

FUNDRAISER FOR NOAH'S ARK

Toby Jug in Bolton was the scene Saturday night of the second annual fundraiser for Noah's Ark. It's in support of a small school on the northeast coast of Haiti which provides basic education and daily lunch to the poorest children in the village of Phaeton. Enrolment at the school is up to 45, roughly doubling in the last year, and the student range in age from two to early teens. There is no running water there, or electricity. Noah's Ark Canada Chair Pat Laidlaw is seen here with Toby Jug Manager Carolyn Banks. Photo by Bill Rea