NEC blocks fill from going in Cheltenham pits

By Bill Rea

Brampton Brick's idea to put imported fill into its pits in Cheltenham has been blocked by the Niagara Escarpment Commission (NEC).

Caledon Councillor Richard Paterak, Peel Region's representative on NEC, put forth a motion of support for the proposal at last Thursday's meeting, tacking on a condition that there be a community liaison group formed to keep track of things. But it was defeated in a 13-3 vote. The next motion was to approve the staff recommendation to refuse the application, and that quickly passed.

Brampton Brick has been mining shale from the Cheltenham Brickworks property for some 20 years. The original plan was to take material from three pits, then fill them with water and create three ponds. There had been concerns that it would take years to fill one pit with water, while there are large quantities of fill being generated by development projects. It was thought this material has to go somewhere.

The NEC staff report stated the proposal involves a development permit application to NEC, which has been set up as an "alternate rehabilitation plan."

The pond proposed in the original rehabilitation plan would cover about 42 acres, according to the staff report.

NEC Planner Michael Baran told commissioners it would take about five years to put about 1.8 million cubic metres of fill into the first pit, meaning about 28,800 truck loads annually.

The staff report concluded the proposal fails to comply with the Niagara Escarpment Plan (NEP) on several levels. It cited that importation of fill is not a permitted use in a resource extraction area of NEP. It also pointed out the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) is not likely to support an amendment to the site plan that was approved for the operation through the Aggregate Resources Act. The report also referred to public opposition to the proposal, as well as concerns about possible precedents for rehabilitation operations throughout the Escarpment.

in the site plan," he said.

The staff report agreed there is a need in Peel, as well as the rest of the Greater Toronto Area (GTA) for places to put fill.

"However, it is important to recognize that the excess fill is a byproduct of urban development," it stated. "Alternate means are available to utilize the fill material . . . where impacts on the local population and natural environment would be averted."

Whitbread added a lot of fill is produced in Brampton and Mississauga. The issue is whether the Escarpment should be expected to accommodate it. He said staff believes it's not a permitted use.

Commissioner Corwin Cambray observed that the approved rehabilitation of the site was almost done, and now the Commission was being asked to approve a commercial fill operation there. He said they shouldn't accept all that fill for free.

He was also concerned that they couldn't rely on approved rehabilitation plans.

"They're just blowing in the wind," he said. "Here today, gone tomorrow."

Baran told Commission Cecil Louis he's not aware of a case on the Escarpment in which the plans were amended to allow fill.

Paterak said this involves a shale quarry, not bedrock or a gravel pit. He was looking at the application, not as rehabilitation, but as restoration. He said the Commission issues restoration orders all the time, adding this could be a method to put the site back to the way it used to be.

The proposal did have some support from the public.

Dave Rutherford, president of the Terra Cotta Community Centre, pointed out the staff report didn't refer to Terra Cotta at all.

"In other words, we don't exist," he remarked. "I'm frankly very disturbed."

One of his concerns dealt with the possibility of standing water in the proposed ponds. He said they could become breeding

OPP camp students will help with food drive

Caledon OPP will be hosting its annual OPP Youth Leadership Camp the week of Aug. 5 to 9.

Several community activities have been planned to engage the youth, including a food drive in Caledon village Aug. 6. Police along with the 18 youths taking part in the camp will be in the village at 1 p.m., picking up non-perishable food items from homes. All of the donations will be distributed to local food banks and shelters.

Organizers are requesting that if homeowners are away, they can leave the food items in a bag at their front door or on their doorsteps.

Local police are thinking supporters in advance for their donations to this cause and their commitment to the youth of the community.

Still no human cases of WNV in Peel

As of July 13, there have been no human cases reported of West Nile Virus (WNV) in Peel Region.

The Region’s health department released it’s most recent West Nile update Thursday (July 18).

The adult mosquito surveillance program started June 10. Adult mosquitoes are being collected weekly from mosquito traps at 31 fixed locations throughout the region until late September. To date, 165 mosquito batches have been tested and two batches have tested positive; both in Mississauga.

Peel Public Health received 19 stagnant water reports from residents over the week ending July 13.

The larviciding program started May 30 and will continue until Sept. 30. Larviciding involves applying environmentally-friendly products to reduce mosquito larvae (immature mosquitoes) living in stagnant water. The products are applied to municipal catch basins and selected sites on public property.

The second round of larviciding was scheduled to begin last week in south Mississauga. The locations are to be indicated by a white dot on the catch basin grate. It takes three weeks to complete a round of larviciding.

There will be a third round of roadside catch basin larviciding this year.

Larviciding of catch basins in the green spaces of parks has started. The treatment of surface water sites on public lands is ongoing.

Residents can help reduce the number of mosquitoes around their homes by eliminating stagnant water on the property, and by following these tips:

- Empty or dispose of containers that can hold water, such as old tires, wheelbarrows, barrels, pails, toys and recycling bins.
- Turn over wading pools when they are not in use, remove water that collects on pool covers and make sure the pool’s pump is circulating.

- Change water in birdbaths weekly.
- Clear leaves and twigs from eave-stroughs.

For more tips, visit www.peel-bugbite.ca

There have been two other WNV-positive mosquito batches found in Ontario so far this year; one in Durham and the other in Hamilton. Another batch has been found in Saskatchewan. There have been no human cases of WNV anywhere in Canada this year.

There are 14 human cases in the United States: six in Mississippi, two in each of Nevada and Texas, and one in each of California, Colorado, South Dakota and Tennessee.

Peel Region will continue to provide information on Lyme disease and Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE) at www.peel-bugbite.ca

The Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care also has information about Lyme disease on their website at www.ontario.ca/lyme

Jones says Tory plan for manufacturing will create jobs

Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones has highlighted the set of policy proposals in the latest Ontario Progressive Conservative Caucus white paper, Paths to Prosperity, Advanced Manufacturing for a Better Ontario, as a way to help create 300,000 manufacturing jobs.

“This province has all the tools to succeed in the technology-driven advanced manufacturing of the 21st century,” said Jones. “But we need to harness our ideas, workers and resources in order to create new jobs.”

“If we can attract advanced manufacturing, that sector will drive trade, research and development and productivity,” she added. “Under the Liberal government however, Ontario’s manufacturers have been hit particularly hard.”

Jones charged that under the Grits, Ontario lost 300,000 manufacturing jobs over the last decade, while adding 300,000 new government jobs.

“Rather than write off a strong manufacturing sector as a thing of the past, we should be focused on establishing Ontario as the destination for high-quality, high-value manufacturing jobs for the 21st century.”

grounds for mosquitoes, raising fears about West Nile Virus.

