Community pays tribute to Cory Trépanier at Home and Lifestyle Show

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

Beloved Caledon artist Cory Trépanier was celebrated last weekend.

On April 28, the opening night of the 2023 Home and Lifestyle Show at the Albion Bolton Community Centre, the late Trépanier was honoured with a special event.

The event was a fundraiser for Caledon Meals on Wheels, and all proceeds from ticket sales went there.

Guests enjoyed local craft beers, hard ciders and wines, as well as an assortment of delicious food.

This was all the while memories of Trépanier were shared and his art celebrated on the stage at the Home and Lifestyle Show.

Trépanier was a graduate of Humberview Secondary School in Bolton and had a very successful career in the arts and documentary filmmaking. He’s best known for his detailed oil paintings of Canada’s wilderness, and he was an avid Arctic explorer.

Trépanier died of cancer in 2021.

The Bill Parnaby Team sponsored the event, as Bill Parnaby himself grew up with Trépanier and went to Humberview, too. They were friends in high school and remained supporters of each other throughout their lives.

“I watched Cory from afar over the course of high school, developing his talent, which was amazing even then,” said Parnaby.

They crossed paths again later in life, and Trépanier shared some of his ideas for art and film with Parnaby.

Residents frustrated with lack of notice for industrial park development

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

Caledon residents living near an industrial development site raised concerns at a recent meeting of Caledon Council.

In the urgent business section of Council’s April 25 meeting, Ward 3 Councillor Doug Maskell brought forward a motion.

He asked that residents be able to delegate about the “Ministerial Zoning Order (MZO) issued by the Province to the Rice Group for the property municipally known as 12245 Torbram Road, Ward 3.”

The motion passed unanimously and residents were permitted to delegate on the Rice Group development.

The Rice Group is ready to build a 502-acre industrial park between Torbram and Airport roads, north of Mayfield Road.

In January 2022, the Rice Group requested that the Town of Caledon apply for a MZO — which fast-tracks development and bypasses consultation — from Ontario Minister of Housing and Municipal Affairs Steve Clark.

This request was referred to Town staff, so they could bring additional information back to Council at a future meeting. However, before the request was brought back to Council, the MZO for the development was granted by Clark on September 9, 2022.

At an April 11, 2023 planning and development meeting, Caledon’s Chief Planner Antonietta Minichillo explained a member of Caledon’s previous term of Council acted alone in seeking the MZO.

“An individual member of Council, not through Council direction... was working with someone at the Ministry to bring forward this MZO,” said Minichillo.

There is no formal process for applying for an MZO in Ontario.

A July 22, 2022 letter to Clark obtained by The Citizen shows that the individual member of Council in question was former Caledon Mayor Allan Thompson.

“I am writing this letter to articulate the benefits of the advancement of a commercial development of the land known as 12245 Torbram Road...” wrote Thompson in the letter. “As you know, the Town of Caledon is in the final stages of completing our Official Plan (OP). Foundational to our OP is ensuring we have an adequate supply of industrial, commercial and institutional lands that will allow for opportunities for economic development and future economic sustainability. A proposed development application for the lands noted above would see 5 million square feet of space dedicated to advanced logistics, product distribution, and industrial uses.”

In his letter, Thompson said other significant benefits from the development include development charges in excess of $110 million; development application fees and building permit fees estimated at $5 million; $795 million in GDP value added to the Canadian economy; 5,900 full-time equivalent jobs, 5,000 of which would be in Peel; and $306 million in government revenues.

Thompson noted that the Rice Group’s development application was deemed complete by Town staff on September 15, 2021 and that a public meeting was held about the development on January 17, 2022. Further, he wrote that the lands in question would be urban and for employment purposes in the Region of Peel’s settlement area boundary expansion.

“While Town Council has paused on advancing applications until the official plan is complete, I feel that having this application wait for that work to be completed may deter the applicant to move this significant opportunity for economic and job growth to another community,” wrote Thompson. “I am personally asking that you consider, as Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing, using your legislative authority to advance this project by issuing a Minister’s Zoning Order. By doing so, I believe the Town, Region, and Province will realize the significant benefits outlined in this letter.”

When Rice Group first submitted applications for their industrial park development at 12245 Torbram Road, they requested to develop 370 acres. After the MZO was issued on September 9, 2022, they were permitted to develop 502 acres.

The southwest corner of Rice Group’s lands is located in Ontario’s Greenbelt Plan and is designated as protected. Rice Group originally wanted to develop this land, but it was not included in the MZO, which excluded it and added more development land in the north end of Rice Group’s holdings.

According to Town staff, since the approval of the MZO, Rice Group has been working with the Town to address the additional lands. As of April 25, the Rice Group’s revised application addressing the new lands was not yet complete.

An April 11 update from Town staff noted “The revised development applications will facilitate the development of an industrial park consisting of warehousing, distribution centres and industrial uses in eight industrial buildings totaling approximately 550,912 square metres (5,929,967 square feet).”

The Town expects the Rice Group to begin site grading this spring or summer.

Surat Atwal lives on Torbram Road near the Rice Group development and delegated to Council on April 25. He said he’s lived in the area for over 15 years and while he’s seen a lot of change, he’s always known it’s coming. However, that was not the case for the Rice Group development.

“How did this get this far without the residents knowing what was happening?” asked Atwal.

Minichillo said when the original application for the development came in 2021, a notice was given to everyone within 120 metres of it. She said Atwal’s address is outside the 120-metre notice requirement in Ontario’s planning act.

Continuing, Minichillo said when an MZO is used, there are fewer processes and notification requirements.

“The ordinary process for circulating applications to public bodies does not apply to the Minister, and no notice or hearing is required prior to the making of a zoning order,” said Minichillo. “...MZOs are undertaken for this purpose, they circumvent public consultation. They’re designed to cut that piece out of the process.”

She said Town staff are currently preparing an MZO policy, and said in situations where an MZO is used and the province does not have to provide notice, the Town wants to provide notice to residents.

Minichillo said while the MZO grants the Rice Group zoning approval, it does not grant them site plan approval and that they will have to work with the Town to address resident concerns.

Minichillo said when the Rice Group’s revised application comes in, residents within 1,000 metres of the development will be notified.

Bipanpreet Kandola delegated at the meeting on behalf of her family, who live on Torbram Road right next to the Rice Group development. She shared Atwal’s concerns about lack of notice about the development.

“Stating that notices will be provided in the future does not help current residents with this issue,” said Kandola. “The development is not a minor one where we will have little inconvenience... this development will reduce the value of our land and our enjoyment of it as well.”

