CROWDS OUT TO ENJOY THE MADNESS

The annual Midnight Madness hit the Bolton valley again Friday night, and there was a large and enthused crowd out to enjoy the fun. The attractions included this petting zoo, and Christina Oppedisano of Bolton was helping her daughters Julia, 4, and Sofia, 2, feed the animals. Turn to page 9 for more scenes of the Madness.

Olympia opponents want more time to comment

By Nick Fernandes

Caledon's Citizens Against the Melville Pit (CAMP) spoke out to Caledon council last week, making it clear the public comment period on the proposal needs to be extended.

Paul Bunt of CAMP was at last Tuesday's meeting armed with a body of evidence aimed at convincing the Town and Province of the need to extend the deadline for public comment.

Olympia Sand and Gravel Inc.'s proposal involves about 291 acres at Lots 27 and 28, Concession 2, in west Caledon. The property is between Porterfield and Willoughby Roads, just north of Highpoint Sideroad. The company has applied to have the area classified for extraction in both the Town's zoning and Official Plan.

The main thrust of Bunt's argument was that under government guidelines, the application and reports by Olympia have not met a standard of thoroughness. He added they contained several factual errors. He also said the Province and Olympia have not completed the peer reviews for the visual impact assessment or air quality assessments, and that several reports need to be revised.

He also said CAMP has conducted a review of some of the application materials under the Official Plan requirements that demand the information be provided to the public.

"This has been going on since 2005," Bunt told councillors. "We've been around for about a year and a half and we're still finding errors."

Along with the absence of the peer reviews, CAMP maintained that the projected haul route for the trucks transporting aggregate is unsafe, according to the Geometric Design of Canadian Roads Textbook, published by the Transport Association of Canada. The applicant has stated that the route is safe, despite a dip in the Porterfield Road measured by CAMP that would make the trucks invisible to vehicles turning from Flaherty Lane, Bunt added.

Also prominent among the errors he cited was an oversight regarding the conservation status of the designated area. The survey conducted did not report any species considered endangered by the federal government. But when CAMP brought in their own expert biologist to study the area, he said hard evidence was found of the Jefferson salamander, a species that is threatened in Ontario and is specifically protected by the Endangered Species Act of 2007. The species also has a wide-roaming range, making attempts to protect the salamanders by moving them ineffective.

Town staff proposed extending the comment period to September or October. Several in the public gallery thought that was just a small extension, eliciting grumbles from the crowd. One man heard to mutter "ridiculous."

The main concern from staff was the time needed to put together their own report on the situation after analysing public comments. Bunt asserted that the application has changed drastically since it was first introduced and that a further delay is required in order to account for new information.

Councillor Rob Mezzapelli agreed with Bunt.

"I could send in a minimalistic application and have it deemed complete, and then drastically change it," he observed.

Chase the Dream in Terra Cotta Sunday

By Bill Rea

There are going to be some impressive motor cycles in Terra Cotta this Sunday (Aug. 25), along with other machines and entertainment.

And all for a good cause. This will be the second edition of Chase the Dream, a motorcycle ride and show fundraiser for Chase Galea, a local young man who has cerebral palsy and hearing loss.

Dave Heydon, one of the organizers of the event, said Chase is a six-year-old boy living in Terra Cotta, and the proceeds from the day will go toward a trust fund aimed at providing him with a better life.

"He's a case study for other children with CP through the Shriners Hospital in the United States and Erinoakkids Children's Hospital in Ontario," he commented.

The website for the event (<http://chasethedream.ca>) pointed out that Young Rider Orientation Day reinforces school bus safety for new students

A free Young Rider Orientation Day this Saturday (Aug. 24) will help new students feel more comfortable taking the school bus.

This year, approximately 60,000 Peel District School Board and Dufferin-Peel Catholic District School Board students will ride the school bus each day. Both boards have provided joint busing service since 1994 through Student Transportation of Peel Region (STOPR).

"This orientation will give children confidence when riding the bus to and from school and will reinforce the importance of bus safety," commented STOPR Transportation Manager Tom Howe. "Parents and children will watch a bus safety video, discuss their bus safety concerns and take a ride on a school bus."

The program is designed for kinder-sufficient funds were raised last year to enable Chase's family to carry on with important conductive education therapy, and both the Shriners Hospital and Erinoakkids have reported improvement as a result.

As well, the aim is to raise awareness. Heydon said they raised about $36,000 last year, with thanks going to all who supported it. He hopes more will be attracted to check it out this year.

Registration will be at 9:30 a.m., and Heydon said the "scenic ride through the hills of Caledon" will start at 11 from Terra Cotta Inn.

That will be followed by a Show and Shine back at the Inn, with awards in various classes. Heydon said there will also be a live auction, silent auction and live entertainment with Larry Melton from Georgetown.

Tilson says Prime Minister proroguing Parliament no big deal

By Bill Rea

Prime Minister Stephen Harper's plan to prorogue Parliament raised some eyebrows earlier this week, but Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson maintained it was no big deal.

News that Harper plans to end the current session of Parliament was announced Monday.

