Isabel Bassett inducted to Caledon's Walk of Fame

By Bill Rea

Isabel Bassett has devoted her career to various causes, including the advancement of women.

It was a time for recognition Saturday as her stone was uncovered on Caledon's Walk of Fame in Caledon East.

A host of dignitaries and admirers were on hand for the ceremony, braving the seasonable weather to attend.

The inscription on the stone praises Bassett's accomplishments over the years as a journalist, broadcaster and documentary producer. She served as an MPP in the first Mike Harris government, and was appointed to cabinet as Minister of Citizenship, Culture and Recreation. After her term at Queen's Park, she served as Chair and CEO of TVOntario. She is also a Member of the Order of Ontario, the Order of Canada and Chevalier de l'Ordre de la Légion d'Honneur.

"Isabel Bassett's work in broadcasting and commitment to women's issues have left an indelible mark in her community," the inscription concluded.

Mayor Allan Thompson called her an "extraordinary resident."

Dufferin-Caledon MPP David Tilson recalled he was the local MPP when Bassett was in office at Queen's Park, as he reflected on her accomplishments as a teacher broadcaster and minister.

"I think a lot about the things she's done over the years," Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones commented, praising Bassett's assistance to people and her mentoring of women.

"Isabel Bassett has had a profound impact on Canadian society," Thompson observed, pointing to her advocacy on issues.

Caledon invests gas tax funds in infrastructure projects around town

The Town of Caledon is investing millions of dollars from federal gas tax funding into local infrastructure projects.

In 2016 alone, more than $2.3 million was spent to repair bridges, fix sidewalks and restore roads.

“It’s good to know that when you fill up your gas tank, a portion of that money is helping to fund critical infrastructure, like roads and bridges, in our Town” Mayor Allan Thompson said. “I want to thank and recognize the efforts of our AMO (Association of Municipalities of Ontario) municipal partners for a successful advocacy campaign which resulted in this funding.”

“Federal gas tax funding has become an important and sustainable funding source to supplement the Town’s spending on repair and renewal of aging infrastructure,” Caledon’s General Manager of Finance and Infrastructure Services Fuwing Wong said. “An infrastructure funding deficit still exists in Caledon, so it is important that this and other funding from the federal and provincial governments continue in the future.”

Since the program was established in 2005, the Town has leveraged nearly $30 million of federal gas tax funding to support infrastructure and capacity-building projects across the Town.

The Town currently receives approximately $3.3 million in federal gas tax funds annually.

In recent years the federal gas tax funding, combined with tax-based capital funding, has been allocated to capital projects such as:

- Repairs and reconstruction of bridges on Kennedy Road, Credit Road, Winston Churchill Boulevard and McLaren Road;
- Road rehabilitation and reconstruction on Woodrow Avenue between Kingsview Drive and Hersey Crescent; the Harvest Moon Drive Roundabout; Shaws Creek Road between Charleston Sideroad and High Point Sideroad; Healey Road between Centreville Creek Road and The Gore Road; Mount Hope Road between Old Church Road and Cedar Meadows Lane; and Church Street between Wallace Avenue and Regional Road 50 in Palgrave.

Pedestrian killed on Mayfield Road

An 81-year-old Caledon man was killed Monday evening after he was struck on Mayfield Road.

Caledon OPP reports they were called to the scene, east of Centreville Creek Road, at about 6:40 p.m.

Preliminary investigation reveals that the pedestrian was walking across the road and was struck by a silver 2011 Mercedes SUV travelling westbound on Mayfield. The pedestrian, Nasib Dhugga, was pronounced dead at the scene.

Mayfield Road was closed between Centreville Creek Road and The Gore Road for several hours while Technical Collision Investigators assisted at the scene.

Halloween celebrated at CPCC

There were plenty of creative costumes, as well as lots of fun, last Thursday at Caledon Parent-Child Centre. The event was the annual Halloween Family Fun Night. Security was no problem at the Halloween event. RC Deacon of Bolton and Christian Porciello of Nobleton were both dressed up as police officers.

Make sure you have CO detectors and that they are working properly

Ontario’s Carbon Monoxide Awareness Week is running from Nov. 1 to 7, and Caledon Fire and Emergency Services reminds everyone to prevent carbon monoxide (CO) from getting into their home by getting all fuel-burning appliances inspected annually.

“In Ontario, more than 80 per cent of injuries and deaths from CO occur in the home,” Fire Chief Darryl Bailey said. “We want to make sure everyone is safe from CO. One way to do this is to get all fuel-burning appliances inspected by a registered contractor.”

Visit COSafety.ca to find a registered contractor near you.

Caledon Fire and Emergency Services also reminds everyone to install CO alarms in their home if they have a fuel-burning appliance, a fireplace or an attached garage. Fuel-burning appliances can include furnaces, hot water heaters, gas or wood fireplaces, portable fuel-burning heaters and generators, barbecues, stoves and vehicles.

There must be a working CO alarm adjacent to each sleeping area of the house if there is a fuel-burning appliance, a fireplace or an attached garage. For added protection, install a carbon monoxide alarm on every storey of the home, according to manufacturer’s instructions.

If you live in a condominium or apartment building with a service room, CO alarms must be installed in the service room and adjacent to each sleeping area of all homes above, below and beside the service room. In condo or apartment buildings that have a garage, CO alarms must be installed adjacent to each sleeping area of all homes above, below and beside the garage.

CO is known as the silent killer because it is an invisible, tasteless and odourless gas that can be deadly.

It is produced when fuels such as propane, gasoline, natural gas, heating oil or wood do not burn completely in fuel-burning appliances and devices such as furnaces, gas or wood fireplaces, hot water heaters, stoves, barbecues, portable fuel-burning heaters and generators and vehicles.

To prevent CO from getting into the home:

- Ensure fuel-burning appliances, chimneys and vents are cleaned and inspected annually. Visit COSafety.ca to find a registered contractor near you.

