

The students and the dogs were all on stage at the end of the program. Photos by Bill Rea

Service Dogs have been making life a lot easier for people with disabilities, and their connection with Humberview Secondary School in Bolton have given students a great chance to work with these canines. It was a time to celebrate that connection at the school recently, as they held an End of the Year Celebration of the Canine in the Classroom program. The celebration offered students a chance to demonstrate what the dogs have been trained to do. Robert Cabral was in this wheelchair to demonstrate how Kaiko has learned to maintain the same pace as the chair.

The students and the dogs were all on stage at the end of the program. Photos by Bill Rea