"It's nothing out of the ordinary," Tilson commented the following day, pointing out all prime ministers use that practice. He said the only ones who didn't were Joe Clark, John Turner and Kim Campbell, and all three of those were only in office a matter of months.

"Every majority government has used it at least once in a Parliament," he observed, pointing out it enables a government to restart things.

"(Jean) Chretien did it three times," he added.

Tilson also recalled that former premier Dalton McGuinty prorogued the Provincial legislature when he announced his resignation, commenting that gave the concept a bad name.

Parliament is expected to resume in October with a speech from the throne, with the public hearing what the government's upcoming plans are, although the exact date will be up to Harper.

"It's his decision," Tilson observed. "It's his sole prerogative to do that."

When Parliament is prorogued, that usually means legislation that's in process dies. Tilson has his private members bill, which deals with vandalizing or damaging war memorials, but he said he didn't think that would be impacted because it passed the House of Commons in October, and is before committee in the Senate, having passed second reading

No additional WNV activity in Caledon

There have been no additional positive test results for West Nile Virus (WNV) in Caledon, as of Aug. 10.

That was stated in the latest report on the matter, issued by Peel Public Health last Thursday.

During that week, five WNV-positive mosquito pools were found in Peel. Four of them were in Brampton and the other in Mississauga. There were none in Caledon. The only positive test for a mosquito pool in town came late last month at a location in Bolton. So far this year, there have been 15 other positive tests; nine in Brampton and six in Mississauga.

There have been no human cases of the disease reported yet this year in Peel.

The adult mosquito surveillance program started June 10. Adult mosquitoes are being collected weekly from traps at 31 fixed locations throughout the region until late September. To date, 553 mosquito batches have been tested and there were the 16 positive results.

Peel Public Health received 10 stagnant water reports from residents during the week.

To date, there are 65 WNV-positive mosquito batches in Ontario, including the 16 in Peel there.

"I'm trying to get that confirmed," he said.

One confirmed human case of WNV illness has been reported in Ontario (in Toronto). That is the only human case in Canada.

There have been 99 WNV-positive mosquito batches reported across the country; 65 in Ontario, 17 in Saskatchewan, 14 in Manitoba and three in Quebec.

In the United States, there have been 99 human cases reported, including 21 in South Dakota, 18 in California and 11 in Minnesota.

The larviciding program started May 30 and will continue until Sept. 30. Larviciding involves applying environmentally-friendly products to reduce mosquito larvae (immature mosquitoes) living in stagnant water. The products are applied to municipal catch basins and selected sites on public property.

The third and final round of larviciding began in south Mississauga Aug. 9. The third round is indicated by a pink dot on the catch basin grate. It takes three weeks to complete a round of larviciding.

Larviciding of catch basins in the green spaces of parks in Peel has started. The treatment of surface water sites on public lands is ongoing.

Public meeting on proposed Cheltenham development

The Town will be hosting a public information meeting Sept. 4 on a proposed Cheltenham area development.

The application of the Correct Group of Companies is to rezone about 34 acres on the east side of Creditview Road, south of Boston Mills Road to facilitate a draft approved plan of subdivision. The plan calls for 33 residential lots, a park area and stormwater management pond. The draft plan was approved by the Ontario Municipal Board in 2001. The meeting is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. in the council chambers at Town Hall in Caledon East. Prior to that, there will be an information session outside the chambers from 6 to 6:45 p.m.

Police trying licence plate recognition system

By Bill Rea

Caledon OPP are spending a month trying out a new Automated Licence Plate Recognition (ALPR) system, and it was unveiled last week.

Constable Steven Szabo said the system consists of cameras, facing both front and rear, that can read licence plates of vehicles. The data can be quickly processed to determine if there's something about the vehicle that would be of interest to police, such as stolen, wanted or belonging to prohibited drivers. He added the data bank of the Ministry of Transportation and Canadian Police Information Centre has about five million plats on file.

Constable John Rosa said the system can process two plates per second. He added the detachment is using the vehicle, belonging to OPP Central Region, for about a month of testing.

Szabo said there are five such vehicles in the province.

"It's useful for the officers to actually capture information and respond to the hits," Inspector Rose DiMarco, commander of the detachment, said.

This camera is one of three mounted on the roof of this police vehicle that will be registering information from licence plates to aid police. Seen here are OPP constables Steve Szabo, John Rosa, Brenda Evans and Inspector Rose DiMarco.

Drug charges after warrant executed in Mono

The Caledon OPP Street Crime Unit joined forces Aug. 8 with several other units in executing a search warrant in the Town of Mono.

The local police were involved with members from the Community Drug Action Team and the Drug Enforcement Unit under the direction of the Organized Crime Enforcement Bureau Drug Enforcement Unit along with members of K-9 and Central Region Emergency Response Team in executing the Controlled Drug and Substances Act search warrant at a Blind Line residence.

As a result of the search, officers located a large amount of a green leafy substance, believed to be marijuana, marijuana plants, a large quantity of hashish, seven weapons and money. The total value of seized drugs, cash and paraphernalia exceeds $180,000.

