C3 Celebrates 30 years with Past, Present, and Future

BY RILEY MURPHY
LOCAL JOURNALISM
INITIATIVE REPORTER

Looking out at the C3 James Dick Quarry, it can be hard to believe that it once held not an ounce of sand.

On Saturday, July 19, the quarry was filled with families and past and present athletes enjoying the beach, waterpark, and various other activities.

C3 Canadian Cross Training Club celebrated their 30th anniversary with a BBQ and a trip down memory lane, with speeches and stories from past attendees.

Barrie Shepley, head coach at C3, spoke of a time when there was no driveway, or even electricity on the site.

"Almost all of this has been done by complete absolute volunteers," he said. "The people who were coming out here when the weeds were literally right across the beach, there were no lane ropes, there were no swim buoys, there was no place to put down your stuff, and a whole bunch of moms and dads and volunteers agreed to get together."

"Literally every ounce of sand that you see here was laid down by a volunteer," he continued. "All of the gravel driveway, all of the infrastructure, what we see in front of us, and if these people hadn't believed in what we were doing, there was absolutely no way we could be there."

When Shepley was in New Zealand for the 1994 World Championship, he wondered how a country of 3.4 million people could create Olympic champions in such a small place.

Legacy Golf Tournament launched to support Caledon Agricultural Society

BY RILEY MURPHY
LOCAL JOURNALISM
INITIATIVE REPORTER

The Allan and Anne Thompson Community Fund has pledged its commitment to the Caledon Agricultural Society’s (CAS) fundraising efforts for their new build with the launch of the first-ever Legacy Golf Classic.

CAS will be the Major Grant Recipient of the inaugural event.

CAS is currently planning to expand facilities on their existing fairground property to meet the needs of the Caledon community with a new community centre.

The proposed centre will enhance the community in numerous ways.

The CAS said it will provide a focus for education, social enrichment, physical activity, educational growth, conservation encouragement, and strengthen community links.

The importance lies in the community centre being close and highly accessible, especially to seniors, as there is currently a lack of facilities in the proposed area.

With the large capital campaign underway in the community, the Thompsons believed they could do more to augment their Fund’s ongoing support for Caledon charities and the Campaign, and a golf tournament at TPC Toronto at Osprey Valley was their first pick.

“This is the fair board’s most ambitious fundraising effort in history and we wanted to do what we could to help support their efforts,” says Allan Thompson.

The Allan and Anne Thompson Community Fund was established as a permanent legacy fund through the Brampton and Caledon Community Foundation in 2022.

Interest earned from the Fund is used to support an annual grant to a community charity.

This year, it’s through the inaugural Legacy Golf Classic.

Jim Boyd, President & CEO at Brampton and Caledon Community Foundation, said it’s an honour for the Thompsons to include them in this.

“The Brampton and Caledon Community Foundation is proud to hold the Allan and Anne Thompson Community Fund. Allan and Anne are tremendous supporters of the Caledon community. Their charitable contributions over the years have been remarkable, but this year goes above and beyond. The Foundation is honoured to partner with Allan and Anne, the Caledon Agricultural Society and TPC Toronto at Osprey Golf in support of the Caledon Agricultural Society’s capital construction Project,” shared Boyd.

He shared with the Citizen it’s great to see their mission at Brampton and Caledon Community Foundation exemplified through the event.

“It breeds a lot of good feeling in the community that there are philanthropists out there that are endeavoring to support the charities in the community, and it’s recognition that the charities are an important part of the community,” he said. “I think it sets an example as well as what can be done to raise money for projects and programs in the community.”

The tagline for the event is “Honouring Tradition and Driving Impact”

“For the Caledon Agricultural Society, it speaks to the longevity and historical community contributions while acknowledging their exciting vision for the property moving forward. It speaks to the work Chris and the TPC Toronto at Osprey Valley team are doing to advance his family’s decades-long vision for the property. And it aligns with our own values and the impact we hope our Fund can make in our community,” says Anne Thompson, referencing the tagline.

Anne Thompson shared with the Citizen that the proposed CAS community centre is an essential opportunity for the Caledon Community.

“For Allan and I, we decided that, as part of their capital campaign team, we needed to do something to really kickstart it. A golf tournament seems to be a really popular way these days,” she said. “The Humeniuk family themselves are very generous with the community and charity and so for us, it seemed like a really good event to launch the campaign.”

Anne shared that, besides fundraising, they hope the tournament will be a great opportunity for camaraderie in the community, as well as raise awareness for CAS and their community centre.

She said Caledon has always stepped up when it comes to community fundraisers and charities, stating that the community has always felt extremely supportive.

“We want it to be about having fun and coming together for a good cause,” she said. “We just want everyone to have the same kind of success and fun from making a difference in their community that Allan and I are feeling by partnering in this project.”

Ed Taccone, President of CAS, told the Citizen that he feels extremely honoured.

He shared the society is working hard to raise funds, and this is an excellent opportunity to raise money.

“As a matter of fact, we had a complete survey down on the fairgrounds,” shared Taccone. “This is how confident we are.”

He said their architect is now working on the drawings to start the process as well.

“It’s great to have such a powerful committee that we’re going to see this through. That’s our goal.”

Taccone added that, through the tournament, he hopes a sense of commitment will develop among the community and residents, and more people will come on board.

He shared that northwest Caledon is owed a building, a space where residents can gather and enjoy.

Taccone said they are currently seeking individuals and businesses to assist with the silent auction, which will be featured at the Legacy Golf Tournament and beyond.

Funds raised from the auction will go towards the new build.

The Legacy Golf Classic will be held on September 3 at TPC Toronto at Osprey Valley.

Caledon, OLT say no to Caledon East Tim Hortons drive-thru

BY RILEY MURPHY
LOCAL JOURNALISM
INITIATIVE REPORTER

A battle that has been fought for Caledon East since 2020 is finally over.

The Ontario Land Tribunal (OLT) has dismissed appeals brought forward by Ganni Properties Inc. regarding multiple proposed developments in Caledon East.

The proposed Tim Hortons by the developer would be situated at 16054, 16060, and 16068 Airport Road in Caledon East and would have required the demolition of heritage buildings located at 16054 and 16060 Airport Road.

The proposed development included a drive-through restaurant and two commercial units.

The Town’s Official Plan and Secondary Plan policies discourage drive-through service facilities in the historic village core.

In 2024, the development application from Ganni Properties to amend the Town’s Official Plan, zoning by-law, and site plan was reviewed and denied by the Town’s Planning staff.

It was stated in the 2024 media release from the Town of Caledon the “development would create traffic and site access issues, and it required the demolition of two significant heritage properties which have since received formal designations.”

There were also concerns regarding pedestrian and vehicle circulation and safety.

Following this, the development applicant appealed the Town’s decision to oppose the original application, as well as the Town’s by-laws enacted in June 2024, which protected 16054 and 16060 Airport Road.