Rutherford also observed an area south of Terra Cotta (in Halton Region) was rehabilitated. The truck traffic was a bother, but he said it helped get rid of "scars on our landscape."

"I think, in the long-term, it's a good things to happen right now," he commented.

Former Town councillor Al Frost, a director with the Cheltenham Area Residents' Association (CARA), complained about the lack of notice when this idea first came up. The staff report had said the initial application was made in December 2009, but Frost said he first learned what was going on when Brampton Brick hosted a public session last summer.

"We are in total support of the staff report," he said, adding that considering all the fill that could be trucked in, it's almost impossible that it will all be clean.

Lawyer Ron Webb, representing Brampton Brick, said the consultants have produced two reports on the proposal (in 2009 and 2011) dealing with such matter as ecology and impacts on the environment.

"There will be no negative impact," he said the reports concluded.

Webb also pointed out the proposal would eventually include forest, water-courses and wetlands, although he agreed it would take some years for the forests to grow. He also said it would provide habitat for various species, some of which are endangered.

He argued this will be an improvement over what was approved some 25 years ago. Times change, he pointed out, noting Provincially mandated intensification means more fill is being produced, with less opportunity to just spread it around.

Webb also stressed this was not an experimental proposal. He said the company had already imported fill as part of the progressive rehabilitation.

"To my knowledge, no recorded complaints came in to that operation," he remarked.

He cited some examples of fill being used in pits, including Brampton Brick's old quarry, which was filled in for development with the approval of MNR and the Ministry of the Environment (MOE).

"This is not, by any stretch of the imagination, and experimental project," he declared.

Webb observed that Caledon council, in April, approved a number of conditions that the Town would want fulfilled if the application were approved. He said they were "very stringent conditions," including provisions that the fill is clean, in order to protect the environment and neighbours.

"This is a well thought-out plan," Webb maintained, adding it wouldn't have received support from the Town, Region and Credit Valley Conservation (CVC) had it not been. "Brampton Brick wants to make this work."

Webb also addressed the suggestions of this being a commercial fill site.

"The intent was not to make money out of the importing of fill," he maintained, adding it was to restore the lands.

He stressed the conditions imposed would be followed, and company president Jeffrey Kerbel agreed.

"The cost of non-compliance is much higher," he observed, adding it makes sense for them to follow the rules.

Paterak argued that filling in the pit would be more positive than having stagnant water there.

But Commissioner Brian Baty, representing Niagara Region, was concerned that it would set a precedent.

"I don't want to see the Escarpment to be the depository of that material," he said.

"We should not be using the Niagara Escarpment as a fill site," commented Commissioner Joan Little.

There was talk of the company appealing the ruling.

"I'll certainly recommend an appeal," Webb said.

$7,000 RAISED TO FIGHT MS

Cedar Mills resident Julie Dranitsaris was joined by Bill Bates recently outside the Walmart store in Bolton. She spent the weekend continuing her efforts to raise money to fight Multiple Sclerosis. Her father Steve reported the effort resulted in a contribution of $7,007.98 to the cause, and that includes a matching grant from Walmart.

Police and farmers worry about crop damage from ATVs

In recent weeks, several incidents have been reported to Caledon OPP of All Terrain Vehicle (ATV) riders damaging young crops growing in local fields.

Damage caused in home break-in

There was damage, but nothing was reported stolen after a home on Shaw's Creek Road was broken into earlier this month.

Caledon OPP reports a citizen contacted them July 17 to report the incident, which they said took place sometime between July 13 and 17. They determined someone forced open a rear door to the house, then damaged kitchen cabinets, discarding them in an indoor pool.

Police are asking anyone with information about this break and enter to contact them at 905-584-2241 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

The damages are especially concerning for farmers who rely on growth of the crops to support themselves and their families.

Police are reminding ATV owners that they must ride on their own properties, unless they have prior permission from a land owner to be on his or her land. By not agreeing with this warning, riders could be charged with trespassing.

Remember to always operate an ATV with an approved helmet, eye protection, boots, gloves, long pants and a long-sleeved shirt or jacket. Ignorance of the law is no excuse.

Police are reminding people of the rules aimed at maximizing the enjoyment of ATVs.

Drivers must be at least 12 years of age and wear an approved helmet. The vehicle must be registered and proof must be produced at the trailside. It must also have a properly displayed off-road licence plate.

As well, the vehicle must have valid insurance and proof must also be produced at the trailside.

These machines are not to be used on the road. An off-road licence plate does not allow the machine to be operated on any portion of the highway, which includes from fence line to fence line.

Drinking and driving while operating an ATV is a criminal offence and carries the same penalties as operating a vehicle.

Safety tips for ATV riders

- Ride off-road only — never on public roads.
- Ride with others — never alone.
- Always supervise young drivers.
- Ride sober — no alcohol or drugs.
- Respect the environment — do not litter.
- Be courteous to all you meet.
- Ride within your capabilities.
- Respect riding trail and area rules.

Police will enforce excessive noise from motorcycles

For many years, police officers all over Ontario have utilized two specific charges under the Highway Traffic Act to help deal with unreasonable noise levels produced by motorcycles.

These laws were developed to combat drivers who specifically choose to drive a motorcycle on the road after either removing the muffler, using a defective muffler or purchasing an aftermarket muffler designed to be loud.

Caledon OPP plans to use the available charges under the Highway Traffic Act to battle this issue, but also the relatively new Town of Caledon noise bylaw that was enacted in February 2012.

Inspector Rose DiMarco, detachment commander, reported this bylaw specifically deals with decibel levels analyzed by a sound meter under stringent testing conditions. Town bylaw officers have been trained in the use of this equipment and will be out in full force, accompanied by members of the Caledon OPP, she said

The Highway Traffic Act covers vehicles that do not have a muffler or use an improper one, and there are also provisions against making unnecessary noise.

The set penalty is a fine of $110.

The Town's noise bylaw also carries a set fine of $110, which includes the $25.00 victim fine surcharge.

Witnesses to accident sought

Police are looking for help in finding a motorcyclist who was involved in an accident in Tullamore July 6.

Caledon OPP reports the incident took place at about 8:45 p.m. on Airport Road, north of Perdue Court, involving a 2000 blue Yamaha motorcycle and a grey Toyota.

Police said the preliminary investigation suggests the motorcycle was heading south at a high speed when the driver did a wheelie. He apparently lost control and the bike landed on the roof of the south-bound Toyota.

The driver of the Toyota suffered a minor injury and did not require medical attention. The motorcycle was totalled, and the driver had left the scene on foot by the time police arrived.

They immediately set up containment in the area and searched for the driver, but were unsuccessful.