- Check that all outside appliance vents are not blocked.
  - Gas and charcoal barbecues should only be used outside, away from all doors, windows, vents and other building openings. Never use barbecues inside garages, even if the garage doors are open.
  - Portable fuel-burning generators should only be used outdoors in well-ventilated areas away from windows, doors, vents and other building openings.
  - Ensure all portable fuel-burning heaters are vented properly, according to manufacturer’s instructions.
  - Open the flu before using a fireplace for adequate ventilation.
  - Never run a vehicle or other fueled engine or motor inside a garage, even if the garage doors are open. Always remove a vehicle from the garage immediately after starting it.
- Exposure to CO can cause flu-like symptoms, such as headaches, nausea, dizziness, as well as confusion, drowsiness, loss of consciousness and death.
- If a CO alarm sounds, and occupants suffer from symptoms of CO poisoning, get everyone out of the home immediately then call 9-1-1 from outside the building.
- If the CO alarm sounds and no one is suffering from symptoms of CO poisoning, check to see if the battery needs replacing, or the alarm has reached its “end-of-life” before calling 9-1-1.
- A CO alarm sounds different than a smoke alarm. Test both alarms monthly and make sure everyone in the home knows the difference between the two alarm sounds.

Don’t be confused by the sound of the CO alarm’s low-battery warning. Follow the CO alarm manufacturer’s instructions and know the difference between the low-battery warning, the “end-of-life” warning and the alarm alerting to the presence of CO in the home.

For more CO safety tips, visit COSafety.ca

Man charged in hit and run

A 24-year-old man from New Tecumseth is facing charges after two separate incidents in Bolton early Sunday, one of them involving a pedestrian being hit by a car.

Caledon OPP reports they called to the scene of a traffic accident shortly after 2 a.m. in the area of Queen Street North and Mill Street. They said a man in his 50s had been struck by a white SUV, which fled, heading north on Regional Road 50.

The man received non-life-threatening injuries.

A few minutes later, police were called to the area of Regional Road 50 and Emil Kolb Parkway to investigate a 2008 white Chevrolet Equinox that apparently collided with a guard rail. During the investigation, police determined that vehicle had been the one that hit the man earlier. They also determined the driver had been drinking alcohol and was impaired, so he was arrested.

He was charged with impaired driving, driving with more than the legal limit of alcohol in his system, failing to remain at the scene of an accident and dangerous operation of a motor vehicle causing bodily harm.

His licence was suspended for 90 days and his vehicle was impounded for seven days.

Charged with impaired and speeding

A 28-year-old man from Brampton is facing several charges after a Caledon OPP officer stopped a speeding vehicle Sept. 1.

Police report the officer was conducting traffic enforcement shortly after 2 a.m in the area of Mayfield and Bramalea Roads when he saw a black 2007 BMW travelling at high speed. The officer clocked the vehicle to be going 117 km-h in a posted 50 zone.

While conducting the traffic stop, the officer determined that the driver’s ability was impaired by alcohol and arrested him accordingly.

The man was charged with impaired driving, driving with more than the legal limit of alcohol in his system and racing a motor vehicle.

Police also said that Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) Canada stresses that nobody ever thinks they will be affected by impaired driving, “but hundreds of people are killed and tens of thousands are injured in impairment-related crashes every year.”

Major study finds untreated hearing loss linked to dementia

Although the reason for the link is as yet unclear, a recent Johns Hopkins and National Institute on Aging study shows that seniors with hearing loss are significantly more likely to develop dementia over time than those with normal hearing. Researchers say these findings “could lead to new ways to combat dementia, a condition that affects millions of people worldwide and carries heavy societal burdens.”

Further, they suggest a common pathology may underlie the two conditions, or that the strain of “decoding sound” over the years puts undue strain on the brain leaving them more vulnerable to dementia. Other speculation includes the social isolation that often results from hearing loss as a factor that could exacerbate dementia and other cognitive disorders. “Whatever the cause,” the school reports, “their finding may offer a starting point for interventions — even as simple as hearing aids — that could delay or prevent dementia by improving patients’ hearing.”

Carrie: the Musical to be performed at Mayfield School

By Bill Rea

There have been several versions of Carrie, the story which originally was the basis of one of Stephen King’s early novels. There is a musical version, and it is opening this week, a production of the drama department at Mayfield Secondary School.

The story deals with Carrie, an awkward teenage girl who is subjected to merciless bullying at school, and lives under the burden of her religious fanatic mother. Carrie also has telekinetic powers, which are unleashed after she has been humiliated once too often.

This is a very large production. Lindsay Hatch, who plays Billy, a young trouble-maker who helps his girlfriend Chris arrange for Carrie’s ultimate humiliation, said there are easily 75 students involved in the production.

Kyle Leonard, who plays Freddy as is also handling publicity for the production, said the project has been going on for some months, with auditions taking place before classes ended for the summer, with production starting almost when school started.

“I think the first day of school, we had a rehearsal,” he said. “It’s definitely not in any way your light-hearted musical,” observed Erin Sevigny, one of the girls playing Sue, who out of feelings of guilt tries to make amends to Carrie. “It’s heavy.”

Jillian Cooper, who plays Carrie, said the production also looks into what it’s like to be an outcast.

Leonard said an important part of the story is people. He said Carrie has values from her upbringing which she brings to school and tries to deal with other people who don’t share those values. “They see her as an outcast and pick on her and bully her,” he said, adding the story also deals with how relationships develop.

Sevigny observed that doing this show makes one check their own morals.

Cooper observed that Carrie goes through a lot of pain.

“She realizes who she wants to be and what she wants to show others,” he said.

“She goes through a lot of personal growth,” Hatch added.

Cooper said the scene where Carrie finally lashes out against her tormenters involved a lot of choreography, complete with lighting effects.

Carrie: the Musical will be presented at Mayfield Nov. 2, 3 and 4. Curtain is at 7:30 p.m.

Members of the cast of Carrie: the Musical were in rehearsal last week.

BACA to appear at CrossCurrents

BACA, featuring Samantha Pollard, Suze Burmester and Elana Harte, will be returning to CrossCurrents Cafe tomorrow (Friday) night.

The trio appeared at the cafe a little more than a year ago, to an enthusiastic response. It’s said everything about this group is extraordinary. They are warm, vibrant, energetic, passionate and offer a totally fresh sound.

CrossCurrents operates out of Bolton United Church at the corner of King Street West and Nancy Street. Doors will open at 7:30 p.m. and the music is slated to start at 8.

Admission is free, but donations are welcome.

Jillian Cooper plays Carrie, an outcast who brings the values from her religious fanatic mother to a setting where they aren’t shared.