As stated in the original media release, Caledon Council, staff, and residents have stood together on this issue since 2020.

Now, on July 15, the OLT supported the Town’s position.

This included the protection of the designated heritage properties on Airport Road and the preservation of Caledon East’s “small-town character.”

ter.”

“We are pleased that the Tribunal recognized the importance of maintaining the unique character and heritage of Caledon East,” said Mayor Annette Groves. “This decision to dismiss the proposed Tim Horton’s reinforces our community’s vision for thoughtful, compatible development that respects our past while planning for our future.”

The Tribunal found the proposed development did not conform to the Town’s planning framework, citing concerns related to heritage conservation, urban design, traffic safety, and landscaping, as shared in the release.

Ward 3 Councillor Doug Maskell said the proposal for a Tim Horton’s restaurant with drive-thru service has been “hanging over the heads” of residents and businesses in Caledon East for four years.

He stated that at public meetings held in 2021 and 2023, there was considerable opposition to the proposal at that location, based on concerns about pedestrian safety, traffic congestion, and noise and light pollution.

“The OLT decision clearly acknowledged that the concerns raised by residents, businesses, Councillors and Town staff were valid,” shared Councillor Maskell.

“The day after the OLT decision was posted, I paid a visit to many of the businesses in Caledon East to share the ‘good news’ with them. At each stop, I received the same reaction; first, disbelief that the Town had actually won; second, relief that the process was finally over. All were thankful for the staff and financial resources that contributed to this successful outcome,” he said. “The OLT decision is a win for residents, a win for businesses and a win for Caledon East.”

Whitehead is 2025 Community Champion

Whitehead came to Bolton when she was four-years-old, and although she had plans to move elsewhere, she never did end up leaving.

Her volunteer life began when she was just 12, when she started helping at the United Church with Sunday School and the choir.

Looking at Whitehead's long list of accomplishments, it would be safe to assume she never stopped volunteering after that.

She shared her volunteer projects often led from one to another.

Whitehead has been a Director for the Albion Bolton Historical Society for more than 25 years, but she initially had no intention of joining, she joked.

It wasn't until she found herself cleaning out her parents' attic that her curiosity about Caledon's past was piqued.

Her parents had settled in Bolton in 1941, and over the years, collected a multitude of things.

"They were both teachers and involved in the Masonic Lodge, Eastern Star, things like that. I just found so much that gave me a visual picture of life in Bolton the way it was, and that sparked an interest," she shared.

Following this, Whitehead got involved with the Bolton Fair, where she helped with the antique showings.

She said that this is where her local knowledge began to expand significantly.

"Showing my Bolton things, and being there to hear other people talk about their Bolton things, it's always the stories that are involved; it isn't the object itself that's so important," said Whitehead.

Whitehead became an Associate Director of Antiques for the Albion Bolton Fair in 1995, and remains so to this day.

She shared that, in her role as a Director for the Albion Bolton Historical Society, and as the oldest member on the Board raised in Bolton, she can often answer questions that no one else can.

But she said it isn't so much the answering questions that makes her enjoy the role, but talking to people.

"I feel I can be useful. I meet people, and I learn things," she said.

With the Albion Bolton Historical Society, Whitehead spearheaded the Trillium Grant for the society to raise money for the display panels at the Humber River Heritage Park.

The display is now a prominent historical feature in the town.

Whitehead's volunteer past often aligns with history, as she was a part of the school reunion committee for her old school, The Albert Street School, here in Bolton.

She said although it felt like herding cats at the beginning, they were able to hold many reunions in Bolton for 15 successful years.

The school burned down in 1968, making it difficult to pass down the reunions to younger generations who had only briefly attended.

She also currently volunteers at her church and joked that she has volunteered there "forever."

Whitehead began volunteering there in 1960 and given her time as the church historian.

She said she was glad she had volunteered at each place she had in the past, and that she got to meet a lot of people while doing so.

Despite all her work for the community, Whitehead said she was "absolutely stunned" and "humbled" to learn that she had been named the 2025 Community Champion.

"There are so many people who do so much more than I do. I found out when somebody from the Town phoned me and said that this had happened. I don't think I believed it," she remarked, laughing.

Whitehead encourages the community to use their own time to volunteer.

"Come out to the historical site. Come out to the fair. Volunteer, use your time. Anything that interests you in Bolton, be a soccer coach. Volunteer for CCS. There are all sorts of opportunities," she said. "And you will meet people, you will learn things. It's good."

Break in at Red Swan Pizza Bolton serves as reminder to invest in your business’ security, says owner

BY RILEY MURPHY
LOCAL JOURNALISM
INITIATIVE REPORTER

On July 17, at 3 a.m., the front door of Red Swan Pizza in Bolton was shattered, and their cash drawer was stolen.

OPP was on the scene within minutes thanks to their security system, but the suspect had already left the premises.

Owner Milind Bhardwaj said they were very much saved because of their security system.

He wondered what else the thief might have stolen had they had hours within the business instead of minutes.

“He opened that door by breaking the glass from inside with his hand. He came in and within five, six seconds, he took the cash drawer, basically pulled all the wiring and he just went out,” he shared.

Red Swan Pizza in Bolton had just opened its doors in February.

Bhardwaj took to social media and local community groups to share what had happened to his store.

“My whole reason to write in the community is so that they can stay alert,” he said.

He received hundreds of reactions and comments to his post, offering different solutions and suggestions from people in the community.

“People were extremely helpful,” said Bhardwaj.

But his main focus is now spreading the message that everyone should be proactive when it comes to safety.

“Break-ins can happen in houses, garages, but businesses are easy targets because, at night, nobody is inside,” he said. “[Everybody should] have a security system in place so everyone can be proactive.”

Bhardwaj wanted to ensure that the idea of proactiveness was conveyed to everyone in the community. The Caledon Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) released a statement on July 17 they responded to four separate break-ins, including the incident at Red Swan Pizza.

“On July 17, 2025, officers from the Caledon Detachment responded to two break-ins at a commercial plaza, in the area of Highway 50 and Parr Boulevard, Bolton,” said Police.

“A third break-in was reported at another local business, in the area of McEwan Drive East and Highway 50, Bolton. An additional break-in was reported at a fourth local business, in the area of Highway 50 and Hopcroft Road, Bolton. In each event, the suspect(s) gained entry or attempted to by physical force while the businesses were closed.”

Investigators are currently requesting surveillance and dashcam footage from any businesses or vehicles between Queensgate Boulevard and Mayfield Road, Bolton, during the hours of 2:15 am and 3:45 am on July 17, 2025.

This footage can be submitted online at www.bit.ly/3IFJ8gW.

Anyone with information regarding these incidents is asked to contact the Caledon Community Street Crime Unit (CSCU) at (905) 584-2241, citing report number RM25168062.