Police are asking anyone with information in relation to this collision to contact them at 905-584-2241 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

Sights and sounds of '60s filled the air

Second CaledonStock drew out the crowds to support fight against CF

Rock "N" Ray Michaels of Oldies 1150 joined the Electric Merchants on stage. They include Adam Ferri, Ryan Bell, Josh Young and Ken Anderson.

By Bill Rea
The first ever CaledonStock was a big success, and it looks like it was more of the same from the second edition of the event, hosted Saturday by Steve Anderson at his Bramalea Road property. CaledonStock is basically a return to the 1960s, complete with clothing styles and, more importantly, rock 'n' roll. And it's all done in aid of the fight against cystic fibrosis. This is a cause that's close to Anderson. His niece, Hattie Dunstan, 25, has CF. Earlier this month, she marked three years since she received a double lung transplant, and she's been doing well since. "I like rock 'n' roll and we do it for CF," Anderson said. He also said they were hoping to get people to think about organ and tissue donations, as they were a big benefit to his niece. Dunstan was also promoting a Couture Fashion for a Cure Found fashion show, that's being held in support of Cystic Fibrosis Canada. It will be Sept. 19 at the Royal Ambassador Event Centre near Caledon East.

Bolton area resident Diane Tolstoy was dancing to the tunes of the '60s with her granddaughters Caitlyn and Sarah Janes.

Hattie Dunstan (right) was joined by Nicole McGinn of Brampton and Quinn McCutcheon of Caledon East in promoting the Sept. 19 Couture Fashion for a Cure Found fashion show, that's being held in support of Cystic Fibrosis Canada at the Royal Ambassador Event Centre near Caledon East.

Province okays zoning for Canadian Tire development in Bolton

By Bill Rea

Canadian Tire has the building permit it needs for its massive distribution centre and office facility in Bolton.

The permit was issued last Thursday (July 18), shortly after the Town received word that Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Linda Jeffery had ordered the zoning needed for the development be implemented.

Mary Hall, director of development approval and planning policy for the Town, confirmed late last Thursday afternoon that the order from the Ministry had come in earlier that day, and that enabled the Town to issue the building permit.

"They get to build," she remarked.

The move is going to help protect and create jobs, according to statement issued by the Province Friday.

"Ontario is helping to establish a retail distribution centre in Caledon to create new economic opportunities for the community and strengthen the Greater Toronto Area's economy," it stated.

Caledon council approved the development proposal, slated for the northwest corner of Coleraine Drive and Healey Road in Bolton, late last month. Although the decision of council was unanimous, there was vocal public opposition to the move.

At the same meeting, councillors passed a resolution calling on Jeffery to use her authority to order the land uses set out in the application.

Just two days later, Peel Regional councillors voted to go along with the effort, despite strong opposition from Mississauga Councillor Nando Iannicca.

The Province stated the new facility is expected to create about 350 construction jobs and up to 110 permanent new jobs, and will retain 1,000 existing jobs from the aging Brampton distribution centre. The statement added this is consistent with both the Region's and Town's vision for employment and growth in the area.

"By helping this centre relocate, we will help retain over 1,000 jobs and create up to 460 jobs in the Region of Peel," Jeffery commented. "This warehouse will provide new employment opportunities in Caledon and build on the land use vision for this area."

Councillor Patti Foley was enthused with the announcement.

"I am very happy to see the Ministerial zoning order was approved and approved quickly," she commented, adding having a large, reputable, long-standing Canadian company coming to the area "will mean good things for the Caledon economy."

Not everyone agreed.

"I think the order she (Jeffery) issued is completely undemocratic," declared former councillor Annette Groves. "In my opinion, it's a political decision."

Groves stressed she was not opposed the area of Coleraine and Healey being used for employment, adding she was on council with that was approved. "Caledon needs to have that employment land base," she said.

Her issue is the fact this kind of industry is not what the community needs. Groves added concerns raised in the community, such as traffic, health and impacts from diesel emissions, are the real issue.

"We don't need more warehousing because it creates lots of truck traffic and there's enough of that in the community," she said.

Man charged with stunt driving

A 41-year-old Caledon man was charged with racing Tuesday morning on Highway 410, near Kennedy Road.

Caledon OPP reports an officer conducting speed enforcement at around 11:45 a.m. spotted a Ford pick-up heading north on the 410. It was determined the vehicle was going 139 km-h. in an 80 zone.

The vehicle was impounded for seven days.

Shop Locally In Caledon

Shopping locally is a great way to benefit your community and, in many instances, your bottom line. When consumers shop locally, they help stimulate their local economies, creating jobs for their neighbors by helping local businesses grow and thrive. Shopping locally also saves shoppers long trips to the mall that can waste expensive fuel, especially if consumers don't find what they're looking for.

Shopping locally is especially important when the economy is struggling, as smaller businesses are not always as capable of bearing the brunt of a recession as larger ones. The following are some unique ways men and women can shop locally.

→ Forgo a traditional vacation. If you're used to taking an annual trip to a Caribbean island or another faraway locale, forgo that trip this year and take a more local vacation instead. A local vacation can be similar to a staycation, when you simply stay home, but spend some nights out on the town in your local community. Go out to eat, take in a concert or theater performance at a nearby theater or take the kids out for miniature golf.

→ Hit the links. A round of golf is another great way to stimulate your local economy. Municipally owned golf courses are owned by the municipality, which means each dollar you spend is money that's going back into your community. And much like other local businesses, the golf course is no doubt employing your friends and neighbors, giving even more money back to your community.

→ Treat yourself to a spa treatment. Another unique and indulgent way to support your local economy is to treat yourself to a spa treatment. The cost of a spa trip depends on what you prefer, but even a relatively inexpensive trip to the spa will support a local business. Plus, you'll reap the rewards of that support immediately.

Shopping locally is more than just dining out or buying locally produced foods. Those who want to embrace shopping locally can do so in a variety of ways.

Stigma of mental illness to be discussed at Lifetree

Lifetree Café in Caledon East will be taking a break in August.

The last session before that will be this coming Wednesday (July 31) and will deal with mental illness and society's response to those who suffer from it.

Entitled Mental Illness: Breaking the Silence, Overcoming the Shame, the program will explore the isolation often experienced by those with mental illness, and by their loved ones. It will feature a filmed interview with Amy Simpson, author of the book Troubled Minds. She grew up with a mother who was later diagnosed with schizophrenia.

"My family needed help, and we didn't know where to get it. My whole family felt alone," observed Simpson, who equates mental illness with other physical illnesses. "I should no more be ashamed of mental illness than I should be ashamed of a broken leg or asthma."

