Winning Lottario ticket sold in Bolton

Mitchel Puran of Brampton found himself $125,004 richer after the Aug. 20 Lottario draw.

Ontario Lottery and Gaming (OLG) reports the winning ticket was bought at Husky on Highway 50 in Bolton.

?A couple of days after the draw I decided to check my tickets,? he said as he collected his winnings. ?I used OLG.ca. I had a few selections on the same slip and the winning line was the second to last selection. All six numbers matched up!?

He checked the numbers three times to make sure he had it right.

?I asked my wife, parents and brother to read the numbers from the website out loud,? he said. ?Then I started screaming and running around the house.?

Puran and his wife got married in October, and have not yet had their honeymoon.

?That is definitely going to happen now,? he said. ?Our dream getaway is an all-inclusive in Nassau, Bahamas.?

He added he also plans to pay some bills and celebrate with his parents.