Information can also be provided anonymously by contacting Peel Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477) or online at www.peel-crimestoppers.ca.

IMPAIRED DRIVERS

Officers from the Caledon Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) have charged two drivers involved in two separate collisions with impaired operation.

“On July 11, 2025, shortly after 10:30 p.m., Caledon OPP responded to a single vehicle collision on Old School Road near Creditview Road in the Town of Caledon,” say Police. “During the course of the investigation, it was learned that the driver’s ability to operate a motor vehicle was impaired by alcohol and was subsequently arrested.

As a result, Chandandeep Singh, 30, of Brampton was charged with:

- Operation while impaired - blood alcohol concentration (80 plus)

The charges have not been proven.

“Four days later, on July 15, 2025, at approximately 12:00 a.m., Caledon OPP responded to a two-vehicle collision on McLaughlin Road just north of Mayfield Road in the Town of Caledon. During the course of the investigation, it was learned that one of the driver’s ability to operate a motor vehicle was impaired by alcohol and was subsequently arrested.”

As a result, Dalwinder Jot Singh, 28, of Brampton was charged with:

- Operation while impaired - blood alcohol concentration (80 plus)

The charges have not been proven.

Both accused are scheduled to appear at the Ontario Court of Justice on July 31, 2025, to answer for the charges. Both drivers’ licences were suspended for 90 days and the vehicle impounded for seven.

“Some drivers continue to take unnecessary chances,” say Police. “Motorists are reminded that no amount of alcohol or drugs in your system is safe when driving and novice class drivers are required to have a blood alcohol concentration of zero while driving. If you plan on drinking or consuming drugs, plan to not drive. Instead, arrange for a designated driver, take a taxi or public transit, or come up with another plan that takes impaired driving out of the picture. If you suspect that someone is driving while impaired by alcohol or drugs, it is important to call 9-1-1 to report it.”

Theatre Orangeville’s Young Company musical takes stage at Opera House this weekend

BY CONSTANCE SCRAFELD

This weekend is Theatre Orangeville’s Young Company’s musical, Hadestown – Teen Edition, a powerful show that is completely different from everything they have ever done.

It’s more challenging on every level, exciting and life-changing for the young actors. Four performances are on this weekend from Friday, July 25, through Sunday, July 27.

“This cast of 18 young actors are exceeding expectations,” declared Jennifer Stewart, Theatre Orangeville’s new artistic director.

Stewart was speaking to the Citizen by telephone from the Orangeville Opera House, where she and the Young Company cast were doing their first tech rehearsal in the theatre.

“They’re experiencing a grand sweep with this blend of Greek mythology, Romeo and Juliet, mixed with a modern twist, to bring determination and hope. This is nothing like anything they’ve ever done- thoughtful, intelligent, really stretching their dancing, singing and acting. This is challenging and super rewarding,” said Stewart.

For Stewart, in her first time directing for Theatre Orangeville, it has been weeks of seeing the young thespians grow. When asked why she went with such a challenging show, she noted that it was the Young Advisory Committee that proposed it for Young Company this year.

“It’s about teenagers,” she said. “It is very poignant to hear them speak these words, the Romeo and Juliet story fresh and new, these actors are really saying.”

Stewart noted the impact this show is having on these teens is a life-changing experience for some who are really young.

networking with Theatre Orangeville’s office team to promote the show, amid the restrictions of its licensing terms.

In brief, this story takes place in the Underworld, where Monster City has been created with a “wasteful wall” to keep freedom in. The intricacies of the story are yours to discover when attending the show.

It is very engaging, Stewart assured. Some of the singing involves six-part harmony, and their singing of the music is beautiful.

All their skills are being tested by this performance.

Tickets now on sale for Plowing Match

INITIATIVE REPORTER

The 106th International Plowing Match and Rural Expo (IPM) is set to return this September in Grassie, West Lincoln, Niagara Region, and tickets are available now.

Thousands will be descending on the event from all over the province to experience a mix of agriculture, innovation, entertainment and family-friendly fun.

Ontario’s agricultural heritage will be on full display, while creating the future of farming through world-class plowing competitions, a tented city, educational exhibits, livestock displays, live entertainment, food vendors, and family fun zones, said organizers in a media release.

The IPM will have plowing competitions, numerous opportunities to learn about agriculture, hundreds of vendors and exhibitors with large and small equipment, lifestyle items, a wide variety of food, and an RV Park.

This celebration of agricultural living showcases much of what our province, and local communities, has to offer.

As the IPM is being held in Niagara this year, attendees can also experience the local surrounding wineries.

Six local wineries will serve their product at the event. Many different surrounding industries will be on display, including peaches, apples, grapes, corn, chickens, dairy, and much more.

Heavily agricultural areas can take advantage of the various agricultural equipment available at the IPM.

Organizers of the event shared representatives from the agricultural sector will be present and available to answer any questions.

“We’re really proud to showcase our local community and all the people on the committees are very proud to give back to our community,” said Renate McGillivray, Chair of the IPM 2025 Local Organizing Committee.

She said profits generated by the IPM are donated to groups and organizations within the local community where the event is hosted.

The event will run from Tuesday, September 16, to Saturday, September 20.

Tickets are available for purchase at www.plowing-match.org/ipm2025/visitor-info/tickets.

Second Annual CAFFI BBQ brings together families and community

BY RILEY MURPHY
LOCAL JOURNALISM
INITIATIVE REPORTER

Caledon Area Families for Inclusion (CAFFI) celebrated its second annual barbecue, with almost triple the attendance it saw at its inaugural barbecue last year.

CAFFI is a group that advocates for children and adults with differing abilities in Caledon.

The day was marked with hamburgers and pizza, games for all family members, music, and the opportunity for families to connect.

Regarding the growth participation, Mike Brunetto, the leader of community partnerships and collaboration with the Community Support Network, shared that it's incredibly encouraging as it shows the need in Caledon.

"I think the message is getting out that people are recognizing the need," he shared. "Rather than be isolated, coming together really helps decision makers and people out there that are trying to put things in place, that shows how real the challenge is overall."

Brunetto shared that a large part of their focus has been on the transition to adulthood for these children and adults.

"Coming together with agencies and the Town and families and friends to say, 'what does adulthood look like for our kids and how do we ensure that they have a place in the community and they grow and they foster with other people and other friends'."

At the event, he said, he noticed families without young adults and kids with differing abilities are now coming out and saying they want to be a part of the organization and its goals.

"Having them come out and support is just making everyone feel a lot more comfortable and show how unique Caledon is," said Brunetto.

Michael Fernandes attended the BBQ with his wife, brother-in-law, and daughter Mia. He and his family joined CAFFI because there was nothing available to meet their needs and those of their daughter where they live.

These types of events have become true family activities, Fernandes shared.