The program will run from 7 until 8 p.m. Admission is free. Snacks and beverages will be available.

Lifetree Café is at 6025 Old Church Rd. in Caledon East, in the café space in St. James' Church.

Lifetree Café is a place where people gather for conversation about life and faith in a casual coffeehouse-type setting. Questions about Lifetree may be directed to Bruce Neville at 416-579-9977 or Desiree Neville at 416-579-6748.

Trillium funding to support shared service model for volunteers

A collaborative effort of three Peel community service organizations and the local volunteer centre has resulted in funding from the Ontario Trillium Foundation to support a shared service model for volunteer development and management.

Volunteer MBC, as the lead organization for the collaborative, received $300,000 over 48 months to pilot a shared service model in volunteer development and management with three of its member community service organizations serving Peel Region — Vita Centre, Family Education Centre and Catholic Family Services of Peel and Dufferin. The funding will support the transition of the volunteer centre's Program Manager into a new role which will support training and mentoring activities, and the implementation of best practices in volunteer infrastructure development in all participating organizations.

"We are very appreciative of the Ontario Trillium Foundation's support and our partners who are working together with us on the development of this model," said Volunteer MBC Executive Director Carine Strong. "This is a capacity building pilot program for the non-profit sector with a significant educational component. Once completed, it can be easily replicated with other community service organizations across the region and the province who rely heavily on volunteers to fulfill their respective missions."

In order to support this project, Adriane Beaudry has assumed the role of Manager of Volunteer Engagement and Programming, and will be sharing her time with each of the three organizations and the volunteer centre. Shaminda Perera has been promoted to Volunteer MBC's Assistant Manager — Community Engagement and will continue his role of supporting the centre's volunteer referral/matching service, as well as taking more of an active role in the centre's community outreach and education/training through the development of the Centre for Service Excellence to support volunteer engagement professionals, volunteers and Boards.

Volunteer MBC is a volunteer centre serving Caledon, as well as the Cities of Brampton and Mississauga. It offers a referral and matching service for volunteer placement within the community for all ages, as well as providing education and support for volunteers and community service agencies and organizations.

Vita Centre Executive Director Deborah Thomson is seen here with Catholic Family Services of Peel and Dufferin Executive Director Mark Creedon, Volunteer MBC Executive Director Carine Strong, Family Education Centre Executive Director Diane Myers and Adriane Beaudry, manager of volunteer engagement and programming at Volunteer MBC

Clorox donates to Peel Memorial redevelopment

The William Osler Health System has received a substantial contribution to its redevelopment of Peel Memorial Hospital.

The $100,000 cheque was donated by the Clorox Company of Canada at the company's centennial celebration, which was attended by several government dignitaries.

"Congratulations to the Clorox team on achieving 100 years of excellence, innovative spirit and enduring value" said Ken Mayhew, president and CEO of the Osler Foundation. "Clorox is community minded organization and their generosity will help bring the new Peel Memorial to life."

The redesigned hospital will be equipped to give the community a plethora of both traditional and alternative treatment methods, as well as learning facilities to teach patients about how to enrich their own health.

"The new Peel Memorial represents an opportunity for Brampton to be on the leading edge of health care delivery, with a facility that is focused on improving the health and wellness of residents across this region," Mayhew said.

The new facility is slated to open either in 2015 or 16.

Minister's order will be benefit, in long-run

The controversy concerning the massive Canadian Tire development slated for the Bolton industrial area is not likely to go away soon. There are people who vehemently opposed the proposal, and they might have a hard time accepting the way things have turned out. Town council last month approved the development of the large distribution, warehouse and office facility, and Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Linda Jeffery last week issued the necessary order for the zoning to be approved. We respect and thank the people who cared enough about their community to oppose this development and make their views known, and we realize that the final decision is not the way they wanted things to turn out. Who among us does not prefer to be on the winning side?

But we believe the benefits of this development are going to eventually become apparent. As we stated in this space a couple of weeks ago, Canadian Tire is a large, well-established and reputable Canadian corporation that has seen fit to commit a massive investment in this community. And Canadian Tire is in a position to set an example that other high-quality companies would be inclined to follow. That is a good thing, especially since these lands have been set aside for employment purposes.

There are going to be some inconveniences. Some opponents have pointed to the number of trucks that will be generated. True, there will be a lot of them. But the reality is the type of development these lands have been set aside for are going to generate truck traffic, whether Canadian Tire comes in or not.

If we must have this traffic, is it not better that it come from a reputable company that's making a big investment in the area? Besides, roads in the area are being adjusted to handle the increased load of traffic. The last segment of the Bolton Arterial Road (BAR) is currently being worked on, in the hopes that heavy trucks (including those from Canadian Tire) will be directed appropriately.

It's time to set the disagreements aside and welcome this addition that's soon to come to the Caledon employment community.

And we predict that not too many years are going to pass before most people in the community see this facility as the asset that it's really going to be.

Our Readers Write
Foley thanked for clarifying Canadian Tire issue

I have been waiting months to see a clear explanation of the Canadian Tire proposal for Caledon, and I want to thank Regional Councillor Patti Foley for bringing balance to the situation.

Undoubtably, there will be citizens who find fault with any approvals for this project, but at least we now have a comprehensive account of the thinking that went into the process. Foley outlined the history of the issue, and the industrial, economic, environmental and traffic concerns with absolute clarity. That is what is known as transparency and accountability.

Most interesting was her historical note that all members of the previous council voted in favour of the 620 acres being used for industrial lands, and they all voted in favour of this "Option 1." Therefore, no previous councillors should now be grandstanding their opposition to this project. We elected our past and present councillors to make these decisions; both past and present councils have approved this project. Our role now as citizens is to ensure that Canadian Tire lives up to its obligations to conduct their business according to their highest standards and our by-laws and to let council, present and future, know if they are not being good business members of our community.

Thank you, Councillor Foley, for your explanation. This is exactly the kind of clear and well-reasoned thinking that we should be expecting from all of our elected representatives.

Takes thought to beat heat

This time of year, people like you and I think about getting away for a week or so for what is commonly known as summer vacation.

Some of you have already been away. I pity you, to a certain extent. I have not yet headed off to elsewhere away from work, meaning I have something extra to look forward to.

My wife and I are planning to head away Aug. 9, and that date is a little significant. It will mark exactly six months to the day since we departed on our winter get away.

But things weren't supposed to work out that way. Feb. 9 was a Saturday. We were supposed to depart Friday night, right after I was done with work. We would have too, were it not that we were snowed in.