In conclusion, a 29-year-old man from Mono was arrested and charged with production and possession for the purpose of trafficking.

Impaired driving charge laid after police hear from witness

Caledon OPP are crediting a report from a concerned citizen for alerting them to a suspected impaired driver July 29 in the area of Highway 10 and King Street.

Police report they got the call about an erratic driver shortly before 1 p.m. Officers observed the suspect vehicle make an abrupt turn from Highway 10 onto Old School Road, cutting off northbound traffic in the process. Police activated their emergency equipment and intercepted the vehicle. Officers approaching the vehicle immediately detected a strong odour of alcohol on the driver's breath.

A 47-year-old man from Etobicoke was charged with impaired operation of a motor vehicle, dangerous operation of a motor vehicle and refusal to supply a breath sample. His licence was suspended on the spot and his vehicle impounded for seven days.

Tav's Real Estate Corner

This week's theme:

"You have an Alternative - Just the Facts"

So you want to sell your home or business. How do you find the right agent? One key factor to look at is their past performances. Beyond a subjective (and still valuable) referral from a friend or colleague, you will want hard and true numbers. Who are the key performers in your area?

Not unlike the sports industry, REMAX group supports their agents by motivating them with regular updates on their standings – local, provincial, national and international. This support translates to success, for their agents and for their clients, outperforming all other real estate groups on the market. These awards are a method to reward the agent for the hard work they do, but it also lets the public know how they measure up against their peers. So, when researching who you will hire to sell your property, look at the stats, they can be a valuable resource for finding the best agent for the job.

Fact | REMAX agents on average sell more than 3 times as much as any other agents

It takes a lot of hard work and a passion for what I do, to achieve the amazing results that I have received this year.

"Tav has made remarkable achievements in Real Estate Sales in the Caledon area. Tav is among only a few people in the World to achieve Top 100 in his first year with ReMax" – Greg Gilmour, Broker of Record

These numbers are facts, and offer my clients proof of the job I can do for them, but the greatest reward, at the end of the day, is the happiness of my clients when they are able to find the right buyer for their home/business.

There are other statistics available, such as Volume of Sales. This will be in my next issue. In addition to individual agent information, understanding the current market information is important. The information below comes from Rick Mercer, Market Watch. It offers some more interesting, current, and relevant real estate information to consider when buying and selling in today's market.

Strong Sales and Price Growth in July

August 2, 2013 -- Greater Toronto Area REALTORS® reported 8,544 residential sales through the TorontoMLS system in July 2013. Total sales were up by 16 per cent compared to July 2012. Over the same period, new listings added to TorontoMLS and active listings at the end of the month were up, but by a substantially smaller rate of increase compared to sales.

"Last month's sales represented the best July result since 2009 and was the third best July result on record. Despite recent increases in average borrowing costs, home buyers are still finding affordable home ownership options in the GTA," said Toronto Real Estate Board President Dianne Usher.

Lots of fun at Vacation Bible School

Cheltenham Baptist Church was a very busy and fun place to be last week. The Church hosted its annual Vacation Bible School, under the Kingdom Rock theme. There was a rocking mood for the closing ceremonies Friday. This band consisted of Danielle Bechard, Christine Glenn, Pastor Wayne Melnechuk, Jack Dixon and David Bechard.

There were lots of sports and games during the week. Helper Liam Terry was assisting Kyla Lodder, 2, with batting practice as Olivia Purdy, 3, watched.

Mud Heroes returning to Albion Hills

By Bill Rea

A lot of people are going to be covered with mud Saturday at Albion Hills, and they're likely to have smiles on their faces.

Crazy Canuck Events will be bringing Mud Heroes to Albion Hills Conservation

Area for the second year in a row. Crazy Canuck co-founder Ted McLeod said it will consist of a six-kilometre obstacle course, complete with mud pits and water slides. He stressed it will offer people the chance to take part in a challenging experience, "but do it with a smile on their face."

"We find we get a better return that way," he added.

Proceeds from the day will go to support the Princess Margaret Foundation, and Camp Oochigeas, which gives camping experiences in Muskoka to children with cancer and other illnesses that require extra care.

For more information, go to www.mudhero.com

The fun activities included crafts. Saphara Melnechuk, 5, and her sister Charlotte, 3, were busy with their creations.

CAMP seeks delay

Councillor Richard Whitehead suggested to staff that the matter is not realistically going to be settled by the end of the year, and that they should put together a reasonable timeline of how long it will take for all reports to be submitted and put together.

Bunt himself requested that decisions should be delayed until the completion of the Province's Aggregate Resources Act review and the review of the Provincial Policy Statement.

"It's been eight years and here we are today with this hanging over us," Bunt said.

The matter is to be delayed before being brought back to council, giving CAMP and similar groups more time to give their input.