He said he enjoyed seeing all the children together at the barbecue that day.

"Just these kids having fun with the games, and the parents enjoying it, and seeing how important it is to join together with all the kids, special needs, however, just to see them mingle together, and the parents included," said Fernandes. "That's the joy we live to see."

Sharmaine Douglas was one of the volunteers at the event. She has been involved with CAFFI for over a year now, and began attending their monthly town halls. At the end of last year, she became more involved, attending events such as their organized bowling.

"Everyone is just so loving and so understanding and everyone's really great with my son. I love it, it's like an extended family being here," she shared.

She noted she feels CAFFI is an excellent way for people, parents, and families to come together, share their stories, and help build this community.

Douglas was an attendee at the first barbecue and shared that seeing the size grow is amazing.

"I think that just everyone coming together, realizing that there's a need for this and we didn't have it and now that we do, we want to try and grow it and get everyone just educated and involved. This is one way that we can do it, just give back to the community and give back to the families."

Councillor Mario Russo, representing Wards 4, 5, and 6, also attended the event and shared that upon meeting Mike Brunetto and other board members many years ago, he immediately became aware of the significant contributions they make to the special needs community.

Moreover, the lived experience they have to educate Town staff, especially Recreation staff, he shared.

"There are a lot of individuals here today that have simple needs, and there's some that have very, very, very complex needs and recognizing that from the Town's perspective is important because we need to know when we need more expertise on our staff for certain rec programs," shared Councillor Russo.

He shared that it has been educational, as the community is growing, and so are the needs, especially in the special needs community.

Councillor Russo stated that CAFFI serves as a voice for these individuals who are unable to advocate for themselves.

"I put it on all Council, all staff, to listen to their voice and be able to provide what we can within certain parameters," shared Councillor Russo. "Those are the respectful conversations that need to occur."

Diego Brunetto said it was great to see other children and families have the opportunity to participate in activities like this, as there is often not much available to them.

"When we do events like this, it's super helpful to create a community environment in the Caledon area. There's not a lot available, especially when kids move out of high school," explained Diego. "As they get older, it becomes more difficult to provide services for them. So it's nice that there's events like this that bring people together and give people a sense of community, and give people a sense of purpose."

The group will continue to work towards its goals, including community living and integration, plus 21 transitioning, revitalizing connections and awareness, and evolving inclusion programming.

A vote is worth more than a hill of buttons

How much pull does a lapel pin have?

I don't mean the pop culture-style enamel pins that are making something of a comeback these days as people look for more artistic ways to pay tribute to their hobbies, passions, and fandoms. Rather, I'm referring to those often-round plastic numbers with metal backing that can be churned out by the hundreds, or pressed one at a time by a fully-manual punching machine that hasn't changed much since they their advent in the late Victorian era.

"Not much," you might answer. But, go to any flea market, or an antique store that gravitates more towards the tchotchkes of our lives than grand, beautiful pieces of furniture, you'll likely find baskets and bins of disused pins commemorating everything from a campaign waged by a municipal politician time has nearly forgot, to promotion of a new spin on a venerable caffeinated pop, to pun-tastic numbers with slogans and jokes that you can only read if you get right up in the wearer's face.

Yet, I remember a time when buttons alone were able to sway an entire election.

Back when I was in Grade 6, an exciting Federal election was taking place and our teachers – our school's two Grade 6 classes were a strange, brief exercise in "team teaching" – were thoroughly bitten by the political bug.

Almost as soon as the writ was dropped, we students were divided into groups to represent each of the political parties that were represented on our local ballot. Within the group, we appointed "party leaders" from amongst ourselves, and these lucky winners were tasked with emulating the party leaders of the time rather than flying their own flag. (I wonder if Jean Chretien, Preston Manning, Gilles Duceppe, Alexa McDonough, and Jean Charest ever had an inkling how walking a few steps in their respective shoes was a make-or-break moment in a student's social standing in this very specific micro-cosm)

Then, the local candidates representing each party visited our class to make the case on why our in-class vote should go their way.

Each of them made their pitches with passion and conviction and gave us a lot to think about before "polls opened" later that afternoon.

Who won our in-class vote? It wasn't the Liberals, Reform, BQ, NDP, or Progressive Conservatives. It was the Christian Heritage Party that won the day – and it wasn't a statement on whether our class leaned left or right, or where our religious convictions lay. Instead, it all came down to the clever local CHP candidate who, in addition to speaking with us, brought bags and bags of party swag for us with him.

And there it was – an election that came down to a hill of beans, er, buttons.

It was not, of course, the most sophisticated way to gauge the pulse of students with even the slightest of political inclinations, but we were young, unsophisticated, and living in an era where Beanie Babies and POGs were traded like currency, so kudos to the CHP candidate for "getting" his electorate and introduced a new trading token into our schoolyard economy!

While everyone likes swag to some degree, I think it's pretty clear that the youth of today are far more sophisticated and politically savvy today than we were back when the 1997 Federal Election unfurled across the country.

Today's youth are more tuned in to the issues that matter than ever before. While some might be more susceptible to A.I. and so-called fake news than others, by and large, have, in my observation, not only a firm grasp on the issues that matter but no shortage of great ideas to foster the change they want to see in the world.

With this in mind, I was very interested in an announcement made last week by British Prime Minister Keir Starmer, outlining his intention to lower the U.K.'s voting age to 16.

"Prime Minister Keir Starmer said young people who 'pay into' the system should have the opportunity to say what they want their money to be spent on," the BBC reported. "Conservative MP Paul Holmes hit back at the government's announcement, arguing there would be no opportunity for parliamentary scrutiny until September due to the recess – describing the proposal as 'hopelessly confused.' Leader of Reform UK, Nigel Farage, said he didn't support lowering the voting age to 16 'even though we get lots of votes.' And Lib Dem MP Sarah Olney said changing the minimum voting age to 16 was a 'no brainer.'"

The BBC went on to speak to 16- and 17-year-olds on how this proposal was going over in their demographic, as well as pollsters, who speculated on just how different the results of their last Federal election might have been if this age change was in place at the time (spoiler alert: not much), and whether this age group, which would account for just two per cent of the electorate, would even care.

"It's not a huge amount and we know that younger people are slightly less likely to vote than older generations," pollster Luke Tryl told the BBC. "But, then again, we are in an era where small shares of the vote can deliver you lots of seats and multi-party politics."

We don't have to search too hard in this country for prime examples where a small number of votes turned out to make a big difference – the most recent examples being the recounts that had to take place in a number of ridings after our last trip to the polls on April 28.

That being said, however, I'm not sure I buy the idea of younger people being slightly less likely to vote than older generations being a permanent situation.

Should Canada ever consider following the United Kingdom's lead in lowering the voting age, there will be a lot of questions that will need to be answered before such a change is implemented, but at first blush – well, most current blush, as this is far from a new idea – I think the pros significantly outweigh the cons.

