TRUCK AND TRACTOR PULL BRINGS CROWDS OUT

There was lots of noise, as well as impressive machines at the Albion-Bolton Fairgrounds Friday night for the 28th annual Bolton Truck and Tractor Pull. Caledon resident Robert Kolb, president of the Albion and Bolton Agricultural Society, was pulling the weight down the track in the 8,000-pound modified farm tractor class in a machine called Extreme Impression. The pull was 263.5 feet. Turn to pages A12 and A13 for more on the tractor pull.

Mississauga can veto plans to expand council

By Bill Rea

Peel Regional councillors last week backed the Town's position to expand the Regional body, but that position might not get very far.

There's every indication Mississauga will veto it.

It was a split vote last Thursday that saw Regional councillors back one of the four options for the council configuration that were put forth by the Governance Review Task Force. The one that Caledon councillors unanimously backed last Tuesday, also known as Option 2, was also supported by the Brampton councillors. It passed 12-10, as all the Mississauga councillors who were present voted against it, but two of them were absent for the vote.

"I'm going to kill them," Mississauga Councillor Carolyn Parrish jokingly remarked the vote was taken.

Option 2 would see Regional council grow by eight members, with Mississauga and Brampton each getting four new representatives, while Caledon would keep its current five.

The current configuration has 12 councillors from Mississauga, seven from Brampton and five from Caledon.

Regional Solicitor Patrick O'Connor pointed out a triple majority would be required to change the composition of the council. That would include the approval of a majority of the municipal councils in Peel representing at least a majority of the registered electors (voters) in the region. That means the City of Mississauga would have the necessary numbers to be able to veto any proposed change. And that's just what will happen, according to Parrish. "There's not a single councillor in Mississauga who will vote for Option 2," she declared.

The task force consisted of Regional Chair Frank Dale, the mayors and CAOs of the three municipalities, the Regional CAO David David Szwarc and Regional Clerk Kathryn Lockyer.

Dale expressed appreciation for all the input the task force received, also thanking the three mayors.

"Consensus is not always easy," he remarked, adding the three showed good faith while advancing the interests of their municipalities. "I'm extremely proud of this council and glad to see progress so far."

Jones pleased with government’s change in autism services

The Provincial government has announced it will be providing more support for children and youth with autism, including an accelerated implementation of the new Ontario Autism Program.

That is something Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones has been calling for weeks.

The new program will provide all children, regardless of age, with more flexible services at a level of intensity that meets each child’s individual needs, significantly reduce wait times for service, and increase the number of treatment spaces available to serve more children and accommodate the rising prevalence in autism diagnoses, according to a statement issued by the Province Tuesday morning.

“We know that parents want the best for their children,” Children and Youth Services Minister Michael Coteau remarked. “I’ve heard from parents and advocates alike that we needed to do better for their kids. While the fundamental principles of the new Ontario Autism Program remain intact, I am pleased to announce today a smoother and faster transition to the new program for kids with autism in Ontario. I am confident that once fully implemented, the new Ontario Autism Program will deliver the critical services that kids need, when they need them, regardless of their age.”

Jones, Progressive Conservative critic for children and youth services, was quick to react.

“Today’s announcement signals the Minister has listened to the concerns raised by thousands of parents, experts, organizations, municipalities and both opposition parties regarding the government’s original decision to remove children over the age of five from receiving Intensive Behavioural Intervention (IBI) therapy,” she said in a statement issued by her office.

“Since the March 29 announcement, the Ontario PC Caucus and I have been working directly with families impacted by the government’s decision and service providers on how to address this issue,” she added. “We continuously called on the government to reverse their decision and shared countless stories from families and experts that spoke of the benefits of IBI therapy for children over the age of five.”

“With today’s announcement, no longer will children over the age of five be removed from receiving this life-changing therapy,” Jones observed. “I want to thank the Minister for making these important changes.”

Jones also said she and her colleagues look forward to reviewing the details of the government’s plan, and will continue to advocate for impacted families.

Thompson offers support after Mississauga blast

By Bill Rea

The Town of Caledon is offering sympathy and support in light of the massive explosion that leveled a house in Mississauga late Tuesday afternoon and damaged several more.

As of press time, one person has been confirmed dead, and there have been several other injuries. The explosion took place in the area of Dixie Road and Rathburn Road.

Mayor Allan Thompson brought the matter up at the start of Tuesday night’s session of Caledon council, stating he had been in contact with Mississauga Mayor Bonnie Crombie, offering help if required. He said Crombie was appreciative of the offer, and said they would reach out as needed.

“I know there are a lot of injuries,” Thompson commented. “Our thoughts are with Mississauga tonight.”

Second parking lot could serve Cheltenham Badlands

By Bill Rea

Of the four concepts being proposed for the Cheltenham Badlands, there seems to be support for the most comprehensive one.

That was the indication coming out of the community forum held last week.

About 30 people were on hand for the session, and there were some who didn't like any of the concepts.

The property is owned by the Ontario Heritage Trust (OHT).

The Badlands, located on the south side of Olde Base Line Road, east of Creditview Road, is one of Ontario's geological treasures and one of the best examples of badland topography in the province. Due to removal of vegetation during land clearing and livestock grazing in the early 1900s, the topsoil has eroded into a series of hummocks and gullies, producing the distinctive landscape of Queenston shale.

The 36.6-hectare property was acquired in 2002 by OHT, and is managed by the Bruce Trail Conservancy (BTC). Today, the Badlands is recognized as a provincially significant Area of Natural and Scientific Interest (ANSI).

There has been concern over the last couple of years regarding people wearing down the feature by excessively walking on it. There have also been traffic concerns on Olde Base Line.

Chris Manhood of OHT, who was facilitating the meeting, said the four concepts build on each other, but they all have common elements, including the proposed parking lot on Olde Base Line, an accessible parking spot to the west of the parking lot, a looped trail and a pedestrian walkway with a barrier. The concepts range from a single looped trail and a closed side trail to more loops and open side trails, more walkway on Olde Base Line and a 48-spot parking lot on Creditview Road, at the southwest corner of the property.

Not all were in support, however. There were some at the meeting who were ready to reject all four because they included the parking lot on Olde Base Line. There were also some complaints that input offered by the public has been ignored.

One man observed the fourth concept contained "more of everything."

Kendrick Doll of OHT told the audience work is progressing on a master plan process for the Badlands. A consulting firm has been brought in, and there have already been a number of public sessions. This process has resulted in the development of the four concepts.

He said they are looking for input on the four, with the plan to get it narrowed down to a preferred concept.

"We're listening to your feedback," he said.

Doll said the four concepts were based on a set of guiding principles and priorities, which included conservation of the site's cultural and natural heritage values, safety for people visiting the site, improving accessibility and enhancing the opportunities for interpretation and public education.

Protecting the site remains one of the main priorities, he said, adding safety measures will be implemented too. He also said the fencing around the site will remain in place.

Doll commented that implementing the master plan is going to require time and money. A phased approach is going to be used, as he pointed out there have already been some steps taken. Doll cited the reduction in the speed limit in the area, closing the site to people walking on the shale and wearing it down, etc. He pointed out, however, there is still a safety issue on olde Base Line.

The first phase covers construction of the Olde Base Line parking lot, the accessible parking spot and the walkway. It was also to include trail improvement and installing educational signs along the trail. He pointed out it delivers on the guiding principles.

Steve Ganesh, acting strategist with Peel Region's Transportation Division, commented the approval of the Olde Base Line parking lot had been appealed, but that was dismissed last month. Regional council subsequently freed up $700,000 to proceed with the project. He added the Region is going ahead with it because of the safety concerns.

Ganesh said there have been traffic studies that indicate the proposed lot will be able to address parking demand there about 90 per cent of the time. He agreed there will be other times (fall colours, etc.) when demand will likely exceed supply.

He added the Town and Region are working together on a number of fronts.

Project Manager Serguei Kabanov repeated that traffic studies have shown there's been a safety issue related to illegal parking and traffic that needed to be addressed. While the site has been close and parking in the area prohibited, he said there are still people stopping there, and there have been cases of trespassing.