Burton Cummings and André-Philippe Gagnon to perform in support of Osler

Music legend Burton Cummings and Band, and world-renowned master impersonator André-Philippe Gagnon, will perform at the Rose Theatre in Brampton Nov. 25, as part of a benefit concert for William Osler Health System.

The sixth annual gala benefit concert is sponsored by DG Group (lead sponsor), Orlando Corporation, Alectra Utilities Inc., Borden Ladner Gervais, Lois Rice, Magna International Inc., M-O Freight Works, Northwest Lexus — part of the Policaro automotive family, and S. Robinson and Associates of RBC Dominion Securities.

This year, former premier William G. Davis, will be celebrated for his contributions to the community and to the people of Ontario. Davis was also the honorary co-chair of Osler’s Peel Memorial campaign, helping to raise funds to build and equip the Peel Memorial Centre for Integrated Health and Wellness.

“The benefit concert is not just a fundraising event, but a community building event,” said Osler Foundation President and CEO Ken Mayhew. “Through this event, we are able to bring together some of our key partners — whether they are community leaders, community members, donors, businesses, staff and volunteers. They come to the event all in support of one goal — raising funds for William Osler Health System and to provide excellent health care in our community.”

Funds raised from the concert will contribute to equipping and redeveloping projects across Osler’s three sites — Etobicoke General Hospital, Peel Memorial Centre for Integrated Health and Wellness and Brampton Civic Hospital. Proceeds from this event qualify for the $15 million Orlando Corporation match, which means that each dollar that is raised, will be matched dollar for dollar.

Guests will enjoy a reception prior to the show with a selection of gourmet hors d’oeuvres and wine at the black-tie optional event. Tickets range from $200 to $500.

To learn more about sponsorship opportunities and how to book tickets, visit oslerconcert.ca or call Osler Foundation at (905) 494-6556. Sponsorship opportunities can include participation in a VIP reception with the artists, and company logo and recognition in select marketing materials.

Sugar Road a brilliant beginning to TO’s new season

By Constance Scrafield

What a treat to be the first audience having the chance to see Sugar Road!

It is one of the many perks from access to Theatre Orangeville. Most years, a world premiere comes to the main stage, produced, staged and acted for the first professional production by the abundant talent that makes this theatre happen.

Having opened Oct. 19, the world premiere of Sugar Road by Kirsten Da Silva runs until Nov. 5.

Da Silva takes a story from an old Country song, That Ol’ Wind, that she often played years ago and the story within which made her want to know more. Eventually, she turned it into this play to provide herself — and her audiences — with her version of the whole tale.

However tender, tortured and long-ing the love story is, Da Silva could not resist being funny with it too — and weren’t we glad?

Here, in brief, is an outline of the song’s protracted tale.

Hannah Taylor is the love child of a one-night stand between her mother and a country singer star, who wrote a letter, but never returns. One night 12 years ago, Hannah herself was swept up in an night of passion with another country singer — Jesse Emberley — who is now returning to Sugar Road to perform; while Hannah’s mother pined and eventually died, Hannah is cared for by the handyman, Ray, whom her mother hired off the tour bus many years ago; Caroline Dawn, who shares her brother’s clothes and closet for convenience and economy and who looks on Hannah as her best friend, interrupts, misinterprets and lusts, as only she can, for Jesse Emberley, — simply hilarious with it all.

So welcome, Sarah Quick, whose comic talent as Caroline had the opening night audience hooting with laughter. In her offstage life, Quick is Artistic Director of Globus Theatre at the LAB in Bobcaygeon.

Too tall and cool for words, welcome as well, to Jake Simons as Jesse Emberley. He deals with the confusion, maybe guilt, ready to confess all with sincerity, making it real. It has been five years since Simons’ last stage performance. He and his wife own an acting school in Guelph which focusses largely on young actors around the ages of seven to 17 and on film making.

Said he about his return to the stage with this production, later at the opening night reception, “With film, if you get it wrong, you can scrap it and do another take but, with live theatre, there is only that one chance — you have to be right — and that’s a little terrifying and very thrilling.”

It’s delightful to see Mairi Babb back, playing the role of Hannah. She carries Hannah’s history and disillusionment to a fine point. There’s no relaxing, no giving in to emotions that might lead to deadly heartache for Hannah. Twelve years ago — as we see in the flashbacks — she threw herself into the moment, only to awaken with fear and regret, but does Jesse’s return change any of that?

It is great to have David Rosser, as Ray, back, as he has been in previously launched world premieres here and has, additionally, been doing his fair share of television and film work.

He plants Ray’s feet firmly in the middle of the story, protective of Hannah as though he is all there is between her and a final heart-break. It will not happen with him to stand between her and an ill fate. The questions presented to him, however, as he discovers a lover’s secrets, are the pivots of the plot.

Throughout the play, Hannah, Ray and Jesse play it more or less straight, albeit with good funny lines, but there are no such inhibitions with Caroline. At her most serious, she is Monty Python funny. In the second act, she does battle with a sleeping bag — while raving out Da Silva’s clever dialogue — that is definitely one of the best comic moments in Theatre Orangeville’s history. Fantastic!

Thank you again, David Nairn, director of this delicious couple of hours at the theatre, for bringing together all the talents of writer, actors, fabulous set designer and builder, Beckie Morris, lights, sound — all of it —such a great first show for the season.

Sugar Road is on until Nov. 5. Do yourself, family, friends a favour — everybody, come and see it.

For information and tickets, buy them at the Box Office at 87 Broadway or the Information Centre on Buena Vista at Highway 10; by telephone at 519-942-3423 or online at www.theatreorangeville.ca

Don’t forget, you can still buy your subscription for the whole season, for three or all five plays.

Also, tickets are available for Theatre Orangeville’s largest fundraiser of the year, the Victorian Christmas Gala, Nov. 18. It will be the best first Christmas party of the year.

Wayne Townsend, author and former curator of Dufferin County Museum and Archives, spoke at the recent meeting of the Caledon East and District Historical Society, discussing the historical relationship between Orangeville and the village of Caledon East.

Townsend was originally to discuss the history of Orangeville, but he told the roughly 40 people on hand for the talk that after some research, he wanted to delve into the historical relationship between Caledon East and Orangeville.

He said that despite leaving the museum, he continues to enjoy speaking about history, as “it’s lifelong learning,” and is a big supporter of “you’re never too old to learn.”

Townsend first discussed why he likes local history, which he simply said is because of its relevance.