Starmer, in my view, is correct that young people who pay into the system should have an opportunity to have a say on where their money is spent. If a 16-year-old is expected to pay taxes on the money they earn from their part-time jobs – and, let's be real, lucrative "side-hustles" are fast becoming the norm – it's hard to find a valid argument on why they shouldn't be able to help shape the system, particularly when their peers who are just two years older, have the same privilege.

There might be a prevailing idea that younger people are "slightly less likely to vote than older generations," but perhaps at least a part of that can be attributed to the current voting requirements and the missed opportunity to instill civic duty – and, most importantly, engagement – from an earlier age.

Should Britain's plans come to fruition, the results of this significant shift will be worth watching. In the meantime, however, don't feel compelled to bust out the button-maker.

Examining the possibility of our “before” and “after” lives

by Mark Pavilons

“Whether you reach a lot of people or have a profound impact on a few people, their memories of you are your afterlife.” – Greg Graffin

We live our lives in the present, sometimes dwelling on the past, but mostly looking ahead to the future.

We don't want to think about “what's next,” but that very question will face each and every one of us.

I've been thinking about “after” and what it's going to be.

Those faithful and spiritual types believe in “more,” an afterlife of well, everything. I hope that our energy – our soul – lives on.

So much has been written about life the afterlife, but what about the before life?

Before life explores existence before birth, and has been a subject of various philosophical and religious viewpoints.

Our existence is a miracle. Picture one of those huge spheres containing numbered bingo balls, bouncing around. Inside the sphere are 400 quadrillion balls and only one with your name on it.

That's the odds of you appearing on this side of existence!

Lucky, or predetermined?

The afterlife is a broad concept encompassing various beliefs about what happens after death, including spiritual realms, reincarnation, or nothingness. Nothingness creeps me out.

Different religions and cultures have diverse perspectives on the afterlife, such as heaven and hell in Christianity, reincarnation in Hinduism, or the concept of Sheol in Judaism.

The “Before Life” refers to the period before a person's current life, which is often a subject of speculation and philosophical or religious interpretation.

Some believe that souls pre-exist before entering a physical body, while others might view it as a realm of potential or non-existence.

In Islamic thought, it's believed that souls existed in a realm of pre-existence before being sent to this world. Hinduism incorporates reincarnation, and suggests a cyclical existence involving both before and after lives.

Are the two connected?

If you believe in the continuity of consciousness or the soul, it naturally raises questions about its existence before birth and after death.

David Eagleman once said, “We don't really understand most of what's happening in the cosmos. Is there any afterlife? Who knows?”

Has each individual human soul existed before mortal conception, and at some point before birth enters, or is placed into, the body?

Concepts of pre-existence can encompass either the belief that the soul came into existence at some time prior to conception or that the soul is eternal.

Throughout time, our fellow humans have pondered such things, from the Ancient Greeks, to Bahai faith, and Buddhism, Hinduism and Islam and modern philosophy.

In the Hindu holy scripture – the Bhagavad Gita – Krishna tells Arjuna: “Never was there a time when I did not exist, nor you, nor all these kings; nor in the future shall any of us cease to be.”

And Hinduism espouses that everyone has pre-existed in another form.

A paper by Hameroff et al notes the origin of life may have been driven by conscious feelings right from the start.

Life on earth is envisioned to have begun in a “primordial soup” – an oily frothy liquid and nutrients. Simulations of this primordial soup in the 1950s found “amphipathic” molecules, the building blocks of cells and well, life.

These molecules didn't evolve per se, they were present from the very beginning, enabling all life on earth. How does a unique molecule just “show up” and spawn all life?

Pre-existence is touched on in Christian doctrine, too. The Bible notes that angels and other spiritual beings were created by God before the creation of the world. Job 38:4-7 describes the “morning stars” and “sons of God” singing together at the creation of the earth, meaning they were around prior to the physical universe.

Religion aside, new research indicates our brains can potentially reach out to the stars in some strange way.

Proponents of panpsychism – that every material thing has some sort of consciousness – argue that the brain does not “create” consciousness but rather “filters” or “amplifies” a pre-existing consciousness that permeates the cosmos.

Wow.

And then there's our pineal gland, a pinecone-shaped gland roughly the size of a grain of rice, which been called the “seat of the soul.” While its primary purpose is to secrete melatonin to regulate our sleep-wake cycles, many believe our “third eye” is apparently like a divine antenna.

Rene Descartes believed the soul is closely linked with the pineal gland.

Whether faith-based, philosophical or rooted in science, ideas of everlasting life seem to be less fiction, and perhaps more in the realm of possibility.

With each new glance into the cosmos by modern space-based telescopes and cameras, we're uncovering even more mysteries. It's one, never-ending Pandora's Box of marvels.

The new waves of data are not just about planets, moons, stars and debris floating around the universe. It's about a pattern, a commonality, a connection of it all. It's like the universe has a sense of purpose.

There are billions of planets with billions of beings on them. Maybe some of the more advanced races have figured out this cosmic connection and live outside of the confines of time.

Physicists indicate time is fluid, non-linear where past, present and future not only co-exist but flow simultaneously. To what end, no one knows.

So, my friends, maybe we always were, and are, and will forever be!

Revolving door justice system must end now, says MP

On July 5, 2025, a young man from Bolton, Gabriel Arshad, was left with life-threatening injuries after a horrific four-vehicle crash, caused by a five-time convicted drunk driver who was out on bail.

The man behind the wheel had already been convicted five times for impaired driving. He was under three lifetime driving bans. He should never have been on the road, but he was. And now he's been released on bail. Again.

A young man from our community is now facing long-term, life-altering injuries — because the justice system failed.

This wasn't just preventable. It was predictable. And it's the direct result of a broken bail system that puts repeat offenders back on the streets instead of behind bars.

For years, Conservatives have been pushing for real bail reform. We've introduced legislation.

We've called on the Liberal government to fix the dangerous loopholes they created. But they keep saying no.

As your Member of Parliament, I'm not just going to talk about it — I'm taking action. I will be raising this case directly in Ottawa and will keep fighting until repeat violent offenders are denied bail. I'll continue to push for tougher, common-sense changes that protect our community, and I won't stop until the system is fixed.

If you believe our justice system should protect victims, not criminals, join me. Speak out. Write to the Minister of Justice. Demand change. Because no more families in our community should suffer like this. Sign my petition now at kyleseeback.ca/jailnotbail

Indigenous Relations,
Caledon’s Path to Reconciliation

In this column I would like to share the significance of our Town’s relationship with the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nations and recognition of Indigenous lands, treaties and Peoples.