The plan is to make modifications to the trail to help people get from the parking lot to the Badlands site. The walkway is proposed to assist those who can't use the trail.

The proposed lot will be able to accommodate 33 cars and two school buses, and will include connection points with the trail, as well as bicycle racks.

There were calls for designated bike lanes in the area. Ganesh said that has been looked into, but he didn't think there enough room in the right-of-way.

Kabanov said the parking lot design calls for a four per cent slope to allow for drainage. The run-off will be collected in vegetative swails to water the new plantings around the lot. He said it will be paved to allow for pavement markings.

The proposed walkway will be 240 metres long and 1.8 metres wide. Kabanov said it will include an elevated curb, pedestrian railing and a guide rail. There will be a two per cent slope toward the road for runoff, as well as decorative edging.

He also said the changing grades on the road prevent it from complying with Ontarians with Disabilities Act.

One man observed walking along the road is dangerous, but Doll it wouldn't be possible to build accessible routes on the site, commenting "that sort of engineered infrastructure" would never get approved.

Addressing the accessible parking spot, Kabanov said it will be on the south side of the road, and only eastbound traffic will be able to use it. There will be no U-turns permitted. He also said it will be large enough for Tranship vehicles to use easily.

"Let's face it," one woman commented later. "There will be U-turns."

There were concerns that there will be surges in visitors going to the site, and the proposed parking lot will not be able to handle them. One woman pointed out the lot will encourage more visitors.

Doll observed the parking lot is seen as an initial step in addressing traffic issues. Other ideas being considered include shuttle buses and closing the site to vehicles except school buses during peak periods.

He also expressed appreciation for all the valuable feedback.

"You're not listening," one woman charged.

Doll countered they are working with various stakeholders to implement best practices.

"We are listening," he maintained, adding the safety issues mean the parking lot has to go ahead.

Addressing the benefits of the four concepts, there were also comments that not enough is being done to address the safety of cyclists, whose numbers are increasing in Caledon.

One man wondered if accommodating two school buses was sufficient. He was worried there could be a backlog of buses.

Councillor Johanna Downey thought schools would book their times. She said her children go on school trips to the Jack Smythe Field Centre near Terra Cotta, and the facility is never overrun with buses.

One man suggested starting with the first concept and build on it, identifying issues as things progress.

He also said not having designated cycling lanes might be safer than trying squeeze one in.

A Midsummer Night’s Dream opens in Bolton July 5

Humber River Shakespeare will again be starting its 2016 tour in Caledon. The company is performing A Midsummer Night’s Dream this year, and the first two performances will be July 5 and 6 at Dick’s Dam Park in Bolton.

“It is always a treat for us to start our tour every summer in the idyllic setting of Dick’s Dam Park,” the company’s Artistic Director Kevin Hammond remarked.

A Midsummer Night’s Dream is a delightful tale of meddling fairies, star-crossed lovers, royal engagements and muddled tradesmen caught up in chaos. The most popular comedy in Shakespeare’s canon, this hilarious romp has love on the loose in the woods. Add a misapplied love potion, mistaken identities and the most famous play-within-a play ever written, and you have a perfect recipe for joy and laughter.

All performances are family friendly, and offered free of charge, but donations are gratefully accepted. The suggested donation is $20.

Other performances will be July 7 at Schomberg Fairgrounds, July 8 at the LINK in Georgina, July 9 at Tasca Park in Nobleton, July 10 and 12 at the McMichael Canadian Art Collection in Kleinburg, July 13 at the Bradford Public Library and Cultural Centre, July 14 at Alton Mill Arts Centre, July 15, 16 and 17 at Town Park in Aurora, July 19 and 20 at Newmarket Riverwalk Commons, July 21, 22 and 23 at Thornlodge Park in Mississauga, July 24, 29, 30 and 31 at Montgomery’s Inn in Etobicoke, July 26 at Etienne Brulé Park in Etobicoke and July 27 and 28 at the Old Mill in Toronto.

All performances start at 7 p.m.

Humber River Shakespeare has been touring professional, outdoor Shakespeare to communities across the GTA for the last NINE years. Their productions are done as in Shakespeare’s day: in the open air, with simple sets, colourful costumes, a love of the language and a focus on playful storytelling.

New museum exhibition opening at PAMA

The Peel Art Gallery, Museum and Archives (PAMA) playfully launched its new museum exhibition recently with a kick-off Family Workshop.

This exhibit is dedicated to toys, games and sports, from Trivial Pursuit to teddy bears. Experience delightful stories, images and artifacts of games and toys from fellow Peel residents.

Canada at Play: 100 Years of Games, Toys and Sports runs until Aug. 21.

Explore some of the traditional toys and sports enjoyed by Canadians over the past 100 years. From checkers to Connect 4 to the distinctly Canadian version of Snakes and Ladders called the Great Game of Ups and Downs — featuring stairs to go up and toboggans to slide you down you can join in the fun and get hands-on with these games and puzzles and more.

The core of this exhibition was organized and circulated by the Royal Ontario Museum through its Travelling Exhibition Program. It has been enhanced by artifacts, activities and images from PAMA.

Here’s a sample of what can be experienced in this exhibition.

- Trivial Pursuit, which has sold more than 100 million copies around the world, has a link to Peel. The creators of the game included Chris Haney, who lived in Caledon and was the founder of Devil’s Pulpit and Devil’s Paintbrush golf courses, and Scott Abbott, who is the owner of the North Bay Battalion, formerly the Brampton Battalion hockey team, and was inducted into the Brampton Sports Hall of Fame in 2005.

- A vintage homemade checker board. This checker board was made by Peter McLeod of Caledon around 1890. PAMA is happy to share an image from its archives of Peter McLeod and his friend John MacDonald playing checkers.
- Betty Odlum’s Teddy Bear, circa 1925. Her teddy bear has a new home at PAMA and is on display in this exhibition. Odlum was a talented photographer and many of her images were also recently donated to the PAMA Archives.

Donations play a major role in the PAMA’s ability to maintain the highest standards and to nourish meaningful lifelong learning for audiences.

Operated by the Region of Peel, PAMA is at 9 Wellington St. E. in Brampton. Visit pama.peelregion.ca to learn more.

Library Board offers new summer hours at Belfountain branch

Last July, the Caledon Public Library Board approved a recommendation to reduce the hours of operation of the Belfountain branch as part of a 10-month pilot project.

This strategic decision to temporarily reduce the hours was prompted by low branch use and was intended to encourage a more concentrated and timely use of the facility while reducing related staff costs.

The Board and staff have been monitoring branch performance and public response since the launch of the pilot in September 2015. While June would have marked the planned end of the pilot, the Board recently approved a proposal to extend the study pending the results of the Library’s Master Plan in the fall. This extension also included the introduction of new summer hours at the Belfountain branch.

The hours of operation for July and August will be Tuesdays from 4 to 8 p.m., Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The library recently hired LGA Architectural Partners and Lighthouse Consulting to facilitate the completion of a Service/Facility Review and Master Plan. The resulting plan will provide recommendations related to the ongoing operation of, and required improvements to, library branches and to effectively position the library to meet the future needs of a growing Caledon. To this end, an online survey will soon be launched and number of open houses will be scheduled in the coming months. The library welcomes this opportunity to learn more about the community’s related needs and to identify new and innovative ways to provide service to the area.

BIA holds first summer event

The Bolton Business Improvement Area (BIA) held the first in a series of summer promotion events Saturday. Palgrave artist Lorraine Savio was showing a collection of her acrylic, water colour and oil creations as part of Art in the Park.

Local youngsters got the chance to try their creative hands at Art in the Park. Melanie Portland of Bolton was assisting Aidan and Noah Gregory of Palgrave.

The BIA event included the local sounds of the Sean Bourke Band, featuring Bourke, Mike Graziano and John Wittmann.

An educated consumer is the best customer at Caledon Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram

By Brian Lockhart

After four years at their Highway 50 location in Bolton, Caledon Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram, has earned a well-deserved reputation as a fully stocked dealership that excels at customer service and strives to educate consumers on the best practice when it comes to purchasing a vehicle.