Notice of Intention to Designate Pursuant to Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter O.18

TAKE NOTICE that the Council for The Corporation of the Town of Caledon intends to designate the following property as being of cultural heritage value and interest under Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter O.18:

20643 Kennedy Road
Part West Half Lot 27, Concession 2 EHS (Caledon)

The dwelling at 20643 Kennedy Road was built for early settlers Edward Ellis and his wife Jane Brewster. Edward immigrated to Upper Canada in 1832, and moved to the subject property between 1837 and 1851. The subject brick dwelling was erected for the Ellis family in the 1860s to replace their original log cabin. The property was occupied and farmed by members of the Ellis family until 1916, when it was purchased by Charles and Louise Watson. The Watson family retained ownership until 1977.

Edward James Ellis, son of the original landowner, was active in local politics and in various community groups. The Watson family was also involved in their local community, notably through Florence Watson's connection with the Rosehill Women's Institute.

The Edward Ellis house is an example of classic Ontario Cottage architecture with balanced proportions, symmetrical lines, and decorative dichromatic brick patterning. The former farmhouse retains many of its early landscape features, and thus acts as a visual reminder of the early history and character of rural Caledon.

Further information regarding the heritage attributes and designation of this property is available in the Heritage Resource Office at the Town of Caledon Town Hall.

Any person may, within thirty days of the publication of this notice, send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk notice of his or her objection to the proposed designation, together with a statement of the reasons for the objection and all relevant facts. If a notice of objection is received, the Council for The Corporation of the Town of Caledon will refer the matter to the Conservation Review Board for a hearing and report.

Greg Henry takes the prize(s) in Shelburne

This year's almost constant summer rain held off for a few days and the sun shone on the 63rd Canadian Open Old Time Fiddle Championship in Shelburne. This year's Canadian Open Old Time Fiddle Champion, Greg Henry of Sombra, Ontario, was crowned at the finals Aug. 10. This was Henry's first championship. Henry also won the Canadian Tune of Choice trophy and award with Reel de Montebello by Richard Frost. With just a little more than 70 contest entries from as far away as Devon, Alberta, and 1,400 audience members attending over the course of the event, another successful edition of Canada's premier fiddle championship has passed into the history books. "We are excited about the success of this year's championship and are already looking forward to next year," commented Sandra Gallagher, chair of the Shelburne Rotary Club's contest organizing committee. "Thank you to all of our contestants, judges, audience members, sponsors, helpers and supporters for assisting us in making it such a success." The Saturday night entertainment and competition was opened by three-time Juno award winner Ashley MacIsaac, a guest of the Dufferin County Museum and Archives, on whose float he entertained during the afternoon parade. His fiddling, along with the dancing of Sarah Robinson, three-time Canadian Open Stepdance Champion, brought enthusiastic rounds of applause. The youngest competitor this year was four-year-old Gibson Lemelin; the oldest was 83-year-old Leon Stachnyk. This year, the Junior Championship (13-18 year olds) and the Championship were almost equally hotly contested, with 13 competitors in the former and 12 in the latter. This was the largest number of competitors in the Championship class in several years. The Junior Championship was won by Celine Murray of Dorchester, Ontario, home of the Donnybrook Fiddle and Stepdance Competition. The Nine and Under class had 12 competitors, a recent high water mark, and was won by Mary Frances Leahy of Douro, Ontario. Look for both of these young ladies in the Championship class at future contests. The Invincible Vince Mountford Memorial Trophy for Most Entertaining

Fiddler was presented to Julie Fitzgerald who won the Novelty class and is always wearing a smile. After a heartfelt plea to the Saturday night audience, Miss Teen Ontario Canada Hope Schneider was able to raise $515 for the Teddy Bears of Hope Foundation to send teddy bears to underprivileged children. The traditional corsage presentation, sponsored by the Hardick family, was made to Alice Hind, who was at the first contest in 1951. The Saturday afternoon show at the arena featured Cape Ceol (the Jenish sisters and the Provencher brothers with special guest Tessa Bangs) fiddling, step-dancing, and singing for a crowd of over 250. Thursday night, Everything Fitz were a hit, with a crowd of more than 300 treated to a variety of fiddle and step-dance tunes. The 64th Championship will be Aug. 6 to 10, 2014. Plan to eat well this summer

Do you know about all the varieties of vegetables and fruit that grow right here in Peel? With everything from apples to watermelons, and beets to pumpkins, Peel farms are great places to pick up fresh and delicious vegetables and fruit. "The Region of Peel is focused on improving the health of all of its residents by encouraging more fresh, flavourful and healthy foods in their daily diet," remarked Dr. David Mowat, Peel's Medical Officer of Health. "Vegetables and fruit bring a lot to the table — taste, colour and variety. With many different vegetables and fruit to choose from, your plate will always be interesting." Residents can visit GrownInPeel.ca to see the seasonal availability of nearly 50 vegetables and fruits in Peel. There is also an interactive map of farm and farmers' market locations, and a listing for each farm that shows what products are available. A paper copy of the guide can be picked up at libraries, fairs and municipal buildings or by emailing growninpeel@peelregion.ca to request a printed copy. Whether picking fresh fruit at a local farm or choosing a healthy option while at a summer festival, residents are encouraged to change the way they think about, enjoy and look at food. A healthy diet rich in vegetables and fruit may help reduce risk of heart disease, stroke and some types of cancer. "Eating right is just one part of living a healthy lifestyle along with moving throughout the day," Mowat said. "Summer is the perfect time for residents to get active by visiting one of our local markets and sampling the savory produce." For more information, call the Region of Peel at 905-799-7700 or visit peelregion.ca/health

