"NEXT STEP: ALLYSHIP" – Chief Stacey Laforme shakes hands with Mayor Allan Thompson as Mayor-elect Annette Groves looks on at the signing of a historic Memorandum of Understanding between the Town and the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation last week. Less than a third of eligible Caledon voters hit the polls this year

Mayor-elect says she expected higher turnout

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

This year, 17,939 people voted in Caledon's municipal election.

That's less than a third of the Town's 56,538 eligible voters, meaning Caledon's voter turnout was 31.73 per cent.

That's a slight drop from the 2018 Caledon municipal election, when voter turnout was similarly low at 32.28 per cent. In 2018, 16,528 of the Town's 51,590 eligible voters cast a ballot.

Mayor-Elect Annette Groves said she had expected a little bit higher of a turnout for this year's election.

She said it's important to encourage people to get out and vote, and the way to do that is by making people feel like their voice matters.

"People say, 'Why should I even bother voting? It's going to be the same thing anyway.' As elected officials, we need to demonstrate to the public that not all politicians are the same," said Groves. "This next term of Council, we need to show the residents that we have their best interests at heart, that we're all working for them. I think if we can demonstrate that to the people, you will find better voter turnout."

Remembrance Week begins with poignant ceremonies

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

All across Caledon, residents will soon be gathering to honour the memory of all Canadians who have served their country in times of war.

One remembrance ceremony has already taken place, on October 30 at the Mono Mills Cenotaph.

This Sunday at 10:15 a.m. on the dot, a Remembrance Day service will be held at the Alton Legion Hall, which is located at 1267 Queen Street. Following the service, a potluck lunch will be held inside the hall.

Larry Weltz, President of the Alton Legion, the only remaining Legion branch in Caledon, and Zone E3 Deputy Commander, explained this year's service will be a bit shorter than usual.

Town seeking feedback on how to improve Caledon East streetscape

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

Caledon East residents who have ideas on how to improve the Airport Road corridor in their community have an opportunity to share them with the Town and influence their community's future.

Recently, the Town of Caledon announced that it is conducting a "Streetscape and Urban Design Study of the Airport Road corridor within Caledon East from approximately Cranston Drive to approximately Huntsmill Drive."

One of the first steps in this process involves getting community feedback from a survey that is now live on the Town's community engagement website at haveyoursaycaledon.ca.

According to the Town, its Caledon East project will be incorporated into a larger Region of Peel Airport Road Reconstruction Project that is already underway.

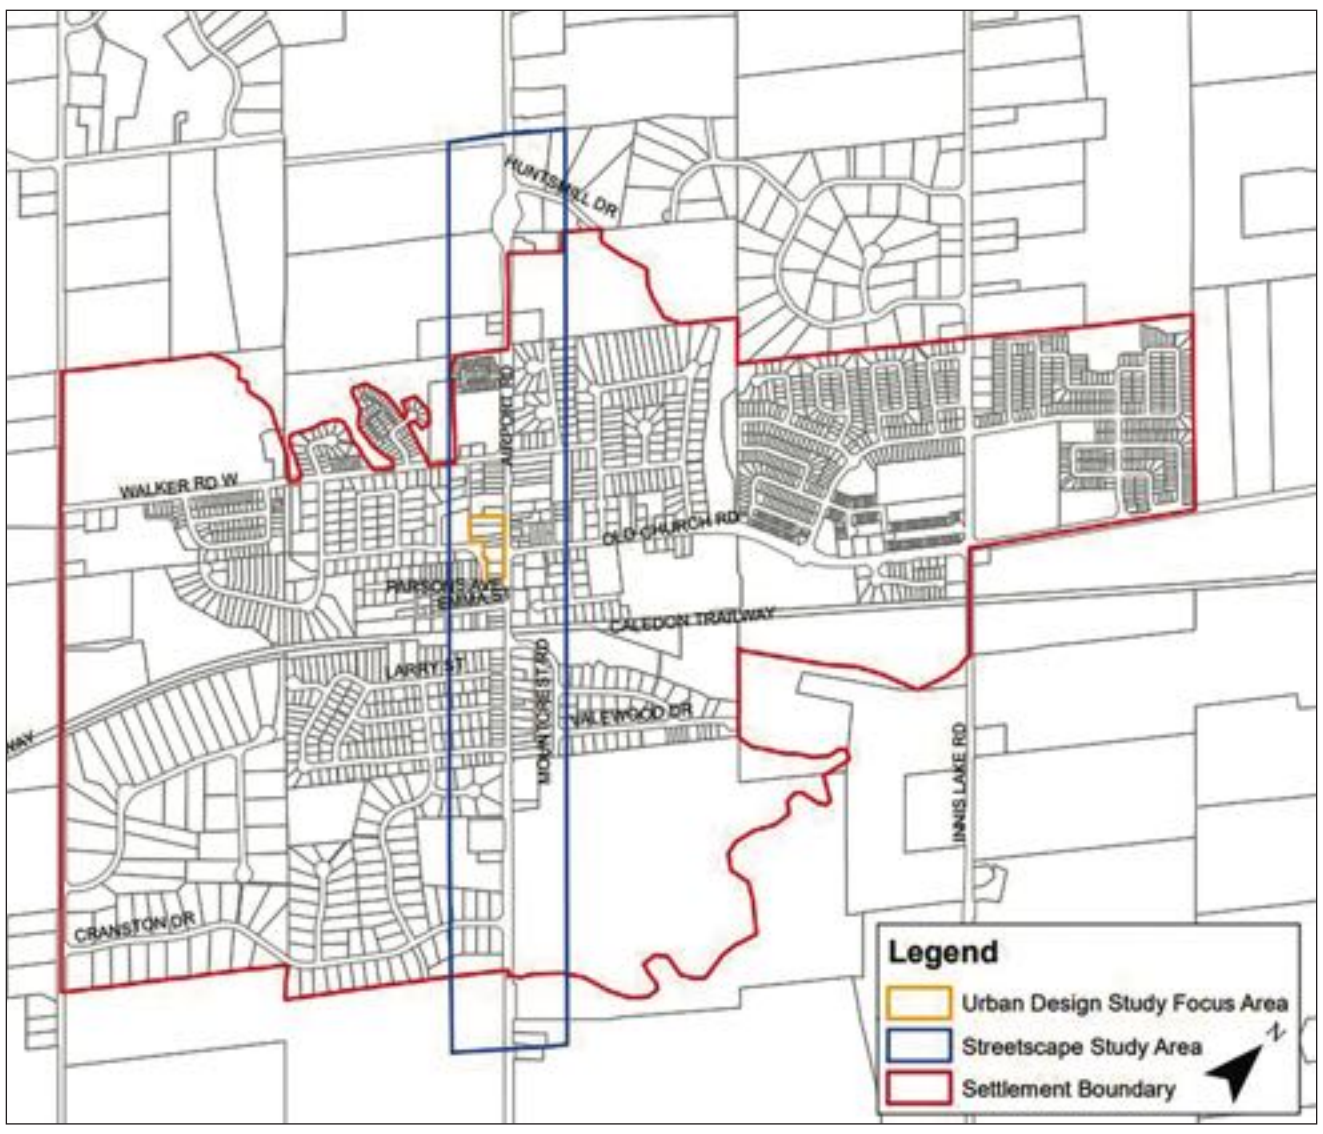

The Region of Peel's role is to improve safety on the road and sidewalks, while Caledon's role is to provide direction for streetscape design and long-term planning on Airport Road.

In September 2021, the Region announced it had completed an environmental assessment from 100 metres North of King Street to 300 metres North of Huntsmill Drive on Airport Road in Caledon.

According to the Region, the study examined "alternative solutions and design concepts to address long-term issues related to planned future growth, enhance the safety of the Airport Road corridor, and promote infrastructure improvements that facilitate walking and cycling."

Recommendations from that completed study include the following: reduced lane widths throughout most of the study corridor; roundabouts at Castlederg Side Road-Boston Mills Road and Cranston Drive; layby parking with streetscaping from the Caledon Trailway to Walker Road; a combination of multi-use paths and sidewalks in urban areas and paved shoulders in rural areas; improved cycling and pedestrian crossings at intersections; and improved sidewalk on the North side, and new multi-use path on the South side, of Old Church Road from Airport Road to Marilyn Street.

The Town of Caledon's study has already begun and is anticipated to be complete by early 2023.

Mirror Visions Ensemble to play in Caledon East on November 12

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

An ensemble that creatively explores the relationship between music and text will soon be coming to play in Caledon.

At 7:30 p.m. on November 12, Mirror Visions Ensemble will come to play in the St. James Anglican Church concert room at 6025 Old Church Road.

