:00 pm at the Alton Mill, in the village of Alton. Entrance to the Gallery is free. # BUSINESS in Caledon

Tips to help you through tax-filing season

(NC) The April 30 deadline to get all your T-4s and T-3s in order is fast approaching. Here are some tips to help you avoid the headaches and sail through the process with ease:

Track your donations. If you donate to multiple registered charities throughout the year, including Amnesty International, then you're eligible to earn a bit of cash back on your annual income tax return. Donating to worthwhile causes, while accruing money in return? Sounds like a win-win. But it's up to you to keep track of which organizations you help fund. An Excel spreadsheet or a simple list on your phone will help you remember.

Keep your receipts safe and easily accessible. It's not just about tracking your donations, but you also need the receipts to back up those claims. Start a tax folder in your desk to safely store paper receipts or an email folder for electronic stubs.

Ask a professional. If your taxes are complicated or you find yourself getting stuck, then don't hesitate to contact an accountant for help. It's worth the extra cash to avoid making a mistake.

Be on time. You could be dinged if you're late for tax season. It's better to file early with missed paperwork, than to pay the costs of filing late. You can always request an adjustment if you discover that something is amiss.

Damage from SNC-Lavalin affair may drastically hurt Liberals re-election bid

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau is knee deep in trouble as a political firestorm erupted on Parliament Hill.

An automated telephone survey by Forum Research found that 42 per cent of decided and leaning voters would support the Conservative Party in a federal election, according to the Star. The Liberals followed with 33 per cent of respondents indicating they would support the party, while 12 per cent said they intend or would likely vote for the New Democratic Party.

This followed a testimony by Jody Wilson-Raybould where she laid out a detailed and damning account of how she and her staff were subjected to what she called a "consistent and sustained" effort by many people within the reigning government to politically interfere in her roles as the Attorney General of Canada to secure a deferred prosecution agreement with SNC-Lavalin, according to the Toronto Star.

Montreal based-SNC-Lavalin and two of its subsidiaries had mounting charges against them by the RCMP for bribing officials in Libya for almost $50 million and defrauding Libyan organizations for about $120 million.

As their troubles worsened, they lobbied out to the Federal Liberals for a plea deal called a 'deferred prosecution agreement' after their dealings in Libya.

They started doing this just four months after Trudeau's government won power from the former Conservatives regime.

Like plea deals involving individuals, these agreements suspend criminal prosecutions if the corporation agrees to pay fines and cooperate with authorities.

A criminal conviction on the charges would have barred it from Canadian government contracts for a decade.

The Liberals tabled a 582-page omnibus bill that includes the introduction of remediation agreements. The Bill becomes law during the summer after brief discussion at the House of Commons finance committee.

The federal public prosecutor's office decides not to offer SNC-Lavalin a remediation agreement. SNC-Lavalin said it 'strongly disagrees' with the decision and votes to keep pushing for a remediation. The company asked a Federal Court judge to force prosecutors to reconsider.

This follows meetings with Quebec Premier Francois Legault with, Gerald Butts, Trudeau's former principal secretary with Wilson-Raybould and a resignation from Treasury Board President Scott Brison, a shuffle within cabinet to move Wilson-Raybould out of justice into the position of veteran affairs – which some consider a demotion – and on top of this, an even damaging report by the Globe and Mail citing unnamed sources who alleged officials in Trudeau's office pressured the former Attorney General to overrule federal prosecutors by offering a remediation agreement to SNC-Lavalin.

Trudeau denied allegations, Wilson-Raybould wouldn't confirm anything all while she resigns from cabinet and Liberal MPs try to block her from providing a testimony.

In defence of the Montreal engineering juggernaut, and rather himself, the Prime Minister said his job was to stand up for jobs right across the country thereby merititing his actions.

Wilson Raybould said the events included 11 people, excluding herself and her political staff, from the Prime Minister's Office, the Privy Council Office and the Office of the Minister of Finance.

The whole saga seems like one disaster after another. One where a deal was supposed to occur under the table with no repercussions. There's absolutely no reason not to take Wilson-Raybould's allegations against the Trudeau government seriously, as they are made by one of his most senior members. Until then she had restrictions placed on her limiting her from speaking publicly.