Nadia Capuano also lives on Torbram Road adjacent to the development and said it was concerning something so massive would be built next to her and her neighbour’s homes. She asked what the next stage in the process is with the Rice Group development.

Minichillo said the Rice Group will have to come to Town staff with a revised official plan amendment and plan of subdivision, at which point the community will be given notice and the Town will hold a public meeting. She said the meeting will be the best way for residents to provide their comments on the Rice Group development.

Councillor Nick deBoer said it will be important to engage residents near the Rice Group development in conversations with the developer itself. He said he’s facilitated meetings like that in the past and they have been successful for residents getting their concerns addressed. He also said the Town needs to begin the process of informing all Caledon residents who live in the Region of Peel’s expanded urban boundaries of the changes that are coming. The Region of Peel’s settlement area boundary expansion map can be found on peelregion.ca.

Councillor Maskell thanked Council for allowing residents to speak on the Rice Group development by supporting his motion in urgent business. He said as a new councillor, he never wants to see a situation like the one the homeowners near the Rice Group development are facing happen again.

“I think what happened here is not right in many ways,” said Maskell.

Those interested in being notified about the Rice Group development as it moves forward can send an email to planning@caledon.ca.

Relatives of Margaret Dunn came to the grand opening of the Margaret Dunn Valleywood Collaboration Studio.

Margaret Dunn Valleywood Collaboration Studio officially open

3D printer, Cricut machines, recording studio, and more at updated branch

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

Caledon residents can take advantage of some of the latest and greatest technology at the newly-renovated and recently-opened Margaret Dunn Valleywood Collaboration Studio.

On April 29, the Caledon Public Library (CPL) hosted an official grand opening ceremony for the Collaboration Studio. It began at 11 a.m. with coffee and refreshments, and representatives from municipal and provincial governments were in attendance.

There was a great turnout from members of the Dunn family for the event, who came to see the updates to the branch named after their late family member. The community room at the front of the branch was soon filled with community members too.

The CPL's CEO and Chief Librarian, Colleen Lipp, began the opening ceremony with an Indigenous land acknowledgement before sharing how excited she was to be in a room with so many supporters and partners.

She welcomed Amarjot Sandhu, MPP for Brampton West; Sylvia Jones, MPP for Dufferin Caledon and Deputy Premier; and Doug Maskell, Ward 3 Councillor and acting Mayor of the Town of Caledon for the day. Lipp then welcomed members of the CPL board and members of the contractor teams that created the Collaboration Studio.

"We're also joined today by the family of Margaret Dunn, for whom this branch was named when it first opened in 2006. At that time, we couldn't even imagine how library services would evolve and shift in the years ahead," said Lipp. "3D printers and laser printers were the stuff of science fiction, and now maker and media technologies are core library services... a means for public libraries to bridge the digital divide and support the development of job and entrepreneurial skills."

The Margaret Dunn Valleywood branch is now home to a makerspace with tools like Cricut machines, a computerized sewing machine, 3D printer, and traditional arts and crafts supplies. The branch is also home to private meeting rooms, a soundproof recording studio, and computers with audio and video capture and editing software. The branch also remains a pickup and drop-off location for all CPL materials.

Sandhu spoke after Lipp at the opening ceremony and said libraries are fundamental to a community's well-being and people's quality of life. He said libraries bring people together, play an invaluable role in supporting education, and promote learning and literacy for all ages.

"Our government is proud to invest in the community... the (Valleywood) branch is the first in Caledon to offer new services and technologies to support learning, innovation, and entrepreneurship, and better bridge the digital divide," said Sandhu. "With the collaboration studio, residents will be able to build their skills and exercise their creativity... after years of hard work, dedication and collaboration, I'm thrilled to see this project finally come to life."

Sandhu, a Member of Provincial parliament, thanked the Municipal and Federal government for their partnership to make the Collaboration Studio a reality. Federal and Provincial governments supported the Collaboration Studio through the Investing in Canada Infrastructure Program.

Jones spoke after Sandhu and said it was a great honour to be joining everyone for the grand opening of the Collaboration Studio.

She said when the different levels of government work together, communities benefit and the Studio is a great example of that.

Maskell spoke next, on behalf of Mayor Annette Groves and his colleagues on Caledon Council.

"The Margaret Dunn Valleywood collaboration studio... is a creator's dream," said Maskell. "Thank you to all those at all levels of government and in the community that have made this space possible."

Tony Maxwell, the newly-elected chair of the CPL board and he shared greetings after Maskell.

Maxwell explained that Margaret Dunn, who the branch is named after, served on the CPL board for 16 years. For 11 of those years, she was the Board's chair.

Dunn was one of the founders of the Friends of the Caledon Public Library, and even after she stepped down from the CPL board, Maxwell said she worked tirelessly to support the library.

"It was her strength of character and determination that resulted... in the establishment of library services in Valleywood," said Maxwell. "It's nice to see the Dunn family here, it's a really wonderful and fitting tribute."

The Caledon Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) is conducting an investigation in Caledon Village.

“Officers were called to a residence on Hayleyvale Road at approximately 3:00 a.m. on May 3, 2023, where one person was located injured from an apparent shooting,” say Police. “The Caledon Major Crime Unit is investigating and the investigation is in its early stages. No further details can be released at this time. Investigators believe there is no imminent threat to public safety. The OPP reminds all members of the public to be aware of their personal safety at all times.”

Investigators are looking for any potentially relevant dash camera or home surveillance video or photos from around 3:00 a.m. in the area, including on Hurontario Street in Cale-

IMPAIRED CHARGES

Officers from the Caledon Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) have charged a driver involved in a collision with impaired operation and assault with a weapon.

“On April 26, 2023, shortly after 11:00 p.m., Caledon OPP responded to a two-vehicle collision on Dixie Road, near King Street, in the Town of Caledon,” say Police. “During the course of the investigation, officers formed grounds that one of the driver’s ability to operate a motor vehicle was impaired by alcohol and was subsequently arrested. It was also revealed that an altercation took place between the drivers. No injuries were sustained as a result of the incident.”

Naveen Kumar, 27, of Brampton, was charged with:

- Operation while impaired - blood alcohol concentration (80 plus)
- Operation while impaired – alcohol
- Assault with a weapon

The accused is scheduled to appear at the Ontario Court of Justice in Orangeville on May 18, 2023, to answer to the charges. The charges have not been proven.

The driver’s licence was suspended for 90 days, and the vehicle impounded for 14.