Caledon Chamber Concerts' Janice Reed explained Mirror Visions Ensemble (MVE) was founded from the desire to explore how music and text relate, initially by setting the same text to music by different composers.

"The group's passion for storytelling has produced thematic concerts on surprising subjects, based on scholarly research and laced with humor," wrote Reed. "Featuring soprano, tenor, baritone and piano, MVE's programs take audiences on an imaginative journey through song, showcasing both well-known and oft-neglected pieces, set to texts by poets and historical figures."

The members of MVE are tenor Scott Murphree, mezzo-soprano Abi Levis, baritone Mischa Bouvier, and pianist Grant Wenaus. They'll be performing a program called Journeys, where they play songs by Barber, Berlioz, Blangini, Duparc, Haydn, Poulenc, Hugo Wolf and more.

The poetry of Baudelaire, Joyce and Metastasio is among the texts that will be featured.

Tickets to the show for adults are $40 and can be purchased online at caledonchamberconcerts.com or by calling 905-880-2445.

Children 16 years old or younger can come to the show for free, and free refreshments will be served at the show's intermission.

Caledon Public Library is seeking new Board members

Members will serve term from 2022-2026

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

Caledon residents looking to play a key role in shaping the future of the Town's Library system will soon have a chance to apply to do so.

As the new term of Caledon Council will begin on November 15, the Caledon Public Library (CPL) will be accepting applications from Caledon residents interested in volunteering their time as CPL board members.

The CPL's Communications Manager, Mary Maw, said it's an exciting time to be involved with the CPL as it's a dynamic and vital service that will be growing alongside the Caledon community in the coming years.

"With the expanding and reimagined roles of the Library in the community, new technologies, services, programs, and spaces provide opportunities that are key elements of our community's social infrastructure," said Maw.

She explained the role of the CPL board in the coming term will be to make sure the library is in shape to meet the needs of a rapidly-growing Caledon. As well, the board makes sure the CPL is managed properly and is responsible for its governance.

Governance of the CPL means developing and reviewing library policies; ensuring that the library is adequately funded to meet the evolving demand for library materials, services, and programs; and advocating on behalf of the library within the community and to Town of Caledon Council.

Some work undertaken by the current Library Board includes the creation of a new strategic plan called "Building the Bridge to Possibilities."

The Board also worked on the development of the CPL's new Master Plan, which is slated to be complete later this season.

Maw said the Board is also responsible for guiding innovation and renovation at two branches in Caledon: "The reimagining of our Margaret Dunn Valleywood Branch to offer innovative new services and technologies, and the relocation of the Caledon East Branch into the expanded Caledon East Community Complex."

Current Library Board members will soon be hosting panel discussions facilitated by Colleen Lipp, the CPL's CEO and Chief Librarian.

At these discussions, there will be ample time for residents to ask questions. The first discussion is being held at 7 p.m. on November 15 at the Albion Bolton branch of the CPL. The second is being held at 7 p.m. on November 17 at the Southfields Village branch of the CPL.

Maw said the next four years of Library Board work promise to be just as rewarding as the past four, and encourages anyone interested in applying to be a board member to visit the library's website or email their questions to CPLBoard@caledon.library.on.ca.

Remembrance Day ceremonies upcoming in Caledon

"Usually we have a parade, we form up at the back of the branch in the parking lot and we parade down and do a circle and come back up in front of the Cenotaph. But, unfortunately, we won't be doing it this year," said Weltz. "We'll be forming up at the Cenotaph and we have a piper and we'll do our ceremony. He's going to do The Lament and when the service is done, before we march off the colours, he's going to play Amazing Grace on the bagpipes. We're going to march out the colours and march out the Honour Guard and that will be the end of the ceremony."

Weltz said there's always a great turnout for the Alton Legion's service and that the parking lot there fills up.

Caledon Mayor Allan Thompson will be attending the Alton ceremony, but Dufferin-Caledon MPP Sylvia Jones and Dufferin-Caledon MP Kyle Seeback will be unable to attend, said Weltz.

Later in the day, on November 6, another Remembrance Day service will be held in Bolton.

It will begin at 12:45 p.m. at the Bolton Cenotaph which is located at the Laurel Hill Cemetery.

On November 11, Remembrance Day, an official Town of Caledon service will be held at the Caledon East cenotaph outside of Caledon's Town Hall. The ceremony will begin promptly at 10:50 a.m.

THANK YOU

WE DID IT!

I want to thank my fellow residents of Bolton Ward 6 for honouring me with your vote, and providing Bolton with another voice. I am deeply moved by the expression of confidence you have given me, and I thank you from the bottom of my heart. I am immensely grateful to the family, friends, and loyal supporters who so generously contributed their time and effort to my campaign.

To be an effective Councillor involves listening to constituents, translating their concerns into workable proposals, and building consensus to implement them. I could not do this job without the involvement and openness of the people I represent. Walking the neighbourhoods has given me the opportunity to share your ideas, your concerns, and your aspirations, and I sincerely appreciate your willingness to discuss what really matters to you. You have entrusted me with the responsibility of speaking on your behalf as your representative. For that, I am grateful and thank you once again.

I look forward working with you as your ward 6 councillor to be part of making things better in Caledon.

Best regards,

FATAL COLLISION IN MONO

Members of the Dufferin Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) along with Dufferin County EMS attended a serious three-vehicle collision in the Town of Mono.

"On Monday, October 31, 2022, at just after 12:00 p.m., officers attended Highway 10 between the 10th and 15th Sideroad in the Town of Mono for the report of a serious motor vehicle collision," say Police. "As a result of the collision, a 59-year-old, male driver and lone occupant of a four-door sedan was pronounced deceased at the scene. The driver of a mini-van sustained life-threatening injuries and was transported by ambulance to a Toronto area trauma centre. The passenger of this vehicle was transported to a local hospital with minor injuries."

The driver and lone occupant of a pick-up truck reported no injuries.

Highway 10 between 10th and 15th Sideroad remained closed for several hours while officers conduct their investigation.

The Traffic Collision Investigation (TCI) team of the OPP was brought in to investigate. The investigation is continuing and anyone who may have witnessed the collision is asked to contact the Dufferin OPP 1-888-310-1122.

If you had witnessed the collision and wish to speak to victim services, Caledon/Dufferin Victim Services can be reached at 905-951-3838.

IMPAIRED CHARGES

"On October 22, 2022, at approximately 5:46 a.m., Caledon OPP responded to a single motor vehicle collision on Old Church Road, near Mount Pleasant Road, in the Town of Caledon," say Police. "Upon arrival, officers suspected that the driver's abilities were impaired. A breath sample was provided into an Approved Screening Device (ASD). As a result, the driver was arrested for impaired operation and transported to the Caledon OPP Detachment where further breath tests were conducted."

Marcus Hylton, 18, of Brampton, was subsequently charged with:

- Operation while impaired – alcohol
- Novice driver - B.A.C. above zero
- Class G1 licence holder - unaccompanied by qualified driver

The vehicle was impounded for seven days, and the driver's licence was suspended for a period of 90 days. The accused is scheduled to appear at the Ontario Court of Justice in Orangeville on January 5, 2025, to answer to the charges.

The charges have not been proven.

"Whether you are impaired by alcohol or drugs, impaired is impaired and driving under the influence of either is a criminal offence. If you plan on drinking or consuming drugs, plan to not drive. Instead, arrange for a designated driver, take a taxi or public transit, or come up with another plan that takes impaired driving out of the picture.

"Additionally, if you are 21 and under or have a G1, G2, M1 or M2 licence, you cannot have any drugs or alcohol in your system. You will face additional penalties in addition to consequences as any other fully licenced driver. More information available at: www.ontario.ca/page/impaired-driving."

GRANDPARENT SCAM WARNING

The Dufferin OPP is warning the public that there has been an increase in reports of emergency/grandparent scams.