Wilson-Raybould believe, and correctly, that an attorney general must not be subject to political pressure from her own government to intervene in matters before the courts. It was clear, by the timeline of ensuing events, that efforts were made to persuade her to one side.

What has been alleged is catastrophic. Canadians cannot look away nor can the government. What the Prime Minister does next is yet to be determined. Conservative Leader Andrew Scheer has called for Trudeau's resignation while NDP Leader Jagmeet Singh said it underscored his own party's demands for an independent public inquiry.

Canadians cannot look away. Wilson-Raybould stood her ground when she felt she was being pressed as attorney general.

The Conservatives and NDP have more than enough fuel here to dispense to the public during advertisement campaigns in the months leading up to the October election, and while the Liberals and Trudeau claim they did nothing wrong, maybe the damage inflicted is too much to recover from. Or, it could not. Canadians may forgive him and not care at the slightest of this debacle and continue on to support the Liberals.

We will see in the fall whether or not Canadians can stand by Trudeau and watch him lead the country for four more years.

Our Readers Write Giving thanks to the community

Re: Kudos to Caledon Councillors and Our Mayor, opinion, Feb. 28

Thank you for the piece in the Caledon Citizen this week. Since we are extending kudos, I would like to do so through you via a future piece to the many people who attended the meetings regarding the asphalt plant proposal. In specific terms, I would like to say thank you to:

The many women who attended the October 2018 meeting and the January meetings who had to arrange day-care for their children after already having a very busy day looking after their families;

The journalists who attended the meetings and gave an accurate account of what occurred;

The many members of the public who after work, drove to Caledon East from Bolton and from greater distances to attend meetings which they knew will affect their Quality of Life and in particular, the health and safety of their family members. In doing so, they gave up their own time and scarce resources on gas to attend the meetings;

To the many persons who had the courage and determination to attend the October meeting and the January meetings to put forward their/our opinions and concerns;

To those who read the newspapers and who care enough to prepare letters to Council expressing their legitimate concerns and expectations of Council to properly represent the people who elected them to office and who will continue to make sure that Council members represent their constituents properly, thus making democracy stronger. Without the regular input of people there is no transparency and accountability;

To the employees who made the physical and other arrangements at Town Council so that the public could clearly make our interests communicated and understood. The Mayor and elected councillors are accountable to the public, not to themselves. The mayor and councillors are very well paid out of our tax dollars. This also applies to the top guns in the Town's bureaucracy.

When elected representatives act according to the community's best interests and concerns, they are doing their jobs as we all expect. When people decide to run for public office, they should only do so out of a commitment to the public. Sadly, these days, in my opinion we often see too many politicians at all levels who run for public office because it is a good gig or to satisfy their own egos or/and because of their own business and other interests.

No human being is insignificant

We all question the meaning of it all, and our role in the big picture.

A co-worker pondered the meaning of life the other day in the office. He wondered just what we're here for, since we're mere "ants" in the cosmos, having little impact on anything. We scurry along in our lives, get married, have children, slave away at our jobs, all to what end? For most of us here in the "advanced" western world, it's to survive financially, to pay bills and own "things."

Being older and, hopefully wiser, this old dog tried to offer an explanation.

It's true that our species and our planet is minute in there are five to 10 times more stars in the universe than there are grains of sand on all the world's beaches. Pretty humbling.

But back to the tiny beings that inhabit our blue-green ball flying through space at break-neck speeds.

I believe each and every one of us here for a reason. We wouldn't be here if we weren't needed in some way. Carl Jung noted that a human being would not grow to be 70 or 80 if our longevity had no meaning for our species.

Our ancestors grew and evolved by telling stories – it was their only way of documenting mankind's history. Today, we record the human saga daily, in a multitude of ways. Each tiny snippet, each newspaper article, social media post and every sentiment expressed by the masses, has some meaning.