“It makes them have a sense of belonging and has a sense of community,” he said. “It gives you things to look back on, memories to share.”

He said he believes the small stories have an impact on their community, from there, an impact on the province, to the country, and eventually, worldwide.

Townsend discussed the various historical relationships and similarities Orangeville and Caledon East have shared, from various aspects of society.

He mentioned the migration of workers going to Orangeville from Caledon for employment, and how a large number of Caledon East residents would eventually retire in Orangeville, something Townsend said was surprising. But he added Orangeville was considered “a relatively good place for people to live when they got older.”

He also cited that residents in both towns went to the high school in Orangeville, and the “many children” from both towns born in the Orangeville hospital as further examples of similarities.

When the topic of marriage came up, Townsend explained, “political borders didn’t stop people from falling in love,” mentioning that many marriages took place between people from both towns.

He further added that political borders “don’t really keep people from being friends, and being neighbours.”

Townsend mentioned that when he looked through archived newspapers, he noticed the reporting on each other’s towns was done “often in a very indirect, very sly way.”

He also used sports as an example, how both towns competed against each other in lacrosse, “which really surprised me.”

Townsend ended the presentation by saying he was very surprised of the connections, but proud of these “strong links.”

Taylor "Hap" Parnaby, whose stone on the Walk of Fame was unveiled in 2011, proposed a toast to this year's inductee.

Bassett described as 'down to earth'

"She gets it done," he said.
"I've always found Isabel as down to earth and a humble person," he added, as he thanked her for all her contributions over the years.
"We feel you are so deserving of this award," he added.
Bassett expressed her appreciation to the Town.
"You recognize the importance of diversity," she declared. "It is so important if we're going to move forward."

The Caledon Walk of Fame was initiated in 1999 to honour past and present Caledon residents who have made a significant contribution to the quality of life locally, nationally and internationally.
Famed motion picture director Norman Jewison was the first one recognized, and others over the years have included renowned choral conductor Elmer Iseler, art collectors Robert and Signe McMichael, authors Farley Mowat, Robertson Davies and Ken Weber, and Caledon's "Senior Statesman" Alex Rae-burn.

Freaky Friday at CCRW

It was a rather spooky scene Friday night as the Town of Caledon hosted a Fabulously Freaky Friday Night at the Caledon Centre for Recreation and Wellness. The interesting activities included Madame Zola telling fortunes for young folks like Pietro Cipolla, 6, of Bolton.

Gloria Renna Fernandes, 3, had travelled from Etobicoke for the fun. She was busy decorating this cupcake.

There were opportunities for the youngsters to work on crafts. Violet McMahon, 2, of Bolton was busy being creative.

DI'S DESIGN CENTRE AND DÉCOR ★★★★★

I have had a recent experience with Di's Design Centre and Décor that I just have to mention. I was looking to change my duvet/comforter for my master bedroom, but I have been having a very difficult time in finding a set from regular stores that would fit my oversized mattress. I popped into Di's Design Centre & Décor to ask her to provide a gift for the ladies night. It was then that I discovered that she does custom bedding. Now no offence to the generic stores but the "prepackaged" sets just were not cutting it. Not only did Diane offer this service but she personally came to my home, measured my bed/mattress in all directions, help decide on the best pattern/material, made suggestions for the accent pillow, as well as for the blinds/curtains. I was able to keep several swatches until I made a final decision, and also was given several options in blinds/curtains.
With Diane's extensive knowledge as an interior designer, and the way she stays up-to-date with the current design trends it was a match made in heaven. Most importantly for the majority of consumers would be the cost factor. I can state without any prejudice what so ever, that my previous bedding was up top quality thus quite costly, and the price point which Diane has quoted me for custom made bedding and window coverings is very comparable for better quality. Thanks Diane for everything.

COFFEE TIME ★★★★★

Coffee Time stands out for me as my go-to coffee shop. They have survived being trapped behind the infamous fence by continuing to be responsive to their customers' needs and keeping a positive outlook. They know each of their customers by name and choice of food and beverage. They must also recognize our cars too, as my coffee is already on the counter when I walk in and my bagel is already in the toaster. Everything is freshly made (or delivered) first thing in the morning and the owners keep long hours keeping up with food preparation. Friendly banter and good conversation abounds as well. Try it. You'll like it.

The atmosphere is inviting and the establishment is very clean. I would recommend Heritage Fish & Chips to anyone in the area or anyone just passing through.

Where can we be safe?

This week, we saw yet another apparent act of terrorism perpetrated against innocent people.

It occurred Tuesday in New York City, not far from the memorial for the World Trade Centre and the thousands of people who died Sept. 11, 2001.

This time, a man apparently drove a rented pickup truck down a busy bike path which was packed with cyclists and pedestrians. According to the best information we have available at press time, eight people were killed, and another 11 were seriously injured.

The mayor of New York has been quoted as calling this “a particularly cowardly act of terror.”

It’s also been reported that witnesses saw this man get out of the vehicle and shout “Allahu Akbar!” which is Arabic for “God is great.”

There are similarities between this attack Tuesday and the one 16 years ago. This week’s incident happened in New York, which was one of (but not the only) targets of 9/11. As well, the victims were just ordinary people going about their daily business, with no warning or suspicion of what was to happen to them.

But there are some differences, and one of the main ones should make us all worry.

The attacks in 2001 were very well planned and organized. It’s one thing to hijack an aircraft, but four were commanded almost simultaneously, and those involved had to include people who knew roughly how to fly them into their targets, namely the twin towers of the World Trade Centre and the Pentagon. The events of that dreadful day were the result of a lot of preparation and planning.

We have to wonder how much preparation went into Tuesday’s attack.

Just about any of us could rent a pickup truck if we wanted to. Indeed, many of us have probably done so, several times. And targets for such attacks are certainly not hard to find.

That is something that should worry us all, but it is not something that should consume us with fear. We must be on our guard, as must the authorities who are responsible for dealing with such menaces, but we must also not change our routines and lifestyles because of the acts of terrorists. Once we do that, they have won.

If there was one break from Tuesday’s incident, it is the alleged perpetrator was taken alive. That means it will be possible to confront him and get details behind why the attack took place.

The latest reports indicate this man was associated with ISIS, and was radicalized in the United States. Perhaps there is a chance here to get some useful indication on how and why this radicalization was accomplished.