It is their culture as a business that brings satisfied customers back when it's time to look for a new car. It is that same respect for consumers that draws new visitors based on referrals from friends and family who have had a good experience when purchasing a car, truck, or SUV.

"Transparency," said Roham Jamali, managing director of the dealership, is a key component of their business model and why their customers trust them.

"Other stores may alter the fees or interest rates after the purchase of a car or add fees on top of the advertised price," Jamali explained. "We don't do any of that. Every price is set. We give our customers the best price first."

The franchise has the full line up of Chrysler, Jeep, Dodge and RAM sedans, SUVs and trucks. Their entire inventory is available online, along with their prices, detailed pictures and full descriptions to help shoppers with their research and comparisons.

The Jeep brand is currently celebrating its 75th anniversary in production. The original version went into production in 1941 as a military truck and over the years has evolved into the number one consumer off-road four-wheel drive adventure vehicle.

When it comes to trucks, nothing can beat the Ram. From the 1500 model right up to the super heavy-duty 3500, Ram trucks have become the vehicle of choice for many truck enthusiasts who rely on it as a dependable and rugged vehicle that is also fuel efficient and has the comfort of a well-appointed interior.

While Caledon Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram, is well known as a franchise dealer, they are also a premier location for used vehicles, with around 300 cars, SUVs, and trucks on their lot. Partnered with their other location, North York Chrysler, they have access to around 1,600 quality new and used vehicles.

They also stock a wide variety of makes and models, including many hard to find brands and higher end luxury vehicles like BMW, M-Benz and Audis.

"We have a 120-point inspection on all used vehicles verses a 30-point inspection at most used car outlets," Jamali said. "Our cars all have all-inclusive prices, full detailed descriptions, and lots of real pictures of the actual vehicle and its options. The difference is that you're not buying from a used car place, you're buying from a highly reputable franchise that is also a proud member of the Used Car Dealers Association of Ontario and stands behind the products it sells. There is big difference in the service, the quality of inspections, and the work that goes toward the conditioning of the cars. Most companies compete at a 100-kilometer radius. We compete across Canada. Every car comes with a Car Proof history and accident report and is readily available to consumers. We give them a full report up front and provide them with all the information so they can make an educated purchase and compare for themselves."

Competing at a nationwide level, Jamali said their best customer is an educated customer. By knowing prices across the country for a particular vehicle, a buyer can make an informed decision when considering the market value of a car or truck when making a purchase.

"We give the best price for the value for every car that we have, compared to others available in the market," Jamali said. "Not just in our area or in Ontario but across the country. That's why we encourage people to compare our prices and reputation to others."

One of the main reasons customers return to the dealership, besides the fair pricing strategy, is the no-pressure approached used by the sales staff and encouraged by management.

"Our sales people are paid differently and are there to help consumers find their perfect car, not to sell them one," Jamali stated. "We call this a 'shark-free zone,' where customers can test drive as many cars as they need to make the right decision, and without pressure or sales pitches. The reason for our success is that we have stayed transparent and people see this over time — and transparency doesn't end at the point of sale. Our sales person's job is to listen to the customer's needs and guide them to the right vehicle and educate them, even if they don't purchase from us."

The dealership has some amazing offers when it comes to financing.

"For example, you can get a Dodge Caravan, 4X4 Ram 1500 and 4X4 Jeep Cherokees at zero per cent financing for 84 months — that's seven years and every penny you spend goes towards the car, not interest," he said.

Behind the show room at the dealership, the work continues in the automotive service centre.

With a full-service repair facility, the shop has 10 automotive bays and two cleaning stations.

Trained automotive service technicians will work with a customer, especially when a repair requires a high priced part, to see if they can source a quality part at cheapest price to keep costs to a minimum.

To observe their success in Caledon, the dealership will be holding a fourth anniversary celebration from Wednesday, July 6, through to Sunday, July 10, with lots of prizes for participating customers, including free oil changes, a $200 gasoline gift card, and a 55-inch 4K LED television.

The staff and management at Caledon Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram, are excited to be a part of Caledon and are looking forward to many years of serving the community.

‘Mississauga is being magnanimous,’ Parrish declares

It was Caledon Councillor Jennifer Innis who moved adoption of Option 2, but Parrish was quick to voice her opposition, favouring a configuration modelled more of representation by population (rep by pop). She pointed out there are some 59,000 residents of Caledon, adding there is no ward in Mississauga that small.

According to rep by pop, Parrish said Caledon is entitled to less than one councillor. She was calling for three representatives; the mayor and one councillor each to represent the east and west sides of town.

“Mississauga is being magnanimous,” she said.

Parrish added Mississauga is happy with the current arrangement of a mayor and 11 councillors. There is no desire to add more elected positions in the city, and she could see taking two seats from Caledon and giving them to Brampton. She also said the vote at City council against adding more members passed unanimously.

Parrish also said she didn’t want to hear about how big Caledon is.

“I don’t represent rocks, “ she said. “I don’t represent horses.”

She said it’s not necessary to travel all over town to represent it. That can be done with use of emails and social media, she said.

“You’re representing people,” she declared.

Mississauga Councillor Pat Saito said this issue has been discussed a lot over the years.

She also said there is a case for giving more councillors to Brampton, and agreed with Parrish that Mississauga doesn’t need anymore. She said it would be irresponsible to add four more. Saito pointed out residents are speaking out all the time against bigger government.

“Our taxpayers have been under represented . . . for many, many years,” she observed, adding Mississauga taxpayers have been paying the bulk of the Region’s bills.

Mayor Allan Thompson said he respected the opinions coming from Mississauga. He also cited the Municipal Act, which states representation by area is a key consideration. Caledon has 56 per cent of the land area of Peel, and he said it’s full-time work to represent that.

“It’s full-time work,” he said. “You have people. We deal with everything.”

He also suggested a compromise could be using weighted votes for Mississauga’s representation, giving the mayor two votes at Region instead of one, and giving some of the City councillors with larger wards extra votes as well.

“That’s one way of making it work,” he argued.

Mississauga Councillor Jim Tovey said he and his colleagues would have to sell Mississauga residents on the idea of getting four new councillors at a time when people want less government.

Brampton Councillor John Sprovieri said he agreed with Mississauga’s position.

“It doesn’t make sense for them to take another four seats,” he remarked, adding it makes sense to increase Brampton’s numbers, given the growth in the area.

He also agreed that cutting Caledon down to three would create too much of a burden. He said the councillors would need a helicopter to get around town.

“This is a two-tiered system that’s not working for people,” Mississauga Mayor Bonnie Crombie commented.

Mississauga operates on a single tier (meaning all City councillors are also Regional councillors), and Crombie said Brampton could change to a similar model any time.

She added they were trying to do what’s right, adding Brampton’s growth justifies another two seats.

Crombie observed that adding eight more council positions will add another $2 million to the Region’s budget.

“I cannot face my taxpayers and say ‘I’m going to add eight people to this council,’” she said.

Caledon Councillor Barb Shaughnessy commented that Caledon has worked with its Brampton and Mississauga counterparts for years. The issue, she said, is Mississauga wants to maintain half the seats at council, and adding seats to both Brampton and Mississauga would accomplish that.

Shaughnessy also said rep by pop is not always practised. In the House of Commons, Prince Edward Island is over represented in terms of population numbers.

“You’re creating s hardship on us,’ she told the Mississauga councillors, asking them to view the issue from Caledon’s point of view. “We want to work with you guys. But you’ve got to understand that Caledon needs a little more skin in the game.”

Be she added this is the only chance to correct an injustice in time for the next municipal elections in 2018.

Jeffrey used to be a Liberal MPP, and she recalled in her first year at Queen’s Park, then Mississauga mayor Hazel McCallion was pushing to have her city separate from the Region. The issue was referred to Justice John Adams, and Jeffrey said he came back with a compromise. But she said then premier Dalton McGuinty cherry picked the recommendations in the report, and Brampton go the short end.

“I had to vote against my party,” she said. “I think they call that ‘career limiting.’ I feel proud of what I did.”

“I guess you can’t say it was a Gong Show, but it was close to it,” Thompson commented later.

He also said Brampton deserves to have all its councillors at the Region.