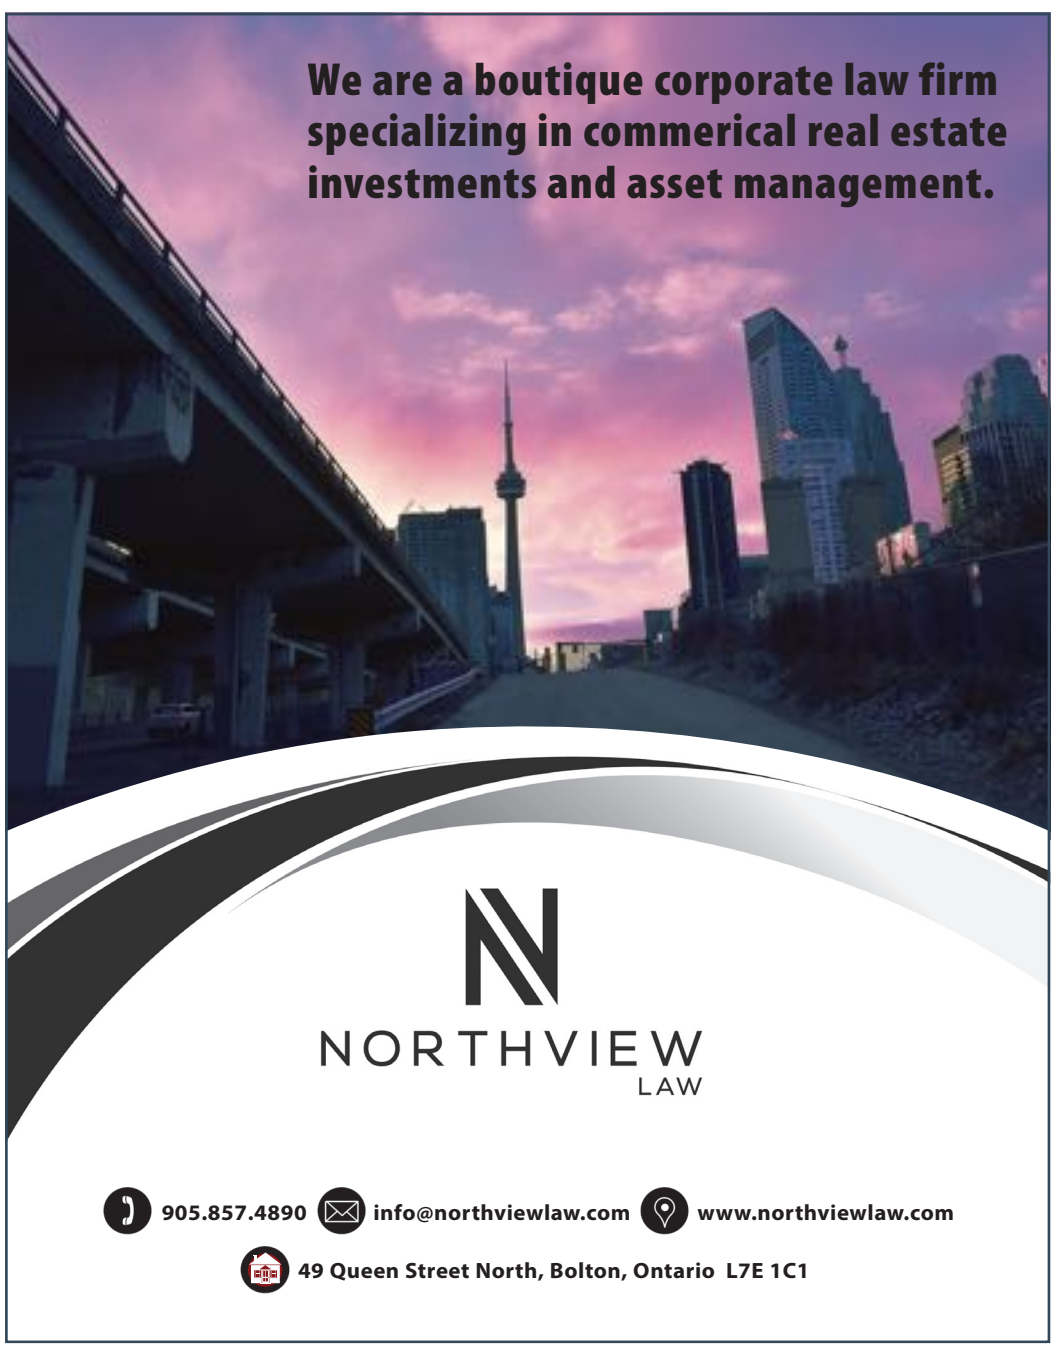

"The scammers target vulnerable persons and seniors by playing upon their emotions and fear of a loved one being hurt or in trouble," say Police. "In the typical emergency scam, the victim will receive a frantic phone call from someone claiming to be a grandchild or loved one. The caller will explain that they are involved in some sort of mishap like a car accident or are having trouble returning from a foreign country and need money right away. The scammer will often insist that the victim does not tell anyone. The call could also involve someone claiming to be a law enforcement official, lawyer, or bailiff.

"Be careful what you post online. Scammers can use details shared on social media platforms and dating sites. They can search your online accounts to find real names, real interests, real phone numbers and when you are going to be home or away."

Be aware of some warning signs:

- Urgency: The scammer always makes the request sound very urgent, which may cause the victim to not verify the story;
- Fear: The scammer plays on the victim's emotions by generating a sense of fear. For instance, they may say, "I am scared, and I need help from you.";
- Secrecy: The scammer pleads with the victim not to tell anyone about the situation, such as, "Please don't tell Dad, he would be so mad.";
- Request for Money: Money can be requested by money transfer or in some cases the scammer sends someone to your home to pick up the payment;
- To avoid becoming a victim, check with another family member or trusted friend to verify the information before sending money or providing credit card information by phone or e-mail.

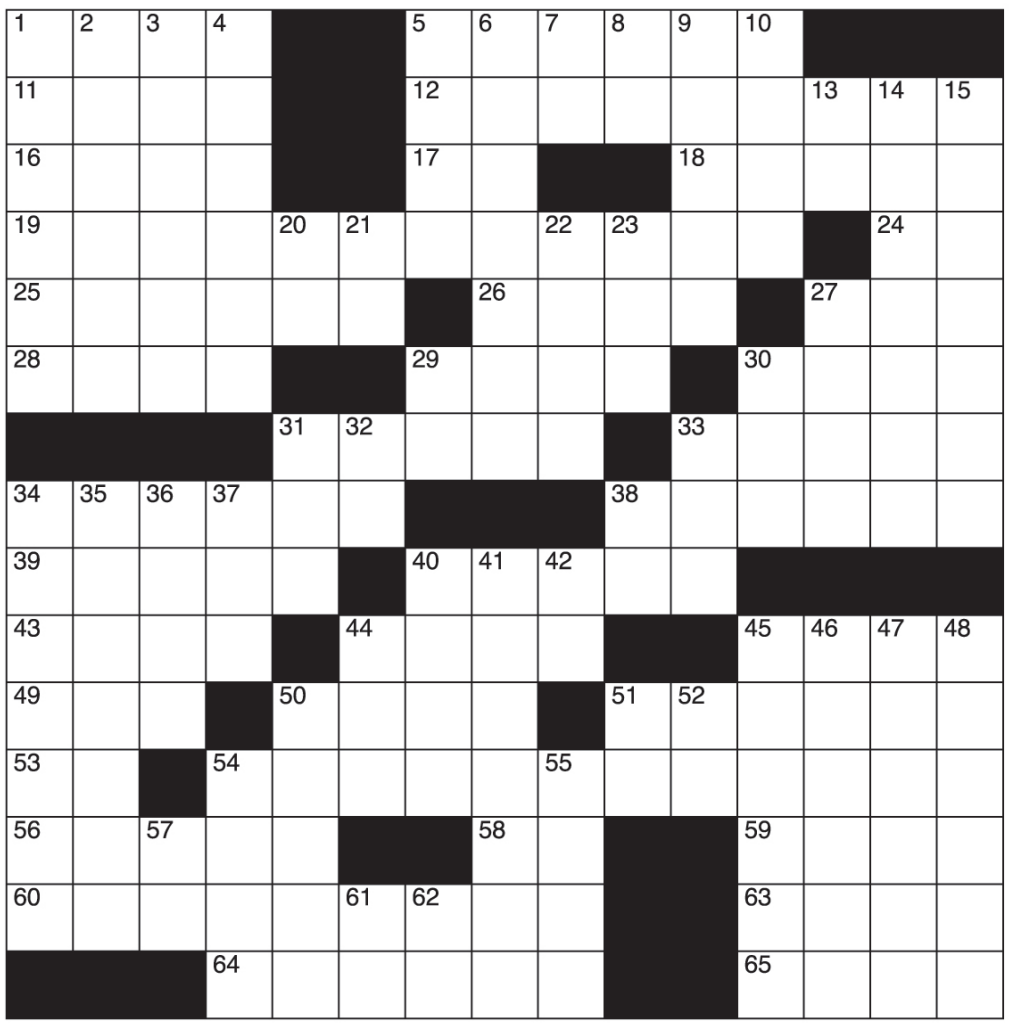

If you or someone you know may have been the victim of an 'emergency' scam, or any other scam report it to the OPP at 1-888-310-1122 and to the Canadian Anti-Fraud Centre (CAFC) at www.antifraudcentre-centreantifraude.ca.