Feb. 8, for the benefit of those of you who might have forgotten, was the day this area received that major dumping of snow. I just about threw my back out in the morning shovelling out the driveway so I could get my car on the road, then I had to figure out where to take the car through roads that had not been plowed. During the day, I needed at least one boost, and pushes from more obliging people than I could count. Then I had to do more shovelling when I got home. Police all over the province were urging people to stay off the roads, and that was one very rare occasion when I was more than happy to go along with being bossed around. I was in no mood that night to drive north of about 100 miles.

Don't worry. We'll probably be dealing with more of the same six months from now.

As a community service during this heat wave we have been enduring the last little while, I'm going to recommend that you think cool thoughts, if not bone-chilling frigid thoughts. And I'm going to help you.

Set your mind back six months, to winter. To when there was snow on the ground. To when you were always checking the thermostat to see if there was any more heat to be cranked out in the house. To when you would get up extra early in the morning to see if there was any shovelling to be done. To when trying to find the appropriate temperature in which to sleep consisted mainly of looking around for that extra blanket. It was a time for heavy coats, heavy boots and heavy use of whatever environmentally-friendly stuff you throw down on your walk to make sure people don't slip and fall and think about suing you.

Don't these memories give you a nice warm feeling?

Or have we had too much warmth for our own good over the last week or so? I know I have.

It's not all been bad. The work days have been tolerable, thanks to the fact the air conditioning in the office works reasonably well. And even going out to cover events for the newspaper isn't too bad. Most of the meetings I have to attend are in rooms equipped with air conditioning. There have been meetings that I have been reluctant to leave. True, when politicians get severe cases of yackaholism, blood pressures can elevate. But that happens in snow storms too. And attending outdoor events are actually a lot of fun. True, scorching heat can be a burden, but if one dresses appropriately, remembers to wear a hat, make generous use of sunscreen and makes sure they stay hydrated, things usually work out just fine.

Getting work done at home is another matter. Although I did not have the energy to do so, I did cut my front lawn one evening last week. But that was only because it desperately needed cutting. And my body was very angry with me when I was done. The need to cut the back lawn was even more serious. I managed to work up the required energy in the sort of cool temperatures of Sunday, largely because Beth told me to.

Gardening has sort of taken a back seat to the heat too. And when it comes to doing work inside, well, things have fallen way behind, with no immediate indication that they're going to catch up any time soon.

And I have run into some other burdens, and I admit that part of that is my own fault.

Some years ago, when our house was being built, Beth and I discussed the possibility of air conditioning. Being the prudent money man that I fancy myself to be, I thought it a bit frivolous and indulgent, and I have been kicking myself every summer ever since. Besides, it was to be our home, so thoughts of resale never occurred to me.

Trying to get sleep at night during summer heat waves is no easy task, and that was especially the case last week.

But being the smart fellow that I am (that observation alone is usually good for a couple of nasty emails, but I digress), I thought of a possible solution last Wednesday when I got home from work.

We have a spare bedroom in our house, with two small beds that I use to pile stuff on. We also have a basement, and like most basements, it's the coolest place in the house this time of year — Having a dehumidifier down there helps a lot too.

So I showed some initiative for once in my life, moved the junk from one of the two small beds and piled it on the other one, then took the first bed apart and lugged the components down to the basement and reassembled them. I did all this in the midst of a heat wave, meaning I was drenched with sweat at the end of the exercise. But I also reasoned that Beth and I would have a somewhat more comfortable place to sleep for the next couple of nights. Our basement is a little on the cramped side, so there was only room for one of the two beds. Besides, under those conditions, there was a limit to the amount of physical labour to which I was prepared to subject myself, and I had reached that limit.

I don't think Beth was too keen about the arrangement initially, but I reminded her of the alternative, and the grumbling dried up pretty quick.

True, the sleeping quarters were a bit cramped, but since we're legally married, I figured that was permissible. The mattress left a lot to be desired, especially compared to the one were used to. But the temperature was a lot better.

Just some thoughts to bear in mind six months from now in the winter blahs.

Oh yeah, if you're dithering about getting air conditioning in your new house, remember there are times for being a tightwad, and this is not one of them.

Economic development is an important part of Caledon’s future

Economic opportunities flourish across more than 700 square kilometers in Caledon — the largest and northern-most municipality in the Region of Peel, part of the Greater Toronto Area (GTA).

Remaining competitive with other Ontario municipalities and regions benefits Caledon’s objective to retain and attract industrial and commercial investment.

Strategic, cooperative economic development is vital to Caledon’s future. A sound economic development plan provides local employment opportunities, tax assessment revenues which help to balance and adjust residential property taxes, and countless other spin-off benefits such as the provision of local goods and services, the economic multipliers of increased local spending, and support for the achievement of Caledon’s social and environmental goals.

Growth across our community is inevitable. Well-managed growth is necessary for any community that wants to offer its residents an exceptional quality of life. Caledon is one of those communities; our objective is to create a healthy, active, sustainable community in which people have the opportunity to both live and work.

Mayor’s Report

By Marolyn Morrison

An integrated community economic development program helps achieve that quality of life. By growing the industrial/commercial tax assessment base of our Town, we can provide higher quality public services for citizens.

The Town of Caledon receives revenue from user fees (e.g. summer camps, public skating), development charges for new construction and assessment growth (taxes). Revenue from these sources goes toward the delivery of cost-effective programs and services for our residents. This means improved roads and infrastructure, increased recreation opportunities and enhanced community safety, among other things.

A sound economic development approach enhances our community’s quality of life by helping us to compete effectively for jobs and increased employment opportunities. This in turn improves Caledon’s live/work balance. Successful economic development strategies help improve the Town of Caledon’s non-residential tax as-essment base by generating more business assessment and wealth. It is a Caledon goal to create a diverse and sustainable economic base and we have adopted five strategic objectives to achieve this goal. An effort to support business retention and existing business expansion keeps current employers here and allows them to expand to meet new markets and opportunities. We have an internationally focused investment attraction program in cooperation with the Greater Toronto Marketing Alliance. We encourage and support entrepreneurship development; helping new, small businesses establish themselves in our community. We actively pursue tourism promotion and investment opportunities for the Town and advocate and facilitate opportunities for new investment at every level.

These strategic objectives, together with their accompanying action plans will assist Caledon to maximize its opportunities, realize its potential and maintain a high quality of life.

Bill favouring law-abiding Canadians receives royal assent

Bill C-316 received royal assent June 26 and levelled the playing field so that convicted criminals will no longer have longer qualifying and benefit periods than law-abiding Canadians.

Employment Insurance (EI) eligibility is calculated based on the number of insurable hours worked by the claimant in the previous 52 weeks from the date of job loss. Generally speaking, all benefits must be taken within 52 weeks following the date of job loss. Benefits not taken within this period lapse once the 52-week period has expired. However, there are a limited number of exemptions which allow for the extension of either the qualification period or the benefit period.