How do we figure out what the purpose of it all is? Well that's the ultimate riddle, isn't it? I think we find it through trial and error, through all the experiences that make up our lives. Since we're not given a road map, we trudge along, sometimes meeting dead-ends, and other times bumping into things. That's part of the fun.

Some of us exist in relative anonymity, but there may be a reason for that, too.

It's been said that one of the saddest things is a life wasted – that a person can be born, live and die without anyone noticing.

Our raison d'être may be as simple as falling in love, raising a family and growing old. It may be as complex as being a mentor or achieving greatness in science, business or the arts. It may be that we give up our life, and our organs, so that others may live. It may simply be to bring joy to others while we're here, and learn a few things on our journey to pass along.

Few careers involve contemplating existence, making changes or contributing to the very fabric of humanity. But some do.

I have met trailblazers, military veterans, space explorers, as well as coffee shop owners and talented bartenders. I've encountered countless "inquiring minds." People are like playing cards in one massive house of cards. We all know what happens when just one is removed.

There are also occupations that, in a way, do aim to preserve humankind's very existence. Our planet is so very fragile, that any massive changes to our climate, pollination habits and ultimately oxygen levels in our atmosphere, could spell disaster for us all. And holed up in a laboratory somewhere, someone is researching these things. Thank you!

You could drive yourself crazy trying to decipher the infinity of the universe; the odds that human beings actually make a difference in the cosmos. We are infinitesimal, that's true. But even ants, mosquitoes and amoeba have defined duties and roles to play. They are part of the chain that is, well, everything.

There are many takes on human existence and which aspects are deemed most important.

The jury's out on this, and perhaps will always be on adjournment. Mariella Frostrup was quite right in noting we can sit around waiting for something to happen that will make sense of our existence, or we can get out there and find our purpose.

The odds of each of us even existing and being here today are so great, it's incomprehensible. We know that one day we'll die, but until that day Richard Dawkins says we "should count ourselves fantastically lucky to get our decades in the sun."

We're likely the only species on earth who see our existence as a puzzle to solve. As smart as apes and dolphins are, I doubt they spend much time dwelling on the big picture. But I could be wrong.

In his Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy novels, Douglas Smith espoused that the dolphins, being much smarter than humans, knew of the Earth's impending doom, so they simply left, after trying to warn us. Their final words were "so long and thanks for the fish."

Maybe, instead of asking why, life's most urgent question is "what are you doing for others?"

Unfortunately, we in west are so caught up in the economics of it all, we don't spend a lot of time contemplating our place in the world. But just what does it take to make a difference?

Well, my daughter Lexie spent her university reading week in the small coastal village of Matelot, Trinidad. It's so small and seemingly insignificant there are very few references for the place on the Internet. The only thing I could find that was it's one of the most remote places on the island, a community that, despite all the odds, has survived and somewhat thrived. And that's why

Lexie is there – for a cultural exchange, and to help out in the local schools.

She didn't mind being cut off the rest of the world. She and her team of volunteers were there to learn and interact with their fellow human beings, who seldom venture outside their district.

Does this matter in the big picture? Well, it mattered to those villagers and young students who were touched by outsiders. It matters to the team of volunteers who will take this experience with them as they carry on and try to change the world.

So, yes, it does matter, very much.

Not all of us have the nerve to venture to remote corners of the world and volunteer our time. But we do come together to support our own communities and we do impact the lives of our friends, neighbours and acquaintances. We give from the heart.

And that very much matters. That's why we're here!

March is full of events in Caledon

February can have its challenges with our shared frustration over severe winter weather and dangerous driving conditions. This is when I'm grateful for our Caledon and Peel Region roads crews. They work long hours in bad weather this time of year to clear snow and keep on top of icy conditions. A big shout out to them for their hard work.

February is Black History Month and to celebrate we partnered with the North Peel Community Church to set-up a display in the Town Hall atrium. If you haven't been to Town Hall lately stop by before the end of the month and take in some local history. You can also view the new Tremaine Map which was kindly donated to the Town and restored. The map by George Tremaine was created in 1859 and is still used today by our heritage team.

March will be a busy month for public information meetings and we invite you to stay connected and get involved in some important local issues.