“I think it got political,” he remarked, pointing out growing councils is nothing new. He said Niagara Region has a council of 32, and the councils in Halton Region and Toronto are adding seats.

“There’s been a bit of a toxic environment this term of council,” he added.

He also thought the Mississauga reps didn’t seem to be listening.

“I think they were focused,” he said “They were hooked on numbers and not listening to anything else.”

Thompson said it will be the Province that decides the make up of council.

“Two municipalities stood together,” he said. “That will be a good message to send to the Province.”

“We started off where we ended,” Shaughnessy commented later, pointing out they went in with the position that Caledon keeps its representation, Brampton gets more and Mississauga remains at 50 per cent. “I don’t think anybody gained any ground.”

She also doesn’t think there will be any changes in time for the next election, since the province is going to ultimately decide which municipality gets how many seats.

“I think Caledon held firm on its position,” Councillor Annette Groves said the following day, pointing out Caledon supports Brampton getting more councillors.

“The province should be dealing with this issue,” Groves said. “I don’t think it should have been dealt with at the regional level.”

“I think that the option that was presented and approved by the majority of Regional council was a compromise,” Innis observed.

She also said Option 2 could be implemented without creating any new councillors for Mississauga. It could be done with weighted votes.

“We need to ensure we have effective representation,” Innis asserted, pointing out Caledon has a lot of land, as well as Provincial policies governing much of the planning in town.

“I hope we can continue to work together and the Region will continue to be successful,” Innis added.

“I think that it’s important to remember that this was brought to the table as a Brampton issue,” Councillor Johanna Downey commented.

“Brampton needs the extra representation,” she added. “Obviously, we believe that should not come at our expense.

Tilson to support bill on trans-gender rights

By Jasen Obermeyer

An Orangeville high school’s second annual Diversity Walk June 3 saw Dufferin-Caledon MP David Tilson speak to students about his recent change of heart on trans-gender issues.

Teachers and students of Westside Secondary School walked around the school’s field, wearing colorful clothing in support of “equality for everyone. This includes gender rights, disability rights, religious rights, LGBTQ including gender identity rights, gender rights, equal rights for all races, native rights.”

The school’s Gay-Straight Alliance (GSA), recently renamed to the Gender-Sexuality Alliance, organized the walk. Jennifer Hutchinson, the school’s drama teacher and her colleague Gordon Clement lead the GSA.

A GSA club is a “student-run club in a high school or middle school that brings together LGBTQ and straight students to support each other, provide a safe place to socialize and create a platform to fight for racial, gender, LGBTQ, and economic justice.”

Tilson spoke about his changed position on trans-gender rights and said the diversity walk is a great idea to draw attention for the needs of equality.

“Our society has evolved over time for not only those of us who are gay, but those of us who are transgender,” he said. “I don’t think there’s as much resistance as there was in the past.”

In response to a new bill, the Liberal government is moving forward to protect transgender rights. Tilson said he has changed his mind. “Whenever the bill comes for a vote, I will be supporting it.”

Hutchinson said the walk supports the school’s mandate. “We try to make our school as inclusive as possible for everyone. It doesn’t matter gender, sexuality, race, religion.”

Hutchinson said the walk shows people in Orangeville who are accepting and inclusive. “Especially in a high school, we need to promote equality.”

Plenty of noise and fun was had

The Albion-Bolton Fairgrounds was definitely not the place for people with tender ears Friday night, but was the place for those who like seeing powerful machines put through their paces. The occasion was the 38th annual Bolton Truck and Tractor Pull, put on by the Albion and Bolton Agricultural Society. Paul Truax of Angus turned in a pull of 302.87 feet driving this single-engine modified tractor called School's Out.

Matthew Boyes of Inglewood pulled the sled 279.63 feet in the hot stock 4X4 class.

“Caledon Community Services’ ‘Night on the Town’ a Huge Success” by Monty Laskin

Remember the saying popularized by the “Make Love Not War” movement? “Great will be the day when the army has to fundraise for fighter jets while our elementary schools have all the money they require to host nutritious lunch programs for children.”

That’s what I was reminded of at CCS’ recent Night on the Town fundraiser in support of specialized transportation services in Caledon. The event allowed passengers and volunteers to enjoy a night out, while sharing how CCS’ Transportation Program supports their everyday living. It was sobering to hear just how essential transportation is in this community. In 2015, CCS provided 36,503 rides that included medical and dialysis appointments, grocery shopping, visits with family and social outings.

CCS transportation services are a model of efficiency, partnering with the Region of Peel’s Transhelp Program and The Central West LHIN to operate this critical resource. While we are immensely grateful for our strong partnerships, CCS pursues fundraising to ensure we maintain a healthy fleet of vehicles, that our drivers are properly trained, that our routes are efficient and our pick-ups are timely. The Region of Peel is now rolling out a Master Plan for Accessible Transportation and CCS has been asked to provide expanded services in Caledon. We are delighted to be increasing our capacity to support our community.

CCS is well aware that community support is the backbone of our success. On behalf of the entire Transportation crew at CCS and all of our passengers, our gratitude is immense to all who came aboard to raise more than $30,000 in support of such a vital service: Topac Express; Fines Ford and Lincoln; Armstrong Petroleums Ltd.; Scotiabank Orangeville; Mayor Allan Thompson and Regional Councillor Johanna Downey; Supreme Collision Centre; Bolton and District Lions; Balzan Trucks; Cella General Repairs Ltd; and our dinner hosts, Dino and Massimo of Casamici Trattoria. Thank you for investing in this community’s services, keeping them strong and ensuring a continued push towards CCS’ vision, “a healthy, engaged compassionate community for all”.

Regional staff made big contribution to United Way

By Bill Rea

The 2015 campaign by the United Way of Peel Region was a big success, and employees of the Region played a big part in that.

United Way President and CEO Shelley White appeared before Regional council recently to thank them and Peel staff for their efforts.

Regional staff (including Peel Regional Police) raised $436,138, and White accepted the contribution in a special cheque presentation.

She called the Regional effort “absolutely phenomenal,” adding in terms of employees and union personnel, the Region was the second largest money raiser in Peel (Suncor Energy was tops), and White said that says a lot about the commitment and leadership of council.

“These funds will be used to make a real difference,” White said.

United Way provides funds to 54 community agencies that deliver 89 services and programs to Peel residents.

“It saves lives,” White told councillors, pointing out some 187,000 people were helped in 2015, and they expect to do more of the same this year.

Regional CAO David Szwarc had plenty of praise for the staffers who led the campaign.

It was co-chaired by Grace Gyles and Kelly-Anne Salerno from Human Services, and Szwarc joked he refers to them as “Grace Kelly.”

“They did an absolutely amazing job,” he remarked.

He also pointed out supporting these various agencies works out well in the long run. He said without the support of United Way, these agencies would be before council seeking support.

“I’m continuously impressed by the support our employees show to the United Way of Peel Region,” Szwarc observed. “This spirit of generosity is just another example of our employees’ dedication to ensuring that everyone in Peel is able to live in a healthy, safe and connected community.”

“It’s great that we were able to raise the funds we have,” commented Caledon Councillor Annette Groves.

She also observed there’s a perception that there aren’t people in need in Caledon, and that’s not the case. She pointed out Caledon Community Services does a great job working those in need.

“The commitment we have demonstrated to our community is inspiring and reaffirms the vital role the United Way plays in the Region of Peel,” said Regional Chair and CEO Frank Dale. “Partnering with community organizations, like the United Way, enables us to achieve the best outcomes for our community.”

Curbside collection of large appliances ends in Peel

Residents in the Town of Caledon are advised that as of June 30 the Region of Peel will no longer collect large appliances from the curb.

“Our goal is to meet residents’ needs while delivering cost-effective services,” Director of Waste Management Norm Lee announced. “Due to low uptake of the service, coupled with the fact that there are charitable and private organizations picking up appliances, and an ongoing challenge to complete the pick up before scrap metal collectors, it became apparent that it was no longer necessary for the Region to continue delivering this curbside service.”

Appliances that will no longer be accepted at the curb for pick up include refrigerators, stoves, iceboxes, freezers, washing machines, dryers, furnaces, dehumidifiers, hot water tanks and metal bath tubs.