In the past, claimants had their EI qualifying and/or benefit periods extended,

Ottawa Journal

David Tilson
MP Dufferin-Caledon

beyond the usual 52 weeks, for each week they were confined in a jail, penitentiary, or similar institution.

If they worked enough hours in the 52 weeks before they were incarcerated, they would then qualify for benefits after their release from jail. However, for law-abiding claimants who decided to take a year off to be with their families and then returned to their jobs, they would be required to work enough hours to re-qualify for benefits. If they suffered a job loss before accumulating enough hours to re-qualify for benefits, they would not receive benefits. Our government viewed this as unfair and sought change. Effective June 30, persons who are incarcerated and found guilty of an offence for which they are being detained will no longer be able to benefit from these extensions. Individuals who are not found guilty of the charges for which they were detained will continue to benefit from the extensions as provided under the current provisions. To do so, they will have to wait for the outcome of their judicial proceedings before requesting an extension of their qualifying or benefit period.

The EI program is meant to support Canadians who lose their jobs through no fault of their own while they look for work or upgrade their skills. It was unfair that convicted felons received preferential treatment compared to hard-working, law-abiding citizens when applying for EI benefits. Thanks to the hard work of our government, this change will ensure that all Canadians must satisfy the same criteria when applying for EI.

Man charged with possession

A 27-year-old Brampton man was charged with possession of a controlled substance July 14 after a traffic stop.

Caledon OPP reports an officer was conducting traffic enforcement at the intersection of Highway 10 and Charleston

Sideroad shortly before 9 a.m. when he spotted a black Cadillac exceeding the speed limit. He had the car stop and he detected a smell, believed to be marijuana, coming from inside. He also found a green, leafy substance in the car.

“What happened to family time?” By Kim D’Eri

Do you ever wonder if we are setting up the next generation for success, no matter what the circumstances are? Everything is done like you are in a race. No time for the basics.

all this haste, the basic skills of life have gone by the wayside. Learning how to grow and maintain a garden, planning meals on a budget and the skill of preparing a healthy meal, do not seem to be on the next generation’s radar.

We at Caledon Community Services believe that it is important to teach basic life skills to our children. They need to know how to take care of themselves, no matter what their economic status is. We are bringing back “family time.” On a regular basis, we host workshops that engage families in activities such as cooking, gardening, planning meals on a budget and many more. It is a great evening and something is learned by all ages. Best of all, it is free!

So, when you are planning your hectic schedule for the week ahead, plan some good, old-fashioned family time, time to spend with your children, teaching them basic life skills.

To learn more about our workshops go to www.ccs4u.org. Check out the event section of our local newspaper and/or sign-up to be on our Exchange e-blast distribution list. Keep an eye open for cooking classes in our brand new kitchen at the Exchange; it’s opening soon.

Facts being trumped by politics

There’s often a fine line be seeking justice and seeking revenge. Take the current uproar in the U.S. over the “not guilty” verdict in the Florida case where George Zimmerman, an Hispanic-American, shot and killed Trayvon Martin, an unarmed African-American teenager while on neighborhood patrol on Feb. 26, 2012.

All across the U.S., thousands of people – particularly blacks – have been holding protest marches and rallies in the wake of the verdict.

There is no evidence to legitimately suggest that Zimmerman’s full and open trial was anything but fair. There certainly were some conflicting accounts, but strong forensic evidence did support Zimmerman’s story that Martin had attacked him and he was defending himself.

But in cases like this, truth has little impact on preconceived notions; facts are trumped by politics.

Even President Barack Obama – who as leader of “all” Americans should have known better – publicly implied that racism was behind the verdict. He even said that Martin “could have been me,” many years ago – a considerable stretch. given his relatively protected upbringing, and hardly demonstrative of a presidential approach. Rather than playing to his crowd, justice would have been better served by upholding the justice system, even if he didn’t like the outcome.

And that’s what this is. As we’ve said, the verdict was fairly found by a jury chosen fairly and squarely by both sides, with no evidence – none whatsoever – that it was decided on anything but the facts in the case.

Yes, there is legitimate criticism of Florida’s “stand your ground” law, which essentially allows people the right of self defence when they are under attack. Many states have these laws. But beyond that, once again, there is nothing to suggest the jurors based their findings on racism.

But that doesn’t stop some of the more prominent “social activists,” or, to be more precise, skilled fear-mongers, such as the Rev. Al Sharpton, who led a huge rally in New York City joined by Jay-Z and Beyonce, in condemning the verdict. “We are going to fight for what is right,” thundered Sharpton. “They used to say segregation is better than slavery but they never sat in the back of the bus. This is a movement, not a moment.”

It is true that blacks in the U.S. suffered a tragic history of slavery – there aren’t many countries in the world that didn’t practise slavery; indeed, some still do. Even at its worst, by the way, the U.S. had fewer slaves than Brazil, and the fact is that many African leaders were complicit in the slave trade, supplying their captured enemies to American slave traders in return for buckets of cash.

That being said, however, it is completely understandable that the descendants of those slaves would view these issues through a different lens from those whose ancestors did not experience slavery and who themselves did not suffer from the more subtle forms of racism which still exist in the U.S. and elsewhere.

It is just unfortunate that these battles are so often co-opted by the likes of Sharpton, a man with such a sketchy history of hate-mongering that one wonders why anybody would believe anything he says.

Sharpton first burst onto the public consciousness in 1987, when he co-opted protests over the brutal case of 15-year-old Tawana Brawley, who claimed she had been raped by six white men, including police officers, in Wappinger, New York.

It turned out, after a prolonged festival of outrage led by Sharpton – who even accused the local prosecutor of racism and of being one of the perpetrators of the abduction and rape – Brawley’s story was a complete and utter fabrication.

Rather than short-circuit Sharpton’s public “activism,” however, it made him a household name, and he has continued unabated – sometimes legitimately, often anything but – ever since.

Sharpton’s overheated “activism” was central to the Crown Heights riots in 1991, after a car driven by a Jewish man and part of a procession led by an unmarked police car, struck another car and accidentally veered onto the sidewalk and killed seven-year-old Guyanese boy, Gavin Cato. That led to riots and stabbings against Jews, looting of their stores and worse. Four years later, Sharpton led protests against a Jewish tenant for evicting his long-time sub-tenant, a black-owned record store, telling protesters, “We will not stand by and allow them to move this brother so that some white interloper can expand his business.”

And so it goes. Another perceived “injustice.” Another opportunity for Sharpton to strut his stuff.