On March 6th at the Albion Bolton Community Complex was the Climate Change Open House, this is an opportunity for residents to learn about the local impacts of climate change and what they can do to help make a difference. For more information visit caledon.ca/events

There are several Transit Feasibility Study public information meetings taking place in March, this is one of the biggest issues I heard in the election and town staff are working hard to make sure we consult with the community to create a made in Caledon transit plan. For information on dates and locations caledon.ca/tfs

On March 19th, at 6:00pm there will be a public information meeting on a number of proposed zoning by-law amendments at Town Hall. One that may be of general interest is the proposed town wide zoning amendment for cannabis production facilities.

And finally, I want to highlight the Big Brothers, Big Sisters Tim Hortons' Bowl for Kids' Sake was held on March 6th 12:00noon to 2:00pm at Skyview Lanes Bolton. Big Brothers, Big Sisters quietly make a big difference in Cale-don by providing programs and support to vulnerable children and youth. It would be great to see Caledon residents and business supporting this worthwhile cause by either donating, spreading the word or coming out to bowl. If you're interested, please contact my office 905.584.2272 ext. 5130 or mayor@caledon.ca for more information or to register.

Stay warm and safe and rest assured the spring is on the way!

Seniors and people with disabilities need accessible transportation

I met with a man named David to hear about his experiences using CCS' accessible transportation. He told me he's used it for eight years. "It started with the doctor prescribing trips to the gym and now I use it for doctors' visits and shopping trips". David said that the shopping trips are a necessary errand and because of the CCS bus, they also provide opportunities to meet people and have conversations. Some days this is the only conversation to be had. I'm immediately struck at just how important this service is for David and many others in Caledon. David has a chronic illness. "Without CCS providing me with rides I would not be able to live in the town and building I love".

If you can't get around in Caledon you're in trouble. I encourage our community's leaders to do something now. I appreciate that a transportation plan is being developed by the Town of Caledon. It has been in the works for a few years and one day will be a solid blueprint for Caledon's transportation services. In the meantime, I see immense challenges here and now in the lives of seniors and people with disabilities when they can't

Kudos to you too Caledon Citizens

Last week we wrote an article thanking our local politicians for all that they do. It generated some feedback (thanks J. Grogan et al) and initiated another conversation about who else in our community needs to be thanked. The crux of the feedback: that while politicians get paid for their community work, the single mom who drove home from work, arranged daycare and then attended a community meeting to voice her concerns deserved just as much thanks for her efforts. So too did the many other folks who came out to meetings, the journalists who cover meetings and town employees who help set up the facilities where meetings take place. Yes, I agree that each deserves thanks for helping to ensure democracy works but I stand by my original "Kudos." Politicians might get paid but they don't get paid nearly enough in terms of what they give back to the community. The column I wrote was not just about MJJJ Developments Asphalt Plant, but about all that we require of our local Councilors and Mayor.

That said - the feedback did make me think about whom else we should be thanking. There's a good chance I'd miss someone if I tried to list every community group, service organization or Town committee staffed by community members (ie: the Heritage Board or the Library Board) so instead, what I want to say today is "Kudos to you too Caledon Citizens." Our community is absolutely brimming over with civic-minded citizens who give back in a myriad of ways – very often behind the scenes, with no expectation (or desire) for thanks. We must all be grateful that they do.

These are the folks who drive home from work, arrange daycare and then attend a meeting of the local soccer club to help organize a season full of exercise and fun for little ones. The hockey and baseball and lacrosse parents who organize leagues, arrange referees, coach and who are team managers (a daunting task to be sure!) These are the "retired" seniors who donate their time and energy and driving skills to deliver Meals on Wheels or accompany a fellow senior to an important appointment. These are the folks who donate their time and talents to support the work of The Exchange, or the people who sit on Boards of Directors to help support, guide and share their expertise, helping non-profits succeed. The people who need our thanks include Rotarians, and Lions, Kinsmen and Optimists – groups who do good works both here and around the world. Organizers of Special Olympics Caledon must be thanked. Faith based volunteers must be thanked. All the local residents groups that support and speak out on behalf of their local neighbourhoods must be thanked as well as those who support conservation efforts, helping to keep Caledon beautiful. There are so many citizens who donate so much time, energy, labour and goodwill that get around. I volunteer for an organization that provides services. We don't like waiting for solutions when our most vulnerable residents are in trouble now and there is every reason to respond now. Planning and preparing is good.

