

Get registered for fall programs at CPCC

The leaves are starting to show their fall colours, and that means children everywhere will soon be back to school.

At the Caledon Parent-Child Centre (CPCC), the onset of fall means registration for a wide range of free, early-learning programs and activities is just around the corner.

The years from birth to age six are the most influential in a child's development, and how children are cared for during those first six years sets the stage for lifelong learning, behaviour and health. At CPCC, families with young children can take part in a variety of free early learning programs and activities. Parents and caregivers may also get helpful information about their child's development and about services to support that development.

Be sure to register for their Fall session of the week of Sept. 8 to 13. This fall's schedule of parenting and infant development programs includes You & Your Baby Playtime, Make The Connection and Infant Mother Goose. Preschool and school readiness programs for children two to six years will also be offered, such as School Here I Come, Math is Everywhere and Adventures In Science.

Based on registration volume and space limitations, a lottery system may be used to determine participation. For more information on the fall schedule, including detailed program descriptions and registration guidelines, visit www.cp-cc.org or call 905-857-0090. Family Time drop-in is open five days per week and programs are also being offered at the Cheltenham Satellite. Note that the Centre will be closed from Sept. 2 to 6 for fall program planning.