For a full list, visit peelregion.ca/waste

Residents have the following options to dispose of large metal appliances:

- bring the item(s) or other metal fixtures to any of the Region’s six Community Recycling Centres free of charge,
- book a collection appointment with other local charitable organizations that offer the service (e.g. Habitat for Humanity),
- plan to have old appliances removed by retailers when new models are purchased.

LEONETTE OPENS IN BOLTON

Nadia Abouzeid and her son Mohamed Mansi were cutting the ribbon recently to officially open Leonette. Located at the southwest corner of Queen and King Streets in Bolton, the store carries women’s casual and evening wear, including a European summer collection. “It’s unique,” she said. “It’s not something that you can find anywhere in Canada.” Abouzeid said she’s been in this line about 25 years, getting her start in Egypt. She chose Bolton to open her business because she has a lot of friends in the community. “We love Bolton,” she said. “We feel comfortable.”

Funding to our health care system will increase by over $1 billion this year.

Investing in new and better ways for all Ontarians to get the care they need means:

- 700 new doctors and specialists
- 35 hospitals currently being renewed, modernized or expanded
- $250 million invested in home and community care
- $345 million invested to improve wait times and access to care

These investments ensure a strong health care system for both today and tomorrow.

Caledon still has five voices at Region

There is an effort to reduce Caledon’s representation at Peel Regional council, meaning residents and officials have to be vigilant. But the news isn’t all bad, at least not yet. For one thing, Regional council voted last week in favour of Caledon keeping its five seats, although Mississauga City councillors have the power to veto that, and have stated they will use it. While we agree representation by population is a perfectly reasonable goal to strive for when determining how many councillors should go where, it is not the only one. Representation by area is an important consideration too, and one which is frequently practised. Prince Edward Island, for example, has less than 0.5 per cent of Canada’s population, but about 1.18 per cent of the seats in the House of Commons. And there seems to be no call to change that. In the end, the decision on how council seats are going to be distributed will be made by the Province. We hope MPPs take note that Brampton sided with Caledon’s position in last Thursday’s vote. We also hope they note the traditions that seem to have served Peel well for more than 40 years.

Caledon not rocks, horses, barns and dogs

I attended the Peel Regional council meeting June 23. The contentious part of the agenda centred on the expansion of Regional council seats. Brampton councillors advocated for the addition of four more regional seats, given the huge population growth in this city over the last decade. Caledon councillors supported this position while Mississauga councillors could not justify the taxpayer expense of four more incremental Regional seats. Mississauga’s argument was Brampton should receive two more Regional seats at the expense of Caledon. There would be no increase in the number of seats and only a shift in representation. Caledon would decrease from five to three representatives while Brampton would increase from seven to nine representatives. In other words, Regional representation should be based on population numbers and not geography. This is a narrow viewpoint and does not take into consideration the need for effective rural representation as seen in federal and provincial ridings around the country. I was also quite disappointed with the tone and conduct of the Mississauga councillors during this debate. At one point, Carolyn Parrish compared her ward in Mississauga to Caledon by indicating that our councillors represent rocks and horses and barns and dogs.

These negative and unproductive comments diminish the working relationship between the three municipalities while accentuating the divide between urban and rural communities. Perhaps Brampton Councillor John Sprovieri put it best when he said that our councillors would require “helicopters” to provide effective rural representation in our community if we lost two regional seats. Although the motion to add four more regional seats to Brampton was approved at this meeting, Mississauga intends to veto this decision. I don’t have much faith that Mississauga will work with Brampton or Caledon on a collaborative or team based approach in the near future. It reminds me of three kids playing in a sandbox who won’t share any toys.

Only time will tell what will happen with Regional government in Peel!

Rotary Club of Palgrave’s Weekly Rotary Minute
By Jim Firth, outgoing Club President

As I reflect back on my year as President of the Rotary Club of Palgrave, I think of need; the need of families in our own community and afar. I was first drawn to this club because I wanted to help out my community. I could not have imagined the depth of need that exists, as well as our club’s ability to assuage that need. I have gained a profound respect and insight into the tireless work of staff and volunteers at some of the various organizations Rotary supports such as Peace Ranch for adults with mental health issues, Family Transition Place, and My Sister’s Place (Alliston) for women in crisis. Beyond this, my understanding of what service means was inspired by individual Palgrave-Caledon community heroes. Two in particular stand out: Carlos Summaria and Meaghan Zarembo. Carlos, inspired by his brother, Michael, provides engaging day programs to challenged young adults at the White Birch Special Needs Centre for Adults in Palgrave. Meaghan Zarembo, helps handicapped adults like herself with a music therapy program which she support through Tisho’s Music Academy. Rotary is a community. I joined this community because of a need to be of service. As a father, there is nothing more important than knowing that the needs of my family are met. My family and I have gained so much in the belief of the goodness of our neighbours and community. Thank you Palgrave Rotary for honouring me with one year as part of your 35 year tradition of service. Please visit www.rotaryclubofpalgrave.com for more information on our Club and all the wonderful ways you could get involved.

It happened today

Space flight has been one of the technical miracles humans have experienced for more than 50 years, but things don’t always work out the way they’re supposed to. Sometimes, they end in tragedy. The three Soviet cosmonauts who made up the crew of Soyuz 11 had spent more than three weeks in orbit, but it was time for Georgi Dobrovolski, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Patsayev to come home. The re-entry seemed routine until the rescue crew arrived at the scene and found the three crew members dead. It was eventually determined that a valve been jolted open during re-entry, causing the space craft to depressurize. The tragedy took place this day, June 30, 1971.

Time healed the damage

Tomorrow (Friday) is a special day in these parts, but it’s also a milestone of sorts.

Tomorrow (July 1) would have been the 55th birthday of the late Princess Diana. Think back almost 19 years, to the night when Diana and her boyfriend Dodi Fayed were killed in a car wreck in Paris. The tragedy was a main talking point for weeks after that.

I remember being with a group of friends spending the holiday weekend at bed and breakfast establishment on Lake Ontario, near Kingston. It was late Saturday night, and the proprietor of the establishment, who generally left her tenants alone after a certain hour, came into the unit with the news she had just heard. That stopped the card games, and we all rushed to our cars to turn on the radios (there was no radio or TV in the unit, and it was a little too early for any of us to have brought laptops or made use of wifi). One of the couples in the group were originally from England. There was lots of interesting conversation in the hours and days that followed.

The topic dominated phone-in shows on the radio. I recall a story of a woman who phoned one of these shows, wondering what all the fuss was about. It later came out that some people did not appreciate her comments, and there were even threats launched against her.

There was naturally a lot of shock, over the fact she had died so suddenly and so young, at 36. In an instance of certain irony, Mother Theresa died the day before Diana’s funeral, at 87. There were commentators who made the point that the grieving was much more profound for Diana, but might have been more deserved by Teresa. Some of them almost made it sound like a contest — Who deserved to generate the most grief?

But we were also treated to discussions about the future of the monarchy in Britain, and by extension in Canada.

Although most of us tend to downplay it, the fact is Canada still has ties to the monarchy. If you doubt that conclusion, take a look at a $20 bill sometime, not to mention the profile on most of the coins we carry around. And if there’s a royal wedding taking place, a lot of people in this country will be up before dawn to watch it.

Yet at the time, there was heavy criticism for the way the Royal Family conducted themselves. Prince Charles came in for quite a trashing too. I remember being angry at the time, believing the heat was undeserved. But I also knew there were many who didn’t agree with me. I think a lot of those feelings persist to this day.

I was talking to a woman from Ireland a couple of years ago, and she expressed, in no uncertain terms, how badly Charles had behaved at the time, and that the monarchy had outlived it’s usefulness.

Since it was a social occasion, I resisted the occasion of saying anything that might result in an argument. It sometimes pays to bite one’s tongue.

But I did state my believe that there is little desire, at least in this part of Canada, to do away with the monarchy. I have never heard of any serious local effort in that direction. As well, during federal elections, I am in the habit of asking local candidates a question about the topic. I sometimes encounter people who are not very enthused with the institution, but there’s no desire to open up the can of worms that would result if they advocated doing away with it.