I’ve had the privilege recently of spending time and engaging in conversation with the Chief of the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nations (MCFN) Ogimaa-Kwe Claire Sault. Each of those interactions have underscored for me the importance of better understanding Indigenous history, celebrating and honouring Indigenous traditions and culture and engaging with Indigenous communities as we move forward with an ambitious growth plan.

We are enhancing Indigenous representation in real ways across Caledon through public art displays, public events and education, partnerships with the Region and community groups, and by remembering and honouring Indigenous history and days of significance.

During a Council to Council Gathering this past May with MCFN, we learned about treaties and in particular Treaty #19 The Ajetance Treaty – signed in October 1818 by Chief Ajetance and the Crown.

In June, we shared in a ceremony at Caledon Day with the Chief in front of thousands of people to renew our wampum belt commitment of working together in peace and friendship.

A wampum belt is a visual form of record keeping, communication and historical reference. They were used among First Nations to document agreements and peace treaties. The belt made from shell beads features two figures on either side—one to represent the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation and one the citizens of Caledon—the line and predominance of white suggests a path of peace of friendship.

At many official gatherings we provide an Indigenous land acknowledgement at the beginning of the event or meeting to reflect and demonstrate recognition of Indigenous lands, treaties and Peoples.

It involves thinking about what happened in the past and what changes can be made going forward to further the reconciliation process.

Indigenous land acknowledgements mark a small and important step in the process of reconciliation and building a positive relationship with Indigenous Peoples, a reminder that we are all accountable to these relationships.

By making an Indigenous land acknowledgement we are taking part in an act of reconciliation, honouring the land and enduring Indigenous presence which, in Caledon, dates back over 13,000 years.

The last paragraph of the Town’s Indigenous Land Acknowledgment is a call to action:

“We honour and respect Indigenous heritage and the long-lasting history of the land and strive to protect the land, water, plants and animals that have inhabited this land for the generations yet to come.”

In Caledon, we are doing much more than acknowledging in words and in print, we are working at building a meaningful relationship with our Indigenous partners founded on trust and respect.

SHERALYN ROMAN
TALK CALEDON

How many more?

It’s a simple question and, quite frankly, the answer should be pretty dang simple too.

How many more lives are we willing to watch be destroyed by the choices of those individuals who get behind the wheel of a vehicle intoxicated? Whether it’s by drugs or alcohol (or both) it’s being reported that driving under the influence is on the rise after years of decline. How is this possible and how many more accidents will it take before we actively demand change? There is NO reason, I repeat, NO REASON, to ever get behind the wheel of a vehicle impaired so why does it continue to happen? Could it be in part due to a justice system that allows offenders to walk away, even when they have been previously convicted on five separate occasions and subjected to three lifetime driving bans. The system is broken and we need to fix it now!

Once again Bolton features prominently in a story about a horrific traffic accident. The infamous intersection of Coleraine and Highway 50 saw the five-time-convicted of impaired driving, 58-year-old Koushal Kasiram involved in a collision with 21-year-old Bolton resident Gabriel Arshad.

He has been left fighting for his life in Sunnysbrook Hospital. Kasiram is fine, of course, and by the way, is also currently subject to three separate lifetime driving bans. To borrow a popular internet phrase, explain to me, as if I were in kindergarten, how such an individual is not already in jail and, oh yes, also how can any individual have three lifetime bans?

What is a lifetime ban if not for a lifetime? How does one accumulate three of them? While we are on the topic of questions, here is the biggest one of all: how does such an individual, one who police say has now been charged for the SIXTH time (the most recent charges as a result of this accident include impaired driving causing bodily harm, driving with excess blood alcohol and three counts of prohibited driving) walk out of court free on bail? Adding insult to injury, it was suggested that those who know Kasiram “watch him like a hawk,” presumably in an effort to ensure he didn’t get behind the wheel again, impaired or otherwise. Because, so far, that kind of vigilance has clearly worked exceptionally well.

Kasiram was also driving some type of commercial vehicle, or at least one that is quite commonly used for commercial purposes. There have been no reports of whether he was at work, driving for the purposes of work or if this was a vehicle belonging to an employer but if so, how the he** was he hired to drive a commercial vehicle with a 3x lifetime ban on driving? Did the vehicle belong to a friend? If so, who would loan a convicted impaired driver a vehicle of any description? Was Kasiram insured and, if so, how? Or, as is more likely the case, was he driving without insurance?

The system is broken. Road safety, particularly in and around our community, is abysmal. Every day when we leave our homes for any reason (Gabriel was simply on his way for pizza) we are at risk. Roads and infrastructure, speed, increased transport trailers and haulage vehicles and an increase in drivers under the influence are all literally accidents waiting to happen. Factor in a justice system that “lacks transparency” as Mayor John Creelman (of neighbouring community Mono) said recently and it’s no wonder faith in the system is lagging.

Let’s be clear, the police are out there doing their job and, in fact, had been notified of Kasiram’s erratic driving and were on the way to investigate when the accident happened. But when they do the work, answering the call to attend a terrible accident scene and deal with its aftermath, and arrest an individual, the police too must then rely on the justice system to work.

Mayor Creelman is just one of the people who have been active in calling out the issues on our roads. Locally, the CCRSA have also been advocating hard for change. After this most recent incident, Mayor Creelman posted an open letter to the Attorney General of Ontario (Doug Downey) on social media acknowledging that while accused individuals are “entitled to seek bail, questions remain whether the Crown opposed release at the bail hearing or whether the Crown will seek bail review now that Mr. Kasarim has been released. The public is entitled to answers to these questions as well as accountability for decisions made by your Ministry.”

C3 Celebrates 30 years with Past, Present, and Future

“We were over for the world championships for five weeks and by the time I left there I realized exactly what we have here. You took average parents, average school teachers, average counselors who said why can’t we make something special in our town for our kids,” said Shepley.

He shared that much of what everyone sees today is due to the Bechtel family.

Sean Bechtel, a former professional triathlete, trained at C3.

“In my estimation we would not have had the Andrew Yorkes, the Lionel Sanders and the Kyle Jones had it not been for Sean because he could have buzzed off to the States with some older guys and did his training, but he stayed here and he was a big brother to those guys and the reason that we were able to get another generation of athletes was because of Sean,” shared Shepley.

Bechtel remarked that it’s great to see how much C3 has grown over the years, and thanked his previous coach himself.

“You can say all the stuff about the C3 not happening or any of this not happening because of other people, but we all know that it’s all because of Barrie and what he does and how he brings people together and does everything. We’re all part of it but Barrie is definitely the glue that holds everything together and creates new pieces and brings more and more and more to the community,” said Bechtel.

Various other athletes spoke about the impact C3 has had on their lives.

Bob Knuckey, four-time Ironman champion and winner of the 1976 Toronto Marathon, made the switch to become a triathlete because of Barrie and C3.

He plans to beat his own Ironman time in Hawaii by two hours.

Hans Porten, a world triathlon athlete, has been a part of C3 for 22 years.