I'm confident, were this paid labour, it would amount to a dollar figure in the millions. Communities can't really call themselves "community" without the existence of volunteers and so again, thanks to the citizen who reminded me, that Caledon citizens need to be thanked!

Next time you are out and about in our community and interact in some way with a sports group, a community service, a special event hosted by a service club and which is supporting Caledon – say thank you. Thank you to the people who donate their time and energy and talent to making Caledon the beautiful, vibrant and caring community it is. Kudos to you too Caledon Citizens!

Golden Hawks bow to Hornets in PJHL playoffs

Written By JAKE COURTEPATTE

As is the case year after year, the power and experience of the Alliston Hornets overwhelmed their opponents, beating out the Caledon Golden Hawks in the Provincial Junior Hockey League's Carruthers division semifinal over the weekend.

The third-ranked Golden Hawks took the best-of-seven series to five games before bowing out, sending the Hornets to the division championship.

Down two games to one heading into the week, Caledon returned to Caledon East Arena for what would be the second and last home game of the postseason in game four, falling 3 – 2 in a tightly played matchup.

Kegan Hoover got his team out front early in front of the hometown fans, posting his fourth goal of the postseason just over two minutes into the second period, though Alliston notched two of their own before the first buzzer.

Taking advantage of a double minor spearing call late in the second on Alliston's Joey Visconti, Andrew Woods buried for the Golden Hawks to tie it at two heading into the third.

It was Visconti who had the last laugh, however, potting the winning goal on an Alliston powerplay.

Sebastian Woods was stellar between the pipes in stopping forty Alliston shots.

Put into a do-or-die situation for game five, the Hawks were outmatched severely by a Hornets team hungry for another shot at the championship, with a final score of 7 – 1 putting the Golden Hawks season to bed for good.

Fittingly, it was Marc Simonetta that notched the final goal of the season for the Hawks with under a minute to play, one of many in what was a top-five scoring performance league-wide.

Despite the series loss, the Hawks accomplished their most successful season to date, finishing third in league standings while reaching the second round for the third time in the past four seasons.

The program also saw a breakout in scoring that was unmatched in the organization's nine year history, with captain Matt Magliozi putting up career numbers in his twilight year.

COMPETING UNTIL THE END: Caledon's Matthew Drumonde skates the puck up the ice in the Golden Hawks' 3 - 2 loss to the Alliston Hornets in game four of their PJHL playoff series.

Magliozi finished the regular season second in points and goals behind Alliston's Visconti, posting a total of 36 goals and 78 points. His 42 assists trailed only three other divisional players, including that of Simonetta, who finished one point shy of his teammate to rule the scoring leaderboard.

Woods, a steady presence between the pipes all season for the Golden Hawks, also stood out from his peers in posting the second most wins while also boasting the second highest save percentage.

Meanwhile it's old hat for the Hornets, who find themselves in the Carruthers division title series for the eleventh year in a row. It will be the first time in three seasons they will not be meeting with the Stayner Siskins, who surprisingly were walked all over by the Penetang Kings in a four-game sweep of their respective semifinal series. Action is set to get underway Thursday evening at Alliston's New Tecumseh Rec Centre.

The winner will go on to face either the Pollock division Mount Forest Patriots or Wingham Ironmen for the PJHL North conference title.

Caledon Senior Hockey League stats

Victor Marrelli's heroics led to a 5-4 win for the Jiffy Lube Oilers in an epic battle with Heart Lake Insurance for third place as the Caledon Senior Hockey League's regular season ended.

With time running out on Jiffy Lube Monday night, Marrelli finished off a natural hat trick in the third period for the win. That also nailed down the regular-season scoring title for Marrelli, as he finished with 37 goals and 26 assists for 63 points. Steve Smith of Yale Industrial Trucks and Mike Foley of Fines Ford Lincoln tied for second spot with 62 points each.