“Motorists are reminded that no amount of alcohol or drugs in your system is safe when driving. If you plan on drinking or consuming drugs, plan to not drive. Instead, arrange for a designated driver, take a taxi or public transit, or come up with another plan that

LETHAL SUBSTANCE WARNING

The Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) is warning people about packages containing a potentially lethal substance that may have been sent to individuals at risk of self-harm in communities across Ontario.

“The packages contain sodium nitrite, which was being sold online and distributed by mail,” say Police.

If you or someone in your home has received a package from the businesses listed below, please contact the OPP or your local police service immediately.

- Intime Cuisine
- AmbuCA
- Academic / ACademic
- Escape Mode / escMode
- ICemac

“The ongoing investigation has found that packages may have been sent to more than a dozen communities across the province, as well as other parts of the world. Sodium nitrite is a white, crystalline substance used as a food additive and commonly found in processed meats. Intentional consumption of excessive amounts of this substance can reduce oxygen-levels, impair breathing and can result in death.

“The OPP is calling on everyone to be vigilant of the online transactions and activity of family members and the arrival of any unexpected packages in the mail.”

Earlier this week, Peel Regional Police arrested a suspect believed to be responsible for providing this product.

Anyone with information or who has received a package you suspect may contain sodium nitrite, should contact the OPP at 1-888-310-1122. Should you wish to remain anonymous, you may call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477 or online at ontariocrimestoppers.ca.

If you or anyone that you know is struggling with mental health and wellness, please call 1-833-456-4566 or visit talksuicide.ca.

There's a new captain at the helm of Caledon's finances.

On April 27, the Town of Caledon announced it had hired David Sutton as its new Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and Director of Finance.

Caledon's Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) Carey Herd said she was pleased to welcome Sutton to Caledon's senior leadership team. She explained he has 20 years of professional experience in financial management.

"He was an integral part in ensuring long-term financial sustainability and flexibility in his former positions and successfully implemented process improvements that enhanced operational effectiveness and modernized the customer service experience," said Herd. "David's experience will be an asset to the Corporation as we continue to manage the future growth of Caledon."

Prior to his new role with the Town of Caledon, Sutton worked as the Treasurer and Director of Financial Planning at the City of Brampton. He is a Chartered Financial Analyst and holds a Bachelor of Commerce and Bachelor of Arts (Economics) degree.

"David brings extensive knowledge to the Director, Finance and Chief Financial Officer position," said Herd.

Sutton's first day of work with the Town will be May 15. He will succeed Myuran Palasandiran, who was hired by the Town as CFO and Director of Finance on July 26, 2021.

The CFO oversees purchasing, risk management, asset management, and the Town's finances among other duties.

If these past few years have taught us anything, it is the importance of family and friends. At New Wave Pools and Spa, they would like to show you the possibilities for your backyard oasis for your friends and family.

They are inviting customers new and old to visit them for a spring spa sale on May 5 and 6.

There hasn't been such a sale at New Wave Pools and Spa in about four seasons because of the COVID-19 pandemic and subsequent lockdowns. It was common practice to have the spring sale to get people excited about a possible backyard project.

And it was just as well as shutdowns on the manufacturing side and supply chain issues regarding electrical parts that made it as long as 55 weeks for delivery of a hot tub.

"The interest for tubs during COVID multiplied over 20 times," she said. "People wanted to stay home and enjoy their backyards. Problem was, manufacturers couldn't deliver."

Delivery times are back to the more reasonable six to eight weeks. Prior to the pandemic, delivery time for a spa was four to six weeks.

Over the years New Wave Pools and Spa Services owners Rob and Cathy Koolen have cultivated a reputation for quality materials, optimum service, fair pricing and satisfied customers.

"We have sold sunrise spas for close to 25 years – well-built and Canadian made," said Cathy.

Right now is the time of year when people think about renovating or building a backyard deck, and a hot tub is just one option to make your backyard oasis a reality.

New Wave Pools and Spa Services is located at 302 Broadway in Orangeville.

Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation
on King Street East, Bolton

Peel Region will be working in Wards 5 and 6 to complete:

- The replacement of the bridge on King Street East, east of Humber Lea Road,
- Maintenance work on the bridge on King Street East, east of Old King Road.

CONSTRUCTION SCHEDULE:

Construction is planned to begin the first week of May 2023, and to be completed by the end of December 2023, weather permitting. All work is under warranty for two years from the completion date.

CONTRACTOR AND WORKING HOURS:

The work will be completed by contractor Alliance Verdi Civil Inc. and supported by Ainley and Associates Limited (Ainley Group), both under contract to Peel Region. The contractor's working hours are from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday to Friday. These hours are consistent with the local municipality's bylaws. We understand this may cause some inconvenience, but shorter working days would require your area to be under construction for a longer period of time.

TRAFFIC IMPACTS:

A full road closure will be required to replace the bridge on King Street East, just east of Humber Lea Road. As a result, King Street East will be closed to all through traffic, including pedestrians, from John Street to Humber Lea Road. This temporary road closure is expected to take place from May 15, 2023, until December 1, 2023, weather permitting. During this time, detours will be clearly marked with road signs. This road closure and construction may cause traffic delays. We thank you for your patience and apologize for the inconvenience.

BROCK WEIR
BROCK'S BANTER

Of Coronations, contributions and coffee table books

Do people still buy coffee table books?
Do people know what coffee table books even are anymore?

I'll venture a probably way-off-the-mark guess that when you first hear the phrase, the immediate reaction might a blank stare...or a snicker if you remember Cosmo Kramer's efforts to bring together a coffee table book about coffee tables.

Yet, evidently there is a market for these often luxurious, often treasured, usually difficult-to-store hardcovers that, as the name suggests, were often kept on the table for all to see.

A conversation starter? Sure.
A statement piece? Why not?
A status symbol? Well, judging by the cost of some of the fancier volumes out there, just maybe!

The start of a journey? For me, absolutely.
One of my earliest memories is sitting on a couch in my grandmother's bedroom, in front of one of those old television consoles that took the better part of five minutes to fully warm, leafing through a book published nearly a decade before I was born.

At that young age, I didn't really have a full appreciation of what I was looking at, but the interest was sparked and soon these sparks grew into a flame.

The book in question was The Country Life Book of the Silver Jubilee. Commemorating the 25th anniversary of Queen Elizabeth II's accession to the throne, it compiled hundreds of images of the late monarch's first quarter-century as monarch.