Ward 2 Councillor-Elect Dave Sheen excited to serve community

Dave Sheen and wife Beverley Seeley on election night. CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

Dave Sheen said it's been an exciting time since he was elected to be Caledon's next Ward 2 Councillor.

On election night, October 24, Sheen was at a small party hosted by close friends who had helped him in his campaign. Surrounded by friends, family and campaign volunteers, Sheen watched the results come in.

"At some point in the evening, when we saw the numbers come up and it looked like I was in the lead, everyone in the group and the watch party was excited and ready to celebrate," said Sheen. "I said, 'I don't think that's the total numbers'... so I tried to dampen everyone's expectations and told them to just wait until the numbers were updated."

One of Sheen's competitors for the Ward 2 role, Jagraj Sekhon, notified Sheen via phone call that he had won — this happened before Sheen had even seen the final numbers.

"He congratulated me for the win… he said some pretty gracious things," said Sheen. "When (the numbers) appeared online the whole house erupted and we all jumped up and down."

Sheen received 1,559 votes, while Sekhon received 1,100. Other candidates for Ward 2 Councillor, Hunar Kahlon and John Ruscetta, received 866 and 275 respectively.

Sheen used social media quite a bit in his campaign, and after he won he said he took the time to read all the comments and messages that were coming his way. He also made a thank you post for not only the people who voted for him, but to his competition as well for a civil and well-fought election campaign.

"My main campaign team, Kim and Kevin Conlin, were extremely helpful. Bill and Sherry Pratt were very helpful as well," said Sheen. "I was particularly grateful for their help since they're all working full time and pretty busy themselves."

Sheen said he also wanted to thank those who contributed financially to his campaign and those who offered him valuable campaigning advice.

"Adding to my list of those I should say thanks to, people who allowed me to display my election signs, especially the large election signs on farm properties. They provided a lot of visibility in high-traffic areas in the rural parts of the Ward, for which I am grateful," said Sheen. "Also, many thanks to those who hosted 'meet and greets' with my neighbours."

During election season, it became clear to Sheen that traffic safety was a major issue in Ward 2.

He said if there were an easy fix to it, it would have been done already, but he's very excited to get to meet Town of Caledon staff and take another run at tackling traffic. He said the Town has done much already, but that more can be accomplished, and once the new term of Council is sworn in, it can begin to look at the feasibility of solutions like speed bumps and red light cameras.

Sheen said he will communicate with residents to let them know what's being done and what barriers to solutions there may be.

"I think one of the reasons that people drive badly is that they don't feel a connection to their community, and so they just don't feel connected to their neighbours, and therefore drive disrespectfully," said Sheen. "It may sound a little ambitious or naive, but I think if people could somehow feel better connected to their neighbourhood, they would behave themselves better."

Sheen said he's going to be working hard to help build that sense of community and help people in Ward 2 feel better connected. He said he would like to collaborate with the Town of Caledon's communications team to achieve this goal.

Caledon's new term of Council will begin on November 15.

Less than a third of eligible voters hit the polls this year

Ward 2 Councillor-Elect Dave Sheen said while it might not be surprising, seeing a low voter turnout is disappointing.

"I always say your vote is your voice," said Sheen. "I was really hoping for a greater turnout. I don't think it says anything about the candidates in the election, I just think voter apathy is unfortunately becoming typical at the municipal level."

Laura Hall, Caledon's Town Clerk and Director of Corporate Services, said in a statement to The Citizen that the administration of the 2022 Municipal and School Board Election was a success.

She said the Town used many different ways to inform and encourage Caledon residents to vote, such as digital and print advertising, social media, and signage.

"The Election Team's dedication to customer service and making the voter experience memorable went a long way. Recognizing Caledon's diversity, and in keeping with the spirit of inclusive customer service, in addition to English and French, most of our communication was available and posted in Italian and Punjabi," said Hall in the statement.

"We have received a lot of positive feedback and that is something we are proud of. We thank all those that participated in the election and for making it the success that it was."

Hall said feedback about the election from residents is welcome, and those interested in sharing said feedback can email legislative.services@caledon.ca or call 905-584-2272, extension 2366.

Town signs memorandum of understanding with MCFN, unveils orange crosswalk

Mayor says signing strengthens relationship with Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

The Town of Caledon and Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation (MCFN) have taken a big step towards strengthening the bond between them.

On October 28, Mayor Allan Thompson, MCFN Chief Stacey LaForme, senior leadership from the Town of Caledon, Caledon Council (both current Councillors and Councillor-elects), and MCFN representatives attended the Caledon Centre for Recreation and Wellness for a special ceremony.

At the ceremony, the Town and MCFN signed a memorandum of understanding that Thompson said was historic and will further strengthen the bond between Caledon and MCFN. Thompson said the lead up to the memorandum signing was years in the making.

Also at the ceremony, an orange crosswalk was unveiled. It was created to honour Indigenous children of the residential school system and acknowledge the strength and resilience of residential school survivors and their descendants.

The crosswalk was also created to be a permanent reminder of the need for all Caledon residents to play a role in reconciliation with Indigenous people.

The ceremony began with a smudging, which Chief LaForme explained is done so everyone enters the ceremony with a clear mind and pure heart.

"Let us set aside small differences, let us concentrate on real issues," said LaForme. "Most importantly, let us remember we are not adversaries nor are we enemies. We share a similar past, a kindred spirit, and a common heritage. We must always remember the real reason we gather, to do the right thing for our people, our children and our future."

Mayor Thompson thanked everyone in attendance at the ceremony for showing up on an important day in Caledon, before reading a land acknowledgement. He continued and said all good things have a beginning and the memorandum signing is just that.

Thompson recalled how the Town and MCFN renewed an agreement with a Wampum Belt in 2018, and encouraged the new Caledon Council to continue the tradition of renewing it every year, since COVID interrupted and delayed the annual practice of renewing it.

Chief LaForme said it was very meaningful when the Wampum Belt was presented back then, and a great promise to move forward together. He explained it was meaningful because it was presented in a Caledon way, meaning Caledon didn't pretend it knew everything about MCFN already. It was presented in a way that was meant to be the beginning of a relationship.

"They understood they had more to learn," said LaForme, and Thompson noted that Caledon has much to learn yet.

"Chief LaForme, thank you for being so open; we've had a lot of great conversations," said Thompson. "It's great to do the talk but we need to do the walk and that's what we've really tried to do… Chief LaForme has been fantastic (helping us) make that happen in Caledon."

Chief LaForme said moving forward means that people need to start understanding and learning about each other. "When we get past that we can be friends, and when we get past that we can be allies," said LaForme. "We're friends, and our next step is allyship."

LaForme said everyone has a responsibility to make the world a little bit better today than it was yesterday, and that building relationships like the one the Town and MCFN are building is key in that process. He added that he was very happy to see the MCFN flag at the Caledon Centre for Recreation and Wellness; the flag was raised at the ceremony.

Caledon's Peel District School Board Trustee Stan Cameron also spoke at the ceremony and explained exciting news that the old Credit View Public School in Caledon, which has been out of use for a few years, is being reconstructed to become a Centre for Indigenous Excellence and Land-Based Learning.

Near the end of the ceremony, Thompson explained he hopes other municipalities will see what the Town of Caledon and MCFN are doing and also choose to renew their relationship with MCFN.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Chinguacousy Road Improvements

Schedule 'C' Municipal Class Environmental Assessment

THE PROJECT

The Town of Caledon through their Consultant Ainley Group is undertaking a Municipal Class Environmental Assessment (EA) for improvements to Chinguacousy Road from Mayfield Road to Old School Road (see image). This project is being carried out under the planning and design process for a Schedule C project as outlined in the Municipal Class Environmental Assessment (October 2000, as amended in 2007, 2011 and 2015) which is approved under the Ontario Environmental Assessment Act. Through the 2051 planning horizon, Caledon is forecasted to grow from a population of approximately 80,000 residents to approximately 300,000. The Caledon Transportation Master Plan (TMP) has identified the corridor of Chinguacousy Road from Mayfield Road to Old School Road as an area needing road improvements to service the current growth in the area and the future planned Peel Region's urban boundary expansion.

Consultation with stakeholders is a key component of the Study. As part of the Study, two Public Information Centres (PICs) were planned to provide an opportunity for the public and stakeholders to learn more about the Study and provide input. The first PIC was held on July 5, 2022 to review the need and justification for improvements. Various information including existing conditions, need assessment and alternative solutions including evaluation summary and a preliminary preferred solution was presented to the public for input. Based on the comments received from Public & Agencies, a preferred solution was selected. The preferred solution included road widening, intersection improvements, active transportation, transit facilities, access management and green space.