In the weeks to come, we can expect plenty of speculation and second guessing as to what led up to this attack. But we can also be hopeful that actual facts will emerge. That will, alas, probably happen slowly, but it should happen. And that information will probably be useful in dealing with other people like this.

There is some hope.

Don’t limit terms

There are some issues that appear in the main media occasionally that act as a stimulant into my tired, old frame.

One such issue was raised in the Toronto Star recently, addressing an matter on which I have always had strong feelings. But like most people who were born with brains, the more I think about such issues, the more my passion adjusts, and the more I reflect. That’s good, because in this case, my position returns to from where it started.

There was an item in the Star last week about Toronto City Councillor Mary Margaret McMahon announcing that she would not seek another term in next year’s municipal elections. That would be in keeping with the promise she made in 2010, that if elected, she would only serve two terms.

This same councillor wrote a column for the Star that was published a couple days before, and I will grant she made a compelling case for restricting the number of terms that a City councillor in Toronto should be allowed to serve. It certainly is a good way to ensure a constant turnover on a council, and keeping doors open to new views and ideas, not to mention providing a variation in the talent pool on a council Incidentally, her ward is in an area where I used to work. Pity the company I had been working for went under. I think I would have enjoyed covering her political career. She’s an advocate for ranked ballots, which politically qualifies her as one of my bestest buddies.

But I have never been a fan of limiting term limits for elected officials, and I never will.

There is a very simple reason for that position. I believe in democracy. I therefore believe that the electorate should be allowed to decide who represents them, with minimal influence from statutes or legislation.

There are many people who believe that politicians should be restricted in terms of how long they can serve. I know there’s a school of thought that advocates voting against incumbents at election time. My late father, in the last couple of years of his life, became very vocal as he advocated that position.

“Vote the buggers out!” my old man used to declare, with a respectable amount of passion.

And indeed, there are precedents.

American presidents are allowed to serve only two terms in the White House. That means Bill Clinton, George W. Bush and Barack Obama are deemed over qualified for the job. If I were an American, I think I would find that a little bothersome. The law of the land would dictate to me that there are three worthy potential candidates who I would not be allowed to vote for.

The law was brought in while Harry Truman was president. Republicans did not like the fact that his predecessor Franklin Roosevelt had been elected to four terms (though he only served three and a bit). They wanted to make sure that didn’t happen again. The wonderful irony of that was since the rule came in while Truman was in office, he was exempt. The first president barred from seeking a third term was Republican Dwight Eisenhower, and he probably could have won, had he been able (Truman later reflect that if Richard Nixon came as close as he did to beating John F. Kennedy in 1960, Eisenhower would have done it easily).

I will admit there have been benefits to Americans from limiting their presidents to two terms max. I doubt Ronal Reagan would have emerged from the Iran–Contra affair as unscathed as he did had been eligible to seek another term. Bill Clinton had a little more than two years left in his presidency when he was impeached. Everyone knew he’d be out of everyone’s hair in a couple of years. How differently would things have gone had that not been the case?

As well, it is true that a lot of people have held elected office for a lot longer than they should have. I have been covering politicians at various levels and various locations for more than 33 years. I have seen people hold office for one term and I believed it was one too many. I have seen people hold office for years after their best-before date. I have not always liked what I’ve seen in the political arena, but I have always understood why things happened — the voters made it happen. And in a democracy, are they not the people who are supposed to call the shots?

Looking at this from the position of a constituent, which I happen to be, among other things, if I’m happy with the representation I have been receiving from my area or regional councillor, my mayor, my school trustee, MP or MPP, and if these people are prepared to continue representing me, I see no reason why I should not have the option of voting for them. And I see no justification in being told that I can’t.

McMahon told her constituents seven years ago that if elected, she would serve for eight years. She is evidently prepared to keep her word on that. Good for her. It is her call.

Actually, I have known a coupe of elected officials who have committed themselves to two terms and no more. But most of the politicians I have known over the years have been prepared to serve as long as the voters would have them.

And that concept is key to this issue. The voters decide who they will have in office.

Hazel McCallion served as mayor of Mississauga for 36 years. It could be argued she accomplished that because of her skill as a politician, the force of her personality or other attributes she possesses. But it all comes down to a simple explanation. McCallion was in office for as long as she was because her constituents wanted her there.

Some day somebody will have to tell me exactly what’s wrong with that.

It happened today

It was the largest flying boat ever built, and it was constructed from wood.

The American government commissioned the Hughes Aircraft Company during the Second World War to build a large flying boat capable of carrying men and materials over long distances. The war was over before the craft was complete, but its designer Howard Hughes insisted that it fly.

Hughes himself took the controls for the first and only flight of the craft that became known as the Spruce Goose.

That took place this day, Nov. 2, 1947.

Government’s Fall Economic Statement doesn’t show balanced budget

The current Liberal government recently tabled its Fall Economic Statement in the House of Commons.

It was no surprise when Finance Minister Bill Morneau confirmed that the government is borrowing $20 billion this year to pay for out of control spending and expects hardworking Canadian families to foot the bill by frantically increasing taxes to pay for it. Canadians are justifiably concerned about the reckless spending of this government and what it means for their own pocketbooks.

During his delivery of the Fall Economic Statement Oct. 24, Minister Morneau outlined the government’s proposals “to accelerate the indexation of the Canada Child Benefit (CCB) by two years, to July 2018 — which will provide an additional $5.6 billion in support to Canadian families over the next five years” and “to enhance the Working Income Tax Benefit (WITB) by $500 million per year starting in 2019 — in addition to the increase of $250 million annually already set to come into effect in that year as part of the enhancement of the Canada Pension Plan”

OTTAWA JOURNAL

David Tilson
MP Dufferin-Caledon

with further details being provided in Budget 2018. He also outlined that the government will be moving forward with “restricting income sprinkling by private corporations” and to “limit the benefit of investing passively in private corporations.”

The Conservative Official Opposition understands that the economy is growing despite the current Liberal government, not because of it. Furthermore, we also understand that every penny over $10 billion in deficit spending is a broken promise. We can all remember that the Liberals promised a small deficit of less than $10 billion. Today, it has more than doubled.

Prime Minister Trudeau and his government are raising taxes on middle class Canadians to pay for his reckless spending. For the last two years, he has been giving with one hand and taking more with the other. Canadians cannot trust him to give them a tax break. He is the same Prime Minister who promised balanced budgets by 2019. The recent Fall Economic Statement revealed that his own government officially projects he will never balance the budget. Furthermore, he is adding debt at twice the rate he promised and his government projects that debt will grow every year into the future.