Some of the dreamier images, those by famed fashion photographer Cecil Beaton, for instance, which saw his subjects photographed in front of backdrops designed to invoke an earlier age, were indelible. I wanted to know more – and the more I learned the more I felt I had missed out on a heck of a lot.

I never thought at the time I would experience a Jubilee and the idea of seeing a Coronation...well, that was unfathomable.

Yet, here we are, with just a couple of days to go before the Coronation of King Charles III and I am not ashamed to say I'm pretty excited about it.

What's exciting me, however, is not the opportunity to see a carbon copy of the last Coronation, but how those evocative images of almost 70 years ago have been updated, translated, or otherwise done away with to fit in with today's sensibilities.

Gone is the endless parade of berobed, be-cor-net-ed aristocracy kneeling before the monarch to pay personal homage to him. Instead, after the Prince of Wales symbolically pledges, the people – in the Westminster Abbey, in the street lining the route or having their own Coronation party, or at home like so many of us will be doing, have been invited to do follow suit in their own ways, if they're so inclined.

In 1953, special seating was constructed in Westminster Abbey to accommodate more than 6,000 people, including all those clinging to the uppermost rungs of the British social ladder. This time around, the congregation has been whittled down to a less-eyewatering 2,000, including Commonwealth representatives like Governor General Mary Simon and Prime Minister Justin Trudeau – but, most notably, some 1,000 individuals who have been invited based on their individual merit and how they have supported their communities rather than who their parents are.

This emphasis on personal merit has been underscored with the creation of the Coronation Champions Award, recognizing “extraordinary volunteers” across the United Kingdom who have contributed to their communities. Hundreds of people from England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland have since been recognized as such just ahead of the big day, while volunteerism has been kicked up a notch with The Big Help Out.

The Big Help Out is premised on the idea that “it doesn't matter who you are, where you're from or what you do – you can make a difference and help change lives.” The initiative will see people on the Monday following the Coronation (a holiday for the Brits) fan out into the places they hold dear to lend a hand in the name of positive change.

Unfortunately, we in Canada are not getting May 8 off as a holiday like our British counterparts. Nor has our Federal government really taken advantage of what could be a once-in-a-generation opportunity to mobilize portions of the country for the greater good.

Thankfully, as the Citizen went to press on Wednesday, the Prime Minister's Office announced 30,000 Coronation medals will be struck and awarded to “to Canadians who have made significant contributions to the country, a province, territory, region or community, or an achievement abroad that brings credit to Canada.” While the details of the medal are yet to be announced, this is a welcome change from the last year's Platinum Jubilee when no medals were struck, a small token for everyday heroes that make our communities what they are today, including first responders who gave back tirelessly at the height of the pandemic.

Yet, while a ceremony will be held in Ottawa on Saturday featuring a diverse array of cultural performers, a 21-gun salute, and the unveiling of what is presumed to be a new stamp featuring The King, neither a legacy project nor a large-scale public celebration appear on the horizon.

Canadian commemorations, including the official Coronation emblem, are themed around the colour green to align with the King's passion for environment and sustainability, but there's so much more than that.

Over his last half-century as Prince of Wales, Charles III through his Prince's Trust Canada, has worked diligently to promote youth employment through their WorkReady program of workshops, job coaching, and work experience programs; to support Veteran Entrepreneurship; and to “champion sustainable solutions” towards what they now call “the green recovery.”

“Our priorities are focused on preparing young people and members of the military and Veteran community for transforming the world of work, championing sustainable solutions for a green recovery, and empowering our people and our partners to strengthen our collaborative efforts,” reads the Trust's mission.

But, credit where credit is due, the Provincial Government seems to have struck the right balance.

If you're able to get to Queen's Park on Saturday, a full day of fun awaits as the lawns of the Legislature are transformed into a carnival atmosphere, while the Government plans to throw open the gates of 39 provincial parks free of charge – beautifully dovetailing with the King's green credentials.

Most importantly, in my view, the morning's flag raising ceremony will be presided over by the Lieutenant-Governor, Premier, and Indigenous leaders who, once that part of the ceremony is complete, will also honour worthy community-members with the Sovereign's Medal for Volunteers, the creation of which was approved by the late monarch to honour those who give back.

On paper, it sounds like the perfect way to commemorate a poignant new spin on an ancient ceremony, one which is shaping up to be less about the monarch and more about the people the monarch serves.

These are the images I feel will capture the imaginations of generations to come – whatever the next generation's equivalent of a coffee table book ultimately turns out to be.

A trip down memory lane brings mixed emotions

They say we shouldn't dwell on the past. Nor should we ignore it.

When it comes to family, regular trips down “memory lane” can be both enjoyable and reinvigorating.

The expression is American in origin and the earliest instance that I have found is the title of a piece of music which was advertised for sale in the Wisconsin newspaper The Milwaukee Daily News, October 1876: “Wandering down sweet memory's lane.”

My wife was going through the gazillion photos on her iPhone and we stopped, shared, and revisited many family memories.

Most caused us to laugh out loud. I smiled the whole time, then felt a bit melancholy about how quickly time passes.

This is something we humans are all too familiar with.

As a young man, with decades ahead of him, I seldom thought of what life would like “down the road.” Well, that road is quickly narrowing, and offering just a few more detours, on-ramps and alternate routes.

“We are what we remember,” Erik Pevernagie once said. “If we lose our memory, we lose our identity and our identity is the accumulation of our experiences. When we walk down the memory lane, it can be unconsciously, willingly, selectively, impetuously or sometimes grudgingly.”

We humans are a clever lot. We've created many euphemisms and quaint terms to paint a rosy picture of nostalgia. In fact, Merriam-Webster defines nostalgia as “a wistful or excessively sentimental yearning for return to or of some past period or irrecoverable condition.”

Wow. Here I thought it was just a recognition of how things used to be.

Of course, our nostalgic tendencies tend to grow as we age. When gray hair appears in the image looking back at us in the mirror, we begin to look in that rear-view mirror more often.

Haruki Murakami said memories not only warm you up from the inside, but “they're also what tear you apart.”

Just think about it folks. Every single one of us is made up of thousands of feelings, millions of thoughts and tons of memories. Just how do we process such a massive amount of heartfelt data?

Of course, our experiences in life are important, both good and bad. We can't, and shouldn't, forget them. We learn from them, become stronger because of them. They are part of who we are, there's no denying it.

Some of us remember everything, while others,

by Mark Pavilons

like myself, need some prompting. My wife can recall special moments like they were yesterday. Her ability to recount every detail is impeccable. I would never argue about it.