ONLINE PIC NO. 2

The purpose of PIC No. 2 is to present preliminary preferred alternative designs and to gather public input. To facilitate the public engagement, this PIC is being held using a virtual format. The Town is committed to informing and engaging the public on the Study and will be posting PIC content on the Town's website starting November 11, 2022 to November 30, 2022.

Following the PIC No 2, the preliminary preferred design option will be reviewed and confirmed taking into consideration any comments that are received after PIC No 2.

HOW TO PARTICIPATE:

STEP 1:
Visit the project webpage caledon.ca/chinguacousyea

STEP 2:

BROCK'S BANTER

Inclusive perspectives

As a journalists, our job is to ask the tough questions on behalf of the people of this community.

Of course, what constitutes "tough" in our minds might be the easiest, breeziest question for whoever the question is directed to – after all, chances are they're likely the experts in their field.

The questions, in some cases, might help shed light on an issue, the development of an innovation, or the next phase in something that will make a real difference to our readers and the towns in which they live.

In other cases, they're sometimes questions we already know the answer to, but it's always beneficial to hear it come out of the mouth of the proverbial horse.

"If you can explain it in your own words," is sometimes the language we use to preface the question lest the person we're speaking with think we're either complete fools or woefully unprepared.

At least, this is how I try to approach things because, truth be told, there are few things that annoy me more when I'm "off-duty" than being asked a question I know full well the other person knows the answer to.

Sometimes they're trying to make a point. Sometimes they're going the roundabout way to kindly point out an error; sometimes they're going in the roundabout way in the hopes that a shortcoming will bubble to the surface.

Other times it's painfully clear that your conversation partner is itching to spar.

The other day I received an email that came out of the blue and more than a year too late.

The missive questioned our policy of sometimes, when the occasion warrants, inviting an individual or organization to respond to something submitted to us.

In this case, it was a matter of asking a person with the lived experience in question to provide insight and context on a piece that was written without having travelled that specific road themselves. Without that context, it's nothing more than being on the outside looking in.

The more recent writer's position was that inviting another voice into the conversation to provide additional and, in my opinion, valuable perspective was somehow diminishing the "spirit" of what was originally written. At best. At worst, they continued, it was a matter of attempting to stifle conversation, or even taking a so-called side.

There was no particular side, nor was there an effort to disparage. It was simply a matter of ensuring a fuller picture. This is in the best spirit of facilitating a "public square," the original intent of editorial pages.

In this day and age, people generally seem to be (or are becoming) all too comfortable living within echo chambers, seeking validation of their views rather than gaining new perspectives through the process of dialogue.

We see it all the time on any social media platform.

We sometimes see it, albeit mostly further afield, in the odd corridor of power.

We sometimes see it in our day to day lives.

But trendiness can only go so far.

In more recent years, I am seeing more and more that when these echo chambers are in any way penetrated by a counterpoint, it's dismissed in short order as an example of "woke" thinking no matter what the original point was.

But just what does "woke" mean in this context – or any other context for that matter?

I'm damned if I know.

As far as I can tell, it's become a catch-all term for anything that people disagree with.

In our most recent municipal election, for example, a number of education trustee candidates running for office across Ontario ran on platforms that boiled down to "anti-woke" policies.

This idea was sometimes re-phrased as a push-back against "identity politics" (i.e.: showing respect for how someone identifies. The political elements of that, of course, often being added to the brew by those who desire to make it so) or in the valiant-sounding quest to "empower" parents… to do something or other.

Some pegged their views to support to a particular catch-all, ready-made platform which, among other things, says it's "time to remove extremist political ideology from the classrooms."

They define "wokeism" as "unconcealed hostility towards unprivileged members of society who have not internalized faddish ideas about race and gender" and deride inclusive acronyms 2SLGBTQIA+ and BIPOC.

Yet, in the same breath, they call for the promotion of diversity "only if it is implemented in ways which don't divide people." By whose definition?

That's certainly a tall order given that much of the language on the road of this goal can do nothing but divide people and, in the end, call for an end to Diversity, Equity and Inclusion programs if they "deem them to be rooted in illiberal, critical social justice-based narratives" and so forth, arguing this teaches "resentment."

Personally, despite the best efforts of, in my view, all too many people who argue otherwise, I don't see how recognizing social inequities that exist in our system and looking for constructive ways to address the situation is divisive without a highly concerted effort to make it so.

Nor do I see that recognizing our history warts and all, well beyond the sanitized and sometimes inaccurately bucolic first round of Heritage Minutes from the 1990s is a bad thing – and, you know what? Canada, as great as it is, is not without its share of historical residue that needs to be cleaned up. Nor are we alone among nations in this reality.

Nor is recognizing the way someone identifies, including their pronouns, is not some newfangled ideology that came out of nowhere; it's simply a mark of respect. Try walking a mile in their shoes first.

And ensuring that all voices are represented, particularly those with lived experience on a particular issue, is not taking a "side," it's simply a matter of making sure these pages are reflective of the communities we serve.

As such, and as always, send your views to brock@lpcmedia.ca.

Splurging means getting "fries with that"

by Mark Pavilons

With a few "extra" bucks in my pocket, I decided to splurge, run some errands and get the family some take-out one recent Friday afternoon.

"Splurge?"

My first stop was the LCBO for some overdue "tonic." My poison of choice went up $2 since I last purchased it.

Next stop, grabbing a couple of long "underwater" sandwiches. My pocket became $22 lighter.

Then, driving through a lane to a take-out window, two burger meals dinged me for $27.10.

A quick stop at a grocery store was the only bright light, as I grabbed two large packs of ground beef for $11.45 each! But my joy was short-lived.

I saw the price at the pumps and just kept driving.

At home, I read that oil companies' profits doubled and tripled this year. What?

I felt like hitting myself in the face with a brick or small garden shovel, but of course I didn't have either of those items handy. I could have cried, but what would that accomplish?

So, my happy-go-lucky trip around town sent me into a bit of a spiral. Here I was, feeling good, trying to do something nice for the fam, and it was like getting knee-capped for all my troubles.

How do people do it, I asked myself again and again.

I am well aware of the "cost of living," and how most consumer goods have skyrocketed in recent months. But come on!

If the average family is spending $100 more a month on groceries, and $100 more a month on gas, who do they make up for this revenue shortfall?

Boomers are often heard talking about simpler times, and the cool 1970s and 1980s. "Remembering when" sounds like a cliche.

As simple as it was, none of us wants to be 18 again today.

But if I encountered a time portal in my drive home, I would not have hesitated in taking it.

If an alien spaceship landed in a park near my house, I'd gladly hitch a ride to the great unknown.

Stop the world, I want to get off!

Our homes are typically are refuge, and provide solace from the harsh weather and realities outside. But, if our doors have gaps and our heating and air units are less than efficient, I can see those $5 bills slipping through the cracks, floating away, just like an old TV commercial.

A visit from a roofer revealed another harsh reality. Shingles, it appears, don't last anywhere near the 25-year rating. More like 15. And in the past decade, prices have risen substantially.

And no, it's not covered by the government's energy efficiency rebate and you won't benefit from your home insurance coverage for shingle loss.

As Canada becomes home to more and more refugees from around the globe, these newcomers will quickly learn just how expensive life is here in the Great White North.

They will suffer severe "sticker shock" when they go to the grocery store and see that butter is $7 per pound and a decent t-bone rings in at $25. Heck, they may even be bowled over paying $3 for a cup of coffee.

They will look at typical two-storey, 5-bedroom homes in local subdivisions and wonder why we need all this space. Why indeed.

In most other countries, yes even the rich ones, large subdivision homes are rare. You won't find any "mansions" in the cities and small villages in England, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Central and South America, Africa, etc.

My oldest daughter, who has visited Kenya and Rwanda, keeps in touch with people she met. When she showed them photos of our modest subdivision home in Bolton, they thought it was a small hotel. They asked just how many people live there. Just five.

When I was younger – boy it seems a lifetime ago – owning a million-dollar home was out of the question. We never believed prices would rise to current levels.

Our former family home – a walk-out bungalow on four acres in Caledon – was a paradise in many ways. It was my parents' dream and a place they thoroughly enjoyed. Getting it back one day is just a pipe dream.

When was the last time you felt really "at home?" Which of your homes was your favourite?

My two older kids were fond of our first home, an end-unit townhouse. It was warm and cozy and they have many early memories there.