The loss dropped Heart Lake to last place in the six-team loop, as just three points separated the bottom four teams. Yale Industrial Trucks grabbed fourth place with a 12-4 whitewash of the regular-season champions, Rutherford Global Logistics, who may have been resting after clinching the title the week before. In the other game at Don Sheardown Memorial Arena, Fines Ford Lincoln took fifth place with a 9-6 win over second-place Grit Bagmen.

Jiffy Lube 5, Heart Lake Insurance 4

Jiffy Lube needed a tie or a win to clinch third place and Heart Lake took a 4-3 lead early in the third period on Mike Lo Dico's third goal of the game. But Marrelli scored his second goal less than two minutes later to tie the score. Heart Lake pressed hard but Jiffy Lube goaltender Vanni DiMarco stoned them late in the game on two breakaways. Heart Lake pulled goaltender Pat DiFrancesco in the last minute to push for the win but Marrelli's third goal with five seconds left in the game decided matters.

Jamie Hardman and Nick Pistilli both recorded a goal and an assist for Jiffy Lube. Jim Kutchera and John Pitsadiotis set up two goals each and single assists went to Rob Ianno and Rod Sinclair.

Lo Dico finished with three goals and one assist to lead Heart Lake. Jack Gibson added a goal and two assists. Bernie Tisdale and team rep Ian Kerr had two assists each while Frank McKay had one.

Yale 12, Rutherford 4

Ageless Bob McHardy had the night of the year for Yale with two goals and six assists in the goal-fest. Bill Herder scored three times and added two assists. Jim Sabaziotis and Steve Smith both had two goals and two assists. Dave Armstrong bagged a goal and three assists. Jiri Urban had a goal and an assist and Kyle Smith scored the other goal. Paul Agius notched three helpers with Bill Moyer and Roger Sinclair netting two each.

Greg Frangakis and Jim Rogers were the leading skaters for Rutherford, as Frangakis scored all four of their goals and Rogers assisted on all of them. Andrew Pearce drew two assists and Carlo Fantin had one.

Fines Ford 9, Grit 6

Team rep Nick Taccogna celebrated his birthday (a really big number) with four goals and an assist for Fines. Mike Foley got in on the fun with one goal and five assists with Steve Tarasco chipping in a goal and four assists. Daryl Lee was good for two goals and an assist. Mike McNamara added a goal and two assists. Santo Gazzolla had one assist.

Don Neri was the top man for Grit with three goals and an assist. Gary Hughes and Jeff Boyles each managed a goal and two assists. Brett Smith scored the other goal. Bruno Fracassi had three helpers and Alex Dorosh had one.

NASMM National Association of Senior Move Managers Premier Providers of Senior Relocation

By Brenda Alderdice

When I first purchased my Downsizing Diva franchise in 2011 it was very clear I needed to become a member of NASMM. They are the leading membership organization for Managers. NASMM members are reviewed for insurance and experience requirements and are required to take classes in Senior Move Management Safety and Ethics prior to acceptance.

Each year NASMM holds a conference for their members. This year I will be attending NASMM 2019 in San Diego in early March. I will connect with hundreds of Senior Move Management professionals gathering to exchange resources, strategies, solutions, and more.

Senior Move Managers in the United States, Canada and abroad. NASMM is recognized for its innovative programs and expertise related to Senior Move Management, transition and relocation issues affecting older adults.

Founded in 2002, NASMM strives to facilitate the physical and emotional aspects of relocation for older adults by increasing industry awareness, establishing an extensive referral network of Senior Move Managers, enhancing the professional competence of members, and promoting the delivery of Senior Move Management services with compassion and integrity. The term Senior Move Manager is a registered service mark owned by NASMM. Only NASMM members can call themselves Senior Move

Over three days of learning, growing, and finding inspiration, NASMM 2019 will equip me with a year's worth of personal learning to share with my employees and my clients.

I welcome you to visit www.nasmm.org to learn more about this organization.