Memory is our personal diary, filling pages of our lives. It's very personal and sometimes it's difficult to share for a number of reasons.

But most of us, especially as we age, love to share stories, timeless tales of love, life and living.

While some of the messages and innuendo are lost on the current generation, we still like to weave these stories. And, they often become a way of self-healing, filling us with bits and pieces of who we once were, during a time when life was, well, less stressful and filled with hope and dreams.

I hope that one day, technology will present the ultimate gift to mankind – a way of digitally preserving all of our memories. Wouldn't that be the trip of a lifetime? Well, some would be rather shaky amusement park rides to be sure, but others would be joyful splashes of colour and sounds.

As we gain wisdom, which definitely comes with time, we offer up sage-like sentiments to our young. I often quote Yoda in telling my kids, “Do or do not, there is no try.” They now know who Yoda is.

We try to relay moments of our youth, and itty, bitty tidbits from our parents. More often than not, most are archaic, since that generation was, shall I say, less informed and ill-equipped to deal with complex child-related issues.

A swift slap to the back of the head, or “because I told you to,” were the most-often referred to pages of my dad's parenting text. Sure, my mom was loving and much more realistic and understanding.

But they came from different worlds, at times, suffering horrible war-time events. They struggled, as most immigrants did.

Their stories are fading now, as are memories of their faces. They do come and speak to me in my dreams, but my nocturnal meanderings offer little in the way of comfort or enlightenment.

The crappy thing about memory is you always have to say goodbye, and those sad farewells stick with you, like a chill you can't shake. But maybe we should consider ourselves lucky because saying goodbye is so hard!

It's been said that we shouldn't spend our money on things, but rather on ways to generate memories.

Thankfully, we had the opportunity to create a decade-long family tradition of annual treks to the Delawana Inn. All of our kids recall their times there with fondness.

My wife and I aren't in the position to give our kids the world, but we can give them some unforgettable memories.

And I think that's why our days should be spent forming new ones, in a positive, fun way. Sure, our daily chores and burdens tend to douse our enthusiasm, but I think we can all aim a little higher.

I'll be the first to admit, it's not easy, but I am trying to fill the pages with a story our kids will enjoy re-reading, over and over.

As you go through your photo files, on your desktop or mobile device, take a moment to pause and reflect. Create a new folder entitled “best memories” and share them with family and friends.

Make it a point to fill this file completely!

Many years ago the media stuck a microphone in front of then Mayor John Tory and asked him what he thought about Toronto's first Black Chief of Police (Mark Saunders) to which Tory should have said, “I didn't notice.” But, he and everyone else engages into conversation that we should not be encouraging.

Fast forward to now. NASA is sending Artemis 2 (a moon mission) into space next year to circle the moon. It will carry four astronauts, three men and one woman. All very qualified honor roll-type candidates. One of the men is from London, ON, and the other three astronauts are Americans.

One of the American Astronauts is Victor Glover, a 46 year old from California. He was a US Navy fighter pilot with a better record than most of the Top Gun graduates as well as having a Masters in engineering. And when being interviewed on CP24, the TV host's first question was, “How do you feel being the first Black astronaut going into space?” Unbelievable. That made it sound like he was picked because he was Black and all his incredible accomplishments meant nothing.
I felt so bad for this young man and so mad at the stupid question being asked, but Victor being so qualified and professional, he side-stepped the question and kept the interview going while not engaging into such a stupid question.

We have to learn to be like Ed Sullivan was in the 60s. He was known for being the most colourblind host of any show as every Sunday night he had a one-hour variety show where he so often had Motown bands on his show because “They were so talented” period. We need more Ed Sullivans today

Shoot the messenger

Over the course of the past couple of years, my doorbell has rang numerous times announcing the arrival of unexpected visitors.

My normal course of action when the doorbell rings is to, get ready for this – answer the door.

Over the course of those few years, I have met several local realtors offering their services, several people selling home maintenance services of various kinds, a kid selling popcorn as a fundraiser for his school (yes, I bought the popcorn), a next-door neighbour kid selling greeting cards (I bought those too), and one really cute Girl Guide under the supervision of her mother, selling cookies.

The Girl Guide was very polite and very nice, so yes, I supported her troop and bought some cookies.

I only had one unusual circumstance, when the bell rang close to 11:00 p.m. That time I looked through the window to see who it was, because it was a little later than usual time to drop by someone’s house. In that case I saw a uniform. It was a local police officer inquiring if I had seen or heard a hit-and-run accident that occurred at the house across the street. We had a nice chat.

Never once, when answering the door, did I pick up a baseball bat, golf club, frying pan, or other blunt instrument to use as a weapon. Never once, did I prepare a rifle and load a round into the firing chamber just in case I didn’t like the looks of the person and thought I may have to fire a shot to ward them off.

Never once did I feel threatened because a doorbell rang.

This past couple of weeks has seen several absolutely ridiculous shootings south of the border. Usually, I won’t comment on foreign news, but because it comes to me through my news feeds, and these incidents are so insane, I think it should be examined, and used in comparison to gun related crime and shootings in Canada.

In Kansas City, Missouri, a 160year-old kid arrived at a house to pick up his siblings. He had the right street number, 115 Northeast, but he had arrived at Northeast Street, rather than Northeast Terrace. It was an easy mistake.

The home owner responded to seeing an unknown person on his porch by shooting him. The kid was shot once in the arm and once in the head. He did survive.

In a rural area of New York State, four young women were in a car, looking for a friend’s house.

They pulled into a driveway and realized they had the wrong house. They backed out and were getting ready to drive away. The homeowner opened fire on them, killing an innocent 20-year-old woman.

In Texas, an 18-year-old cheerleader, and a friend, arrived at a supermarket - a place the cheerleading academy often uses as a meeting point. The girl was going to her own car, but mistakenly opened the car door of a similar vehicle. She apologized to the driver, who then opened fire, hitting both girls, and injuring one seriously.

The shooter was a 25-year-old man. What possible threat could he have felt from an 18-year-old woman who was walking away and apologizing?

States that have a so called “stand your ground” law don’t seem to take gun violence too seriously, as long as you’re on your own property. The reasoning is you should be able to defend your home.

Well, yes, I think we should all be able to defend our homes, and families, if a person has entered your dwelling with intent to do harm.

Sometimes, deadly force may be necessary, although in Canada, that is extremely rare.

However, opening fire on someone because they are on your property is insane.

In the case of the New York incident, a totally innocent young woman is dead, simply because they entered the wrong driveway.