But like Seuss's Once-ler, we "biggered our roads and biggered our wagons."

When you drive around typical subdivisions in Bolton, you'll see cars parked sideways on driveways just to squeeze them in.

And yet our fellow citizens around the globe don't own three or four gas-guzzling automobiles, jet skis, ride-on mowers or grass trimmers. Many don't even have shoes.

I recently got a letter from Peel Region, saying it's a good idea to get insurance on the water and sewage pipes coming from our house. It's the owners' responsibility, not the municipality's, so if something goes wrong, we're on the hook for repairs.

Great. But the full insurance only costs me only $10.59 per month!

I think one of the reasons we average citizens are feeling hemmed in is due to our lack of regular contact with our friends and neighbours. We're not all in the same boat, but we're weathering the same storm.

I say let's bring back street parties, neighbourhood potlucks, even good, old-fashioned barn-raisings. Let's dust off the shoes and get dancing.

Let's visit the neighbours who may be confined and bring some joy into their lives. Let's tend to the sick.

Let's force the storm clouds away and soak up the sun!

Veteran takes comfort that War Amps will continue to serve

I served as a Lieutenant with the Queen's Own Rifles regiment in the Second World War. In 1945, in the Rhine Valley, Germany, I was injured by an anti-personnel mine explosion, resulting in the loss of my left leg below the knee.

When I returned home from the war, I joined The War Amps and have been a member ever since. This Association was started by First World War amputee veterans to help each other adapt to their new reality as amputees.

In 1975, The War Amps established the Child Amputee (CHAMP) Program, which provides young amputees with financial assistance for artificial limbs and peer support from fellow amputees. The veteran members wanted to ensure that young amputees have the vital support they need, and it makes me very happy to see it's still going strong today!

I also take great comfort in knowing that Champs will continue to move the organization forward and keep spreading the message of remembrance, even after I no longer can. Through The War Amps Operation Legacy program, Champs have taken up the torch of remembrance to commemorate the sacrifices of those who served and continue to serve.

I can say with pride that the legacy and sacrifices my comrades and I have left behind will be remembered long into the future.

Why we remember

BRIAN LOCKHART
FROM THE SECOND ROW

It was June 6, 1944, when over 150,000 Canadian, British, and American soldiers began the storming of Europe on the beaches of Normandy.

After a full year of training in the U.K., many of those soldiers never even fired a shot in battle.

They died before taking more than a couple of steps onto the beach or taking a direct hit into the landing craft approaching the land.

Several million more soldiers landed in Europe to back up the initial invasion.

Old soldiers who stormed the beaches that day are still around, although their ranks are getting smaller with the passing years. Typically, they don't speak much about their war experience; although, I did have a very interesting conversation with one gentleman in Shelburne a few years ago who was on a landing craft approaching Omaha beach that day.

He told me that he was at the American-assigned beach because the US lacked landing craft and British and Canadian forces were given the task of getting them to shore.

He described how the American battleships opened fire and he could hear the screaming sound of the shells as they flew to their targets at the fortifications on the beach.

A few moments later, the defending Germans returned fire, so "the shells were flying both ways over our heads."

Old soldiers probably don't speak about their war experiences because they saw some pretty horrific things they would like to forget about.

That included seeing young friends die in front of their eyes when at a time in life, they had probably not even experienced a death in their own family.

While Hollywood has made some great war movies over the years, historically they miss the mark on one thing in particular: the age of soldiers involved in the fighting.

Saving Private Ryan, is considered an epic motion picture and has been described by some as the most accurate portrayal of the D-Day landing. However, actor Tom Hanks, who played the protagonist, Captain Miller, was 42 years old when the film was made. At that age, he would have not been a front-line soldier, if he had been called up at all.

In 1949, Sands of Iwo Jima debuted in theatres. It was another epic tale of the fight to take a small island in the Pacific, at a great cost. John Wayne was in the lead role, as Sgt. John M. Stryker. Wayne was also 42 years old when the film was made.

At the time he was given the script he questioned whether he should play the role at all, realizing he was way too old to be believable as a marine who stormed the island.

On the flip side, the German production of Das Boot is a superb film about a submarine crew hunting Allied ships with a wolf-pack in the North Atlantic.

However, the crew is not a true representation of the sailors who manned those underwater death traps.

Of 40,000 German submariners during WWII, around 30,000 perished – it was a dangerous job.

One critic pointed out that the crew in the film were way too old, citing the fact that at age 30, the captain would have been considered the "old guy" on the vessel.

Most of the soldiers who fought in both the First and Second World Wars, were young. Many of them were still teenagers. They were handed a rifle, taught how to use it, and given the task of killing other people. That's a heavy load for some kid right out of high school.

These were not armies of professional career soldiers, they were armies of volunteers or conscripts called up to do a duty they probably never expected they would have to do. But they stepped up at a time when they were needed.

Those that died on the battlefield never had the chance to get on with their lives, find a career, or get married and raise a family.

They remain now, as names etched on granite cenotaphs around the country, as images in faded photographs, and in the memory of the remaining few that remember an older brother who went off to war and never returned.

That's why it is important to wear a poppy on Remembrance Day.

It recognizes the sacrifice of thousands and the lives that were never fully lived.

The Gloves Are Off!

SHERALYN ROMAN
TALK CALEDON

Oh, Caledon how have I missed you, let me count the ways.

Itchy fingers hovered above my keyboard for weeks, wishing and hoping and longing to weigh in on the events of the day and what days they have been!

An election, usually prime fodder for column material, a crisis in education that's about to rear its ugly head, a resurgence of "RSV" (hmmmn, COVID?) that has our youngest citizens hospitalized in droves and an asphalt plant planted in the middle of Town. Where to even start?

Maybe I'll head to my favourite character first, Mr. Ford, who had the temerity to release a pumpkin carving tutorial just in time for Halloween. He and his comms team actually (and apparently unironically) included in the script the following words: "full disclosure, folks." Oh, how I howled! This coming from a Premier who has been fighting in court for months, maybe years, to hide his mandate letters and is currently fighting again in court about an "invitation" he received to attend the EA hearings in Ottawa. It seems about his complete lack of skills at pumpkin carving he is willing to fully disclose, but if you want disclosure around any meaningful facts? He'll see you in court.

Speaking of court, in some ways I suppose I am glad I wasn't elected as your local school trustee for the Dufferin Peel Catholic District School Board for many reasons including the fact that teachers and/or education workers may soon (sadly) be fighting in court. In fact, if I am honest, there are many reasons I am quite happy I didn't win because as someone who campaigned for equitable, safe and inclusive access to education for every student there are apparently well over 1,900 Caledon/Dufferin voters who feel quite significantly different than me and I'm not sure that's a population, no matter how hard I try to be nice, I can support, or work with.

But I digress, back to court. It appears court is Doug's favourite place to be, because as I write this, he appears to have given direction to the Minister of Education (who is obviously familiar with how to live on $39,000 or less) to legislate CUPE back to work should they choose to exercise their democratic right to strike. Seems the only unions Doug prefers are those who stand behind him for photo ops announcing that the 413 will soon tear apart our beautiful Caledon farms, trails and wetlands.

Ah yes, Caledon. Protected white and greenbelt lands are also on my mind because of the recent election. It appears Caledon rather resoundingly voted for the idea that we might somehow be able to influence transportation decisions, opting for an extension of the 427 north to Hwy 9 and a reconfiguration of 410 north to allow for easier access to all points north.

In turn, they did not vote for a GO Train that may or may not get built in the next 30 years or the construction of the 413. It seems to me and my limited political knowledge that much of this election came down to gravel. Emergency Council meetings about it, how it is excavated and where, how and when it is used, and the toxicity (proven or perceived) of a looming asphalt plant smacked down in the middle of it all. As is often the case after an election, only time will tell if Caledon has truly made a good decision.

Decisions are difficult. They involve choices. I had an interesting conversation with someone during the election. It might even have been at one of the debates. We talked about "choices" and the person with whom I was speaking wondered this: Why is it that in our current political, social and economic climate everyone is SO focussed on "This OR That." In other words, that our choices must be clear – unreservedly so. But are they? Why can't we work towards a more collaborative approach to decision making? Why can't we have "This AND That?" Why are so many of us not willing to compromise for the greater good and are instead digging ourselves into ever-deepening trenches from which, when we attempt to emerge, we are simply shot down. Digging in, becoming further entrenched, widening the gaps between one another has never been a successful strategy for reaching fair, equitable and realistic decisions that benefit every citizen. We have only to look back a little over 100 years in history to see how well trench warfare worked.