Perhaps things could have been handled differently when Diana was killed. But who are the rest of us to tell people how to handle deaths in the family. The Queen and Charles were criticized over the way they handled things, but Diana had left two sons behind, and their grieving took a certain amount of priority over optics. And people should have realized that at the time.

Things have changed a lot in the last 19 years.

Diana is still the focal point of a lot of happy memories, but not much of the acrimony that was evident at the time of her death.

Granted, Diana went through a lot of ordeals that none of us deserve. On the other hand, I’m hard-pressed to determine who was responsible for her troubles.

I think the main trouble started when Diana first appeared on the scene, when she was just 19.

The real problem was no one, including Diana herself, her family, Charles, the Royal Family, the government of the day, Fleet Street or anyone else for that matter ever really appreciated the sensation she would become. Accordingly, Diana was not well-equipped to address the issue, and there was no one on hand to assist her. Charles and his family weren’t really in a position to offer much help. They were used to the attention that Diana suddenly found herself exposed to.

Here’s a trivia question that I predict a lot of people will get wrong.

Prior to Diana, when was the last time a woman had married that close to the British throne?

Some of you were probably quick to cite 1923, when then Prince Albert married Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, who most of us remember as the Queen Mother, and you would have been wrong. Albert was the second son of a reigning king, with a healthy older brother. No one ever thought this guy would be king. In other words, she didn’t marry that close to the throne.

You have to go back a lot further in time, like to 1893, when then Prince George wed Mary of Teck. The couple, in time, became George V and Queen Mary. Those were the days before mass media and paparazzi, when people were generally willing to show more respect to other people, especially when it came to their privacy.

What I think it boils down to is no one in the Royal Family or Buckingham Palace knew how to deal with the situation and all the attention Diana received, leaving Diana to deal with things on her own.

Like I stated, a lot has changed, and Diana’s daughter-in-law, Kate Middleton, has benefitted from it.

The ability to change with times and adapt I think is the main reason why the monarchy is still around and flourishing.

You don’t hear many calls to get rid of the institution these days. I’m sure there are some who would like to see it done away with, but I think their numbers are small, and not likely to increase much in the foreseeable future.

I think most people have come to realize that what ever damage was done at the time of Diana’s death has been repaired, and the world has moved on. There were probably many people who would have sworn some 19 years ago that would be impossible. From my point of view, I never doubted it.

What you need to know about Canada's new medical assistance in dying legislation

The Governor General of Canada gave Royal Assent to Bill C-14: Medical Assistance in Dying June 17.

This bill provides federal regulation surrounding access to medical assistance in dying, which became unrestricted June 6, 2016 in accordance with the Supreme Court of Canada's mandated deadline. As the Member of Parliament for Dufferin-Caledon, I felt that it was important for me to inform you about this new legislation.

Under Bill C-14, individuals are now eligible for medical assistance in dying if they meet all of the following criteria:

- the individual qualifies for health services funded by the federal government;
- they are 18 years of age and capable of making decisions with respect to their health;
- they have a grievous and irremediable medical condition;
- they have made a voluntary request for a medically assisted death that was not made as a result of external pressure;
- they give informed consent to receive medical assistance in dying after they have been informed of the means that are available to relieve their suffering, including palliative care.

OTTAWA JOURNAL

David Tilson
MP Dufferin-Caledon

A section of this new legislation that has been at the forefront of the debate is the term, "grievous and irremediable medical condition." The Liberal government chose to define this as someone who has a serious and incurable illness/disease/disability, in an advanced state of irreversible decline in capability, an illness/disease/disability that causes a state of decline inflicts them with enduring physical or psychological suffering that is intolerable to them and cannot be relieved under conditions that they consider acceptable, natural death has become reasonably foreseeable, and taking into account all their medical circumstances without a prognosis necessarily having been made as to the specific length of time that they have remaining.

This legislation amends the Criminal Code to create exemptions from the offences of culpable homicide when medical practitioners and nurse practitioners aid and take part in medical assistance in dying. The new legislation requires medical practitioners, nurse practitioners, and pharmacists who receive a request for a medically assisted death to provide the proper information for monitoring purposes to the Minister of Health. The amendments brought in by Bill C-14 also create new offences for those who fail to comply with the safeguards, for forging or destroying documents, or fail to provide the required information to the individual and contravening the regulations.

As medical assistance in dying is implemented across the country, further amendments to the legislation will likely need to be made over time. A mandatory five-year review by Committees in both the Senate and the House of Commons has been included in the Act. The Ministers of Justice and Health must also review, within 180 days, the feasibility of adding further criteria to the eligibility list. These reviews will allow for a critical analysis of the legislation and its implementation progress to date. The committees will then provide the government with reports of their findings.

I encourage everyone to read the entire piece of legislation so you may have an understanding of the changes made to the Criminal Code. You can find the document at www.parl.gc.ca

Come celebrate Canada Day in Dufferin-Caledon

Happy birthday Canada!

July 1, we celebrate our nation's 149th birthday and the many accomplishments our nation has achieved throughout its history.

To celebrate Canada's birthday, there are a variety of activities occurring across the country and in Dufferin-Caledon that I hope you have an opportunity to enjoy.

I will be starting my day at Downey's Farm Market where they will be serving pancakes topped with their famous strawberries and whipped cream. There will be live entertainment, a play area for the kids, pony rides, goat walk, dog show and a magic show during the afternoon. Throughout the day, you can also walk around the grounds and pick your own strawberries.

After my stop at Downey's, I'm off to the Caledon Fairgrounds to participate in the 26th Caledon Canada Day Strawberry Festival. From 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. there will be a range of activities and events, including a free birthday cake and balloons at noon, a classic car show, a silent auction, an all-day strawberry breakfast and barbecue, as well as a craft show. There is something for the entire family at the Fairgrounds, all organized and hosted by the Caledon Fair board volunteers.

If you are in Dufferin County, there are activities happening in Amaranth, Orangeville and Shelburne.

The Township of Amaranth, with the help of the Amaranth Lions, are hosting a barbecue and other family-friendly activities at the Amaranth Town Hall. The Orangeville Legion always gets a great turn-out for their barbecue that is open to the entire community. Shelburne is moving their celebrations to Fiddle Park this year. Beginning at 4 p.m., they are offering live entertainment, the Kinettes are selling food from the Kinette Kitchen, and of course, there will be fireworks at dusk.

Returning to Caledon in the evening, I will be attending the 20th anniversary of Canada Day celebrations at Albion Hills Conservation Area in Palgrave. There will be a variety of food vendors and entertainment, including a dog show, face painting, hay rides as well as fireworks at dusk. It will sure be a fun night.

Make sure to say hello if you see me out and about this Canada Day. I generally have some Canadian lapel pins to hand out to children who can answer my Canadian trivia questions like How old is Canada? The trivia questions get harder the older you are, so brush up on your Canadian trivia before July 1!

No matter where you are or what your plans are, please remember to stay safe while enjoying the festivities of this long weekend as we celebrate our nation's birth. I wish everyone a Happy Canada Day and a wonderful long weekend.

Toronto and Region Conservation Authority (TRCA) staff busily planting trees in Coleraine Park.

Trees planted at animal shelter

The Bolton and District Horticultural Society and their partners completed the first phase of the Coleraine Park Environmental Restoration Project May 13.

Toronto and Region Conservation Authority (TRCA) field staff planted 34 mature native coniferous and deciduous trees in two dog leash-free sections in the 11.1-acre site of the Caledon Animal Shelter. In addition to improving the environment, these trees will provide badly needed shade for the staff and volunteers of the Animal Shelter and the public dog walkers, not to mention their dogs, because this piece of land had virtually no trees on it which made it very unpleasant on hot sunny days.

Funding partners that contributed a total of $13,400 were TRCA, Town of Caledon, James Dick Construction, Kinsmen Club of Bolton and the Rotary Clubs of Bolton and Palgrave.

An extraordinarily offensive poster

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Claire Hoy

Jordan's Queen Rania knows a thing or two about prejudice.