There is no reason to kill anyone simply for being on your property.

Even if someone was breaking into my home, I would not pull out a firearm and shoot – for the simple reason, I don’t want to be responsible for killing a human being.

Americans have a constitutional right to have firearms; however, that should not mean you can blast away just because you don’t recognize someone as a friend.

If you feel the need to cock your pistol just because your doorbell rings, you need to either visit a psychiatrist to have your paranoia problem taken care of, or move to a desert island where you won’t have to be bothered by interaction with other people.

Stars Align

Recently, I had the opportunity to witness the rare alignment of government agencies actually working together for the good of our community. Some of the folks present that day, and who know me to occasionally be cantankerous, wondered if, as a result, I might write a “good news” story to reflect what I was witnessing. I agreed that I probably would and now that you’re here, I promise in what’s likely to be a once-in-a-lifetime event, to write positively about not just one but two political decisions I happen to agree with! I know, I know. I’m not sure what’s going on, either. I’m no astrologer but perhaps all the stars have briefly aligned.

The first piece of good news, which you may have read about elsewhere in this paper, is that the Caledon Public Library was the recipient of both federal and provincial funding in support of the re-imagining of the Margaret Dunn Valleywood Library. April 29 saw members of the Dunn family, MPP Sylvia Jones and representatives from the federal Ministry of Intergovernmental Affairs, Infrastructure and Communities, gather together with Caledon councillors; past and present library board members and the community, to celebrate the true potential of all that libraries can be. They aren’t just about books anymore!

Libraries are (and always have been) about access. They are the great “equalizer”, in my opinion, providing a place for anyone to get what they need to succeed - all free of charge. These days, that means libraries that aren’t just about access to books but also: to computers, emerging technologies, a chance to learn a new skill, a place that still offers a home to the unemployed to conduct a job search or for students to use the wifi after school to do homework and so much more. In other words, libraries are pretty darn important.

Now, thanks to these recent federal and provincial partnerships, a library that was originally championed by former Mayor Thompson and one where I took my first child in 1998, is now a vibrant, technology (and book) filled community space that represents all that is good about the future. In a bittersweet, full-circle moment for me, (as a mom and former CPL Board member and volunteer) seeing what this library means for a new generation of patrons, I watched with pride as that 1998 kid covered the opening for this very paper!

Speaking of pride, my second kudos - considerably more shocking than praising the government collaboration noted above - goes to Stephen Lecce. Yes, THAT Stephen Lecce, the Minister of Education.

I doubt very much he cares how I feel but if one is quick to cast aspersions then one must be just as quick to praise when occasions demand it. Minister Lecce recently announced that he “supports raising the rainbow flag at publicly-funded schools as an indication of inclusion to LGBTQ students.”

While this is a definite “YAY” moment - it’s still unfortunate that he would not take the extra step of actually directing “boards to do so during Pride month in June, leaving the decision to parents and local communities.” That doesn’t bode well for marginalized community members in York Region Catholic schools whose parent community is vocally (and shamefully) anti flag, but it was an important recognition that raising the Pride flag sends a “signal of respect and inclusion” and represents “support for actions (schools) can take to create inclusive, safe places.”

Do I wish that Minister Lecce had gone further? Absolutely. Do I believe that part of the reason he made the statements in the first place was to very publicly remind parents who send their children to Catholic schools that these boards are publicly-funded? You bet!

While Minister Lecce acknowledged the mental health challenges and higher suicide rates faced by some LGBTQ students, he stopped short of forcing the catholic school boards hand. Still, I see his not-so-subtle reminder as a challenge to Catholic school boards to remember to behave a little bit more like the man upon whom the religion was founded - you know - tolerant and accepting.

Sadly, as the results of last fall’s municipal elections can attest to, not only York Region but right here in Caledon, being “tolerant” and “accepting” towards the 2SLGBTQ community is not what won the popular vote. But I digress, back to the “I’m being positive” part - regardless of his motivations, whether as a subtle reminder or in the true spirit of encouraging tolerance, at least he took a public position on the subject. It’s a start.

The stars might not align again for some time. I would make the most of finding myself in this “jolly” frame of mind because not long after the Pride flag announcements Minister Lecce went straight back to talking negatively about negotiations and discussing the implementation of yet more new curriculum that more or less expects teachers to do even more, with even less. But that’s for another day...in the meantime, libraries - YAY! Pride flags - YAY!

1100 attend Robert F. Hall’s Awards Night to celebrate excellence

BY JIM STEWART

Over 350 students and approximately 800 invited guests attended the Robert F. Hall CSS Awards Night celebration last Thursday.

The ceremony took place in the school gymnasium where students, according to Hall Staff Member and Event Organizer Daniela Botelho, “took centre stage to receive their awards.

Honour Roll Certificates were given to students in Grades 9, 10, and 11 who had achieved an average of 80% or higher in their courses last year. Subject Awards were also given to honour the highest overall standing achieved in individual courses last year.”

The feature of the evening was the presentation of School Spirit Awards for Grades 9, 10, and 11, the School Council Award, and the Highest Overall Average Awards.

The winners of these seven prestigious awards were:

- Sophie Robb-Moriarty for School Spirit — Grade 9;
- Bryana Arjun for Highest Average — Grade 9;
- Claire VanNiejenhuis for School Spirit — Grade 10;
- Sophia Sonsini for Highest Average — Grade 10;
- Shamiso Madzima for School Spirit — Grade 11;

- Samantha Flagiello for Highest Average — Grade 11;
- and the School Council Award went to Vienna Marshall.

Botelho acknowledged the importance of this event to her school community.

“These students have put great effort into their studies. It is important to recognize and applaud their commitment and dedication.” She noted that the most satisfying part of organizing the Awards Night was “seeing the excitement in the eyes of our students and their parents. These are proud moments — it’s great to share in their celebration.”

A cultured and hospitable atmosphere was created by the Hall school band’s performance and a post-ceremony reception prepared by the Hospitality and Baking Program students. In addition to applauding the contributions of the band and the bakers to the Awards ceremony, Botelho spoke on behalf of the staff of the Caledon high school by stating that “The Robert F. Hall community is extremely proud of its award recipients and the positive contribution they make to the school. As a staff, we want to extend our congratulations to all award recipients; we continue to encourage all students to strive for excellence in their studies.”

Organizing events that extol the excellence of students is a secret to success for any high school community.

Headwaters Arts presents new exhibit featuring emerging artists at Alton Mill

BY BRIAN LOCKHART

A new exhibit at the Headwaters Arts Gallery features the works of Mono-based emerging artist Emily Escoffery.