“I came to Canada, didn’t speak any English, learned it, Barrie Shepley saw me in a swimming pool, pulled me out and said, you look like a triathlete,” laughed Porten. “And that’s how it all started.”

Porten has won dozens of triathlons and shared that he is one of the top men in his age group worldwide.

Now, at almost 70 years old, he can reconnect with the athletes he met and trained with when he was 14 years old at the C3 celebration.

Bob Knuckey was among the speakers at C3’s anniversaery celebration.

Shepley shared that something C3 prides themselves on is their commitment to equality for women.

“Our Board has half women, our coaching staff, our entire organization. Anytime there’s an opportunity for equal travel, equal prize money, equal visibility. It’s something that’s very important to see these young girls down here to realize that maybe, unlike their grandmothers that didn’t have opportunities, they absolutely should expect demand and require equal time, equal opportunity,” he shared.

Kristen Marchant is currently on her way to her second world pro championship. She also coaches bike workouts for C3. She said that at C3 she met many athletes who mentored her, and showed her what it took to become an elite triathlete.

“It’s been a great ride and I hope to see many more years with everyone,” she shared.

Some athletes had to come a little farther than others to celebrate C3’s 30th anniversary.

Mark Herbst is currently on a 30,000km journey to attempt a new Guinness World Record for the oldest person to circumnavigate the world by bicycle.

He was in New Zealand when he got a call from Shepley, “Any chance you can make it to Caledon by July 19?”

“I don’t even know what I’m doing tomorrow yet for mileage, but now I have to figure out the mileage to get to Caledon for July 19!” laughed Herbst.

It took thousands of kilometres and six straight weeks sitting on his bike, but Herbst was there to celebrate with his long-time friend Shepley.

They’ve known each other for about 20 years now.

Herbst was already heavy into triathlons and looking for a coach when he found Shepley.

Over the years, not only have they formed a strong relationship as athletes, but as friends.

Shepley and Herbst both sadly lost their wives to cancer, and Herbst shared that they’ve been able to be a strong support network for each other.

A significant part of Herbst’s journey is to raise $ 100,000 for the Princess Margaret Cancer Foundation.

“There’s nobody else in the world I would do this for. He’s done such a great, great thing for this community with the quarry and I’m so happy to call him a friend,” said Herbst.

Andrew Yorke, a Canadian professional triathlete, joined C3 at the age of twelve.

Shepley shared that not only was Yorke a Pan American, Commonwealth Games, and World Championship-level athlete, but an Olympian from Caledon East who swam in the pools, ran on the Caledon trails, and swam at C3 regularly.

“It doesn’t happen on its own because I want to do it, it happens because of everyone else,” shared Yorke.

Shepley encouraged those attending to be teammates to one another in their own lives.

“If you’re out there and we inspired you one inch, figure out one tiny thing in the next 12 months you can do for your community. You might not live nearby, but you can make a difference somehow in your community. We really need to all realize that we are better by being just partners and teammates,” he said.

Talk Caledon

He went on to suggest that we must move forward “from this tragedy with a determination to finally tackle the host of road safety issues too long ignored in Ontario.” Gabriel’s family too is encouraging people to “respectfully express concern over the bail decision and its impact on our family and the community,” by emailing the Crown Attorney’s office. They suggest residents emphasize the seriousness of impaired driving and its impact and urge the crown to seek “stricter bail conditions,” saying “every voice matters” when it comes to letting the Crown know “that our community stands against drunk driving and demands accountability.”

In the face of unimaginable tragedy, I think they have shown remarkable restraint with this respectful request which was followed by their sincerest thanks to the community for all the support they’ve received.

There is no justice in a system that allows Kasiram to walk free while Gabriel fights for his life.

We must all stand for Gabriel Arshad and for everyone who has ever been the victim of a driver under the influence. Have we so soon forgotten the impact of other tragedies impacting families living in Caledon and Brampton? Convicted impaired drivers like Brady Robertson (sentenced to 17 years) and Marco Muzzo (sentenced to 10 years) were responsible for the loss of eight lives between them and both had no prior convictions.

Mr. Kasarim has numerous prior convictions and yet currently walks free. Is that simply because he hasn’t actually caused someone’s death yet? Is there ever a “tipping point” at which we might collectively all rise up and demand change once and for all? How many more have to die or suffer from permanent and life-altering injuries before we hold those who have complete and utter disregard for the safety and well-being of others to account? Especially when they have proven so time and time again. No more. Any one of us could be next because Koushal Kasarim is still out there and if five convictions and three lifetime bans didn’t prevent him from getting behind the wheel, it’s likely only incarceration will. It’s time to demand justice from the justice system.

OPP TAKING ACTION ON UNSAFE DRIVERS

Officers from the Caledon OPP have laid charges after several vehicle related investigations.

“On July 11, 2025, just prior to 12:30 p.m., officers were on general patrol when a traffic stop was conducted upon a tow truck in the area of Airport Road and King Street, in the Town of Caledon,” say Police.

After a thorough investigation, a numbered company from Hamilton was charged with:

- Tow certificate holder - fail to keep records in relation to business;
- Tow operator - fail to comply with prescribed requirements and standards.

The charges have not been proven.

“On July 13, 2025, at approximately 11:30 a.m., officers were on general patrol when a traffic stop was conducted upon a tow truck in the area of Charleston Sideroad and Horseshoe Hill Road, in the Town of Caledon.”

As a result, a 26-year-old from Brampton, was charged with:

- Speeding;
- Fail to surrender completed daily inspection report;
- Tow truck driver - allow prohibited person to be a passenger;
- Fail to surrender commercial vehicle operators registration (CVOR) certificate.

The charges have not been proven.

In addition, a numbered company from Kitchener was charged with:

- Fail to carry commercial vehicle operators registration (CVOR) certificate or lease;
- Tow operator - fail to ensure name and certificate number displayed on tow truck as required.

The charges have not been proven.

“On July 14, 2025, shortly after 8:00 p.m., officers were on general patrol in the area of Airport Road and Mayfield Road, in the Town of Caledon. The in-cruiser Automated Licence Plate Recognition (ALPR) system issued an alert regarding a suspended driver. A traffic stop was conducted upon the vehicle and an investigation began.”

Following the investigation, a 25-year-old from Kitchener, was charged with:

- Driving while under suspension
- Fail to surrender insurance card

The charges have not been proven.

The accused is scheduled to appear at the Ontario Court of Justice at a later date to answer to these charges. Additionally, the driver’s vehicle was impounded for a period of seven days.

“On July 16, 2025, shortly after 12:00 p.m., officers responded to a report of a vehicle and dislodged utility trailer blocking traffic on The Gore Road, near Healey Road, in the Town of Caledon. Officers attended the scene and entered into an investigation.”