Jordan, of course, is in the midst of the most unsettled part of the world, yet, thanks partially to her humanitarian advocacy, is home to about 630,000 refugees from Syria alone, about 20 per cent of her country's population.

Last week, she even took her 19-year-old daughter Princess Iman Bint Al Abdullah to share the daily Ramadan sundown meal with refugee children at a camp in Jordan's capital city of Amman.

On the question of prejudice, she recently said, "We shouldn't judge people through the prism of our own stereotypes."

Which brings us, alas, to the extraordinarily offensive poster featured in about 150 TTC stations and bus shelters across Toronto, a campaign launched by the City of Toronto and the Ontario Council of Agencies Serving Immigrants.

It features a young white male telling a young Muslim woman wearing a head scarf to "Go Back to Where You Came From," to which she replies, "Where, North York?"

Amira Elghawaby, spokeswoman for the National Council of Canadian Muslims, said the controversial poster is designed "to have constant dialogue . . . and force people to rethink their assumptions."

Well, rethinking her own assumptions would be a good place for Elghawaby to begin, particularly the assumption, implicit in this poster, that white males are bigots, by definition, and Muslims are victims.

No doubt some are. But the vast majority are not. But the main point here is that the same can be said for every segment of our society, whatever their background. Some are racists. Most are not.

Or to quote Margaret Mead on the subject, "Instead of being presented with stereotypes by age, sex, color, class or religion, children must have the opportunity to learn that within each range, some people are loathsome and some are delightful."

I have no doubt that some Muslim women — and other visible minority groups — have experienced racist taunts in their daily lives. But I also have no doubt that the vast majority of people they come in contact with on a daily basis do not harbor these views.

Since Confederation itself almost 150 years ago, Canada has been a country built on immigration. It hasn't always been smooth sailing. And we certainly don't have a perfect record on that score.

Yet generations of majority white Anglo-Saxon Canadians have welcomed newcomers to our shores and allowed them to join in the building of one of the world's most hospitable states, certainly far more hospitable to newcomers and/or outsiders than any of the countries the refugees and immigrants have come from.

There is no doubt that recent terrorist activities around the world caused by various Islamic extremist groups have raised the stakes and caused great concern throughout the Western world. But who are the racists here: those who worry about their safety or those who are committed to murdering the infidels — which includes Muslims who do not subscribe to their radicalism — solely on the grounds of a radical religious-based doctrine?

A letter to the editor in the Saturday Star from Fidenzio Salvatori of Toronto, pretty well sums up the wrongheadedness of this poster's approach.

"The poster aimed at countering Islamophobia has offended the large majority of Canadians who are tolerant, inclusive and exemplary of a multicultural Canada. Painting the picture of a 'white' prejudiced Canada is not the way to alleviate cultural/religious frictions and misunderstandings."

"By and large, we are not a racist society: we are the envy of the world when it comes to inclusivity. The poster is confrontational, paints with a broad brush the notion of a largely bigoted 'white' society in Toronto, a city that many consider the most multicultural in the world."

Why does it happen so often with advocacy groups, that in order to make a partisan point they feel the need to malign others?

How does portraying young white males as bigots contribute to a better understanding of different cultural values? Fact is, it does quite the opposite: it offends people who are being smeared simply on the basis of their color and gender, exactly the sort of thing these human rights advocacy groups claim to be against.

Another thing. If any other group in society besides white males were being portrayed in such an ugly fashion, you can bet the TTC and the City would not allow such depictions in the public arena and the zealots on the various human rights commissions would be channeling the Queen of Hearts from Alice in Wonderland by continually shouting, "Off with their heads?"

Senior Dodgers string together three wins

By Jake Courtepatte

The Bolton Dodgers have almost pulled themselves back to .500 baseball with their first three-game winning streak of the 2016 North Dufferin Baseball League season.

The AA ball club pulled themselves further away from the league basement by besting three lower-ranked teams last week, in the Alliston Athletics, Mansfield Cubs and Lisle Astros.

It began with a statement last Tuesday in Alliston, bouncing back from four straight losses. Bolton swatted 14 hits in the game, a season-high, trouncing the Athletics by a score of 12-5.

Shawn Hansen, Michael Gemmiti, Marlon Young and Luke Ratcliffe all had multi-hit games, with Ratcliffe going an astounding five-for-five.

Just as effective in this one was the work on the mound, with Tysen Hansen earning the win through four innings of work. He fanned four while giving up three runs, while Ron DiPalma held Alliston to two runs through the final three innings.

The Bolton squad had a scare in the next night's home game against the last-place Cubs; a much closer affair that required some late heroics to earn the win.

Up 5-3 heading into the top of the seventh and final inning, Mansfield put on a comeback to score four runs and take a 7-5 lead. Bolton walked off with three of their own in the final half inning.

Gemmiti, a perennial power hitter for the Dodgers, went four-for-four.

Shawn English pitched a complete game, striking out nine over his seven innings of work. His 35 on the year is the fourth-most Ks in the NDBL.

DiPalma was back on the mound Monday at Lisle, earning his second win of the season to overtake the Astros in league standings. He had some help at the plate with three home runs in the game, the first two of the season for Jon Bloomfield and Colin McKeen's third.

The pitching staff has been especially strong for the Dodgers this year, as the 7-8-1 team currently has the fifth best runs-against in the league.

Ron DiPalma was instrumental on the mound for two of the Bolton Dodgers' three wins in the NDBL last week.

Motorcycle event for Kidney Foundation

Ride For One, in support of The Kidney Foundation of Canada, is a motorcycle ride and show 'n shine that will take place in Bolton July 23.

It is a charity event to raise awareness for kidney disease.

It will be at the Albion-Bolton Fairgrounds from 10 a.m to 6 p.m. There will also be a Vendors' Alley and love music, as well as raffles and a 50-50 draw at 5:30 p.m.

That record is good for ninth out of 14 teams, though only one point separates the Dodgers from both the eighth-place Barrie Angels and seventh-place Creemore Barons.

Bolton were going to be looking to continue climbing the standings in a home match with the 2-14-1 Nobleton Cornhuskers Wednesday (after press time), followed by back-to-back games in Creemore Sunday against both the Braves and Barons.

Caledon woman plans to be on podium at Rio Games

By Bill Rea

There's a podium in Brazil, and a South-Fields Village woman thinks it has her name, as well as those of her teammates. Ashley Lawrence officially learned last Monday that she has a spot on the roster for the women's soccer team in the upcoming Olympic Games in Rio. Lawrence, 21, plays mid-field and left back. She said she first got called up to a youth team when she was 15, and worked her way up through the various levels. She was called to the National Team in 2013. Lawrence said she expects to travel to Vancouver July 1 to start training with the team. In mid-July, they will be travelling to France for some "friendship" games with the French and Chinese team. Their first Olympic contest will be Aug. 2. "We start before a lot of the other events there," she remarked.

"We're going to do really well," she declared. They will be starting in a group with the teams from Germany, Australia and Zimbabwe, and that represents some formidable competition. Lawrence said Germany is one of the powerhouse teams. "They're one of the top five in the world," she said, adding Australia has a very good team too. But the Canadian women are confident. Lawrence said their goal is to be on top of their group, "and then podium." Lawrence attended Mayfield Secondary School for Grades 11 and 12, and she's currently attending West Virginia University on an athletic scholarship, studying psychology and business. Lawrence will also have a cheering section backing her up at the Games. Her mother Tina said she was "definitely going to see her play." Her brother Anthony will be making the trip too.

Ashley Lawrence was flanked by her mother Tina and Barrie Shepley at the 14th annual C3 Fundraising Day at Caledon Country Club last Wednesday.