The exhibit is titled “Converge” and is currently on display at the gallery located at the Alton Mill Arts Centre in Alton.

A member of Headwaters Arts, Emily is a recent graduate of the University of Guelph.

Emily uses traditional techniques with non-traditional subject matter to create non-objective pieces that examine the painting process.

Her techniques use colour, form, and contained compositions focused heavily on grids. As she further develops her work, she finds herself seeking to discover more of those patterned or amorphic spaces in her design.

The new exhibit features over 20 of Emily’s works.

“My artistic practice is mainly focused on using digital software to create preliminary drawings for paintings, but I utilize traditional techniques with non-traditional subject matter to create non-objective pieces that examine the painting process,” Emily explained of her work.

She works with several different mediums when creating her art. Emily uses oils and acrylic paint on canvas and gouache on paper, canvas and birch.

Her grid works express movement and edgy, shifting tones of colour.

“The method used to create these paintings utilizes grids in a more traditional, preliminary way, as the grid dictates the shape of ambiguous forms highlighted in gouache,” Emily explained.

Emily said her inspiration comes from modern and contemporary artists who explore grids, colour, shape, abstraction, and representation through their works. She said she is inspired by works by Agnes Martin, Robert Ryman, Helen Frankenthaler, Ed Reinhardt, and Max Ernst.

This exciting new exhibit will be on display at the Alton Mill until May 28.

The Headwaters Art Gallery is open Wednesday to Sunday, from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., at the Alton Mill Arts Centre on Queen Street West in Alton.

CPL to host Elvis tribute concert as fundraiser

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

The Albion Bolton Fairgrounds will be rocking this summer.

On June 2, the Caledon Public Library (CPL) is hosting an Elvis tribute concert there as a fundraiser for its new “Memory Station”. The memory station will be a do-it-yourself station that will enable CPL users to digitize their materials like old home movies, printed photographs, and slides.

The station will allow users to turn photos, film and slides into high resolution digital files to be enlarged and shared; capture analog video to a SD card or USB drive; and use a flatbed scanner for objects like scrapbooks, recipes and historical documents.

Two different Elvis impersonators will be performing at the June 2 concert, which runs from 7.30 to 10 p.m. outside at the Fairgrounds (weather permitting).

The first is Bruno Nesci, a Graceland 2022 top 5 finalist. The second is Eric Evangelista, a Collingwood Elvis Festival grand champion. Evangelista will be recreating the 1970 opening show Elvis performed at the Las Vegas Hilton. Nesci will be recreating Elvis’ Aloha From Hawaii concert in honour of its 50th anniversary.

The Stage Academy Theatre Association and Dreamers Entertainment are teaming up to run the concert for the CPL. Tickets for the concert can be purchased at the CPL’s Albion Bolton branch or online at caledon.library.on.ca/elvis/. Concessions will be sold at the concert, and proceeds from those will also go towards the CPL’s memory station.

Colleen Lipp, CEO and Chief Librarian for the CPL, said she’s extremely appreciative of Dreamers Entertainment and the Stage Academy Theatre Association for putting on the show.

“It will be an enjoyable evening for all and it will help fund CPL’s new Memory Station, which will launch at the Albion Bolton Branch in the summer of 2023,” said Lipp in a media release.

Tickets for adults are $25; tickets for students (ages 13-17) and seniors are $22; and tickets for children ages 12 and under are $17.

Home Show, which ran from April 28-30, was a great success

Through partnership and sponsorship, Parnaby was able to help Trépanier as he was gaining more and more exposure and success.

“From that point on, we had this interwoven relationship... we both love Caledon and love the arts,” said Parnaby. “It was a natural blend, it was really cool.”

Parnaby said it was amazing to see Trépanier’s films take off and see him receive awards and tour the world showcasing his art. No matter where life took them, Parnaby said he and Trépanier always shared a deep attachment to the Caledon community and local charities.

Parnaby said Caledon Meals on Wheels is a great charity and it was a pleasure to support it through the event.

“I really miss having Cory around. The fact he’ll never paint again, it’s the end of an era,” said Parnaby. “It’s hard to think about, but the nice thing is his legacy through his art and family — and what his daughter is doing — it continues even though he’s not here.”

Trépanier’s daughter, Andie, is a visual artist, musician, and tattoo artist, among many other creative endeavours. They were at the show to showcase their art, as well as speak about their father.

Andie said losing someone is always hard, and they were nervous to speak about their father’s memory as it’s only been two years since he passed away.

“What always brings me out of the woodwork, and makes me absolutely compelled to do any speaking in the memory of my dad, is that the community here loves him as much as he loved them,” said Andie. “It’s so apparent, you can feel it around the room... it’s a beautiful thing.”

Andie said hearing people share memories of their dad was the best part of being at the Home and Lifestyle Show.

Andie had a variety of large acrylic on canvas paintings for sale at the Show, as well as sketches and mixed media illustrations. They explained between 2020 and 2022, they would fill up sketchbook after sketchbook, almost daily, full of art.

“By the time that I got to the end of COVID I realized I was drowning in art — and it was definitely the way that I got through it,” said Andie. “But it also really reignited my passion for tattoo in a way I never could have expected because my drawing skills improved after two years of very hard work.”

Andie said they always try to keep connected to the spirit of art by making work that feels good and is important to them.

A wide variety of local businesses and community groups had booths set up at the Home and Lifestyle Show last weekend. One of these groups was the Rotary Club of Bolton, which helped run the event.

Since many of Bolton Rotary’s members have their smart serves, they were able to handle serving all the alcohol for the event. As well, the Alpha Dogs robotics team that Bolton Rotary sponsors was able to help set up and take down the Show.

Bolton Rotary also sold baked goods, coffee, and tea at their booth in support of local Girl Guides.

The Bolton Italian Cultural Centre was promoting their upcoming event at its booth.

Famous Italian musician Pupo is coming to Caledon on June 3 for Caledon Italian Heritage Day. Local singer Roberta Battaglia is also set to perform.

Anna Meo, president of the non-profit community organization that’s goal is to share Italian culture and traditions across Caledon, said having Pupo play in Bolton will put it on the map as it’s included in Pupo’s latest tour list of places he is performing.

Great Expectations for the Caledon United Football Club in 2023

BY JIM STEWART

Gabriel Borges, the newly-appointed Executive Director of the Caledon United Football Club, has high hopes for his wide range of soccer teams as they head into their 2023 season.