The Prime Minister and the current Liberal government have and will continue to raise taxes on hydro, gasoline, and home heating; health and dental benefits; employee discounts; personal savings; lifesaving therapies; and local businesses. This is why more than 80 per cent of middle-class Canadians pay more tax today under Prime Minister Trudeau. It’s high tax hypocrisy for him to force middle class Canadians to pay for his out of control spending, while his family fortune remains untouched.

We, the Conservative Official Opposition, believe in responsible government spending, lower taxes and making life more affordable for every Canadian. When the Prime Minister makes promises he won’t raise taxes on Canadians, we just don’t believe him because of his established track record. We will continue to fight his tax hikes, as witnessed in the recent Fall Economic Statement, every step of the way.

Remembrance Day is upon us — Lest We Forget

Remembrance Day is a time to honour those who are currently serving and those who have served our country in uniform, both at home and abroad.

It is a time to remember those who made the ultimate sacrifice in defence of Canada.

There are a variety of services taking place across Dufferin-Caledon which will give you an opportunity to take part in an act of remembrance and thank those who have served.

Caledon East hosted a ceremony Oct. 29 at the Caledon East Cenotaph at Caledon Town Hall. The Alton Legion is holding a Remembrance service Nov. 5 starting at 10:15 a.m. Later that same day in Bolton, there is a parade from the fire hall to the cenotaph beginning at 12:15 p.m. The service and wreath laying at the cenotaph will commence at 12:45 p.m. Caledon employees and students from Robert F. Hall Catholic Secondary School will be holding a ceremony Nov. 10 at 10:45 a.m. at the Town Hall in Caledon East.

FROM QUEEN’S PARK
Sylvia Jones
MPP Dufferin-Caledon

There are a many services being conducted across Dufferin-Caledon Nov. 11.

The Orangeville Legion, Branch 233, will be on parade from the Legion to Alexandra Park at 10:30 a.m. The cenotaph service begins at 11 a.m. Members of Branch 233 will also conduct a sunset ceremony at Forest Lawn Cemetery at 2 p.m. In Shelburne, the Legion, Branch 220, will host an indoor service that begins at 9:45 a.m. and will be followed by a march from the Legion Hall to the Cenotaph. The Mansfield Women’s Institute gather at the Mansfield Cenotaph at 10:30 a.m. In Grand Valley, the Town will be gathering at the Grand Valley Cenotaph at 10:30 a.m. for their service.

I hope you will have the opportunity to attend one of these services in Dufferin-Caledon, or find the time to observe a moment of silence. The service of the men and women in our armed forces is a sacrifice they make so that we can continue to enjoy the rights and freedoms of our great nation.

There are other ways to remember and say thank you to our veterans. For instance I was impressed by the story of Judy MacLeod from Orangeville who created the Dufferin County chapter of Quilts of Valour, where quilters create and donate quilts to local veterans. Quilts of Valour is run by volunteer quilters who want to thank a veteran for their service.

You can also honour those who serve by wearing a poppy and making a donation to the Poppy Fund. The Royal Canadian Legion uses the proceeds to provide financial assistance and support to veterans and their families who are in need.

A special addition to the tradition of remembrance in Ontario is the newly proclaimed Remembrance Week. Last year, the Ontario Legislative Assembly unanimously passed the Remembrance Week Act, which was proposed by my colleague MPP Jim Wilson of Simcoe-Grey. Remembrance runs for the week ahead of Remembrance Day.

Lest we forget.

Change alarm batteries when setting clocks back

Clocks will fall back one hour at 2 a.m. this Sunday (Nov. 5) and Caledon Fire and Emergency Services is recommending that residents install new batteries in their smoke and carbon monoxide alarms when they change their clocks.

“In order for smoke and carbon monoxide alarms to do their job, they need to have working batteries,” explained Fire Chief Darryl Bailey. “Twice a year, old batteries should be replaced with new batteries. When you change your clocks on November 5th, Caledon Fire and Emergency Services wants everyone to take the time to install new batteries in all alarms.”

In order to survive a fire, residents need to be provided with an early warning and know what to do when the smoke alarms sound. It’s the law to have working smoke alarms on every storey of the home and outside all sleeping areas. For added protection, it is recommended to also install smoke alarms inside all bedrooms.

Carbon monoxide alarms must be installed outside all sleeping areas if a home has a fuel-burning appliance, fireplace or attached garage.

Tampering with or removing the batteries from smoke and carbon monoxide alarms is against the law. Failure to comply with the Fire Code can result in a ticket for $360 or a fine of up to $50,000.

Bailey also emphasized the importance of developing a home escape plan. Residents may have less than two minutes to safely escape the toxic gases released from a fire burning in the home. Make sure everyone knows two ways out of each room and discuss a meeting place. Download an escape plan at www.caledon.ca

For more information on smoke alarms, contact Caledon Fire and Emergency Services at 905-584-2272, ext. 4303 or visit www.caledon.ca/fire

New council to be sworn-in Dec. 4, ‘18

By Bill Rea

The meeting schedule for Caledon council in 2018 is going to be a little on the light side, especially later in the year.

Councillors have approved their meeting schedule for the coming year, although the staff report accompanying the proposals stated the dates of meeting are subject to change, if necessary.

Council has been operating on a modified scheduling system for the last year, with one Tuesday per month being set aside for general committee and planning committee meetings, and another Tuesday per month being designated for council.

The current plan is for committees to meet Jan. 16, Feb. 6, March 6, April 3, May 1, May 29, June 26 and Dec. 11. Actual council meetings are planned for Jan. 30, Feb. 20, March 20, April 17, May 15, June 5, July 10 and Dec. 18.

The fact that 2018 is going to be an election year has had an impact on the scheduling process, according to staff.

The election is scheduled for Oct. 22, and the report stated there are provisions in the Municipal Act that restrict what councils can do after Nomination Day, which will be July 27, as well as after election day. Known as the “lame duck” period, it applies if less than three-quarters of the sitting members of council do not declare their intentions to run by Nomination Day, or if less than three-quarters of the sitting council is returned election day.