As a result of the investigation, a 38-year-old from Brampton, was charged with:

- Interfere with traffic;
- Operate unsafe vehicle;
- Fail to surrender permit for trailer;
- Drive motor vehicle - part detached;
- Draw trailer - no identification number.

The charges have not been proven.

The accused is scheduled to appear at the Ontario Court of Justice at a later date to answer to these charges.

OBITUARIES

OBITUARIES

Edward Gardhouse

February 29, 1944 - July 12, 2025

The power of a simple smile was never lost on Edward Gardhouse, who passed away peacefully at Southlake Health on July 12, 2025, at the age of 81. If you ever had a conversation, he probably signed off with a simple, "Keep smiling!" Now, as the community remembers him, they're doing so in the most fitting of ways: smiling with each and every memory.

Born on February 29, 1944, in Malton, ON, Ed had the rare distinction of celebrating only 20 official birthdays — a lighthearted reflection of his unique spirit and big sense of humour. Throughout his life, Ed was known for his kindness, integrity, and unwavering dedication to those he loved — and the communities he called home.

Ed built a life marked by hard work, quiet wisdom, and a deep appreciation for life's simple pleasures. Whether spending time with family, enjoying the outdoors at cattle shows or tractor pulls, or offering a helping hand to a neighbour, he lived each day with grace and humility.

Growing up in a family that raised prize-winning purebred Hereford cattle, which were exhibited all across Ontario, including the CNE and the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, he began his off-farm working career as a cattle buyer for Gamble & Rogers at the Toronto Stockyards and then Brussels Livestock. Ed later transitioned to being an auctioneer, balancing this work with farming in the once-rural Unionville, and being involved in the local 4-H Clubs as well. When the family relocated to the Schomberg area, Ed started his own auction business, E&M Auction Services, which was a staple in the community for decades.

Ed also loved tinkering, which stood him in good stead when his career shifted from the auction business later in life, first to Reinhart Trailers in Snelgrove (Brampton) then to Hepburn Trailer Sales in Schomberg, where he served as parts manager. If people came in and needed something they didn't have on hand, he didn't hesitate to find a solution or manufacture what was needed — and his family remembers he could build just about anything.

With a voice that became synonymous with countless community events over the years, he was simply driven by a desire to give back, and this extended to his work as a volunteer firefighter in Unionville and surrounding communities in his younger days.

Ed will be remembered for his steady presence, thoughtful words, and the way he made those around him feel seen and valued. He was always a person who could be counted on, was always the first to lend a hand and donate his time. He simply loved people and people loved him.

He is remembered as a big supporter of the Schomberg Agricultural Society and the Georgian Bay Steam Show, bringing laughter, lifting everyone up and making them feel seen and respected, and simply for being a stand-up guy.

Ed is survived by his wife of 40 years, Martha (née Mulholland), his daughter Becky, whom he was so proud of, and his "buddy" and son-in-law, Tom Freiday. He also leaves behind his dear friend Kevin Holmes (Stephanie), whom he loved like a son. He was predeceased by his sister Linda and his parents, Bert and Bertha Gardhouse. He is sadly missed and forever remembered by his niece and nephew, his cousins, extended family and countless friends.

In keeping with Ed's wishes — and true to the way he lived — there will be no formal service. Ed never liked a fuss and didn't want to see anyone sad. Instead, his wish was for a celebration of his life to be held, where stories could be shared, laughter encouraged, and his memory honored with joy — and smiles.

A celebration of Ed's life will take place on Sunday, July 27, 2025 at the Trisan Centre, 25 Dillane Drive, Schomberg, ON, from 1 – 5 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, donations in Ed's memory may be made to the Ontario 4-H Association or the Georgian Bay Steam Show — two organizations close to his heart. Online condolences and memories may be left for the family at www.RodAbramsFuneralHome.com.

RUTH REAVE (BELL)

JAN. 30, 1929-JULY 12 2025

On July 12, the long and fulfilling life of Ruth came to an end, and with that, the end of a generation of Bowerings.

She was born on January 30, 1929, in the small town of Lambeth, now a part of London. She was the youngest of six children born to Myrtle and Alfred Bowering. They farmed in nearby Melbourne. Their family life was very much like the Waltons. Good but hard during the depression.

She remembered coming home from school on winter's night with the house aglow. They had gotten electricity. She remembered taking produce to the London market by horse and buggy and her father driving the sleigh in the winter, wrapped in a buffalo robe.

The 1950s brought her marriage to Walter Reave, a life as a homemaker, and the birth of two of her children. It was a time of many firsts, primarily a new house which she never thought she would be able to afford.

In the 1960's the world was changing. A move to "Canada's first suburban City", Bramalea. Women were entering the workplace and gaining more independence. Ruth first worked at Northern Electric and then found her calling as a salesperson in jewelry. She retired from that love at 75.

Ruth was predeceased by her husbands Walter Reave and Gordon Bell as well as daughters Sandra and Victoria. She leaves behind her son Stephen and wife Susan, and daughter Tamara and her grandchildren Erin, Sasha, Terra, and Dylan. Finally, to her great joy great grandchildren Jacob, Avery, Robert, and Scotia.

MARGARET JUNE MATSON

Our medical miracle passed away peacefully on Saturday, July 19, 2025, at Chesslawn Farm, surrounded by her grateful family. Margaret June Matson (nee Bowman), at the age of 89. Beloved wife of Hilliard Matson (deceased). Loving mother of Dwight (Karen), Darlene (deceased), Ann, Mary (Brian), and David (Lisa). Idolized grandmother of Stuart (Maria), Robert (Julie), John, Ryan, Nicole, Stephanie, Kayla, David, James, and Emma. Beloved sister of Evelyn (David) Wilson (both deceased), Gordon (Doris) Bowman (both deceased), Helen (George) (deceased) Grainger and sister-in-law of Wilmer (deceased) (Marie) Matson. Aunt of many treasured nieces and nephews.

June was a teacher by training, farmer by lifestyle, and a mother and grandmother like no other. She was never idle and led a busy life raising her children, farming, gardening, sewing, baking (especially pies and muffins), knitting or helping others. She was the best listener and we take comfort in knowing that she told us we will always be able to chat with her.

We are grateful to the strong, talented, compassionate medical teams that cared for her throughout her life through several difficult diagnoses.

The family received their friends at the Egan Funeral Home, 203 Queen St. S. (Hwy 50), Bolton (905-857-2213) on Wednesday afternoon 2 – 4 and evening 6 – 8 o'clock. Funeral service was held in the chapel on Thursday morning, July 24th at 10 o'clock.

Interment Laurel Hill Cemetery, Bolton.

If desired, donations may be made to Brain Tumour Foundation of Canada (<https://www.braintumour.ca/ways-to-give/donate-now>) or a charity of your choice. Condolences for the family may be offered at www.EganFuneralHome.com.
