

Educator Kaur's books bring strength to Sikh boys and their families

By ZACHARY ROMAN

Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

A Caledon woman who is well-known for her educational tool, 'The Patka Box', has released two new books.

Rosey Kaur is an educator and author who has been championing inclusivity for Sikh boys and her mission to educate and empower has been gaining widespread attention.

The patka, a head covering worn by Sikh boys that's an important part of their faith, is at the heart of Kaur's new books.

'Knots of Identity: Patka Poems' and 'Knots of Confidence: Patka Affirmations', Kaur's two new books, were celebrated at a special book launch on April 5 at the Indigo bookstore in Brampton.

After the success of The Patka Box, Kaur knew she wanted to do more.