Friday's Midnight Madness was a big success

The crowds came out to enjoy the fun Friday night for the annual Midnight Madness festivities in Downtown Bolton. The annual celebration, put on by the local Business Improvement Area (BIA), attracted an estimated 8,000 people, according to BIA President Jimmy Pountney. "It's the biggest crowd I've had in my three years of doing it," he declared. "It's a Bolton tradition. It's a staple." There were lots of fun things going on to attract the crowds. Circus Jonathan was back to show his juggling and acrobatic skills, and to meet admirers, such as Vera Stathakis, 2, of Bolton.

Photos by Bill Rea

Great music came from the main stage, including the sounds of the Bob Parkins Jazz Quintet. The group included Parkins, Eric Mahar, Jonas Pearson-Paavola, Justin McHugh and John Pelosi.

These students of Bolton Taekwondo entertained the crowds with demonstrations.

Bardos-Chicago consisted of Andy Veit, Bill Tracey, Rob Bardos and Roman Chicago.

Michael Orford and Yvonne Devins were representing Lifepoint Community Church, which meets at Empire Theatres.

Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones had lots of glow sticks to hand out.

PCs' choice: leadership or policies

As most followers of the provincial political scene know, there is a movement afoot within Ontario's Progressive Conservative party to have a leadership review.

The issue was examined in recent columns in Toronto's two Sunday papers, one by a former Tory cabinet minister and the other by a former speech writer for Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

In his weekly Toronto Sun column, John Snobelen, a former education minister in the Mike Harris government, argued against any review of Tim Hudak's leadership, saying what the party really needs to win the next provincial election is to develop some thoughtful policies.

The contrary view was expressed in the Sunday Star by the former speech writer, Michael Taube, who argued that it's time for Hudak to step down and let someone else become leader, preferably a member of the current federal cabinet.

His contention is that while Ontarians are angry at the minority Liberal government for its financial scandals, headed by the two costly gas plant cancellations, "they don't have enough confidence in the PCs. Hudak has had too many missed opportunities, and too many electoral failures. His political and economic message hasn't resonated with the general public."

He went on to suggest that the party avoid "the temptation of choosing a Red Tory (or left-leaning conservative) as the next party leader," since that wouldn't represent even moderate conservative values. He argued that the electoral failures of Ernie Eves and John Tory proved his point.

What the party needs, he contended, was a leader "who could appeal to conservatives, libertarians and other right-leaning individuals" and who would promise "smaller government, lower taxes, a vibrant free market economy, trade liberalization and efficiently-run social services."

In contrast, Snobelen said the PCs need to focus the attention of Ontarians on issues that matter. "A long-term energy policy that can provide a competitive advantage for Ontario workers is much more important than a final reckoning of the cost of the gas plant closures, a political decision made by a former premier."

He reasoned that while the blame game is a more convenient path to follow and political beauty contests far easier to critique, Ontarians deserve better.

We think he's absolutely right, and one of the smartest things Hudak could do now is turn the attention of the legislature committee investigating the gas plant scandal to the process that led to selection of wholly inappropriate sites for the two large industrial facilities.

As for the counter argument that the PCs need a Harperite who could move the party farther right, it ignores the fact that even with massive voter support in Alberta, polls show the federal Conservatives currently garnering fewer than four votes in 10.

Also ignored are the facts that former premiers Leslie Frost, John Robarts and Bill Davis were all moderates and that John Tory's loss is usually attributed to his support for provincial funding of private schools.

While there's no doubt that no one likes to pay taxes, it's clear that lowering current tax rates would merely increase the annual government deficits, making illusory any thought of eventually having budget surpluses.

Be a Hunger Hero

Peel Region is not a big city, but that doesn't mean it doesn't have big-city problems, like hunger.

Knight's Table seeks to raise awareness of the problem, and do their best to help. The charity group fed more than 6,700 people last year, nearly half of them children younger than 10. The charity's capacity to help is increasing, with the 56,000 meals they were able to serve representing a 40 per cent increase from 2011.

But they still need help. Donations of money and food have been dropping, and more and more families need Knights Table's services to help them get by. To this end, Knights Table is running a donation drive until Aug. 30. Every $20 put toward them will be able to feed and help five nuclear families, to an ultimate goal of $70,000. Knights Table is putting more effort into not just feeding families, but helping them pull themselves up over the poverty line.

The Hunger Hero Challenge asks only for $20 from each participant, and for them to challenge nine of their family or friends to donate themselves. The top 100 Hunger Heroes will be crowned at a media event next month.

Olympics should go ahead

I have just come back from almost a week of vacation, with all the stresses that entails.

Some people can put work behind them for a couple of days, but I can't. During vacations, I'm either thinking about the work I've done or about the work I'm not doing.

