

Lots of things to see and do at annual open house at Alton Mill

The was Celtic theme recently for the annual spring open house at Alton Mill Arts Centre. Rhythmfoot with the Frank and Chanda Leahy family put on a well-attended performance. Photos by Bill Rea

Blacksmith George Church was hard at work putting on demonstrations of his craft in the forge.

Sohayla Smith of Schomberg was performing on the heather harp.

These young members of the Claymore Dancers Academy of Dance were showing what they have learned to the audience.

Winston Uytenbogaart was demonstrating his carving skills as he worked on this walking stick.

Woodworker Barry Young was busy on this creation.

Dry stone work was going on at the mill, and some people came from considerable distance to take part. Torben Larsen came all the way from Vermont.