Think I'm being extreme? Extremism is on the rise in every corner of the world as we speak, sure it's in varying degrees, what with war in Ukraine and voter collusion, threats and violence in the US, but make no mistake, it's everywhere – even here in our beautiful little town of Caledon.

Our own election decisions were difficult and fraught with conflict – and, yes, extremism.

Vaccinations should not be an either/or. Respecting our shared history, farmland while also planning for the future should not be an either/or. Access to education where every student's lived experience is represented in the classroom should not be an either/or. Education workers fighting for a living wage should not experience the threat of an either/or scenario.

We can do better. This AND that are decisions we can ALL live with.

Caledon Cavaliers voted best minor program in Ontario

BY ROBERT BELARDI

Rugby Ontario announced the 2022 Hall of Fame Class and Award Winners last month.

In their inaugural season in Caledon, the minor rugby club the Caledon Cavaliers, were voted the best minor club of the year.

"[It was] definitely a surprise because at the time when we were awarded the accolade, we haven't quite even been a reignited club for a year yet. We were sanctioned October 23 of last year. To think we did what we did in less than a year and still managed to walk away with an accolade like that, everyone is over the moon. We're really happy," said Club President Mike Iacovelli.

"For the vast majority of people who stay in touch with us, the minor program ended August 30. It was generally really well received. Everyone thought we deserved it for the work we put in. Everyone thought the program was really good. From my perspective we were learning as we went throughout the season. We didn't know where we were going to end up. We didn't really know at the beginning of the season how many numbers we would end up with."

Rugby Ontario contacted the club to make this announcement to the Cavaliers personally before it was made public.

To be nominated, a survey was sent out across the province to determine who is deserving of these awards.

On behalf of the Caledon Cavaliers, Iacovelli says he would like to thank all parents for their support over the past year in making this happen and for instilling their belief in his club for their children's development. He would also like to thank the Town of Caledon, for their support in his program and for providing all of the facilities to make this happen.

Beginning this Saturday, the Cavaliers will be beginning the Rookie Rugby Program.

"The Rookie Rugby Program has taken part, starting November 5. It was sprung on us in the past week. Basically, a gym space came up that programs wanted to look into filling in at the Caledon Recreation Centre. We said we would love to. We're going to be running a six-week program, the first three Saturday's will be geared towards ages six to nine. And then the three Saturday's after that will be nine to 12. That will take us to December 10, I think, then we have a second program set to start in January."

All information for this, can be found on the club's Facebook page. You can also head to www.caledoncavaliersrugby.ca.

Caledon Hockey Update:
Hawks and Bombers earn a win each, Admirals lose

BY ROBERT BELARDI

Over the past week in Junior hockey, the Caledon Golden Hawks and the Caledon Bombers each earned a win, whilst the Caledon Admirals suffered two losses.

The Golden Hawks, part of the Provincial Junior Hockey League, defeated the Orillia Terriers on the road Saturday night before returning home on Sunday to be defeated by the Huntsville Otters 5-3.

Goaltender Chad Walker, stopped 42 of 44 shots Saturday night to preserve the victory.

Connor McGill opened the scoring in the first period assisted by Michael Kruger.

McGill would grab his second point of the night in the second period with the help of Ryan Anderson, as they assisted Riley Broderick's goal on the power play.

In the third period, Andrew McClure would add the third goal of the game to give the Golden Hawks the victory.

With this victory, despite the loss the next day, the Golden Hawks improved their record to 2-11. They sit one point up on the Midland Flyers, who are dead last in the North Carruthers Division.

In the Greater Ontario Junior Hockey League, the Caledon Bombers defeated the Brantford Bandits 5-2 on Friday night before dropping a dud against the Listowel Cyclones 6-0.

In the victory against the Bandits, captain Ethan Finlason and Erik Thomen each finished with one goal and one assist on the night. Defenceman Jack Morris recorded two assists.

In the midwestern conference, the Bombers currently sit in second-last with a 3-15 record.

Over in the Ontario Junior Hockey League, the Caledon Admirals had an awful week losing 8-1 at home against the Toronto Junior Canadiens.

The Junior Canadiens are the top team in the OJHL, with an 18-2 record so far this year.

Their forward, Tyler Fukakusa, is one of the most dominant players in the league this year, having leading the league in goals with 18 and assists with 28. His 46 points is nine points higher than Thomas Lenart of the Burlington Cougars.

In a 8-1 victory, it was no surprise to see Fukakusa record one goal and two assists in the game.

The Admirals currently sit in last place in all of the OJHL.

To keep up with all three teams, please check out the PJHL, GOJHL and the OJHL respectively.

Caledon Town Hall Players are back with "A Christmas Tail"

BY CONSTANCE SCRAFIELD

Christmas is coming and theatres are warming up their stories, necessarily with magic; we would not have it otherwise – villains, questions and twist endings. All well and good.

First up is Caledon Town Hal Players (CTHP) with their story about a cat named Gus, his butcher pal Ralph, and a host of other souls opening at the Old Town Hall theatre on Hurontario Street in Caledon Village.

There are both matinee and evening performances on all four days of the weekends of Nov. 12 and 13 and Nov. 18 and 19.

To hint at the plot, with Christmas at the doorstep, poor Ralph is in a financial crisis that he has to resolve by Christmas Eve. As he ponders and fusses over his dilemma, enter Amanda, a customer's nine-year-old daughter to whom Ralph confides that on Christmas Eve, his cat Gus can talk but Ralph can't understand him.

A child believes in magic and sure enough, young Amanda can hear and understand what Gus is saying.

Things are never easy for Ralph, and before too long, we meet Frankie, the "neighbourhood loan shark" ever eager to add to Ralph's hard luck. From there, you will have to come and see the show to learn what happens. If even Gus and all the rest of the people you will meet cannot rescue Ralph, will Christmas bring its own miracle?

Written by American playwright Joe Simonelli, this is the Canadian Premier for A Christmas Tail and the cast and members are having a grand time putting it together.

The cast of eight also includes Sally and her son Tom, who both work in the shop; Carlos, the delivery man; Barbara who is an award-winning actress and Linda, Ralph's estranged teenage daughter, enough people to keep the humorous dialogue buoyant, but will they help or muddle Ralph's story?

Heidi Kachel is directing the play this time around and she told the Citizen, that things are going very well.

"Only the little girl, Amanda, understands the cat and the bell he always wears," she said, telling us later that Elizabeth Reid comes to this role, having been part of the youth programs at Theatre Orangeville.

There is already praise for this young actor as "talented and very bright."

"Ralph is in a big financial crisis and the villain Frankie is really a bad guy," she warned us. "He wants to take over the shop."

Like all community theatres, the emphasis is on both community and theatre, meaning that many people wear many hats and the actors mostly have day jobs but they are prepared to drive – some quite a distance – to be on time for rehearsals, which run over a few months.

Heidi Kachel has directed four plays, and acted in and produced others. She has been involved in every aspect of the group, including 10 years of various positions on the Board of Directors.

The play is ever the thing and the community of hobby thespians put their best feet forward, producing shows that are loved by audiences who laugh and weep as the actors tell the tails – er -tales.

Not only is Ms. Kachel directing the play, she has also been constructing the set along with long-time CTHP members, Kim and Chuck Blacklock. Kim Blacklock is on deck as stage manager for this production.

There are familiar faces on the stage. Mark Ladouceur stars as Ralph and Linda Smith joins the gang to portray the Tony award-winning actress, Barbara. Michel Maclay takes on the role of the villainous Frankie. New to this stage are Stuart Davidson as Carlos and Ashly Goldsmith as Beth, Ralph's estranged daughter.

Said Heidi Kachel, "I've been involved with CTHP for 38 years. I will always remember how open and welcoming everyone was. It quickly became my home away from home. The friendships I have made here are truly priceless. I maintain that there is something magical about this building that keeps me coming back. I was always active in school plays in high school. So, to see young people come in and learn a bit about theatre, see their enthusiasm grow – that's really nice. Involvement in theatre gives young people new confidence in themselves."