During a lame duck period, councils cannot appoint or remove any officer of the municipality, hire or fire any municipal employee, get rid of any municipal property valued at more than $50,000, or make any spending decision involving more than $50,000.

The staff report stated the Town’s CAO has the authority to act in some of these cases, if necessary.

In the event there is not a lame duck period, the proposed schedule sets aside “hold dates” for possible meetings. They are Aug. 7, Aug. 28, Sept. 11 and Sept. 25.

After the election, the new council will be sworn in Dec. 4.

Book a 2018 tree planting with CVC

Fall is the best time to book a 2018 spring tree planting project with Credit Valley Conservation (CVC).

Landowners with at least two acres available for planting can book a free site visit to get a head start.

Planting a forest takes preparation. CVC's forestry specialists offer free site visits to determine how to prepare the site, select tree species for local conditions and make a plan to care for newly planted seedlings.

"CVC offers planting plans specific to our customers' properties which give great value for money," CVC's Deputy CAO and Director of Watershed Transformation Mike Puddister said. "CVC is the local delivery agent of Forests Ontario's 50 Million Tree program and offers a subsidy of 90 per cent to eligible landowners."

To qualify for the subsidy, landowners must commit a minimum of two acres and order a minimum of 1,500 seedlings. At 20 cents per seedling, the total subsidized cost for planting two acres averages $300. Services include a free site visit, customized plan for the property, machine planting of seedlings and follow-up monitoring and tending.

"Planting a forest may seem daunting and expensive, but with CVC's help it's much easier and cheaper than you'd think," CVC's Manager of Terrestrial Restoration and Management Rod Krick said. "Plus it's a great way to enhance the local natural environment."

To date, CVC has planted nearly six million trees in the Credit River watershed through its planting programs. Interested landowners are encouraged to contact CVC as soon as possible to ensure planting can take place in spring 2018. Contact Alastair Bisciaia at ABisciaia@creditvalleyca.ca or 647-449-2743.

The Business Case for Creating Inclusive Workplaces

SPEAKER: Louie Di Palma, Director, SME Programs

Learn about the five accessibility standards under the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA) which are the laws that organizations must follow to be accessible.

The standards are in key areas of daily living:

- Customer Service
- Design of Public Spaces
- Employment
- Information and Communications
- Transportation

The AODA requires public and private sector organizations to comply with the standards in order to make Ontario accessible for people with disabilities. The requirements of the standards are being phased in between now and 2021, and vary based on your organization's size (by number of employees) and whether your organization is in the public or private sector. The goal of the AODA is to have an accessible Ontario by 2025. Having an inclusive workplace and an accessible organization makes good business sense.

Physical activity the key to healthy living for seniors

National Senior Safety Week will run from Nov. 6 to 12, and thoughts of reduced stress and activity levels go hand in hand with the idea of retirement, whether the job one is leaving has been interesting, motivating, dull or mind numbing.

A lifetime of hard work and perseverance has finally paid off, allowing for a suitable lifestyle, freedom from the grind of daily life and to live as one chooses.

The Canada Safety Council reminds seniors of the importance of staying active. Too often, retirement leads to a sedentary lifestyle spurred by a lack of the necessity to stay active.

According to Statistics Canada, only 13 per cent of men and 11 per cent of women between 60 and 79 met the Canadian Physical Activity guidelines. These include 150 minutes (2.5 hours) of moderate-to-vigorous intensity aerobic physical activity weekly. This is achievable with less than a half hour of daily activity.

And while seniors aren't alone in not meeting these guidelines, they're certainly one of the most at-risk groups. Regular physical activity can provide a list of health benefits, including strengthened muscles and bones, enhanced balance and fewer aches and pains from movement.

The Canadian Physical Activity Guidelines recommend brisk walking and bike riding as examples of moderate intensity activities, but this category can also include dancing, playing sports, going on hikes, swimming and working in the garden.

Staying active can take many forms and a motivated individual should have no problem finding an activity that's enjoyable.

Getting Started

The saying "You can't teach an old dog new tricks" doesn't apply here — even an older adult who's had a relatively sedentary life to date will benefit from heightened physical activity. It's never too late to get started. And it doesn't have to be daunting.

Take a walk around the block a few times a week. Start at a slower, comfortable pace until you're comfortable with it, and then increase the intensity or duration. Don't push yourself too hard. Exercise is only helpful when you're able to do it. Forcing yourself to be inactive while treating an injury or strain helps no one.

If you find yourself unable to participate in certain activities due to health ailments, like joint problems, for instance, or arthritis, consult with a physician who can help determine what exercise will work for your specific needs.

If you're homebound, there are still ways to stay active. Walk or march on the spot. Get equipment to help you exercise from your bed. Lift small amounts of weight to keep your upper-body muscles and joints strong.

If you're unable to meet the 150-minute marker set by the Canadian Physical Activity Guidelines at first, that's okay. Limited exercise is better than none at all. Do what you can and what you're comfortable with until you reach a point where you can meet the guidelines regularly.

Remember, strengthening the body can help avoid future ailments. Strong joints and bones can reduce the likelihood of falls, fractures and outright breaks. Take proactive steps to mitigate these health concerns before they become a reality, and you'll find a much higher quality of life waiting for you.

Peel and Salvation Army partnership Thrift Store celebrating one year

Peel Region and The Salvation Army Thrift Store are celebrating the first anniversary of their partnership tomorrow (Friday). They have diverted 1.1 million kilograms (2.4 million pounds) of Peel's reusable goods, which would have gone to landfill, and are encouraging residents to continue to donate during their fall clean-up. "We're delighted to be partnering with The Salvation Army Thrift Store to offer residents the chance to continue to donate, and buy, reusable goods as they prepare their homes and yards for winter," Peel's Waste Management Director Norm Lee said. "Thank you, Peel residents, for supporting this reuse initiative and helping us to get closer to the Region's goal of diverting 75 per cent of our waste away from landfill." Reusable goods that residents can donate are gently used accessories, antiques and collectibles, books and media, eye glasses, furniture, gently used clothing, household items, plumbing fixtures, power equipment, shoes, small appliances, sports equipment, tools, shop equipment, textiles (clothes, bedding, and linens) and toys. Peel's partnership with the thrift store offers a store at the Region's Brampton Community Recycling Centre (CRC) at 395 Chrysler Dr. and donation drop-off areas the Region's four CRCs in Brampton and Mississauga. The Salvation Army Thrift Store will mark the anniversary and celebrate diverting 1.1 million kilograms of reusable goods over the past year with special events at the Brampton CRC tomorrow. "We are extremely grateful for Peel residents' generosity throughout the last year of this partnership," Michele Walker, national retail operations, said. "To thank our amazing guests and donors, we are having a special event at our Brampton CRC location with refreshments, giveaways for the first 50 purchases and 25 per cent off everything in the store."