And the worst part is that Obama – who has twice been elected to his current office by the American voters - while more measured in style and language, seems to share Sharpton’s view of what constitutes “justice.”

Community foundation renamed to include mention of Caledon

The Brampton and Area Community Foundation has announced that it is now known as the Brampton and Caledon Community Foundation.

Foundation President and CEO James Boyd commented that the new name reflects more clearly the Foundation's area served.

"Historically, the 'and Area' in the Foundation's name always included Caledon," he observed. "In the beginning years of the Foundation, we had a lot of work to do to establish the Foundation, so concentrating on one community, Brampton, made sense at the time. However, over the last 11 years, since its inception, the Foundation has seen increases in endowments and granting in Caledon. It's a natural progression and growth of the Foundation to recognize Caledon, formally, in the Foundation's name."

Foundation Chair, Susan Crawford, was excited to see Caledon formally included in the Foundation's name.

"Caledon is a wonderful community," she said. "There are many philanthropists in Caledon who will be able to create their own charitable legacy for the Caledon community. We're excited, at the Foundation, to welcome the people of Caledon to build their charitable legacy through the Brampton and Caledon Community Foundation. Our name change is a major step forward."

The move came as good news for Mayor Marolyn Morrison.

"Caledon has a long history of generosity and cooperation," she said. "The foundation of Caledon's success is the strong rural values of its residents; neighbourliness, mutual respect and working together for the betterment of the whole; qualities that I know will see Caledon continue to support the good work of the Brampton and Caledon Community Foundation."

Since 2002, the Foundation has developed assets of more than $7 million, comprised of 84 endowment funds. In this time, the Foundation has made over 400 grants to charity worth more than $2.75 million. As a public, non-profit, community foundation, it serves as an endowment builder open to all philanthropists, big or small, who look to enrich the community through smart, sensible and sustainable charitable giving.

"The Foundation will continue doing what it's always done; that is to be an endowment builder and funder of worthy charitable organizations in Brampton and Caledon," Boyd stated. "We certainly are very happy to have the philanthropists and charitable service organizations in Caledon more easily identify with the community foundation now that 'Caledon' is in the name. Our charitable and philanthropic mandate, which has served both Caledon and Brampton over the past 11 years, remains the same."

Seventh inning win keeps Bolton team in contention for playoff position

Written By BRIAN LOCKHART

You couldn't have scripted a better ending for last Wednesday night's game between the Bolton Dodgers and the Mansfield Cubs — at least for the Dodgers.

This was an important game for both teams, who are vying for the number eight spot in the North Dufferin Baseball League (NDBL) and a berth in the playoffs.

Only the top eight teams make it into the playoff in the 14 team NDBL senior division.

The Dodgers came to Wednesday's game with an 8-11 record and were two points behind the Midland Indians. The Bolton squad needed the win to advance and get a chance of moving into eighth spot.

The Mansfield squad came to Bolton looking to take the two points and move up, after scoring 13 for the season.

"It's one of those things where it's all in your head," said Dodgers coach Andrew English. "When the guys are down, when you get the first out and you see the guys drop their heads, it's really important to get those heads up, get motivated and get the guys backing each other and get them excited."

The first six innings of the game turned into a pitchers' battle, with neither side doing much to get on base.

Mansfield scored in the top of the third inning with two outs on a drive deep to the field that brought in a run and placed a man on second base.

A second Cubs' run in the sixth inning on a sacrifice bunt gave the Mansfield squad a two-run lead and it looked like the visitors were going to leave with a narrow win and the two points they needed to move up the ranks.

With the entire game coming down to the Dodgers' final at-bat, the unthinkable happened in he Mansfield camp.

With two Bolton men on base and one out, a relatively easy out fell completely apart on an in-field hit when a Cubs' player hesitated on a throw to third base, then wheeled around to make a throw to first instead.

The delay resulted in three Dodgers players on base with one out in the bottom of the seventh.

The next batter hit deep to left field, and with the entire game on the line, the three Bolton base runners probably managed their best ever personal sprint times when all three crossed the plate on the single to end the game 3-2.

It was a huge win for the Bolton squad and it keeps them alive in their quest for a spot in the playoffs.

"Both pitchers had a great game," English said. "They capitalized on a couple of errors we made. All in all, we dug deep and fought through it and managed to get the hits we need in the last inning. It takes a lot when you're down with one out in the last inning. We had to play aggressively."

"We've had a couple of issues this year with offence, so it's one of those things where when we had the opportunity we had to capitalize," he added. "We're tied for eighth place right now so that was a huge win for us. We've only got six games remaining and two of those games are with teams we are competing with (for the playoff spot.)

The Dodgers were to play their final regular season home game at North Hill Park last night (Wednesday), with results coming in after press time.

They end the regular season on the road with a game in Creemore tomorrow (Friday) and the final game in Angus Sunday.

Caledon FC slams Orangeville with 5-1 win on the road

Written By BRIAN LOCKHART

Caledon FC pulled off a huge win on the road last Thursday night, leaving Orangeville with a 5-1 win over the host team.

The Caledon squad entered the game as a ninth-place team going up against the Orangeville Athletics, who are in fifth spot in the Ontario Soccer League South Division with a 4-2-3 record.

It wasn't so much that Caledon won the game, it was the fact that they scored five goals over an experienced opponent — and they did it with a short bench. The Caledon team had just enough players to field a team, leaving the bench empty, with coach Angelo Pennino there by himself.

It didn't seem to matter, as the Caledon squad was aggressive and battling hard from the start of the game.

They scored the first goal early in the first half, with a nice pass across the front of the net. A second Caledon goal came on a penalty kick.

It was win number four for the team this season. They have not quite made it to the mid-season mark. With nine games behind them, they still have 11 on the schedule for the regular season.

The Guelph Rangers are currently leading the South Division of the OSL with 19 points after eight games. They are followed by Wisla United with 19 points and game in hand after nine matches played this season. Coatia Norval is in third place in the league, followed by Mississauga Portofino.

Caledon FC will be back on their home pitch at the East Caledon Community Park tonight (Thursday) to host the Erin Mills Eagles with a 9 p.m. start.

Bolton Dodgers pitcher Kyler Orvis goes into the wind-up in last Wednesday night's game against the Mansfield Cubs at North Hill Park in Bolton. The Dodgers pulled off a seventh-inning rally to leave with a 3-2 victory.

Caledon's Andrew Yorke will compete next month in Sweden

When Caledon's Andrew Yorke was just 18, in 2007, he had a chance to race in Hamburg, Germany, at the World Junior Triathlon Championships.

In his first opportunity to race in Europe, Yorke struggled, but gained a lot of important experience.