“One of the teams to watch will be our Women’s OWSL team,” he says. “They have a really good chance to win the Ontario Cup and represent the province at the National Championships. I’d encourage the community to come out and watch their home games on Thursday nights at the Caledon Youth Community Complex.”

On the Youth Soccer side of the organization, Borges extolled the talents and potential of two teams: Caledon United FC U17 and Caledon United FC U15.

“Both teams will be very competitive. The talent is widespread on both teams and it will be evident when they take to our Premier Field—R3—at the Caledon Complex.”

While the Caledon United Football Club’s Executive Director promoted three of his organization’s clubs with assurance and clarity in our phone interview, there was one team a little nearer and dearer to his heart: Borges’s own U12 Girls squad.

In what Head Coach Borges describes as “a formative year” for the team, his players have let him know in no uncertain terms that their goal “is to be in the Ontario Cup U13 Championships in 2024.”

With this laudable aim in mind, Coach Borges described the makeup of his U12 Caledon United FC squad: “The team is looking really good. This is the oldest team that we currently have in our grass-roots program and they’re awesome. It’s a talented team, but it’s more than that. It seems like a little family. The girls have a great willingness to learn and they are an intense group. They have a highly competitive spirit and are super respectful to the coaching staff. I am really looking forward to coaching them this summer.”

The current U12 team that Borges and his staff have assembled for the 2023 season captured the Adidas Cup U12 Championship in a prestigious tournament in Virginia. This experience has galvanized the girls and they want to test their championship pedigree in 2023.

In addition to their winning ways on the soccer pitch, Borges also compliments his players’ work ethic.

“They work really hard, they’ll be fun to watch, and I hope the community comes out to support the team. Our home games are at 9 AM on Saturdays at the Caledon Complex.”

In addition to prepping his U12 team for his season and promoting his promising clubs, Borges has embraced his new administrative role as Executive Director—having replaced the recently retired Terry Maddison.

Caledon United FC Adidas Cup U12 Tournament Champs in Virginia.

Borges noted that “the best part of taking on the new role is to grow with it and to grow the Football Club. We know where we want to go as an organization: we want to provide players in the Caledon community with the opportunity to play soccer for a high-calibre club. The organization is growing in size and stature and I look forward to guiding that growth.”

Borges was quick to point out the quality of his coaching staff which now comprises 15.

“We have 15 competitive level coaches with complementary skills which makes each staff ready to respond to the varied needs of our players. We have a range of tenured coaches who have played the game at a high level and are ready to take our organization to the next level. It’s an exciting time for all of us to be part of this growth.”

As Longfellow noted, “Hope springs eternal” and this feeling pervades the sunny outlook that is projected by the Caledon United Football Club and its new Executive Director and U12 Head Coach Gabriel Borges.

York Region’s largest fundraiser for youth mental health is calling on the community’s support

Residents of York Region and South Simcoe are urged to come together to help youth access free, safe mental health support.

The Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA) York Region South Simcoe is hosting its annual Mental Health in Motion fundraiser on Sunday, June 11 to raise urgently needed funds for CMHA’s Mobile Youth Walk-In Clinic. Called MOBYSS, the vehicle offers youth (aged 12-25) a free, confidential and welcoming space to talk to a medical or mental health professional.

“Youth in our community need our help,” said Rebecca Shields, CEO of CMHA York Region South Simcoe. “Approximately one in five children and youth in Ontario are experiencing a mental health challenge; it could be your teen, a neighbour or a friend. To stop them from suffering alone, we need to work together to bolster our community mental health services. The funds raised through Mental Health in Motion are critical to keeping MOBYSS on the road and helping our youth get the local support they so desperately need.”

Each MOBYSS visit costs $250. Every $250 raised has the potential to ensure someone you know has access to support, which could make a difference in saving their life.

On Sunday, June 11, more than 400 York Region and South Simcoe residents are expected to participate in person at Newmarket’s Ray Twinney Recreation Complex. Routes are available for all skill levels and ages including a 60km or 25km ride, 10km run and 5km run/walk.

Mental Health in Motion will kick off at 8.20 a.m. and lunch will be served starting at 11.30 a.m. Virtual participants can run, walk or cycle their chosen distance anytime, anywhere from now until June 11.

IN MEMORIAM

IN LOVING MEMORY OF DYLAN CYR

MAY 3, 1992 - APRIL 14, 2014

My heart still aches in sadness,
My secret tears still flow,
For what it means to lose you
No one will ever know.

Although you can't be here with me,
We're truly not apart
Until the final breath I take,
You'll be living in my heart.

Dearest Son to hear your voice and see your smile and just to sit and talk with you
Would be my dearest wish today
On this your 31st Birthday.

Think of you today and always
Love Mom & Dad

Bike lovers from all across Caledon will be riding for a cause on June 17.

Caledon Community Services' (CCS) Velocity ride in support of Caledon seniors is returning that day with the classic 10, 25, 50 and 100-kilometre routes available for riders to choose from.

The 10-kilometre route is designed for families and new riders, while the 25-kilometre route is designed as a "reasonable challenge" for youth, families, and inexperienced riders. The 50-kilometre route takes riders through hilly terrain and will be a good challenge even for experienced riders. Finally, the 100-kilometre route is for the most serious of riders and can take between three and five hours to complete.

For more information about the ride; and to register, sponsor, donate, or volunteer; visit ccs4u.org online and follow the link to the Velocity website.

Last year, the Velocity ride was held on Canada Day, but this year it is back to being held in the morning on Caledon Day, June 17. Depending on which route a rider chooses to take, they will depart from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. from Caledon Town Hall in Caledon East. Registration opens at 7:30 a.m. and riders are asked to check in 15 minutes before their start time.

Fundraising is being done online on the Velocity website, and a great effort has been made already. A total of over $42,000 has been raised by cyclists so far and CCS is hoping to continue the positive trend and raise well over $50,000.

If you're not a cyclist, you can still help out at Velocity in a variety of volunteer roles like: registration table volunteer, cheerleader, set up and take down volunteer, rest stop volunteer, route marshal, and start and finish line volunteer.

All riders who participate in this year's event will receive a free t-shirt to remember their ride by, and after the ride is finished, there will be a complimentary lunch and prizes given out.

Each year, the goal of the Velocity ride is to raise funds in support of Caledon seniors living a fulfilling and engaged lifestyle in Town. CCS offers community support programming, a Caledon specialist clinic, non-medical supports that help seniors live independently, respite companionship, health and wellness programming, accessible transportation, and more for seniors.