Vacations and I just don't mix.

But I did try, with some success, to avoid work. One thing I was able to avoid was the news. I would briefly check out some news websites when I got up in the morning, and I made a point of buying a couple of the dailies when we'd get to the local shops. But since nothing really earth-shattering jumped out at me, I was able to put most of the world's affairs on the proverbial back burner, at least for a couple of days.

Indeed, I only turned on CNN once the whole time we were away, and quickly became disinterested. After maybe about 10 minutes of not listening to it, I sought and got my wife's permission to turn the tube off.

One issue I had been interested in before going away, and in which I sort of lost touch, had to do with the upcoming winter Olympics, planned for early 2014 in Sochi, Russia, and Russian policies when it comes to homosexuality.

Actor George Takei has been sort of leading the fight on this one. Takei, as most people with even a passing interest in science fiction know, played the immortal Mr. Sulu, the helmsman on the Starship Enterprise on the original Star Trek series. He has also been prominent in recent years for his position on gay rights.

From what I have read and heard so far, Takei doesn't strike me as a guy who's making a lot of noise for the sake of making noise or getting attention. I think his positions are sincere.

Now to his credit, he's not suggesting a boycott of the Games. We're not looking at a repeat of what then American President Jimmy Carter did in 1980. You will recall he was mad at the Soviets for their invasion of Afghanistan, so he organized a Western boycott of the summer Olympics, which were planned that year in Moscow. The result was predictable. The only people hurt by the action were the athletes who had spent years learning their crafts for the chance of a lifetime. They got the short end, while the Soviets stayed in Afghanistan until the realities of history prompted them to leave (Carter and company had nothing to do with it). And Eastern powers boycotted the 1984 Games in Los Angeles, thus basically making farces of two consecutive summer Olympics.

So the last thing we need is another boycott, so good on Takei for seeing that.

On the other hand, I don't think the idea he has put forth is the answer; namely moving the Games to Vancouver. Granted a lot of the infrastructure that helped make the 2010 Games such a success would still be in place. But a lot of it wouldn't be available. As we're finding out with the current plans for the 2015 Pan Am Games, these events require tons of planning, on numerous different levels. They are not things that can just be thrown together.

Bill Rea

So how do we deal with Takei's issue?

The man is gay, and has been up front about that for almost eight years.

I think, too, it is true that the attitudes in this society to such issues have changed a lot in the last couple of decades.

There was a time in recent history when cracks against a man's sexual orientation were deemed among the most ultimate of insults. I was subjected to a couple of them over the years.

High school was a high time for such talk, but don't forget this was in the 1970s, when society generally tolerated a lot more than it does today. Such cracks stopped bothering me when I came to realize they sometimes represented shots being taken by people who were mad at me for other reasons. They'd fire such verbal "buck-shot" because that was the best they could come up with.

Here comes a digression, but I sometimes have trouble with the movement to ban such verbal attacks in high schools. It's under such circumstances, among lots of others, that one develops a thick hide. In my case, it has proven useful in dealing with a lot of the hostile reaction I have to put up with in my job. I think the same would work in other occupations too.

Indeed, the last time such a shot was taken at me came from a reader who was mad at me over something, and took it out by shouting a whole lot of garbage into the phone.

"I really don't need this abuse I'm being handed," I told him after a couple of minutes of his cussing.

He responded with an attack on my sexual orientation — the first time that had happened to me since high school. Needless to say, the conversation ended a couple of seconds later.

The point is I don't hear such cracks much any more. And I don't think it's because I spend most of my time in the company of adults. Any one who hangs around adults for any length of time soon learns a lot of them never grow up.

It's been many years since I've had much time for homophobes.

Indeed, I grew up living across the street from two men, who eventually became close friends of my family. Sadly, they both have been dead for some years, but they both especially stepped up when my father died, taking care of my mother, having her over for dinner, quickly accepting her invitations to dine with her, etc. One of the guys phoned me one day out of the blue at work, concerned that he hadn't seen my mom in a couple of days. As it turned out, they had just kept missing each other. But it was something of a relief for me to know someone was keeping an eye on things.

So while I have no use for homophobia, I also have little use for grandstand plays against it, which is what I think Takei is trying to engineer.

It's okay for him to make some noise, or even a lot of it. Indeed, if Takei and others like him make enough noise, the International Olympic Committee might, in future, be a little more careful when it comes to deciding where to hold games.

But when it comes to the 2014 spectacle, I think things have already progressed too far. The only people who stand to be hurt are those who deserve it the least — the athletes.

So let the Russians have the Games, and let them show off to the world how swell they are.

If the George Takeis of this world play their cards right, this might be the last such event they get to host for a long time.

Now is the time for a made-in-Ontario comeback

Over the last 10 years, plant closures and the loss of 300,000 manufacturing jobs have hurt our province's economy.

It is clear that the current government has little regard for this valuable sector of our economy, and manufacturers in Dufferin-Caledon and throughout Ontario cannot help but worry about the future.