Jr. C Bandits wrap up season in eighth place

By Jake Courtepatte

A pair of losses closed out the regular season for the Caledon Bandits of the Ontario Junior C Lacrosse League, securing an eighth-place finish and a top-level opponent in the opening round of the post-season. The Caledon squad drew two of the league's toughest games in their final week of play, first visiting the Halton Hills Bulldogs last Wednesday. Both teams were evenly matched throughout the first 20 minutes, with Colin Sinclair and Jordan MacArthur both finding the back of the net to draw at two goals apiece. But the Bulldogs were relentless in their attack in the second period, scoring four times to take a 6-4 lead into the final frame. Sinclair completed a hat trick just two minutes in, but a pair of tallies from the Bulldogs secured a final score of 8-5. Friday's final home game at the Caledon Community Complex was not as close an affair, as the experienced Warriors team from Six Nations attacked the net ruthlessly. They snuck eight goals past goaltender Jeremy Outopoulos in the first period, led by superstars Wesley Whitlow and Sid Powless. When all was said and done, Whitlow and Powless combined for 26 points in a 19-7 game. Sam McCanna, Andrew Rybka and Sinclair all had multi-point games for the Bandits. The home loss was the fourth in two weeks following a strong 11-5 showing against the Shelburne Vets, officially finishing in eighth place in the nine-team East division with a 3-13-0 record. The Vets are in ninth with a game to go, but are four points back of the Bandits. The previous week saw the Bandits pick up their third win of the season, and second over the Vets at the Centre Dufferin Complex in an 11-5 game. With points becoming even more crucial as the Ontario Junior C Lacrosse League season winds down, the slumping Bandits made quick work of Vets' goaltender Rhett Fleming. A win off the opening draw set up Jarrett Petrie with a chance to dish to Chris Dimartino alone in front, who opened the scoring just seconds into the game. Shelburne fired back on the ensuing faceoff, tying the game less than a minute in, followed by a stalemate for the next half period. Eventually the Bandits took control, scoring five goals in the final five minutes of the first, including a long range blast from Petrie with 0.7 seconds on the clock to take a 7-2 lead. Both teams converted twice in the second period, but Shelburne's strategy to pull their goalie early in the third led to two empty-netters for the Bandits and the eventual win. Petrie, who has led the Bandits in scoring all season, notched four goals and an assist in the win. The team's second top scorer, Colin Sinclair, had five points of his own. A pair of tough games followed over the weekend as the team faced the Warriors and Wild on the road. The Bandits lost each by 11 goals. Andrew Rybka, Jordan Oshowy, Scott Edwards and Petrie all earned two points in a 15-4 loss to the Warriors Saturday, while the top ranked Wilmot Wild handed the Bandits an 18-7 loss Sunday. Petrie was in on six of the seven Caledon goals, while Sinclair added four points and Austin Heughan added three. The finish is almost a carbon copy of the 2015 Bandits, who played to a 4-12-0 record before being ousted in the first round by the Fergus Thistles. As of press-time, the Bandits play-off opponent has not been confirmed, as teams continue to complete their regular season schedules into this weekend. They will face either the Wilmot Wild or the Thistles, both of whom they fell in all four games against this season. If the Bandits are to challenge their tough competition, they will have to hope for some heavy offensive output from their top-scoring trio of Petrie, Sinclair, and McCanna, who combined for over half of Caledon's 111 goals throughout the season. Playoff schedules are tentatively set to begin early next week, with the Bandits guaranteed to open somewhere on the road. Keep up-to-date with stats and schedules at www.banditslacrosse.com

Jarrett Petrie finished the OJCLL regular season as the Caledon Bandits' top scorer, notching 25 goals and 20 assists in 15 games.

Local Acquired Brain Injury Services marks five years in area

By Angela Gismond

June is Brain Injury Awareness Month, and Peel Halton Dufferin Acquired Brain Injury Services (PHD ABIS) celebrated by marking a milestone — the fifth anniversary of opening offices and services in Orangeville to serve Dufferin and Caledon. The celebration was attended by ABI clients, their families and caregivers, PHD ABIS staff and board members, representatives from the Central West Local Health Integration Network (LHIN) and dignitaries. Funded by the LHIN and Ministry of Health and Long Term Care, PHD ABIS is a not-for-profit charitable organization committed to making a difference for ABI survivors by collaborating with community partners, supporting ABI advocacy initiatives. It also offers hundreds of ABI survivors, their families and caregivers community-based rehabilitation and re-integration services. "It's an invisible disease that is far too visible," said Al McMullan, executive director of PHD ABIS. He explained that for many ABI survivors, the impact of their condition may be "invisible" to others, however, survivors may experience profound challenges in complex cognitive impairments, personality changes, lost careers, ruptured relationships, among others. Brain injury is the leading cause of death and disability worldwide. Every day, there are 144 new brain injury cases in Ontario alone. In 2016, more than 18,000 Ontarians will suffer an acquired brain injury. There are over a million Canadians living with the effects of an acquired brain injury. Since the office opened five years ago on Riddell Road, ABI survivors who have become PHD ABIS clients have access to day services programs, case management, clinical services and psychological support groups, all of which are instrumental in the recovery and rehabilitation process. Some survivors waited more than 20 years for these services to be offered closer to home, McMullan said. The celebration also served to mark the successes of those touched by an ABI. Brad Goegan, chair of the board of directors for PHD ABI, was unable to attend the event, but his remarks were read at the celebration. PHD ABI has served the Central West LHIN for the quarter-century they have been an agency. "The opportunity to reach to Dufferin-Caledon, and the chance to open these offices in service of Orangeville and these regions, has been a challenge, and a privilege," Goegan stated. "As a Board, we would like to thank the LHIN for its funding of these programs. We would like to thank the staff here, for their tireless efforts to make our mission statement of the highest quality of life . . . come alive. And we would like to thank those clients, families, partners and members of the community, that have embraced our services, and worked together . . . on behalf of ABI." Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones was also on-hand for the celebration. "Five years may not seem like a lot but when you see what you've achieved and the difference you make in the lives of the individuals you serve, I think it's critical that we celebrate five years," Jones said. Ken Topping, a member of the LHIN board of directors, recalled attending the opening ribbon-cutting ceremony when the site opening five years ago. He praised the staff for their commitment and dedication. "You make the clients here feel accepted, recognized, understood and appreciated — four very important words," Topping said. "You provide high quality, family-centered care each and every day." For more information visit www.phda-bis.org

TOBOLKA, Stefan 1947- 2016

Husband, father, brother, son, uncle, cousin, engineer, athlete, Olympian and spiritual seeker. Stefan passed away peacefully at the family home in Inglewood on Friday June 24, 2016 in his 69th year.

Devoted husband to Theresa (nee Nadeau) for 40 years. Loving father to Audrey, Aimee (Jamie), Eve (Andrew), Hana (Milan) and Stefan. Dear brother to Margita Tobolkova and Viera Babitzova-Tobolkova (deceased). Beloved son of Stefan Tobolka (deceased) and Margita Tobolkova (nee Tyrlova) (deceased).

Stefan was born January 16, 1947 in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia. A regular in concert halls, theatres and galleries, he was a lover of music and art. Stefan received a university degree in mechanical engineering and represented his country on the national water polo team with plans of going to the 1972 Olympics in Munich. After Russia invaded Czechoslovakia, Stefan immigrated to Canada in 1969. There he joined his sister Margita and relocated to Toronto where he would complete a BA degree in physical education at the University of Toronto. Two significant events in Stefan's life would occur during this time: first, he would become head coach of U of T's inaugural water polo team, and second, he would meet fellow student Theresa Nadeau who was to become his wife of 40 years. In 1976 Stefan competed at the Summer Olympics in Montreal as part of the Canadian national water polo team.

Truly Stefan's life was his wife and 5 children. His most cherished moments were with family and friends on their beautiful Inglewood property. He took great pride in the hundreds of trees he had nurtured to maturity as well as enjoying the company of wild turkeys and other animals who frequented the property. Stefan was a passionate wood worker who produced a diverse assortment of furniture and art that filled the family home. 'Big Stef' was a regular at the Brampton YMCA where he maintained close friendships and continued his commitment to a healthy lifestyle. In his later years, he was a deep believer in Eastern philosophies and a devoted practitioner of meditation and the teachings of Paramahansa Yogananda, which brought him much solace. His spirituality, love of nature and unforgettable sense of humour will live on in everyone around him.

Please join the family for a celebration of Stefan's life at 2146 Olde Baseline Road, Inglewood, ON L7C 0J3 on Saturday July 2, 2016 from noon - 4pm.