Yorke recently was the first North American across the line in the Hamburg International Triathlon and beat more than a dozen London Olympians in the process.

"The race was fast, furious and full on from the first swim stroke, through the technical bike loop and on the run course," Yorke remarked.

The important international points that Yorke picked up have ensured that he will be racing in London in September on the World Championships course, where last year's Olympics occurred.

"I was in London as the Olympic alternate to Simon Whitfield last summer, so having a chance to race on the epic course in September will be very special," he said.

The day after the Hamburg individual triathlon, Yorke raced a second time, anchoring Team Canada to a ninth-place finish in the World Team Championships.

"There is nothing like a relay team and being the anchor man for Team Canada is a very special thing," said Yorke.

Yorke will stay in Spain to do a big training block, and he will be racing next in Stockholm in August.

Yorke is a proud member of the C3 Canadian Cross Training Club and got his start in the local Kinetico Kids of Steel Triathlon.

Bolton Brewers split double header, losing a home run free for all

By Brian Lockhart

As far as double headers go, the first game between the Bolton Brewers and the Mansfield Cubs Saturday (July 20) in Mansfield was a well-played, well-executed match that saw the Brewers leave with an 8-1 win.

That game included home runs by player-coach Mike Wallace and Nathan Robinson from the Brewers and a Cubs' homer from Devon Caldwell.

It was the second game that really saw the bats flying and the farm property behind left field could have opened its own sports supply store if they collected every ball that dropped over the fence.

The Cubs started the scoring early in the game with a three run homer followed by two more home runs that gave the Mansfield squad a 5-0 lead.

The Brewers' response was to battle back, with Pat Warden hitting a solo home run and another that brought in three runs.

When Shawn Chalmers got up to bat, he drove another deep and over the fence to drive in three more runs in what turned out to be one of the highest scoring games of the season.

The final was 17-10 for Mansfield.

In terms of the final standings, the game won't change anything.

The Brewers moved back into first place with 40 points and a 20-3 record as of Saturday.

"With our team, it's pretty good," said coach Wallace about playing a double header. "We have lots of depth, so we can kind of roll out almost a fresh line-up be-

IN MEMORIAMMcINNES, Sharon Ann

August 13, 1959 – July 30, 2009

We thought of you today,

But that is nothing new,
We thought about you yesterday,

And days before that too,

We think of you in silence,

We often speak your name,

Now all we have are memories,

And your picture in a frame,

Your memory is our keepsake,

With which we'll never part,

God has you in his keeping,

We have you in our heart.

We would like to express our sincere thanks to everyone for their love and support in the loss of our youngest son David. Thank you for flowers, donations, cards, food brought to our house, phone calls and most of all your prayers which are most important in helping us cope. Our minister is on holidays in Nova Scotia and has kept in touch with us several times which has meant so much. Our Tweedsmuir Church Family have been there for us also. What would I have done without my niece Donna Marie? You are always there!! There are some who have gone beyond the call of duty. I will not mention names as I might leave someone out, but you know who you are. Special thanks to Rev. Allyson Voo and Bert Gauthier and all at Dods & McNair. You are just wonderful and truly are there for every need. We are overwhelmed with every kindness. May our "Gentle Giant" (my baby) rest in peace, free from years of pain and suffering.
With many thanks
Sincerely
Peter & Edna
Brian & Steven

WORDS CANNOT EXPRESS the overwhelming support and compassion that everyone has shown to our family with Bruce's sudden passing. Thank you to each and everyone who sent the many floral tributes and donations to both Southlake Cardiac Care & Anglers and Hunters Conservation Program. To the many friends and neighbors who sent over food, and a special thanks to the Schomberg UCW ladies who had great support from the Schomberg Lions, Fair Board and Horticultural Society members for a very delicious lunch. My sincere appreciation to the Pallbearers, Brothers Bob & Bill Jessop, Grandchildren Laura & Bradley Jessop, Brother in Law Peter Lowans, and to very special friends Bruce Graham, Joe Huson & Matt Reesor. Thanks to the Flower Bearers, Brother in Law Chris Lowans, Nieces Jennifer & Katlyn Lowans and Grandchildren Andrew, Cody & Sarah Jane Jessop. Special thanks to Rev. Brian Nicholson for his spiritual support & guidance, and for a very touching service.

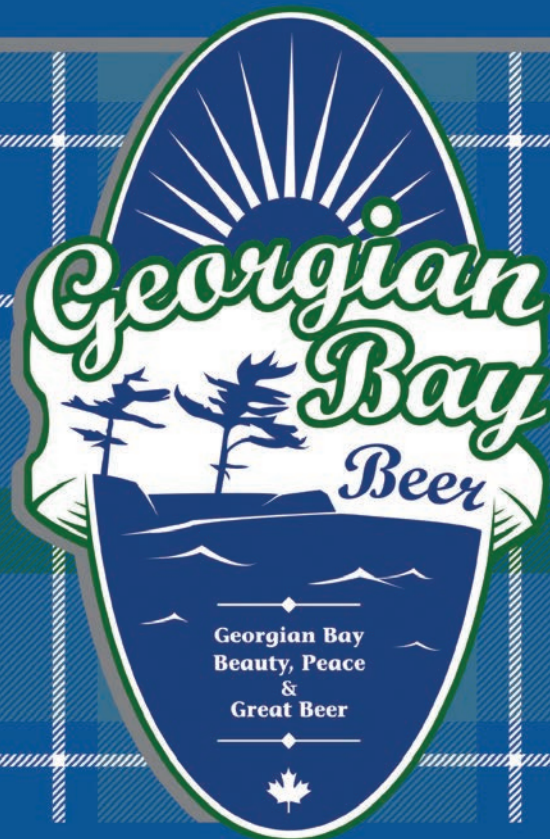

A very, very special thank you to King Fire Chief and very good family friend, Jim Wall and his Dept. for organizing a very moving Fire Fighters Service. It was a very emotional final salute by 156 Fire Fighters to a former Chief and Volunteer for 28 years, and to Chaplain Nicola Skinner for her kind words and prayers. A very grateful thank you to my brother Ed for his humorous eulogy, it was a fitting tribute to a life well lived. Special thanks to Rod Abrams and staff for their compassion & caring way in our time of sorrow. Bruce's sudden passing has left a huge hole in our hearts, but our family has been blessed with two tiny angels (girls), that have already started us on the path to healing. Thank you again to each and everyone that came to pay their respects, who filled the chapel for the funeral and for all the offers of help and support _it has meant a lot to all of us, a mere thank you is not enough to express our gratitude.
On behalf of our families, Linda, David, Mike and Mark Jessop.