I can see why they are worried. In Dufferin-Caledon, I have visited many businesses and manufacturers who have shared with me their concerns about the increasing cost of doing business in Ontario. Job creators who have proudly called our communities home for many years, some over multiple generations, are now feeling the pinch as Ontario continues to become a less competitive place to grow a business or start a company. Almost more than any other issue, the price of energy is a major concern. Many businesses are struggling to keep the lights on and the machines operating. Some have unfortunately been forced to question whether they can even stay open.

This is a very concerning situation. The Liberal government has been in power for nearly a decade now, and during that time Ontario has added 300,000 public sector jobs, while the important manufacturing sector has been left behind.

From Queen's Park

Sylvia Jones
MP Dufferin-Caledon

The decline of manufacturing in Ontario is not just the result of global events beyond our control. Even prior to the 2008 recession, Ontario had already lost a significant amount of manufacturing jobs due to the current government's policies that drove up the cost for all power users and created unnecessary red-tape for businesses, which makes it harder to grow a company in Ontario. Moreover, by continuing to chronically ignore the deficit and ever-mounting Provincial debt, the Liberal government has created a perpetual environment of uncertainty in our province; which is toxic to economic growth.

A well-run province attracts investment, and businesses look for stable provinces or states when considering expansion. For example, why would a business risk relocating to Ontario when every year there is the threat of increased taxes to address the current government's chronic overspending?

I understand where manufacturers are coming from, and I understand their frustration. Every single one of them is a job creator in their community. If they are allowed to grow, they will create more jobs. They want to grow, they want to create jobs, they want to be successful and provide a good wage for their loyal employees. The problem is that the current government made it increasingly difficult for them to do so, and has turned its back on Ontario manufacturing.

My Progressive Conservative (PC) colleagues and I do not share their view. Tim Hudak and the PC Caucus do not believe that manufacturing is a thing of the past. We believe that just as manufacturing has always been an important part of Ontario's economy, it will and must continue to play a vital role in the future. That is why we have recently released a discussion paper, entitled Path to Prosperity: Advanced Manufacturing for a Better Ontario, that outlines a new direction to help restore Ontario's reputation as a province that is open for business, competitive with its neighbours and the economic engine of Canada.

Public session to look at closing James Street

The Town of Caledon Public Works Department (Engineering Division) will be hosting a public information session of the proposal to permanently close James Street in Caledon village.

The session is scheduled for Aug. 29, from 6 to 8 p.m., in the Community Room at Caledon Village Place, at 18313

Hurontario St.

James Street is currently closed temporarily to prohibit direct access to Highway 10. The Town is proposing a legal closure of the roadway as a permanent solution to cut-through traffic from Highway 10 to Charleston Sideroad. The public is welcome to learn more about this proposal.

Senate's still worth preserving

In his 2005 book, The Secret Mulroney Tapes, author Peter C. Newman cites CBC reporter Christopher Walmsley's "unusual take" on then prime minister Brian Mulroney's problems with many members of the Ottawa Press Gallery, including your humble correspondent.

"How many reporters were in the press gallery in the 1980s who got sucked up by Mulroney into the system?" asks Walmsley. "Anybody who was the least bit friendly all of a sudden got offered a huge job ... Mulroney decimated the people who were legitimately friendly to him, and cut his own throat.

"And who did he leave out there? He should have made Claire Hoy a senator. Dalton Camp once said that there was at one point serious consideration to make Pamella Wallin a senator just to get her off the air."

For the record, I wasn't offered a Senate seat and wouldn't have taken it if I had been. As for Wallin — who, as you see from the above quote, was a tough-minded journalist at the time — she ultimately left the business to become a diplomat and eventually accepted a Senate seat when offered one by current Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

The rest, as the say, is history.

During the course of my journalism career, of course, I came to know both Wallin and Mike Duffy — the other journalist-turned-Senator in the eye of the spending storm — and can say without reservation that I had considerable respect for both as journalists. What's more, I liked them. I wouldn't have expected either to turn what is already a lucrative sinecure — some call the Senate a "task-less thanks" — into their personal piggy banks, but that appears to be the case. So what happened?

I think that sometimes when people reach positions of power where they are surrounded by sycophants who tend to bow and scrape in their presence, there is a danger of losing perspective, of coming to believe that you are more important than you are, that you can do what you want, when you want and how you want to do it because, after all, you are an important person.

This is not unusual in politics — or for that matter in sports, entertainment or big business either — but it is something that truly moral people tend to rise above.

The fact of the matter is that whatever you think of the Senate — and having written a book on the subject, I can tell you they perform a lot more work than they ever get credit for — the current expense scandal involving Wallin, Duffy, Patrick Brazeau and Mac Harb has brought shame on the entire institution, even though there is no evidence that any of the other 101 Senators are abusing their position of public trust.

What's more, the total money involved in the Senate scandal — even if the four bad apples are guilty as charged — amounts to way less than a million dollars, a mere pittance compared to the tab of up to one billion dollars in the Ontario Liberal government's gas-plants-for-ridings exchange.