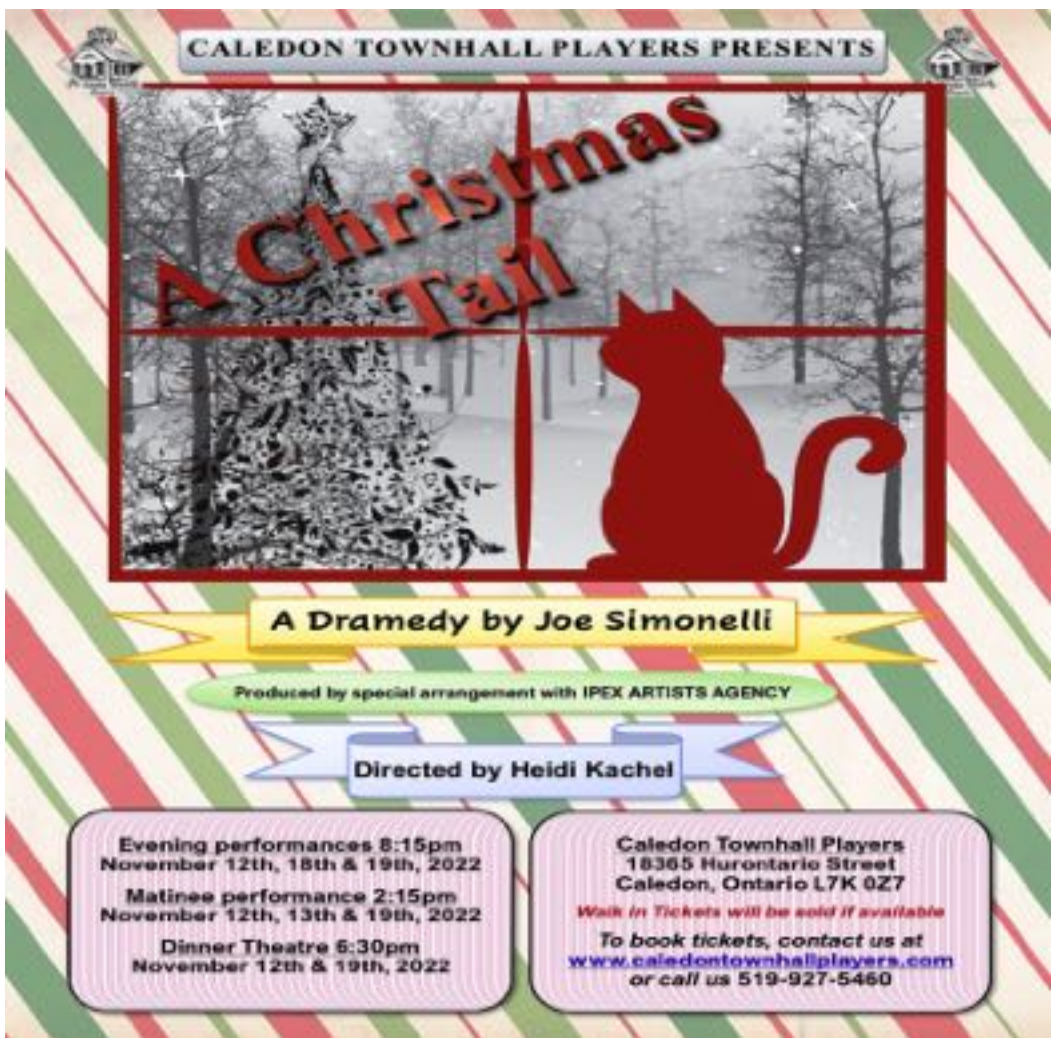

Ashly Goldsmith is one young person who is new to Orangeville. She did some theatre in Elora and in Guelph Little Theatre. Stuart Davidson went to Mayfield S.S. as a teenager, where he performed in plays and has come back to theatre now.

"Especially," Ms. Kachel said, "those who bite the bullet and stand up on the stage to perform. Then, they have the excitement of the laughs and applause from the audience and it is thrilling for them."

Generally speaking, others have observed those young people who learn a new skill because they were helping out with set construction or making props, they were included in projects that went on to help make the play a success.

The company would like to remind patrons that Friday is November 11 and a holiday, so they have moved the performances to Saturday and Sunday, November 12 and 13 for matinees and evening shows.

Saturday evenings are still dinner and the show. If you would like that and for tickets, you can call the box office at 519-827-5460 or go online to www.caledontownhallplayers.com/currentshows

Butterfly art exhibit at Inglewood coffee shop honours the people we've loved and lost

Art made by community also a reminder to acknowledge those in mourning

BY ZACHARY ROMAN

Butterflies represent hope and symbolize transformation.

That's why Bethell Hospice led Caledon community members in creating paper butterflies for a special art exhibit to commemorate National Grief & Bereavement Day on November 15, and National Children's Grief Awareness Day on November 17.

Kelly Stronach, the Bethell Hospice Foundation's Manager of Marketing and Communications, previously noted that the two days provide an opportunity to honour and remember the people we have loved and lost, as well as remind ourselves to acknowledge those who are currently in mourning.

The butterflies created will be on display at Coywolf Coffee in Inglewood from November 12 to 21 and all are invited to drop by and view the collection. Bethell Hospice partnered with the Caledon Public Library in October to host workshops where residents created the butterflies.

OBITUARIES

Penny Lewis Bogner

Penny always found the good in people and her positive outlook on life and genuine happiness towards others made her a truly special woman. Penny would say things like, "a smile is just a frown turned upside down." She was a joy to be in the company with and will be truly missed by all those who knew her.

On October 27, 2022, at the age of 79, Penny passed away peacefully at home with her loved ones. She leaves behind her dear husband of 54 years, Gus Bogner. Her beloved son, Troy Bogner (Sue) and predeceased daughter, Heidi Ferguson nee Bogner. Cherished grandchildren, Courtney Porter (Willis), Connor Ferguson, Aidan Bogner and Taylor Bogner. She also leaves behind 2 great-grandchildren, Nolan Porter, and Daphne Porter. Penny will also be greatly missed by many other family members and dear friends that she met throughout her beautiful life.
Penny had a very fulfilling life, as an artist with a natural love for watercolour paintings she hosted many art shows throughout her career. She founded a company called, Tree House Canada with a focus on teaching art skills to youth in her beloved town of Palgrave, ON. Some of her first jobs, consisted of being a cheerleader with the Toronto Argonauts, a Magicians Assistant by the name of Princess Gita that caught bullets in her teeth and working at the historic Toronto telegraph. However, Penny's real love was always for her family. She is remembered saying, "I was born to be a Nana" and her family felt so incredibly lucky to have had her in their lives. Penny and Gus travelled to many places in the world throughout their lives together. They raised their family in the quaint town of Palgrave and were frequent travelers to Florida where they would enjoy their winters together. Over the last decade they have called Mono / Orangeville home where they have made beautiful memories with old and new friends alike. Together with Gus, they raised over $100,000 for a local charity in their beloved daughter's name. Penny was known to have a beaming smile, always waving at everyone from her front porch ready to invite you in for a cup of tea should you be so lucky.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Heart and Stroke Foundation. We look forward to welcoming you to Penny's Celebration of Life, Sunday, November 6, 2022. She will always hold a special place in all our hearts.

Celebration of Penny's Life will be held at the Dods & McNair Funeral Home, Chapel & Reception Centre 21 First St, Orangeville on Sunday, November 6, 2022 from 1:00pm - 5:00pm Words of remembrance at 2:30pm with reception to follow.

A tree will be planted in memory of Penny in the Dods & McNair Memorial Forest at the Island Lake Conservation Area, Orangeville. 21st Annual Dedication Service will be held on Sunday, September 10, 2023 at 2:00 p.m.
Condolences may be offered to the family at www.dodsandmcnair.com

OBITUARIES

DAVID ROY PILGRIM

OCTOBER 3 1957 – OCTOBER 28TH 2022

Our parents are the people who make us who we are. They start by wanting us, caring for us and holding our hands. They teach us, guide us and want the absolute best for us. They give themselves and their time in their own life so we can have everything we need. Most of all, they give us love so unconditional it can never be broken, tarnished or understood.

Our father was all of these things. A father, a grandfather, a brother, a son, a friend. Most of all he was our dad.

We are sad that you had to leave us, but we will continue your legacy to love unconditonally and will never stop. We will never forget you. You gave up everything, so we could have everything. You were the most selfless person we have ever known. We love and miss you so much. Our wish is for you to rest now. You're in our thoughts, and dreams, and prayers, always and forever. We love you dad, we love you papa.

Service will be held: Tuesday Nov 8th
Calvary Pentecostal Church
Saint Lunaire-Griquet
NL

A memorial will be held in Ontario at later date.

The Running on "Haunted Hill"

Ghostbusters, Harry Potters, Batmen and Batgirls, witches, werewolves and more laced up on Sunday morning for a spooky trek in Bolton as the community's Rotary Club hosted the 1K Haunted Hill Run. Hundreds of people came out to participate in the event, with more still to cheer on the runners. It was also a good chance to catch up with neighbours ahead of Halloween this past Monday. "Thanks to the volunteers and sponsors who helped make this such a success!" say Rotarians.