Golden Hawks lay a beat down on Terriers

By Jake Courtepatte

The Golden Hawk is the predator, and the Terrier is the prey.

For the second time in the young PJHL season, the Caledon Golden Hawks have posted a dozen goals in a game against the Orillia Terriers.

It goes without saying, they were in the win column for both.

The latest trouncing came Sunday in what was the Golden Hawks' only match for the week, putting on an offensive show for a home crowd at Caledon East arena.

Stuck in a five-game losing streak and scraping the bottom of the PJHL's Caruthers division, the Terriers pulled off a number of roster shakeups last week in an effort to improve their defence, including releasing veteran captain d-man Matt Vince.

It certainly failed to help the young, new-look squad, as the Golden Hawks promptly put up four goals in the first period. Andrew Woods found the back of the net on a nice backhand to the shelf just more than two minutes in, before Mathiau Young put one home on a scramble in front just a minute and a half later.

Marc Simonetta sent home a quick wrister off of a draw just past the halfway mark of the period, before Andrew Woods kept the puck on a two-on-one shortly after to make it 4-0.

That ended Orillia keeper Derek Haourt's night in net, and though Orillia broke the goose egg in the final two minutes of the period, everything continued to go Caledon's way.

The Hawks managed five special-team goals in the second period, four on the power play and one shorthanded. They went six-for-eight on the power play that evening.

Orillia managed one more late in the third period, though it barely dented the Caledon lead as the home team left with a 12-2 win.

Woods and Matt Magliozzi each had five point nights, Woods notching four goals for his first hat trick of the year.

Young also recorded a hat trick in the contest.

Magliozzi's one-goal, four-assist night built upon his lead as the team's top scorer, also vaulting him to second place in Caruthers division scoring, behind only Ben Hughes of the Stayner Siskins.

He is the only player inside the top 10 not on either the Siskins or Alliston Hornets squads, both teams pulling far away from the rest of the division in the early going of the season.

Caledon has cozier into the third-place position with the win, holding onto a record of 7-7-0-1, though 11 points already separate the Hawks from the second place Hornets.

A busy week ahead has the Hawks facing the first place Siskins tonight (Thursday) for already the fourth time this year, hoping to break the Siskins' perfect 14-0-0-0 record to start the season.

They then pay a visit Friday night to the 4-6-0-2 Penetang Kings, before hosting the 6-8-0-0 Midland Flyers at Caledon East Sunday.

Puck drop is set for 7 p.m.

For stats, schedules and more information, visit www.jrcgoldenhawks.pointstreaksites.com

Recreation facility renovations done

The Town of Caledon, with grant support from the Ontario Trillium Foundation (OTF), has successfully completed the upgrade of the Mayfield Recreation Complex's arena on schedule and within budget.

"We were able to complete this revitalization as a result of the generous support from the Ontario Trillium Foundation, and the efforts of our Town staff, our consultant Barry Bryan Associates and general contractor Schilthuis Construction," Mayor Allan Thompson observed. "I'm very excited for residents and clubs who can use this facility again for minor hockey and skating."

General Manager of Community Services Peggy Tollett explained the significant work that was undertaken.

"We were able to replace the old concrete floor, upgrade arena boards, refrigeration system, glass and make railing and accessibility improvements," she said. "This was possible with the $500,000 grant that we received from OTF through the Ontario150 Community Capital Program, along with a matched contribution from the Town.

The arena is now aesthetically pleasing and modern, and the renovation has extended the useful life of the facility. Residents, groups and clubs are invited to visit the arena. The Town has 10 recreation facilities with programs and activities for all ages.

To learn more about these various programs, visit www.Caledon.ca

Hugh Graham notches another win at Equestrian Park

By Bill Rea
Schomberg's Hugh Graham and Knock Out 3E have had a pretty good show-jumping season, and they added to that recently by winning the $25,000 Fall Finale Grand Prix.
They were among 212 horse and rider combinations that entered the event, held in the indoor arena at Caledon Equestrian Park, and only five entries made it to the jump-off.
Graham was third in the jump-off, and was the second competitor to jump clear, shaving a fraction of a second off the time posted by Hyde Moffat of Brantford, who was also clear aboard Stormin'. The final competitor was Kassidy Keith of Nobleton, riding Cracker Jack. She turned in a very impressive time of 38.9 seconds (more than a second off the pace Graham had set), but they knocked down a rail on the course and that earned her four jumping faults, dropping her back into third place.

It was a rather frustrating day for other local competitors. Sam Walker of Nobleton had two entries.
He was the first contestant in the ring on Animo, but two refusals on the course meant disqualification. Things went better with his other mount, Acardi Du Houssoit Z. They turned in a fast round, but picked up four jumping faults and had to settle for eight place in the end.
Kendra Martenfeld of Schomberg was entered on EVERDEEN, but they had two refusals as well.

Kim Farlinger of Orangeville had two mounts in the competition too. Her first ride was on Stanley Stone, who again proved he's a very fast horse, posting the best time in the first round. He alas knocked over rails on two jumps, leaving with eight faults. Farlinger's other mount was Concello, who picked up four faults, finishing in ninth.
Jay Hayes from Orangeville almost made it to the jump-off on Paratrooper. They were clear on the course, but they took a little more than a second too long to do it, and drew one fault to finish seventh.
Needless to say, Graham was pleased with the performance of his mount, an 11-year-old Canadian Sport Horse gelding owned and bred by King Ridge Stables of King City.

"He's a fast horse," he said,"so I didn't have to leave him a lot of room."
The pair were victorious last Friday in the second phase of the Caledon Cup competition, also held in the indoor arena. Graham said he had gone easy on Knock Out over the week, so he was well rested when it came to Sunday.
He observed that some horses are better when it comes to competing indoors, but that's not an issue with his mount.
"This horse jumps both places well," he remarked.
The next couple of weeks are going to see Graham and Knock Out 3E taking part in some shows in Ohio, but he said they will be back for the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.