It is true the provincial Liberals are getting some flack for their outrageous abuse of public funds — although Premier Kathleen Wynne is being let off easily, having been a senior minister and deputy campaign director when these election decisions were made.

But people can better understand a senator double dipping, or claiming a house where he or she doesn't live, or charging for a speech she didn't give. Wrapping your head around hundreds of millions of dollars is a lot tougher than understanding somebody billing for a couple of thousand bucks to an event that didn't happen.

The opposition in Ottawa, as you'd expect, are trying to hang the Senate scandal on Harper, but that's really a bogus charge. Sure, Harper appointed three of the senators involved, but the Prime Minister's Office — indeed, the Commons itself — doesn't have authority or control over the day-to-day doings of the Senate.

The scandal has also encouraged those who claim the Senate is worthless — it isn't, but most people don't know what it does since the media never covers the Senate unless there is a scandal — to push for its' abolition. That too is a pipe dream given the constitutional realities in this country.

So what we're left with is four greedy senators abusing the public trust. It's disappointing — although on the plus side, it has spurred the auditor-general into auditing every senator's expenses (he should include all MPs as well).

As for myself, I would have expected better from both Duffy and Wallin. Pity.

Bolton leads in playoff round

Big fourth inning gives Brewers win

By Brian Lockhart

A fourth-inning three-run homer clinched the first game of the second round North Dufferin Baseball League playoff series for the Bolton Brewers against New Lowell Knights Sunday.

Brett Chater knocked one out of the park to give his mates the three-run lead.

The Knights were leading in the early going, then faltered when the Bolton crew started getting the wood on the bat to expand their lead. Chater did it again in the sixth inning when he hit a triple that brought in another single to give the Brewers five for the game.

New Lowell came close later in the game when they managed to load the bases and bring in a run to make it 5-2. A second run scored on a walk, making it a 5-3 game. But the side retired and the Brewers ended the next inning with no hits, but a two-run lead to take the game and lead the best of five series.

"It was a good game, we hit good," said Brewer pitcher Mike Blackwood, who threw the entire game. "Our bats finally came alive. We had good defence. I didn't pitch my greatest game, but the team picked me up."

Blackwood said the fourth inning home run made all the difference.

"That was huge," he declared. "That was a big turning point."

After spending seven innings on the mound, Blackwood slowed down, if slightly, toward the end.

"I gave them more hits than they deserved," he said of the Knights hitting.

The final stretch in the last inning saw a powwow on the mound after New Lowell loaded the bases and brought in the single on a walk.

"The coach came out and told me stay calm and throw strikes — finish the game," he said.

The series was scheduled to go to New Lowell for the second game Tuesday night, then return to North Hill Park in Bolton Wednesday (results of both games not known at press time).

The other NDBL series has the Aurora Jays playing the Orillia Majors in a best-of-five outing.

That series was scheduled to get underway in Aurora Tuesday.

The winners of the series will meet in the final and vie for the NDBL 2013 championship.

Bolton Brewer base runner Pat Warden slides into second base during the third inning of Sunday's NDBL playoff game against the New Lowell Knights. The Brewers went on to win the first game of the series 5-3.

King officially joins the Hills of Headwaters equine initiative

The Hills of Headwaters Tourism Association has announced that King Township has joined the Association's equine initiative, becoming a standing partner on the Headwaters Equine Leadership Group (HELG).

The official announcement was made recently by Association Chair Ron Munro at the Caledon Equestrian Park in Palgrave.

Recognizing the important contribution of the equine sector to the economy of the Headwaters region, the Association has facilitated the formation of HELG, a collaborative initiative of regional stakeholders who are committed to the importance of the equine sector in the area, and whose principle objective is to promote the region as a centre of equine excellence in Ontario, and to support, grow and advocate for this vital sector of the regional economy.

King is a municipality adjacent to the self-defined Headwaters region, but it has numerous assets that are synergistic to the municipalities, economies and tourism products found in the Hills of Headwaters, and specifically has a significant equine sector that naturally aligns with the development of Headwaters Horse Country.

In making the announcement, Munro observed that political boundaries really make no difference to consumers or visitors to the area.

"This partnership with King Township is another important pillar in positioning the Headwaters region as horse country," he added. "King Township is recognized as one of the premier equine communities in Ontario, and having them join our initiative further enhances our opportunities to position Headwaters as a centre of equine excellence, and allows Headwaters and King Township to have a stronger and more impactful presence in the marketplace."

"Partnership and collaboration are the cornerstones of our strategic direction, and we are delighted that King Township shares our philosophy, and we look forward to working with them as we move forward," he observed.

"We are delighted that King Township had the vision and wherewithal to join us," Munro commented.

"This is really a spectacular partnership," King Mayor Steve Pellegini remarked.

Dufferin County Warden Laura Ryan was on hand recently with King Mayor Steve Pellegrini, King Councillor Linda Pabst, Headwaters Tourism Association Chair Ron Munro and Caledon Councillor Patti Foley for the announcement that the Township has joined the Association's equine initiative, becoming a standing partner on the Headwaters Equine Leadership Group.
